UNDERSTANDING THE GAME OF WATER POLO

Water Polo can be a confusing game for spectators. The whistle is constantly blowing and the play never stops, even when someone is ejected for a penalty. In addition, there are many misconceptions about the game, including how the players keep their horses swimming. Well hang in there, because the following information should help to make the picture much clearer.

General Information

1. Each team has six field players and a goalie.
2. Field players can only use one hand to touch the ball, goalies two.
3. Games consist of 7-minute quarters for club divisions, 8-minute quarters for varsity divisions.
4. The object of the game is to score by placing the ball completely in the goal. Players may move the ball by swimming or passing.
5. Teams may substitute after a goal is scored, during a time-out or during the play from the ejection area.
6. Each team receives three time-outs and one 20-second time-out per game.
7. Shots blocked out of bounds by defensive players result in the defensive team receiving possession. If a defender uses two hands to block a shot, the offensive team receives a penalty shot.

Fouls

When an infraction of the rules occurs, the referee will point in the direction of the team taking possession, while blowing his whistle. The ball is put back into play with an action called a free throw. This means the player gets three seconds of free time to throw the ball to another teammate or swim it up the pool. A player cannot shoot a free throw unless outside the five-meter line. If the ball is not put into play within three seconds, the other team takes possession.

Fouls can be ordinary or major. Ordinary fouls are best understood as minor fouls. For example, a defender may reach over an opponent's back to get at the ball while facing away from the goal. The penalty for an ordinary foul is a free throw for the opposing team.

Major fouls are more severe and are penalized accordingly. For example, when a defender fouls an opponent too aggressively, or from behind when the opponent is facing the goal, the defender is ejected for 20 seconds (players may reenter the game if their team recovers the ball before the ejection time is up, or if the opposing team scores). When the foul occurs within five meters of the goal and the referee believes the player had a high chance of scoring, the opposition shoots a penalty shot. Major fouls can also occur through disrespect to the referee or when a player interferes with an opponent's free throw. Players may only receive three major fouls before elimination.

If all of this has you totally confused, just sit back and enjoy the game. The easiest way to follow the play is by watching the scoreboard. If your team is ahead at the end, great! If not, well consider that you have expanded your horizons. When the game is over, you can at least explain to your friends that the horses never get wet.

CWPA Sportsmanship Statement

The CWPA and the NCAA promote good sportsmanship by student-athletes, coaches and spectators. We request your cooperation by supporting the participants and officials in a positive manner. Profanity, racial or sexist comments, or other intimidating actions directed at the officials, student-athletes, coaches, event personnel or team representatives will not be tolerated and are grounds for removal from the site of competition. Also, consumption or possession of alcoholic beverages and tobacco products is prohibited.

Affiliate Organizations

There are many organizations affiliated with the sport of water polo and the landscape can be somewhat confusing when trying to sort out which entity offers what services. To make matters a little easier to understand, the organizations can be divided into two basic groups: scholastic and non scholastic. The scholastic organizations are those that have some affiliation with the educational system. These include college, high school, junior college and middle school teams, as well as their respective administrative bodies that offer competitive leagues and support. In this category one would find state sanctioning organizations, the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA), the National Association for Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA) and all the collegiate conferences recognized by the NCAA or NAIA. Each individual organization operates independently with its own governing structure.

The NCAA and the NAIA are two organizations that serve a unique position. They each provide a supervisory role for their member schools. The colleges and universities that are members of each respective organization choose to establish and follow a set of guidelines that govern competition. Specifically, these guidelines include eligibility, academic progress for their student-athletes, competitive rules, championship guidelines, recruiting and financial aid.

Schools that become members of one of these organizations agree to abide by the rules and principles established within the organization. The NCAA and NAIA provide oversight for the varsity teams on campus, not the collegiate clubs.

In addition to the NCAA and NAIA, there are conferences that operate for the purpose of arranging competition for their member institutions. Some conferences, like the Big East, Ivy League or Atlantic Coast Conference, handle multiple sports, while others like the CWPA handle a single sport. With respect to water polo, all clubs that are eligible for the National Collegiate Club Championship are members of the CWPA. To understand the difference between the league and the NCAA or NAIA, think of the conference on a smaller scale performing similar functions for its member institutions. The conference works with the national governing bodies (NCAA and NAIA) to help provide competitive opportunities and services, yet remains an independent organization with its own governing system and budget.

Non-scholastic organizations include all other entities that provide the opportunity for people to be involved in the sport outside of an educational institution. These include YMCAs, Boys & Girls Clubs, parks & recreation programs, privately organized clubs, township/city programs and independent organizations like American Water Polo. United States Water Polo fits under this category as well, serving as the National Governing Body for the sport. They are also responsible for supporting and training Olympic teams for men and women.

For more information about any specific organization, contact the CWPA office at 610-277-6787.

History of the CWPA

The Collegiate Water Polo Association originally began as the Mid Atlantic Conference, founded by Dick Russell in the 1970's. Its founding membership included teams from Maryland, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, and New York.

The conference relied on volunteer coaches until 1990, when it hired a commissioner to perform basic scheduling for the 15 member teams. Officiating assignments at the time were performed by an independent organization called the Eastern Water Polo Referees Association (EWPRA).

The next major milestone occurred in 1993, when the Southern and New England Conferences merged into the Mid Atlantic. The new structure combined all of the varsity teams in the East, along with the few sport clubs in existence at that time.

During the 1995 season, the conference received its first major challenge, as the organization experienced a strike by its officiating core. This strike ultimately resulted in the organization establishing its own officiating bureau, assuming responsibility for all of its officiating assignments. The conference hired Tere Ma as its inaugural Director of Officials and Loren Bertocci as its first Technical Director. These two individuals laid the groundwork for the Officiating Bureau that exists today.

The conference has grown over the years as well, with several key milestones marking the progress. In 2001, the women split into collegiate club and varsity competition for the first time as the CWPA expanded to over 200 teams. This rapid growth forced a move to larger office quarters in 2003, with the CWPA heading across the river to Bridgeport, Pennsylvania where it currently resides. In 2005 six women's teams were launched to help establish water polo as a conference sport in the Metro Atlantic Athletic Conference, giving these institutions an automatic bid to the NCAA Championship and helping the sport grow in new areas. In 2006 the Officiating Bureau took a leap forward with the establishment of a Technical Committee to oversee education, evaluation, and assignment of referees. Online education for referees was initiated at this same time allowing for greater access to all of our officials.

From a media standpoint, 2009 witnessed the launch of a new website and in 2010 we streamed games live for the first time with a one-camera set-up. In 2012 the conference made a large commitment to multimedia in both equipment and staff to better serve the membership. One outgrowth of this decision changed the live streaming of our championships to full-blown productions using three cameras, instant replay and a live announcer for play-by-play, similar in style to a television broadcast. It also provided the means to offer more competition streamed throughout the country, much more interactive content on the website, as well as increased online education.

Today the conference fields over 280 teams nationwide, with four full-time staff members, as well as interns in sports photography, multimedia, sports information, marketing and event management.

Over the past years, the Collegiate Water Polo Association has undergone dramatic changes:		2004	Women's varsity teams realign to form Northern, Southern, Northeastern and Western Divisions. # COMPETITIVE FORMAT

The Collegiate Water Polo Association (CWPA) is divided into two classes, varsity and sport club. Each class of membership is then divided into divisions based on geography.

Varsity Class

The varsity teams are separated into the Northeast Water Polo Conference and the Mid Atlantic Water Polo Conference. Based on the strength of the teams and the format determined by the NCAA, the winning teams have an opportunity to qualify for the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) Championship in December.

Northeast Water Polo Conference

Teams play a double round robin schedule within the division to determine regular season rankings. All teams attend the championship, with the seeding determined by the won/loss records during the season.

Mid-Atlantic Water Polo Conference

Teams play double round robin schedule in the Eastern Region and a single round robin schedule in the Western Region. Western teams attend their own championship, with the top two teams moving on to the Mid-Atlantic Championship. All Eastern Region teams attend the championship, with the entire field seeded by the division coaches

Sport Club Class

Teams are divided into divisions based on geography, travel concerns and other conference affiliations of some programs (i.e., the Big Ten Division). The top team from each division championship qualifies for either the Division III National Collegiate Club Championship or the National Collegiate Club Championship.

Atlantic Division

Teams are divided into two brackets according to their finish during the prior season. Each bracket plays double round robin. Every team attends the championship, with the top seed from the "B" division advancing as the sixth seed in the "A" division championship. The remaining four teams from the "B" division play a round robin to determine the final places

Big Ten Division

Teams play a single round robin schedule over two weekends plus additional seeding games drawn at random. All teams attend the championship tournament, with seeding based on the regular season won/loss records.

Colonial Division

Teams play a double round robin schedule over two weekends. All teams attend the championship tournament, with seeding based on the regular season won/loss records.

Florida Division

Teams play a single round robin schedule over two weekends plus additional seeding games drawn at random. All teams attend the championship tournament, with seeding based on the regular season won/loss records.

Great Lakes Division

Teams play eight opponents drawn at random over two weekends. All teams attend the championship tournament, with seeding based on the regular season won/loss records.

Heartland Division

Teams play a single round robin schedule over two weekends plus additional seeding games based on regional tournament location. All teams attend the championship tournament, with seeding based on the regular season won/loss records.

Mid-Atlantic Division

Teams are divided into two brackets based on ability, each with their own championship. Both Brackets play a single round robin schedule over two weekends plus additional seeding games drawn at random. The best team from the bottom bracket has the option of moving into the top bracket for the "A" championship if desired.

Missouri Valley Division

Teams play a single round robin schedule over two weekends

plus additional seeding games drawn at random. All teams attend the championship tournament, with seeding based on the regular season won/loss records.

New England Division

Teams play a single round robin schedule over two weekends plus additional seeding games drawn at random. All teams attend the championship tournament, with seeding based on the regular season won/loss records.

New York Division

Teams play four games within their region, followed by a crossover event where they compete against teams they did not face the previous weekend. Every team attends the championship, with the top four teams from the East Region and top three teams from the West Region compete for First Place while the remaining four play round robin for final places. Seeds are based on won/loss records.

North Atlantic Division

Teams play a single round robin schedule over two weekends plus additional seeding games drawn at random. All teams attend the championship tournament, with seeding based on the regular season won/loss records.

Northwest Division

Teams play a single round robin schedule over two weekends plus additional seeding games drawn at random. All teams attend the championship tournament, with seeding based on the regular season won/loss records.

Pacific Coast Division

Teams play a single round robin schedule over two weekends plus additional seeding games drawn at random. All teams attend the championship tournament, with seeding based on the regular season won/loss records.

Rocky Mountain Division

Teams play a single round robin schedule over two weekends plus additional seeding games drawn at random. All teams attend the championship tournament, with seeding based on the regular season won/loss records.

Sierra Pacific Division

Teams play a single round robin schedule over two weekends. All teams attend the championship tournament, with seeding based on the regular season won/loss records.

Southeast Division

Teams play a single round robin schedule over two weekends plus additional seeding games drawn at random. All teams attend the championship tournament, with seeding based on the regular season won/loss records.

Southwest Division

Teams play a single round robin schedule over two weekends plus additional seeding games drawn at random. All teams attend the championship tournament, with seeding based on the regular season won/loss records.

Texas Division

Teams play four games within their region, followed by a crossover event where they compete against teams they did not face the previous weekend. Every team attends the championship, with the top seven teams competing for First Place while the remaining four play round robin for final places. Seeds are based on won/loss records.

Tie Breaker System - All Situations

If at any time two teams are tied in record or in goal differentials as you walk through the tie breaker system below, the result of their head-to-head competition breaks the tie.

Tie Breaker System - Two Teams

If the teams each beat one another, the goal differential in their games is used to break the tie. If the goal differential in their contests against one another is the same, the total of goals scored against each other is used. If the total of goals scored between the teams is equal, the differential for all common opponents seeded higher is used. If no common opponents are seeded higher, the goal differential against the highest seeded common opponent is used.

Tie Breaker System - Three or More Teams (for seeding championships)

If more than two teams are tied in won/loss records, goal differentials among the teams tied serves as the tiebreaker. If two teams are tied in goal differentials, head-to-head competition breaks the tie. If the goal differential in their contests against one another for all teams is the same, the total of goals scored against each other is used. If the total of goals scored between the teams is equal, the goal differential between common opponents seeded higher will be used to determine ranking. This may require averaging the goal differential per game if the number of games between common opponents is unequal. Should teams be tied in won/loss record and they have not played each other, goal differentials against common opponents that are seeded above them are used. If no common opponents are seeded higher, the goal differential against the highest seeded common opponent is used.

(for advancement w/in championships)

If more than two teams are tied in won/loss records, goal differentials among the teams tied serves as the tiebreaker. If the goal differential in their contests against one another is the same, the total of goals scored against each other is used. If the total of goals scored between the teams is equal, their original seeding will serve as the tiebreaker. If the totals are tied at any time between two of the three teams, the tie is broken by their head-to-head result.

Goal Differential

Goal differential is a term used to describe the difference between goals scored against an opponent and the number of goals scored by an opponent against a particular team.

VARSITY TEAM PROFILES

Bucknell University

Bucknell University finished the 2015 season with an 18-13 record and placed sixth at the Collegiate Water Polo Association (CWPA) Championship. It was the most wins for the Bison since 2007 and they finished the season ranked 20th nationally. Bucknell returns six starters from last year's team, led by 2015 Honorable Mention All-America selection Sean Daley. Bison's sixth-year head coach John McBride enters the 2016 season with a .587 career winning percentage, the second-best mark among coaches in Bison history, trailing only Hall of Famer Dick Russell's .763.

Connecticut College

Entering the program's 16th season as a varsity sport, the Camels of Connecticut College begin 2016 with continuing high expectations of becoming the first school in history to capture the Collegiate Water Polo Association (CWPA) Division III titles in both men's and women's competition. Led by head coach Matt Anderson, who guided the University of Michigan women's team to four CWPA Championships and National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) tournament berths, Connecticut will have a tough road ahead for the program's inaugural men's Division III crown. In addition, the team will attempt to make a run at finishing among the top teams at the inaugural Mid-Atlantic Water Polo Conference (MAWPC)-West Region Championship to clinch a berth to the first-ever MAWPC Championship.

Fordham University

The 2016 Fordham University water polo squad is a young team with six freshmen and eight sophomores, but that does not mean it is an inexperienced crew. Last year's leading scorer, senior R.J. Simmons returns to lead the offense after scoring 61 goals and adding 47 assists as a junior. Juniors Ethan Vandeventer, who found the net 17 times in 2015, and Cameron Shewchuck, who scored five times last year, and sophomores Magnus Sims, who had 33 goals in 2015, Diego Delgado, who netted 22 goals last year, and Ian Watson, who had four tallies last Fall, are also expected to contribute to the offense as is freshman Tristen Knoflick. Defensively, junior goalie Alex Jahns is back, after recording an 8.76 goals against average.

Gannon University

Led by second-year head coach Sean Morphy, the Golden Knights of Gannon University will look to continue turing the page and start a new chapter in the program's long history in the newly formed Mid-Atlantic Water Polo Conference (MAWPC). Gannon concluded last season with the program's third consecutive seventh-place finish at the Collegiate Water Polo Association (CWPA) Southern Division Championship.

George Washington University

George Washington University second-year head coach Adam Foley, along with assistant coach David Carson, have spent the preseason continuing to build the culture of the program they set last season into one that competes for championships. "Our ultimate goal is to win a conference championship," said Foley. "We're in a new conference this year, a lot of the teams are from the old conference, just re-branding it a bit. So we're playing a lot of the same teams, and our goal is to win. We brought back some people who got more experience last year, so hopefully we can put all the pieces together and make a run. This year, we certainly have that underlying goal still in our culture, but this year we definitely have higher expectations on the season." Foley has been pleased with what he has seen from his team in terms of work ethic this preseason and buying into his vision. "For the preseason we went out to San Diego: nine days, 14 practices, and lots of scrimmaging, which helped from a lot of different aspects and perspectives," Foley said. "Each person is trying to improve every day, and part of that is competing with both themselves and each other. From a physical and mental standpoint, I feel like we're in a really great place." Three freshmen join a roster that also includes nine upperclassmen among 18 total players. Foley said that he is excited about the mix of student-athletes joining the team and the potential they have to grow and impact the season. "I think we have three freshmen that can come in and play an important role right away with Atakan, Jordan, and Andrew. Three really great freshman, all really different players, which is great because we need people who can do different things," said Foley. "They'll all see significant minutes in crunch time." Foley expects senior Bogdan Petkovic to start at center after sitting out as a redshirt last season. The three-time honorable mention All-America selection led GW in scoring during the 2014 season, set the program record for career field blocks in just three seasons, and ranks second all-time in steals. "Bogdan is a fantastic player and should be able to guard everyone on the east coast, if not everyone in the nation," he said. "He's very versatile, better than most people think on the offensive side of things, and he's improved his game -- he's stronger and he's worked on his perimeter shot. He impacts all phases of the game." Junior Pierce Deamer will take on a more versatile role this season. The 2015 Team Most Valuable Player was named to the Collegiate Water Polo Association (CWPA) All-Southern Division First Team after leading the team with 67 goals, 30 assists, 97 points, and 55 ejections drawn last season. "Pierce's position has changed a little bit and he's doing really well," said Foley. "He was doing a lot of perimeter attacking and shooting, and he's still going to do that sometimes, but he's also going to play inside more and post up a bit. He's a great finisher and has a great offensive presence." GW will also have a strong presence in the cage with three returning goalkeepers. Sophomore Matt Taylor is expected to take the starting spot after posting a program-record .545 save percentage with 147 saves against 122 goals allowed last season. "We have a great goal situation," said Foley. "We have two solid sophomores in Matt Taylor and Austin Pynch, but Matt has been playing very well so we expect him to lockdown other offenses and lockdown our defense."

Johns Hopkins University

The Johns Hopkins University Blue Jays are coming off a historic season that saw them win 21 games and become the first Division III team to play in the Collegiate Water Polo Association (CWPA) Championship game. Hopkins is looking to build on that success as it moves into a new conference, the Mid-Atlantic Water Polo Conference. Hopkins returns nine players from last year's 21-10 squad. Seniors Matt Fraser and Giovanni Cragnotti and junior John Wilson will captain the Blue Jays this season. Fraser is a 2013 First Team All-America selection and the team's active leading scorer with 140 career goals. He is also the active leader in points (221), assists (81), steals (127), blocks (26) and ejections drawn (182). Wilson had a breakout season a year ago, earning Second Team All-America honors after posting 178 saves, 24 steals and 12 assists in the cage. Cragnotti ranked third on the team a year ago in ejections drawn (29) and counts 66 in his career, good for in the in program history. Sophomore Giorgio Cico also returns after earning Second Team All-America honors a year ago. He emerged as one of top freshmen in the country in 2015. He set a Hopkins freshman records with 100 points and 44 assists while his 56 goals are the fourth most by a freshman in school history.

La Salle University

The newest program in the realm of collegiate water polo, the La Salle University Explorers will compete in the program's first varsity season following several years of collegiate club play. Led by head coach Paul Macht, the Explorers will aim to gain experience and the skills necessary to be a competitive program in future years.

Mercyhurst University

The Mercyhurst University men's water polo team enters a new realm with the rest of its competition in 2016. Conference realignments in the Collegiate Water Polo Association (CWPA) landed the Lakers in the Western Division of the newly formed Mid-Atlantic Water Polo Conference (MAWPC). Head coach Curtis Robinette believes shuffling the conferences will bring positive feedback for collegiate water polo. "I think the realignment is going to help the overall growth of water polo," Robinette said. "Having a more recognized and identifiable championship and more competitive conference tournaments bring more meaning to the season." For the Lakers specifically, the realignment offers them a chance to further extend their success as a program in 2016 with an experienced team returning to the pool. Following a 12-11 overall record last season and a 12th place finish at the Collegiate Water Polo Association (CWPA) Championship, Mercyhurst's young team in 2015 returns several key contributors to set them up for a winning run. Senior Jack Howe headlines Laker returnees. His 74 points and 45 goals were first and second on the team in 2015. Fellow senior Joey Ryan will also take on a leadership role this season. Mercyhurst has big shoes to fill with the departure of two-time All American Dave Matulis. Candidates to step into bigger roles include sophomores Matt Bachler and Connor Schmitz along with freshmen Alex Cappuccio and Ryan Witoslawski. "There's going to be a different offensive focus and this team has to learn a new scheme," Robinette said. "They've been working hard to identify new roles. Jack and Joey are good leaders and help our young guys with what's expected of them."

Another area of experience for the Lakers is back in goal. Senior Andrew Too-A-Foo and junior Gene Bilbao have both played in important games in the past and should anchor the Mercyhurst defensive unit. "We were a young team that was humbled last season," Robinette said. "We have a lot more experience now and that can go a long way for us." In addition to more experience, another Lakers' advantage this season is the mental edge of hosting Western Division Championships at the Cathedral Prep Events Center in early November. According to Robinette, making the championship game at "Western's" is a goal for the Lakers that should set them up well for a potential run at Mid-Atlantic Championships and beyond. "It's important that we're playing meaningful games in Erie. Any games at home are a nice advantage for us."

Monmouth College

Head coach Peter Ollis enters his second season at Monmouth College with high expectations as the program's first varsity All-America selection returns for his final season. The team's all-time leading scorer Raheem Brown earned All-America status as a junior and leads a strong group of starters on the offensive end which includes senior Matt Engebretsen and juniors Riley Hess and Sebastian Hernandez. The Fighting Scots won't just be all offense, they are expecting a stingy defense as defensive specialist Ian Salveson returns for his senior campaign and junior Julius Bradfield returns to his natural position in goal. Sophomores Alex Altamirano and Jake Hall add young experience in both ends of the pool as the Scots expect their largest freshmen class in the four-year history of the program to offer talent and depth both on the perimeter and in the center. The Scots have high expectations to build on their strong finish a season ago in which they recorded the highest conference and Collegiate Water Polo Association (CWPA) Division III Championship finish in program history.

Salem International University

Salem International comes into the season only losing captain Kristopher Arnold from the 2015 squad. Paul Irving will be the lone senior for the upcoming year, so the team is looking to make strong impact for a number of seasons. Leading scorer Djordje Stavrevski is aiming to continue his climb up the ranks for all-time leading scorer in school history. With a year under their belt, sophomores Marton Dudok, Inigo Velasco, Mike Roake and Andrew Perry seek to improve on their standout years. Salem has a strong group of new comers for the upcoming year, including freshmen Robert Juhas, Milos Popovic and Aaron Sebok. With the help of new assistant coach Justin Kassab, the year is looking very promising.

United States Naval Academy

One year after graduating 12 seniors, third-year United States Naval Academy water polo head coach Mladen Stanicic will lean on a solid group of returners to continue maturing their skills and abilities, as well as a well-rounded corps of underclassmen to add depth and versatility to Navy's attack in 2016. In a year of change with the division of the Collegiate Water Polo Association into the Mid-Atlantic Water Polo Conference and the Northeast Water Polo Conference, Navy's attention will still be squarely locked on earning a bid into the 2016 National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) Championship tournament. In April, the Collegiate Water Polo Association (CWPA) announced that the organization would divide into two conferences beginning this Fall, the Mid-Atlantic Water Polo Conference (MAWPC) and the Northeast Water Polo Conference (NWPC). The NWPC consists of former CWPA Northern Division competitors, as well as Princeton University, who moves from the former CWPA South. Navy will participate in the eastern division of the 12-team MAWPC with long-time rivals Bucknell University,

George Washington University and Johns Hopkins University. New York City programs Fordham University and Wagner College join the MAWPC-East to round out the six-team division. Connecticut College, Gannon University, La Salle University, Mercyhurst University, Monmouth College, Salem International University and Washington & Jefferson College make up the MAWPC-West. "We're looking forward to what this season will bring us," remarked Stanicic. "The new conference alignment will definitely add intrigue as Fordham and Wagner are newcomers and Bucknell, Johns Hopkins and George Washington have all continued improving. Bucknell and Johns Hopkins return nearly all of their top players from last season and G.W. brought in a great recruiting class so we'll have to be on the top of our game every time we go there. "Internally, we're excited about our prospects this season as we have a deep team with players to fill all of our needs. Losing a large senior class last season will open up opportunities for a lot of our athletes. This year's seniors are experienced and know their roles, while the juniors and sophomores will have the opportunity to see significant action in pressure situations. Our freshmen class is very talented and we look forward to them contributing significantly this season, especially early on." Offensively, senior center David Huber returns as Navy's leading scorer. A 6'6 physical target in the middle, Huber recorded the second-most points in 2015 with 69 points on 58 goals and 11 assists. The senior from Fort Washington, Pa. has progressed from an eight-goal scorer in 2013 to a 27-goal scorer as a sophomore to last year's standout 58-goal output. His skills and size have also translated to the other end of the pool as he was credited with 34 steals last season to rank second overall on the squad. Three under-the-radar returning seniors are Brendan Metcalf, Taylor Peterson and Patrick Carmody. Metcalf is coming off of back-to-back injury-shortened seasons, but when healthy the 6'7 Texas native is an imposing presence in the center of the pool on both the offensive and defensive side of the ball. Last year in 14 games, Metcalf recorded 12 points on eight goals and four helpers. The next senior luckily hasn't had to worry about injuries during his career at Navy. Team captain Taylor Peterson has been a consistent option off the bench for Stanicic and will be counted on even greater this year to pick up some of the scoring slack left behind by the Class of 2015. Patrick Carmody appeared in 13 games for the Mids last season and will look to improve on his five-point output. Similar to Metcalf, health has and will play an important part in the roles of Navy's final two seniors Jack Orchard and Evan Staesinic. After being sidelined for the entire 2015 season, Orchard is back healthy and in consideration for a starting or top bench role for the Mids this fall. Staesinic is unfortunately on the other end of the spectrum and set to miss the beginning of the season while nursing an injury. The second-leading returning scorer is also a two-way talent similar to Huber. Junior Matt Skowronski has shown off his skills on the offensive and defensive ends of the pool in each of his first two seasons for the Mids. After turning in a 14-point, 14-steal freshman season in 2014, Skowronski continued his growth to the tune of 33 points and 15 steals as a sophomore last season. A consistent offensive threat, he had points in 15 straight games at one point in the season for Navy last fall. Three more members of the junior class should add a versatile look to Navy's attack as Jared Castillo is set to man the middle, while Jack Robinson is back to work the ball inside as a left-handed wing option and Tyler Zimmerman serves a multitaled option at the center spot. In 2015, Castillo broke through with 28 points on 23 goals and five assists, just one year after finishing with five total points. Robinson also took a large step forward in his role with the Mids as he increased his scoring output from five points as a freshman in 2015 to 22 as a sophomore in 2015 with eight goals and 14 assists. Zimmerman showcased his abilities both offensively and defensively last season with 12 points scored and 16 steals. His steal total was fourth best on the team. Four juniors that showed glimpses of their potential in 2015 are J.B. Lee, Ian Bagent, Shepherd Warren and Gabe Gaspar. Each member of the quartet saw varying degrees of action as sophomores with Lee leading the way offensively with 13 points in 21 games and Bagent tallying nine steals over 19 contests. A relatively small class with just five athletes, the sophomores will be led by Taylor Bernhardt. The Annapolis native and one-time CWPA Southern Division Rookie of the Week honoree will look to improve on his 12-point, 11-steal debut season. The trio of Jordan Hay, Joe Orr and Conor Sullivan all bided their time in reserve roles as freshmen in 2015 with Orr leading the way with 10 game appearances. Stanicic envisions the large, physical group of 6'2 and taller athletes to take on more responsibilities in 2016. The fifth sophomore is goalie Francis Kim. With four senior goalies on the 2015 roster, Kim's time in the pool was limited to seven appearances. In his sparse action, the Texas native turned aside 18 shots on goal and posted a .500 save percentage. Kim will be limited in the early portion of the season due to an offseason injury. Eight plebes make up Navy's corps of first-year players. Goalies Ronan Williams and Brandon Shields are both in line for starts early on as Kim works his way back from the injured list. The rest of the freshmen class is spread out over a variety of positions with Nate Reiff, William Lowdon and Kevin Volkov listed as attackers, Nik Galvan and Trevor Clark as utilities and Alex Picuch as a central defender. Early on Stanicic envisions the 6'3 Picuch as someone who can fill an immediate role for the Mids. Galvan and Clark will bring different attributes to the utility position as Galvan will be counted on to provide speed and playmaking, while Clark should be able to impose himself in physical situations with his 6'6 215-pound frame. The trio of attackers will also allow the Mids to have versatile looks as Reiff and Volkov bring plus-speed to the pool, while Lowdon is noted by Stanicic as someone who won't be afraid to do the blue collar work on offense or defense.

Wagner College

A new team has entered New York City's water polo waters for the 2016 fall season as Wagner College will field a men's varsity squad beginning in 2016. Helmed by Chris Radmonovich, who the past seven years has enjoyed tremendous success - including three straight Metro Atlantic Athletic Conference (MAAC) titles - coaching the Wagner women's program, the new men's squad will compete in the newly formed Mid-Atlantic Water Polo Conference (MAWPC)-East Region. Despite a steep learning curve ahead for his roster of 14 true freshman and three college transfers, Radmonovich enters the 2016 season with the precedent of a successful women's program to guide them. "The only thing it brings is the expectation that ultimately we're going to meet the same success as the women have," he explained. "And the timeline for that is short. We were in the championship finals my first, second and third years [as women's coach] and we've won the last three years. We have been successful with that same model that we went with the women: we're recruiting from everywhere and we're bringing in athletes from California, from Chicago, from Pennsylvania, from Florida, from Canada, from Australia, from Croatia," he said. The Seahawks' squad does have experience, albeit limited. Three non-freshmen will play in 2016 including: Devin O'Donnell, a sophomore from Quebec; Ciaran Wolohan, a junior college transfer from Australia, and James Grady, a junior college transfer from San Jose State University. "Ciaran, our transfer from Golden West and Devin from Quebec — they're both older athletes, they both have experience playing with their countries junior national teams," Radmonovich said. "My expectation for them is to provide leadership," an essential quality with so many new players.

Washington & Jefferson College

Washington & Jefferson College enters the 2016 season with a new face on the bench as former Indiana University All-America goalie and Stanford University assistant coach Cassie Wyckoff takes over the reigns of the program. She inherits a squad that boasts a pair of Association of Collegiate Water Polo Coaches (ACWPC) Honorable Mention All-America selections, in seniors Patrick Fredrick and Nicholas Willison. In 2015, Fredrick set the W&J single-season goals record by tallying 85 goals, while also contributing a team-high 20 assists. Willison was named a College Sports Information Directors of America (CoSIDA) First Team Academic All-America after scoring 63 goals and assisting on 10 more. Joshua Emde returns as the third-leading scorer for the Presidents after a season in which he found the back of the net 20 times and pocketed 32 steals. Mac Hennessy returns to man the cage for his second season as the primary starter, looking to follow up a sophomore campaign in which he made 146 saves in 21 games, holding a 12.39 goals-against average.

Brown University

Brown University enters its first season of play in the newly formed Northeast Water Polo Conference coming off its second straight Collegiate Water Polo Association (CWPA) Northern Division Championship. In 2015, the Bears won both the CWPA North regular season and tournament titles after going 12-0 in divisional play during the regular season. Despite graduating a pair of All-America selections in Will Klein and Matty Gallas, Brown returns three CWPA All-North performers from a year ago in seniors Luke Weiser, Yahel Murvitz-Lahav and Jake Wyatt. Weiser comes back to College Hill for his third season as the team's starting goalkeeper. Head coach Felix Mercado, now in his 10th season at the helm of Brown's program, has built a roster with depth across the classes including five seniors, five juniors, four sophomores, and seven freshmen. The team's seven newcomers comprise the program's largest class during the Mercado era while the squad's 10 upperclassmen all helped Brown reach the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) Championship in 2014 for the first time since 1990.

Harvard University

Harvard University looks to build on last year's success as it enters the 2016 season at No. 14 in the Collegiate Water Polo Association (CWPA) National Top 20 Preseason Poll. The Crimson finished with a No. 13 ranking and a third-place finish at the CWPA Championships in 2015, tying the highest finish in the history of Crimson water polo. Harvard posted a 21-10 record, including 9-3 in Ivy League play, as they recorded back-to-back seasons with 20+ wins for just the third time in program history. The Crimson reached as high as No. 12 in the CWPA rankings, marking the highest national ranking any Harvard water polo squad has reached. Harvard will rely heavily on seniors Joey Colton and Noah Harrison, both of whom earned postseason honors a year ago. Colton received All-America honors for the second consecutive year, netting 48 goals to go along with a team-high 57 assists. Harrison was named to the CWPA Northern Division second team as he led the Crimson in both scoring and steals, totaling 74 goals and 51 steals.

Iona College

Iona College is looking to carry the momentum created from last year's strong sophomore class into the 2016 season. The class of 2018 posted four of the top-5 goal scorers for the Maroon and Gold in 2015. Juniors Matthew Rothman, Jonathan Hulbert, Patrick Judge, Jay Pagano, Zach Roper, and Marc Stauble are expected to carry large roles in the 2016 campaign. Rothman and Roper are dynamic offensive lefthanders that possess great speed and post-up ability. Both players will be major leaders for the Gaels in and out of the water. Roper led the Gaels in scoring in 2015 and was named team Most Valuable Player (MVP). Stauble is considered a dynamic, two-way player that led the Gaels' in steals, and was a major player in the transition game. Head Coach Brian Kelly speaks highly of his upperclassman. "Marc is a dynamic talent that has the ability to be one of the best players in the Northeast Water Polo Conference". Rounding out the junior class, Hulbert, Judge, and Pagano provide a tireless counter and half-court attack that opens up opportunities for themselves and fellow teammates. Senior second-year captain Hudson Grieve is becoming a force at the center forward position. "Hudson possesses the perfect combination of size, speed, and will to excel as a center forward," says Kelly. The coaching staff also speaks highly of senior second-year captain Dan Fleck. According to Kelly, "Fleck is a versatile two-way player with a heavy shot has put himself in position to have a breakout season." The defense will be anchored by senior goalie Anthony Zdanavicius, whom the coaching staff believes has taken his game to another level. "Tony put in a ton of work in the off-season and it has really translated," said Kelly. "He was exceptional during the spring season and he's been exceptional in training camp." Zdanavicius will be getting a strong push from three talented freshmen goalies, two of which played for their national teams. Jorge Torres (Puerto Rico) and Sebastian Van Reeken (Trinidad and Tobago) each represented their native country. Not to be overlooked in the incoming freshman class are Quinn Lloyd and Cullen Seipp, whose versatility could log them important minutes throughout the season. "Cullen and Quinn have all of the tools and can do a little bit of everything," said Kelly. Other notable contributors include sophomores Alex Guerra and Andres Guerra, who played key roles and starter minutes last season for the Gaels. Andres was voted the team's rookie of the year and had a solid season as a two-meter defender, while Alex provided a steady perimeter shooting attack.

Massachusetts Institute of Technology

The Massachusetts Institute of Technology Engineers will look to build on a very successful season from a year ago where MIT defeated the United States Naval Academy for the first time in program history, Division III national runner-up Claremont-Mudd-Scripps Colleges and St. Francis College Brooklyn for the first time in 22 years to go along with many other wins during the season. On top of the victories listed above the Cardinal and Gray worked hard for second place finish at the Collegiate Water Polo Association (CWPA) Division III Championship, fourth place at the CWPA Northern Division Championship and seventh place at the CWPA Championship.

Princeton University

The 2015 Collegiate Water Polo Association (CWPA) Champion, Princeton University moves from their former league's Southern Division - which is primarily now part of the Mid-Atlantic Water Polo Conference (MAWPC) - to the first-year Northeast Water Polo Conference (NWPC). One of the top returners for the Tigers is goalie Vojislav Mitrovic, a two-time honorable mention All-America. As a sophomore, Mitrovic had a 20-5 overall record and turned away 301 of the 502 shots he faced en route to a 0.600 save percentage. His 301 saves in 2015 are the most in any single-season in program history, surpassing Gregory Stoll's mark of 266 in 1997. Jordan Colina, the team's second leading scorer last fall with 50 goals, is another outstanding returner. Colina had the most sprint victories on the Tigers (35) and was tied for the team-best in steals (43) and drawn ejections (36). Jovan Jeremic also comes back after an All-CWPA Southern second team accolade last year. Jeremic showed an all-around game as he recorded 34 goals, dished out 23 assists, snagged 23 steals and picked up 11 sprint wins. Coming off the bench last season, Curtis Fink, Eric Bowen and Ryan Hammarskjold will give Princeton quality depth throughout the entire roster. Fink gave the Tigers double-figures in goals (10), steals (14) and drawn ejections (15) in 2015 while Bowen drew 25 ejections and Hammarskjold was named to the All-CWPA Academic team. Building off their rookie seasons, Ryan Wilson, Michael Swart and Matt Payne will be looking to add even more firepower to the Tigers' offense. The three sophomores combined for 111 tallies, 32.5 percent of Princeton's goals in 2015. Ryan Melosini will provide relief for Mitrovic in goal this year. A group of five freshmen, Sean Duncan, Evan Elig, Logan MacDonell, Davis Wachtell and Christopher Xi are also expected to contribute for the Tigers right away. With their established high school careers, the Class of 2020, all from the state of California, will be asked to build on a Princeton team has been to the NCAA Tournament three times in the past seven seasons.

Saint Francis College Brooklyn

Despite a fifth place finish at the 2015 Collegiate Water Polo Association's (CWPA) Men's Water Polo Championships — the program's lowest ever — expectations remain high for the Terriers. Eleven new players and six holdovers from last season add up to St. Francis's deepest roster since 2013, when it qualified for the last of four National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) Men's Water Polo Tournaments (2005, 2010, 2012, 2013). Holding practice at Travers Island, a facility close to the college's Brooklyn campus, allows head coach Igor Zagoruiko to focus on a singular goal: getting his team back to NAAs. That won't be an easy task. Not only has the second year coach had to quickly appraise the abilities of his many recruits and integrate them into his system, St. Francis is now a member of the newly-formed Northeast Water Polo Conference that includes long-time rivals Brown University, Harvard University, Iona College and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, as well as 2015 CWPA Champion Princeton University. Unlike last year, when injuries whittled his roster to nine field players, Zagoruiko has enough talent to compete against the deep, experienced rosters of NWPC foes.

Though they have only been playing together for two weeks, it's apparent that this squad is fully capable of a winning campaign in 2016. The Terrier formula - luring talented players from abroad who value American higher education - has produced a roster of two Croatians, two Serbs, two Hungarians, two Brazilians, a player from China and a couple of Americans. Leading the pack of Terrier newcomers is Boris Posavec, a mobile defender who played high school polo in California and spent summers competing in his native Croatia. The 6-1 Posavec is a candidate for whole set, an offensive strength last year due to the play of Bora Dimitrov, the Terriers' leading scorer (73 goals), and Jacob Barashick, a reliable back-up. Both were lost to graduation last spring, though Dimitrov, will serve as an assistant coach this year. Another newcomer likely to be a difference-maker is also a rarity at St. Francis: an exceptionally talented Californian. William Lapkin - a star at Mater Dei High School in Newport Beach and for Regency in Junior Olympic play. Lapkin also appears to be a comfortable fit with sophomore attacker Bogdan Kostic, whose first year in Brooklyn Heights was outstanding. Tadeu Rodrigues, a Brazilian lefty with a strong shot, will take the spot in the offense of Liam Veazey, a left-handed attacker and the Terriers captain last year who graduated last spring. Rodrigues will combine on offense with countryman Rodrigo Siracusa, also considered a newcomer though he was on the St. Francis campus the past year. Now a senior, Siracusa took a red-shirt year in 2015. Goalie is perhaps the Terriers' biggest unknown. Junior Nikola Zivkovic is the incumbent, but freshman Viktor Klauzer, a 19 year-old Hungarian who was strong in Wednesday's scrimmage. Great Terrier teams of years past have been defined by exceptional netminders, most notably Igor Mladenovic (2010 - 13), whose superior ability allowed defenders to gamble on offense. Whoever is in goal must mesh with senior defender Ilija Djuric, the Terriers' second leading scorer last year and now their captain, and sophomore Jonas Veazey, a stay at home defender who will likely anchor a young defense corps. Perhaps the Terriers may be talented enough that their scoring ability compensates for any defensive shortcomings due to inexperience. With a new crop of sharp shooters sporting size, experience and savvy, the team should have enough ability to compete for the Northeast title.

CWPA CLUB TEAM PROFILES

ATLANTIC DIVISION

Duke University

Duke University welcomed more than 10 new players to the team. Every year, the team continues to improve in size and skill level. Over the past few years, the team has grown significantly in its members and in its commitment to success. This year, the team finished the regular undefeated at 8-0 for the first time since 2002. Unfortunately, the team was handed its first loss in double overtime by the University of Maryland in the Atlantic Division semifinals to terminate the squad's National Collegiate Club Championship hopes.

Georgetown University

Georgetown University will strive to build on its strengths with hopes of claiming the school's first division crown and National Collegiate Club Championship tournament appearance since 2005.

James Madison University

James Madison University enters the 2016 season exhilarated and ready to give it their all. Last season was a difficult one as the majority of our team graduated to the squad is dealing with the trials of new leadership. The team recruited a few players with a considerable amount of experience under their belts. These freshmen; Joe Ziegler, Jordan and Jacob Biskaduros were not only patient with the rebuilding season but also came forth as excellent leaders and role models for the team. Their experience was vital to JMU as the team worked to rebuild with mostly rookies having no prior experience. This season, the Dukes have a solid core group of guys that should help the program in a bracket more suited to its skill set.

Johns Hopkins University

A third year program, Johns Hopkins University will strive to continue improving with hopes of advancing to the National Collegiate Club Championship in the near future.

North Carolina State University

North Carolina State University comes into this year hoping to rebound after losing the majority of its top players during the past two seasons. With the graduation of starters Josh Horner, Michael Dickey, Ruben Auvert and Zach Fredricks, NC State will have a very different team this year. Following a Ninth Place finish in the 2015 Atlantic Division title hunt, the Wolfpack will aim to capture the "B" Division title this year and move up into the "A" Division for the 2017 season. Star goalie Nik Bravo returns this year excited to lead his team to a future spot in the higher bracket. Top scorers, Harry Schrickx and Zach Shurrow, are returning juniors who are working together better than ever before. Noah Stoltz, Anna Rehder, Conner Regan and Matt Thompson are expected to step up and fill the gap from the graduated seniors. The Wolfpack also had a strong freshman group join the team with some of the newcomers likely to be starters by the end of the season. The entire team will also continue to rely heavily on their coach, Chris McKay, who has played a vital role in the success of all the returning players.

United States Naval Academy

The United States Naval Academy is primed to take the division title this season. Senior Brian Cully is at the helm of this year's roster, flanked by leading goal scorers Will Bloom and Mitch Gunter. Navy is fighting a headwind with the loss of Cole Engstrom, a versatile powerhouse who provided much of the Midshipmen's momentum. A rising squad of younger players fill the void by increasingly producing goals and assists: Quinn Harrison, Karl Marvil, Dan Dukleth and Jack Oliver matured into fine athletes in the past season and are hungry for more. The fleet's primary two-meter man, junior Zach Hudgens is expected to continue as an offensive standout. Further, the sophomore trio of Jacob Dodge, Mikaela Garrott and Tim Bavlisk are ready to catapult their careers after their freshman seasons.

University of Maryland

The University of Maryland begins the season with hopes of earning its way back to the National Collegiate Club Championship. The majority of the Terrapins' starting line-up returns for another go at the Atlantic Division as powerhouses Steve Roberts, Patrick Burke and Zeyad Emam will power the Maryland attack. Thanks to an unprecedented amount of new talent showing up to play fans should keep an eye out for freshmen looking to distinguish themselves - especially goalie Keaton Tengwall.

University of North Carolina

The Tar Heels of the University of North Carolina hold four crowns (2004, 2010, 2011, 2012) in six title game appearances (2002, 2003, 2004, 2010, 2011, 2012). The past few years, UNC has been rebuilding with a lot of young and inexperienced players. The team looks to rise back to its' previous success and build on last year's mistakes. UNC returns five of seven starters from last year, including Dominic Moore, Omar Trad and leading scorer Matt Bravante. After a year of stellar recruitment, UNC has multiple freshmen and newcomers who can make an impact immediately. With the combination of senior leadership, including President Michael Kirchner, and new talent, including Christian Kamrath, look for the Tar Heels to turn some heads in the lower division this Fall.

University of Virginia

The University of Virginia is coming back strong this year with its sights set on winning its bracket and playing for the title. Despite the departure of key players, most notably Robert "Bert" Klein, the team boasts a strong starting six backed by Italian goalkeeper Francesco Franzinetti. A strong recruitment class adds depth to a versatile core of returning players that can work the set offense as well as the fast break game. Khaled Khalil, Sean Rouffa and Bruce Dowling are expected to hold down Virginia's half of the tank, while star offensive players Jack Capra and Richard Bailey look to lead the team in scoring. Fourth-years Tommy West and Luca Fikre will provide veteran support and expect to see perimeter threats Eric McDonald, Will Reynolds and Nate Silvestri doing what they do best.

Virginia Polytechnic Institute & State University

The lone team in division history to advance to the Atlantic Division title game four consecutive seasons (2006-to-2009), the Virginia Tech men's water polo team is training hard for an eventful season. Strong defense and timely offense should help the Hokies dominate the pool at both ends and get Virginia Tech back to the top of the division for the first time since 2009. After losing its starting goalie and leading goal scorer last year, Virginia Tech is hoping an infusion of young talent will help bring the Hokies back to the National Collegiate Club Championship. Sophomore standout Andrew Siemon and Brian Daly helped bring the team to the Atlantic Division Championship Game last year. Thanks to a strong freshmen class, Virginia Tech should once again be a threat to capture the division title and punch its ticket to the National Collegiate Club Championship behind the leadership of upperclassmen Brian Thibodeau, Scott Wilson and Trevor Kent.

BIG TEN DIVISION

Michigan State University

The Spartans of Michigan State University boast a young group of student athletes, looking to once again reign supreme atop the Big-Ten Division and rise back to National Championship prominence, like their predecessors in the 2000's. With only two returning senior captains, Grant Kunzi and Daniel Sullivan, as well as junior captain Mitch Sokolsky, the Spartans will have no trouble leading the team into battle. Third-year coach Matt Latham will guide the three-time National Collegiate Club Champion (2000, 2006, 2008) and five-time club tournament finalists (2000, 2005, 2006, 2007, 2008) to continue the program's storied history of success on both the division and National Championship levels. The 12-time Big Ten champion Spartans will face tough opposition in the Big Ten, but a combination of experience and young talent should make for a great season.

Northwestern University

Despite losing four starters from last year's team, Northwestern University is looking to bounce back in spectacular fashion. Led by seniors Harry Pollack, Eric Lullo and Daniel Perlovsky, the Wildcats are planning to take the Big Ten Division by storm by coupling an explosive offense with a suffocating defense. The sky is the limit for Northwestern in 2016.

Purdue University

After a disappointing finish last season, Purdue University is aiming to bounce back as a competitive force in the Big Ten Division this season. Although most of the squad's 2015 starting lineup was lost to matriculation, Purdue will rely on young talent and the presence of offensive stars sophomore Rassul Yeshpayev and senior Lucas Allen to lead the team in the pool.

University of Illinois

The Fighting Illini of the University of Illinois will gun for another strong season after placing Second (2015), Third (2011, 2012) and Fourth (2013, 2014) in the Big Ten Division over the past five seasons.

University of Iowa

The University of Iowa Hawkeye Nation reloads for its next season, united and eager to challenge their adversaries within the Big Ten. Iowa enters the new campaign with rebuilding goals. After losing multiple veteran players, the Hawkeyes are looking to improve from last year and to prepare for the seasons to come. One of the biggest losses is the speed provided by the former members. As a result the team will be relying more heavily on Seniors Bob Meyer and Jake Boettcher for offensive attacks as well as some of the younger players to fill this void.

University of Michigan "A"

Finishing with a No. 5 ranking and a Big Ten Division Championship last year, the University of Michigan comes into this season with high expectations. While the team will suffer the loss of Seiji Osawa, the Wolverines have a lot of talent to work with this year, as all but three players from last year's roster will be returning. Leading the team are captains Ryan Scannell, First Team All-Big Ten Division selection Davis Argersinger and Dennis Dahlmann. Supporting them are Second Team All-Big Ten players Tom McLeod and David Newberger. The team's greatest strength on the defensive end is returning all-conference goalie, Daniel Wu, who will continue to frustrate opponent shooters. Juniors Tom McLeod and Alex Weiss will additionally continue to provide a solid defensive foundation at the two-meter line as the 2011, 2012 and 2015 Big Ten Division champion Wolverines will strive to take the program's third National Championship after previous titles in 1998 and 2003.

University of Michigan "B"

The University of Michigan will also field a "B" team during the 2016 season to provide additional playing opportunities for players on the Wolverines' expansive roster.

University of Wisconsin

The University of Wisconsin is looking to improve upon their third place finish in the Big Ten Division from last year despite losing a strong senior class. Captains Johnny Louk and Derek Guillen look to lead the team via their scoring ability and defensive prowess. Junior Kevin Feldscher will help on the defensive end of the pool, while sophomores Brian Portland, Grant Haxton and Griffin Harting aid on the other end of the tank with their speed and strength. Sophomore Patrick Gallant should take over in cage. Graduate student William Derdeyn looks to add more depth and experience to this young team.

Amherst College

Amherst College enters its second year in the Colonial Division with high hopes. Finishing in Third Place at the Colonial Division Championship last year, the Yo-Hos will need to overcome the loss of Daniel Nussbaum, Taylor Wilson and Albert Yu. Filling the void in goal is returning player Nathan Ives, while the field will now see greater use of outside shooters Sam Spurrell and captain Alex Dreisbach. Rookie Alex Denize hopes to earn his stripes at hole set. Veteran players Sam Korntner and Grant Baker round out the captainship, and along with senior Isa Goldberg look to provide an experienced eye in the pool. In addition, a contingent of young new players will provide a lot of energy in both directions for the Yo-Ho Penguins.

University of Massachusetts

Entering its 10th year in the Collegiate Water Polo Association as a club program, the University of Massachusetts lost four seniors last year and has only one senior on the active roster as the Minutemen will build around a young team. Featuring several talented sophomores and juniors who will be relied upon heavily during the course of the season, Massachusetts is hoping to bounce back after a disappointing Fifth Place finish in the 2015 Colonial Division race.

Wesleyan University

One of the storied programs in the history of Division III water polo, the Wesleyan University Cardinals are ready to challenge the best in the Colonial Division. The team finished Sixth in the New England Division last season, a placement the squad will work to improve upon in the newly created Colonial Division.

Williams College

Williams College is coming off a great season as the reigning Colonial Division Champions with the program's first trip to the Division III Collegiate Club Championship in a number of years. The five-time division champion Ephs will aim to capture repeat in back-to-back seasons for the first time as the former North Atlantic Division members claimed four title plaques (1995, 1997, 2000, 2006) in the New England Division. However, the loss of a large group of seniors who provided a core to the team in both leadership and ability for years will make repeating a challenge. A number of returning players will be counted on by the Ephs along with new talent to help Williams build on its success from last year.

Worcester Polytechnic Institute

After a short break, Worcester Polytechnic Institute returned to the ranks of the Collegiate Water Polo Association (CWPA) last season. Fielding a relatively new team with mixed experience and skill levels, WPI will strive to capture the program's first division title.

FLORIDA DIVISION

Florida Atlantic University

Profile not available

Florida State University

The 2014 and 2015 Florida Division Champion, the Florida State Seminoles will gun for a third in 2016. The Seminoles boast an impressive roster which includes four returning starters and 13 players in total returning from last year's championship team. Three returning All-Florida Division First Team selections in Kyle Freire, Brandon Smith and Adam King, as well as a squad of talented first years who are eager to add to the legacy will be the strength of FSU this season under head coach Kurt Predmore. However what is most dangerous about this year's Seminoles team is their new desire to not simply win the division title for a third straight year, but to dominate the group and become break into the Top Four teams at the National Collegiate Club Championship.

University of Central Florida "A"

The Knights of the University of Central Florida begin this season with a new coach from the University of California-Santa Cruz in Blair MacDougall and a record number of freshmen. Returning to the team for their final year is Jack Gray, Adam Ifargan and Michael Martinac. Along with sophomore all-stars Anshul Devnani, Cameron Soltis and senior goalie Sam Culver, UCF plans to win the first men's Florida Division title in school history.

University of Central Florida "B"

Fielding a "B" team for the second time, the University of Central Florida "B" team is geared to compete and have fun against some of the Florida Division's best.

University of Florida "A"

The 2008 and 2011 Florida Division Champion and host of the 2009 National Collegiate Club Championship, the Gators of the University of Florida enter the 2016 season with high expectations. In the wake of back-to-back runner-up finishes behind Florida State University in the division title game, Florida is ready to chomp on their competition in 2016 and make it back to the National Collegiate Club Championship. The Gators are anchored by goalie Billy Whidden, who was a first team All-Florida Division selection last year. Additionally, returning players Thomas MacDonald, Kyle Irving, James Rivera, Trevor Mylin, Max Lettau and Denis Moreira enter this season with more experience, coming off of a productive summer getting better in the pool. The promotion of juniors Max Wood and Daniel Zubero at the set and attacker position, respectively. Furthermore, the addition of Aly Shahien, who has experience from playing on the Egyptian National team, will be helpful for the Gators on offense, while the addition of Clancy Short, who transferred from Ohio State University, will be of assistance on defense. Freshman Matthew Blackton and Rico Martinez, who both qualified for the Florida High School Athletic Association (FHSAA) state swimming meet last year, will be crucial threats with their speed in the pool as the Gators work to claim the program's fifth Florida Division Championship (2002, 2003, 2008, 2011) and seventh overall crown (Southeast Division: 2000, 2001).

University of Florida "B"

The University of Florida "B" Gators look forward to a fun and productive year. The team will strive to make it an All-Gators division title game for the first time in history with a more experienced line-up and a fair amount of new talent.

University of Miami (Fla.)

After losing four seniors, the University of Miami will need to work extra hard to prepare for this season in the ultra-competitive Florida Division. Last year, the Hurricanes finished in Third Place at the Florida Division Championship tournament after missing the title game by three goals. With some new recruits and returning talent, three-time division champion (2010, 2012, 2013) Miami is primed to come back strong and compete for the Florida Championship title once again in 2016.

GREAT LAKES DIVISION

Grand Valley State University

The most successful team in the history of the Great Lakes Division with eight championships (2002, 2003, 2004, 2005, 2006, 2007, 2008, 2010) in ten consecutive title game appearances from 2002-to-2011 and under the tutelage of 2015 division Coach of the Year Spencer Sanders, the Grand Valley State University Lakers return as one of the most experienced teams in the all of the collegiate club ranks. Seniors Mike Arend, Ian Hewitt and Nathan Napolillo lead a Lakers' team that not only has depth, but also leadership and experience. Jacob Davis, Ross Kunzi and Wally Klienfeldt also return after being named to the 2015 All-Great Lakes Division team. After last year's run to the conference finals, the Lakers hope to build on that appearance, become a stronger team and bring the National Championship plaque home to Allendale, Mich. for the first time since 2005.

Illinois State University

Miami University (Ohio)

Miami University is primed for its best season yet and aspires to represent the Great Lakes region at National Collegiate Club Championship. This year's team is led by First-Team All-Conference honoree Symeon Stefan, as well as a strong cohort of seniors including the likes of Isaac Shapiro, Joe Shannon, Alex Waldheer, John Schulz and Aaron Abraham. The Redhawks return most of their starting lineup, but will have to cope with the loss of Colin McGrath in goal. Hopefully, with the combined effort of the backup goalies from last year, Grant Smith and Matt Doyle, the same success can be emulated.

The Ohio State University-Gray

Returning 21 players, including four starters, and reloading with 19 new players, the Buckeyes of The Ohio State University look to return to form after a down 2015 season finish outside of the Top 20. Returning starting center and team captain Drace Penley will be joined by a strong front-line with returning starters Matthew Gustafson, Orion Swanson and Geoffrey Dickhaut in an attempt for a third Great Lakes Division title in three years. Bench support will be the Buckeyes' biggest strength as the added depth and experience will create opportunities from the top of the lineup to the bottom.

The Ohio State University-Scarlet

To provide additional playing opportunities for the number of athletes on The Ohio State University roster, the institution will field two squads in 2016.

University of Chicago

The Maroons of the University of Chicago come into the 2016 season with one of the strongest returning squads in the six-year history of the program. Led by four-year seniors Grant Kushner, Jack Larkin and Erika Zheng, the team is looking to finish higher than ever in the Great Lakes Division. Comprised of young talent from all across the country, such as rising sophomores Marshall Mathias and team secretary Irena Feng, the Maroons will miss several key members who graduated in the Spring, including former team president Josh Herzberg and speedster Andrew Libertain. The team is also without resident statistician and pot-stirrer Alex Cordover. Fifth-year senior Ryan Tang will work to turn his patented "no-look shots" into goals if Chicago hopes to advance beyond the Great Lakes Division Championship.

University of Cincinnati

The University of Cincinnati returns to the league for its second season striving to continued the process of competing for Great Lakes Division and National Collegiate Club Championships.

University of Dayton

Profile not available

University of Notre Dame

The only team in the country guaranteed a berth to the 2016 Men's National Collegiate Club Championship as the Fighting Irish will host the event on November 11-13, the University of Notre Dame will need to overcome the graduation loss of some significant contributors to contend for the Great Lakes Division and National Championships. Anticipating a successful season nonetheless with the perennial goal of winning the Great Lakes title, Notre Dame is hard at work developing new strategies and getting in game-ready shape.

Xavier University

Xavier University looks to a strong group of seniors in their final year of eligibility for leadership, including Dillon Oswald, Sebastian Garcia, goalie Jim Knowles and 2015 All-Conference player Mitchell Guist. However, the Musketeers are also counting on a youth movement of experienced freshmen to support a team that lost key players Zach Vogelpohl, Jacob Enriquez and Dalton Davis. With a deeper roster, Xavier looks to more competitive than in recent memory before the graduation of other key players.

HEARTLAND DIVISION

Augustana College

The Vikings of Augustana College will once again be a contender for the Heartland Division Championship as the 2014 victor is ready to reclaim its throne in 2016.

Carleton College

Carleton College will rely greatly on its large sophomore class to contend in 2016. Piper Kurtz moves into the set position on offense, to replace the recently graduated Shanti Penprase. Carleton will also hope to utilize the speed of swimmer Aaron Olson to open up opportunities on offense. Defensively, star 6'-4" goaltender Adam Tigar will serve as his team's last line of defense.

Grinnell College

Profile not available

Knox College

Knox College starts the season hoping to improve upon a Sixth Place finish at the 2015 Heartland Division Championship. After the loss of top players Harry Carpenter and Nicolette Laird, Knox will lean on 2016 All-Conference women's season players Clarice Bernett, Laura Lee and Emma Newman. A relatively young team that will also have to rely upon a large group of underclassmen which composes more than half of their team, Knox is likely to be in contention for the division title by the conclusion of the season.

Macalester College

Macalester College enters this season looking to make a stand. With a less than ideal finish to last year's season, the Scots are raring to bring a young team forth into dominance in their division. Three seniors return for their final season with one last chance to acquire a bid to the Division III National Collegiate Club Championship. With sly dog Sam Dyer skirting past the defense, long armed Paul Reischmann pulling stolen balls down from the heavens and Taylor Durbin gettin back on defense, the three sophomores will be the ones to watch as they step into their starting positions.

Saint John's University (Minn.)

Saint John's University comes into this season with new faces and new talents. After the departure of some seniors, including Matt Stinar, Connor Magee and Matthew McCormick, last year and the addition of new talents, the Johnnies are ready to have fun and make a run at capturing the Heartland Division title. Returners Jacob Upton, Joe Vorderbruggen, Dominick Thompson and Callie Stark will lead a team which will strive to improve its offensive skills while continuing to dominate on defense.

Saint Mary's University of Minnesota

Saint Mary's University of Minnesota enters a rebuilding year after a disappointing Fourth Place finish at the 2015 Heartland Division Championship tournament. With only five returning players this season, the Polo Bears will need to lean on the team's leading scorer from last year in Zac Finkelstein. He will be bolstered by returning seniors Peter Hegland and Matt Wubben. This, combined with a promising class of new recruits, will make up the core of Saint Mary's bid for relevance this year within the Heartland Division.

MID-ATLANTIC DIVISION

Bloomsburg University

The Huskies of Bloomsburg University come into this season with some new potential on the team. This year the Huskies come back with five returning seniors, six juniors, 11 sophomores and 8 freshmen. Bloomsburg concluded the 2015 regular season in Second Place with a record of 5-1 in the "B" Bracket prior to notching a Fourth Place mark at the Mid-Atlantic Division Championship. Bloomsburg is hoping to improve their record this year with the help of the incoming class and the returning veteran players.

Bucknell University

Among the newest members of the Mid-Atlantic Division, the sixth-year Bison of Bucknell University remain a team on the rise.

Carnegie Mellon University

Profile not available

Drexel University

Behind 2015 Mid-Atlantic Division Coach of the Year Josh Hoonert, the Dragons of Drexel University expect to build on their successes as the team placed in Fourth Place. With the graduation of First-All Conference Team member Chad Schmidt, and overall league Most Valuable Player Alex Chialastri, Drexel will need to improve with their captains and returning players taking on the slack left by the key departures. Familiarity among the team members brings a sense of strength to the Dragons.

Grove City College

Profile not available

Lehigh University

Lehigh University is coming off a very successful 2015 in which the team finished in Second Place at the Mid-Atlantic Division "B" Championship tournament hosted at former league member Franklin & Marshall College. While the Mountainhawks graduated a number of key contributors, a strong group of seniors, including a pair of goalies, once again position Lehigh as a contender for the "B" title. The upperclassmen's leadership and the many strong new players on the squad should power the team to another successful season.

Pennsylvania State University "A"

The 2014 and 2015 Mid-Atlantic Division Champion, Pennsylvania State University made history in 2015 as no Mid-Atlantic Division team had repeated as the group's champion since the University of Pennsylvania achieved the feat 2007 and 2008. Now, the Nittany Lions enter the 2016 season on a quest for a third straight Mid-Atlantic Division championship, a feat that has not occurred in almost twenty years. Although the team lost seven seniors, including All-Conference selections Nate Savoy, Nick Poulin and Jeremy Smith, the Nittany Lions hope to improve on last year's 10th place finish at the National Collegiate Club Championship. Juniors Kolin Knott and Drew Rogerson will be the biggest returning threats, with Knott aiming to dominate at set while Rogerson will be sure to light it up from the outside. In addition, sophomore Dan Bauman will look to build on his excellent rookie campaign, and will play a large part in the PSU offense. With a large and talented incoming class in addition to strong veteran players, Penn State will be in the hunt for its seventh title after previously earning the 1998, 2005, 2009, 2012, 2014 and 2015 in 12 championship game appearances (1998, 2002, 2003, 2004, 2005, 2008, 2009, 2010, 2012, 2013, 2014, 2015).

Pennsylvania State University "B"

Fielding a "B" team for once again to provide playing time to every member, teach inexperienced players about the sport as well as develop talent and a passion for water polo, Pennsylvania State University "B" will strive to improve on a game-by-game basis.

Saint Joseph's University

Led by a strong senior class and an exciting group of recruits, the Hawks of Saint Joseph's University will work to best their Third Place finish at last year's Mid-Atlantic Division "B" championship.

University of Delaware

The University of Delaware, led by President Jeff Janofsky and Vice President Adam Bowers, is looking forward to another winning season in the Mid-Atlantic "B" Division with nine returning players ready to grab the championship for the second year in a row.

University of Pennsylvania

The University of Pennsylvania enters the 2015 season eyeing its competition in a quest to capture the program's ninth Mid-Atlantic Division title with a penultimate goal of capturing the program's first-ever National Collegiate Club Championship.

University of Pittsburgh

The University of Pittsburgh Panthers are excited about their experienced new recruits with the prospects of making a run at the division title and a berth to the National Collegiate Club Championship not out of reach. The loss of key players such as Max Ginsburg and Stephen Genetti hurts, but the return of starters Mike Okonski (driver), Ty Stoner (set), John Anonetti (driver) and Brendan Barnes (wing/driver) should help Pitt's chances of competing at a higher level.

Villanova University

Arguably the surprise of the Mid-Atlantic Division last year, 2015 runner-up Villanova University will work hard to fell reigning champion Pennsylvania State University and the rest of the Mid-Atlantic Division field to return to the National Collegiate Club Championship for the first time since 2011.

West Chester University

West Chester University looks to bounce back after the 2015 season. The Golden Rams will rely heavily on upperclassmen Chris Short, Dallas Commons and Nico Galvis following the graduation of Ryan Callanan and Alex Bowers. West Chester is looking to incorporate new addition Matthew Rosenberger into a key role as the squad aims to build a solid foundation for a run at the Mid-Atlantic Division Championship in the upcoming seasons.

Widener University

The newest member of the largest men's collegiate club division in the Collegiate Water Polo Association (CWPA), The Pride of Widener University return for their third season. Drexel University alum Devin Marlin assumes head coaching duties and has vast experience as a member of the Greater Philadelphia Water Polo team. In addition to the returning roster - which includes three of the players named to the 2015 All-Conference "B" Division First Team in Jeff Hicks, Eddie Seyfried and Sam Smith - The Pride is bringing in a slew of new freshmen and other players to bolster the roster significantly from the previous two campaigns.

MISSOURI VALLEY DIVISION

Lindenwood University "A"

A nine-time Missouri Valley Division champion (2005, 2006, 2008, 2009, 2010, 2012, 2013, 2014, 2015) and the two-time reigning Men's National Collegiate Club Champions, the Lions of Lindenwood are shooting for the program's 10th division title since 2005. The fourth school to repeat as National Champions joining California Polytechnic State University (2001, 2002), the University of California-Los Angeles (2009, 2010) and the University of Southern California (2011, 2012), the Lions will look to make history and become the first program to capture back-to-back-to-back National Collegiate Club Championships after previously earning three consecutive Division III National titles (2006, 2007, 2008). Sporting a 44-1 record over the past two seasons, the Lions are led by four returning All-America selections in goalkeeper Mario Caballero Diaz, driver/utility Diego Aldea Lopera, attacker Javier Platero Garcia and center Toni Storic. In addition the All-America quartet, Lindenwood brings back Andrew Rabe, Marc Tahull Compte, Alex Cukic, Jesse Frazier, Weston White, Jordan Sacks and Jarod Lawson from its most recent championship team. Watch for freshman Nikola Nasev to be the next name added to the litany of Lions on the All-America list as the first-year has the potential to shatter records and keep Lindenwood on top of the National Collegiate Club ranks long into the future.

Lindenwood University "B"

Lindenwood University "B", which finished in Third Place at the Missouri Valley Division Championship last year, has promising talent including newcomers Sean Welch and Joe Rehmet. Returning after a year off is Scott Kelly who promises to be an offensive threat. Led by veterans Jake Jagodzinski, Sam Beckwith, Michael Jordan, Curro Casado Rodriguez, and Eduardo Ariste Lopez Linares, the Lions "B" team is challenged each day at practice by the 2014 and 2015 National Champion Lindenwood "A" team. This back-and-forth to prepare the "B" players for their potential future roles on the "A" roster has been part of the division and national dominance by the school.

McKendree University

McKendree University commences its inaugural and only collegiate club season with the goal of improving during each game throughout the year prior to moving up to the varsity ranks. Being mostly freshmen, there will be a learning curve moving into the college ranks. Centrally located, outside of St. Louis, McKendree has players from all over the country and one from Serbia, Marko Vucetic. Coach Gregg Emde, who captured a National Collegiate Club Championship with Lindenwood University prior to taking over at McKendree, will be looking for the leaders and the players that will step up this year, but expects big numbers from Luc Gregory, Alex Nicholas and Robbie Esson. The goalkeeper position is still in question as there are two freshmen (Vucetic, Anthony Murat) and one sophomore transfer Arthur Larson vying for the job between the posts.

Missouri University of Science & Technology

After completing their inaugural season in 2015, the Missouri University of Science & Technology Miners look to improve on last year's performance. With the addition of a large, skilled freshman class, the team adds great depth to a good mix of speed, shooters and defensive specialists in front of several strong goalies. The well-rounded Miners are ready to compete for the Missouri Valley Division Championship.

Saint Louis University

A past Missouri Valley Division champion (2011) and four-time runner-up (2009, 2010, 2012, 2013), the Billikens of Saint Louis University are excited to be back for the 2016 season with a fresh squad. Returning the majority of players from last year, the Billikens look to compete for the Missouri Valley Division Championship with the help of a large group of new team members.

Truman State University

Truman State University is bringing on a young and hopeful new team this year. With a team of 39 players, this is the largest team Truman State has fielded in the history of the program. Junior and team captain Brian Drake looks to lead the team to a winning season in hopes of coming back stronger in the future and winning the Missouri Valley Division Championship down the road.

University of Missouri

The University of Missouri water polo club returns starters Trent Davis, Kyle Danuser, Dennis Herron, Matt Sauer, Jack Brauer, and Zach Holtgrewe to have a core group of experienced leaders for the challenging road ahead towards the National Collegiate Club Championship. Possessing a healthy mix of young and older talent, Missouri is looking forward to shocking the Missouri Valley Division in 2016.

Washington University in St. Louis (Mo.)

Though the Washington University in St. Louis water polo Bears lost three key seniors, they are looking to remain competitive in the Missouri Valley Division and at the national level. Wash U posted a 7-1 regular season record last year, and a 12-2 record overall, capturing second place in the Missouri Valley Conference Championships, and first in the Division III Club National Championship for the third time in five years. Last season, the Bears tied Wesleyan for most consecutive championship game appearances at the national level with five, and this season the Bears aim to extend that streak to six. They will rely heavily on junior Flynn Walker and sophomore Max Bernstein, two of the team's leading scorers. Captains Christian Olaya (Jr.) and Flynn Walker will work closely with Coach Evan Zaggy in their leadership roles. The team will benefit from combining the collegiate water polo experience of upperclassmen Alex Lancaster, Chris Parrino, Scott Burns, Alex Goay, Carter Umetsu, Grant Bowes, and Will Nickerson with the energy of underclassmen Aaron Lowenstein, Amar Karahodzic, Charlie Guise, Eric Olaya, Jake Mattingly, and the new players. The Bears will take every advantage of their deep bench, strong defense, and outstanding skill to continue to excel.

NEW ENGLAND DIVISION

Boston College

Boston College looks to improve after finishing second in the New England Division to Dartmouth College. The Eagles graduated some key pieces to their starting lineup, but welcome a promising freshmen class. Under the leadership of senior captains Sean Fisher and Nick McSweeney, the team hopes to win the New England Di vision and return to the CWPA National Collegiate Club Championships. The Eagles will start their campaign with an intense focus on the defensive end, led by junior goalie Trevor Prince and senior 2 meter guard Sean Fisher. On offense, they feature strong arms on the outside from junior John Treinen, junior Corey Mano, and sophomore Colin Derdeyn. Many players like senior Brendan Koch and sophomore Duncan Rowland will play important roles in the team's success for this upcoming season.

Boston University

Boston University comes into the season in a rebuilding mode. Last season the Terriers finished in Fourth Place at the New England Division Championship, but only three of the starters from last season will return. Due to the graduation of Josh McDonough, as well as new players still learning the sport, the Terriers' offense could struggle to find the back of the cage. In order to combat the lack of offensive skills, the team will rely on the remaining top scorers from last year - Austin Vargas and Curtis Hon. On the defensive side of the field, returner Andy McClung was one of the team's defensive leaders in possessing a knack for stealing the ball. Another addition to BU's defensive arsenal is Nicholas Micovic, an alternate goalie turned starter, who has shown improvement in defensive blocking.

Dartmouth College "A"

An eight-time division champion, with victories in 1996, 1998, 1999, 2001, 2008, 2012, 2013 and 2015, Dartmouth College returns for the 2016 season with a hunger to capture another New England Division Championship and return to the National Collegiate Club Championship. After a great 2015 season led by graduating seniors Keaton Renta and Chris D'Angelo, current seniors David Rozenfeld, Peter Loomis and Colin Fristoe hope to match and improve on last year's result. Also returning to the pool is Zsombor Vincze, a veteran from Hungary with a strong background in the game. Juniors Ben Wilson and Eric Thorpe will also contribute to the Big Green's success along with sophomores Jed Rosen and Matt Riley. Led at the helm by head coach Randy Budner and assistant coach Forest Pollard, Dartmouth is set to go for a strong season and another crack at capturing the National Championship.

Dartmouth College "B"

To provide an additional opportunity for playing opportunities, Dartmouth College will also field a "B" team in 2016.

Middlebury College

Middlebury College hopes to build on last years second place at the Division III National Collegiate Club Championships despite starting their season with a considerably smaller team. Following the loss of five seniors and one sophomore, coaches Brian Goodwin and Tom McGinn will be crucial in helping guide the younger players to stardom with their daily Sisyphean drills. Kevin Benschmidt, the most experienced player on the team, will be co-captain with Jack Ravery. Robert Prichard will contribute up and down the pool, with help from Adam Fisher and Jared Keyes. Diego Espino's top corner shots, perfectly served by Andrew Sebald's pin-point passes, will be central to Middlebury's tactics this year.

University of Connecticut

The University of Connecticut is excited to play its third season in the Collegiate Water Polo Association (CWPA). It should be an interesting season for the Huskies as the team lost four of its most experienced players in Kyle LeMere, Derek Litts, Tom O'Hara, and Evan LaRosa to graduation. Their departure leaves a significant void to fill in the offense. Switching to defense, UConn will nurture a new team of goalies to compensate for the lack of experience in the cage. The team will have to rely heavily on the experience and strength of returning players Will Perret, Sarah McAnulty and co-captain Tim McGehee. Despite the team having to rebuild, new players have already been recruited some with significant water polo experience such as Alexa Frieberg and Randi Mendes. Expect substantial playing time from co-captain Hailey Ross and returning players Sydney Corneau, Matt Cucurello and Derek Dodge. Regardless of the team's inexperience withing the league, the Huskies are hungry for what they hope to be their first win in team history this Fall season.

Yale University

A six-time New England Division champion, the Yale University Bulldogs' possess a legacy of academic and athletic excellence. An academic powerhouse that consistently ranks among the leaders on the Collegiate Water Polo Association (CWPA) Scholar-Athlete Team, the Bulldogs have been the equal of the division's best in the water as shown by the squad's 2003, 2004, 2005, 2009, 2010 and 2011 New England Division Championships. The Bulldogs head into 2016 with a rosy outlook for their New England Division title hopes. With all six field starters returning plus a strong new goalie in sophomore Yan Oczkowicz, Yale hopes to improve upon its Fourth Place finish in 2015. The team will likely rely on longtime standouts Calvin Rhodes, Thomas Lazzarini, Micah Rosales, and Michael Mattessich in the field, while introducing up and comers like Michael Leddy and Leroy Zhang into the fold.

NEW YORK DIVISION

Binghamton University

Coming off of a disappointing finish last season, the Binghamton University Bearcats are looking to bounce back and have a better season. Presidents Kyle Hebert and Lauren Gutierrez will use their experience in and out of the pool to guide the team to excel in all aspects of the game. Captains Alexander Yodashkin and Scott Gold are quite the leaders in the pool and their knowledge of the game will be an asset for the team. Senior Ryan Cervone, sophomore Jason Grana and graduate student Pamela Lovejoy will lead Binghamton's offense while junior Phillip Heepe and sophomores Brendan Marshall and Ben Krauss will hold down the defensive front. Scott Anderson is hoping to continue proving himself to be one of the premier goalies in the league. Michael Conte, Kelsey McCarthy and William Frazer will fill out the roster with solid contributions on both offense and defense.

Colgate University

Colgate University continues its rebuilding process as the team has the potential to be a championship threat in the highly competitive New York Division by season's end.

Columbia University

Columbia University begins the 2016 season optimistically with a solid mix of returning players and skilled new additions. Coming off a 13th place finish at the 2015 National Collegiate Club Championship hosted by the University of California-Santa Cruz, Columbia returns Casidhe McClone, who received All-Conference honors in his first year playing for the Lions, and Coach of the Year Akhil Mehta. New addition Tobias Gutleb looks to be a big addition to the squad, while Junior Ravi Campbell and Asher Zlotnik aim to build on their strong performances in the 2015 season. Columbia aims to return the New York Division plaque to Morningside Heights.

Cornell University

Cornell University expects to carry the success of the last few years into this season. A tough overtime loss to Columbia University in the 2015 New York Division Championship game has not fazed the squad, as they had taken the division title in each of the previous three seasons. The team returns five-of-seven starters from last year, including two-meter man Jordan Stout. Goalkeeper Andrea Biondi leads the defense with his exceptional reach and speed. Although the team lost their primary two-meter defense to graduation, senior Mason Miller should fill the role. Offensive production will only improve as the Big Red returns former New York Division Most Valuable Player Harrison Holland-McCowan, the dangerous left arm of junior Tyler Triscari and the electric playmaking ability of senior Derrick Ho. Senior Sebastian Cahill, junior Adrian Alepuz and sophomores Jake McCabe and Jacob Markin each provide quality depth on both ends of the pool.

Hamilton College

The Hamilton College Continentals enter the 2016 season with a demanding schedule ahead of them. Led by the speed of Tyler Rehor and the accuracy of Clay Holmes, last season's top scorer, Hamilton anticipates a challenging season filled with lots of fresh energy from their large incoming class. The Continentals have their largest number of new players in years, and with only one senior, are excited to match up against some veteran teams. With almost a decade of water polo experience under his belt, Chris Wan is expected to be an impact player almost immediately. Additionally, Hamilton will look to junior centers Ben Cooper and Trevor Pearson and goalie Case Tatro to step up and lead the young team to the Division III National Collegiate Club Championship. Hamilton is also excited to see lefty threat Tripp Miller return from shoulder surgery and expect him to be a top scorer for the Continentals. Hamilton is expected to be very competitive this year as they prepare to host and play in the Division III National Championship tournament.

New York University

Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute

Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute returns with a similar look to last year as the team graduated only two players. With a solid core continuing to play together, the team hopes to continue to fight and move in the New York Division rankings. RPI's solid defense continues to be the reason it wins games - a tradition the team plans on continuing in 2016.

Syracuse University

United States Merchant Marine Academy

The United States Merchant Marine Academy is excited to participate in the Fall 2016 water polo season with the Collegiate Water Polo Association (CWPA). This will be the club's fourth year as part of the CWPA's New York Division. Last fall, the club placed Ninth out of 11 teams. With our returning veterans, the team hopes to advance even higher this year. Returning player, Midshipman Joshua Mize 1/C, is the club's president this season. His goal is to unify the new team members with the veteran players ensuring team success throughout the season while creating an atmosphere of teamwork, fun, and commitment to the sport. The club would like to highlight exceptional players Midshipman Kalamaku Akiona 2/C and Midshipman Nils Boas 3/C. These two players have used their skills to help coach new players while also refining their abilities which will make them worthy opponents in the pool. Other returning players for the team include Midshipman Timothy Parker 1/C, Midshipman Aaron Garret 2/C, Midshipman Tri Pham 2/C, Julian Simmons 3/C, and Joseph Williams 3/C. The new players in the club are Midshipman Peter Barrow 1/C, Midshipman Alexander Hughes 1/C, Midshipman Alejandro Mata 1/C, Midshipman Gannon Breslin 2/C, Midshipman Michael Martin 3/C, Midshipman Joshua McGlone 3/C, Midshipman Spencer Ragsdale 3/C, Midshipman Sean Thompson 3/C, and Midshipman Garrett Von Seggern 3/C. The club also boasts four new dedicated freshmen who are persistent in their training and also make excellent teammates. These members are Plebe Charles Russell, Plebe Joseph Sandlin, Plebe Pierce Senken, and Plebe Patrick Sterba. Finally, Alumni David Pulis ('00) is the club's faculty advisor and team coach. Coach Pulis has sacrificed a significant portion of his time to help raise and maintain the club. His efforts have led to several successful seasons and he will once again be leading the team this fall. The club is excited to follow him, eagerly pursuing his example as an officer, water polo player, and team mate.

United States Military Academy

A four-time New York Division champion (1998, 1999, 2001, 2002), the United States Military Academy has a bright outlook coming into the season. Army has a strong team this year, returning all but one starter. With the new additions to the team, the Black Knights do not expect any drop off this season. The team is led on offense by a trio of players with a nose for the goal, senior Brendon Cagney, junior All-America Shelby Lee and junior set Colin Stone. These three goal scoring machines will cause fits for opposing defenses. Junior Hayden Ward runs the defense from the two-meter line. He is backed up by a tag team of goalies, sophomore Jeffrey Stark and freshman Kyle Garwick. The biggest strength for Army Water Polo is its depth. Juniors Leonid Milman, Seth Nordell, and Cole Highum will be counted on in big moments throughout the season. The freshman and sophomores are also expected to have a big impact down the stretch. With a new coach and a crop of new talent, Army is ready for a great season.

University at Buffalo

As a second year member of the Collegiate Water Polo Association (CWPA), the University at Buffalo, now with a year under its belt, is ready for another try at winning the New York Division Championship. Hoping to improve upon its record and standing in the division with the help of the several returning players, Buffalo will also have a slew of new talent. The addition of the new players will bolster the efforts of the veterans. The team has great leadership from president Ben Harper along with many others as Buffalo hopes to form an offensive and defensive unit that is stronger than the one the squad fielded in the past several seasons. Further, the team expects Trenton Harper, Andy Hossenlopp and Rob Northem to be potential All-Conference breakout stars in 2016.

NORTH ATLANTIC DIVISION

Bates College

Bates College is excited to return to the pool this Fall and looks to improve on a Third Place finish in the North Atlantic Division last year.

Bowdoin College

Last year was a rebuilding year for Bowdoin College following the loss of multiple players who graduated and athletes who elected to focus exclusively on swimming. Following the loss of captains Chase

Hodge and John Lagasse, who were the Polar Bears' top scorers, the team will need to find new talent as returning star Peter Cohen injured his knee and is questionable for the season.

Colby College

Colby College continues to strengthen its water polo program after a 2-9 record in 2015. The Mules graduated four high-scoring shooters but will add a very strong class of eight freshmen. The team will rally around veterans Kerill O'Neill, returning senior Tyler Lewtan, St. Andrews transfer and captain John Kensinger, as well as top goalie Kyle Wong. Seniors Eliza Baker-Wacks, Eric Walton and Sava Petrovic provide key leadership in and out of the pool. Keep an eye out for senior Luki de la Cruz and junior John Devine who look to continue their excellence of finding back of the net given an inch of space or a perfect pass from point players Tenzin Choephel and Sara Pipernos. The sophomore class in particular is filled with fast-swimming hard shooters: Andrew DeStaebler, Joe Paluso, Travers Losert, Carter Garfield, Quin Davis, Sam Plishtin and Jacob Tower. Each and everyone of these youngsters have the ability to burn their defenders making for easy breakaway goals. Freshmen Emily Ambeliotis, Matt Jones, Lily Wilson, Wyatt Fritz, Catherine Nisbet, Alan Clymer, Harris Kim, Xander Geiersbach and John Cipollini look to make an immediate impact this season as they continue to develop their skills.

Saint Michael's College

Saint Michael's College was the underdog in the North Atlantic Division last season as the team was competing in its first season as part of the Collegiate Water Polo Association (CWPA). After last year's winless season, SMC practiced every week in order to improve and now have a drive that should score them a win in the upcoming season.

Tufts University

Tufts University will work to continue its success from last year and improve on a Second and Fifth Place finishes at the North Atlantic Division and Division III National Collegiate Club Championships, respectively. The Jumbos are hungry for more in 2016 as the six-time North Atlantic Division champions (1997, 1998, 2007, 2009, 2010, 2013) are poised to return to the top of the division standings and recapture the Division III National Championship for the first time since 2009.

University of Maine

This is the University of Maine's inaugural season in the Collegiate Water Polo Association (CWPA). Formed in October 2015, the team has been working on recruiting new members and building its organization. Possessing a few experienced athletes that have helped to shape the club and train Maine's new players, the majority of the squad will gain their first taste of intercollegiate competition. The new recruits have made great progress over the past year as the team expects to see a lot of good things out them as they continue to learn.

University of Vermont

Profile not available

State University is geared to make a run at three-peating in 2016 and punching its ticket back to the Men's National Collegiate Club Championship.

University of British Columbia

The University of British Columbia Thunderbirds are in their first year as a club as well as a member of the Collegiate Water Polo Association (CWPA). As a new team joining from Canada, the Thunderbirds are hoping to make a good impression in the league and set some high standards by which the club will be judged for years to come.

University of Oregon

An eight-time division champion (2004, 2005, 2007, 2008, 2010, 2011, 2012, 2013) since 2004, the University of Oregon Ducks are arguably the most successful team in the Northwest Division over the past decade. A strong core of juniors and sophomore will combine with a versatile senior class to help the Ducks once again control the Northwest Division.

University of Washington (Wash.)

A seven-time Northwest Division champion (1998, 1999, 2000, 2001, 2002, 2006, 2009), the University of Washington looks to contend for the league title again this year after a successful 2015 season. Washington boasted a 7-1 record in 2015 with its lone loss coming in the Northwest Division title game. Hoping to take it all this year is an active team, led by the wisdom of senior Matt Burkey. Supporting him is a robust crew of sophomore talent, including returning players Kyle Lawrence, Liam Naughton, Eli D'Albora and standout Mark Moshofsky, who was awarded Second Team All-Conference honors as a freshman. This year the Huskies look to their younger players to bring a fast tempo and fill the gaps left by their graduating class. Set Grant Dunaway, who also earned Second Team All-Conference honors last season, will be missed on the offensive side of the pool, while the charisma and inspiration brought by leaders Joey Dascomb and Ben Byers will be irreplaceable. Nonetheless, the Huskies hope to take home the championship this year, and represent the Northwest at the National Collegiate Club Championship set to be hosted the University of Notre Dame.

Washington State University

Washington State University is aiming to make a run for the title with a new group of very talented freshmen. Returning to the team are Arlen Hughes, Ryder DeSteunder, Shawyon Jaffarbhoy, Sage Galbreath and Macartney Mcquery, all who hope to lead the young team in the pool. The team features very promising players who have a passion and love for the sport. With many great shooters and swimmers on the team, WSU plans to run a high tempo offense with powerful performance.

Western Washington University

A small team, Western Washington University returns for a fourth year after the team was rebuilt by its dedicated players in 2013. The Vikings are determined to keep the club strong at the school and improve their standing in the division to hopefully capture the Northwest title. Western Washington will discover new strengths, develop new skills, conquer new obstacles and give it all they have at every game for the spirit of success is theirs in 2016.

NORTHWEST DIVISION

Oregon State University

The 2003, 2014 and 2015 Northwest Division Champion, Oregon

PACIFIC COAST DIVISION

California Polytechnic State University

Success is not the norm for the California Polytechnic State University Mustangs, it is a requirement of historic proportions. A five-time National (1999, 2001, 2002, 2004, 2007) and nine-time Pacific Coast Division (1998, 2000, 2001, 2002, 2003, 2004, 2006, 2007, 2008) Champion, the Mustangs' are once again looking strong this year. The team seems more united than ever with the talent, skill and drive to reclaim what has been missing from San Luis Obispo since 2007 - the National Collegiate Club Championship.

California State University-Long Beach

California State University-Long Beach begins its fourth year in the Pacific Coast Division. After finishing in Fifth (2013), Sixth (2014) and First (2015) Place at the conclusion of their inaugural seasons, Long Beach State is projected to have great success once again in 2016. This team is stocked with many players who have beyond four years of water polo experience. By utilizing these vital resources, the team expects to rise to the occasion and rate as a contender in the division race.

California State University-Northridge

A fourth-year program, California State University-Northridge comes into this season in the rebuilding phase. As of last season, the team had four seniors graduate who were the core of the team. CSUN is hoping to continuously improve its placement in the division thanks to some new additions. The greatest improvement Northridge will need to make is on defense as the majority of the squad's core defensemen do not return for the 2016 campaign.

University of California-Los Angeles

The 2009, 2010 and 2012 National Collegiate Club Champions, the Bruins of the University of California-Los Angeles are one of the leading contenders to contend for the 2016 title. Despite notable losses of Jake Romanas and Dominic Lucido, UCLA returns to the pool for the 2016 season with tons of returning talent. On offense, UCLA will rely heavily on returner Jim Wiley, coming in fresh for his senior year after spending last fall in Washington D.C. Complementing Wiley on offense will be junior utility Rishabh Hedge, senior attacker Cade Montgomery and senior attacker Chris (Noble) Robertson, all three of whom were among the leading scorers for the Bruins in the 2015 season. At two-meters, commanding big man Luka Kosanin will continue to be a major threat from the center of the UCLA attack. Defensively, the Bruins will depend on captain Austin Fagrell and senior standout Kevin Stangl at two-meter defense and in facilitating the growth of other players. Protecting the goal will be junior Philippe Tran, coming off sensational play in the 2015 season and ready to frustrate shooters even more in 2016. UCLA's depth will be a key to their success in the upcoming season. The Bruins hope to see awesome play out of Ryan Isola, Coby Larinde, Dan Coolidge, Chris Moreno, Nathan Danielsen and Spencer Cutrow.

University of California-Riverside

The University of California-Riverside will compete in the collegiate club ranks for the first time in the school's history. Looking to start the season off strong, the Highlanders are relying on their previous water polo knowledge to help give them an edge in the water. UC-Riverside's biggest problem will be the lack of experience in the league, however, they hope to get a feel for the competition after the first few games. One advantage for UC-Riverside is familiarity as the program is comprised of the same teammates that first joined the club when it began two years ago. They hope to use their team chemistry to gain an advantage during game time competition. In addition, the team is adding a some promising players from the new incoming freshman class. The Highlanders will also look to rely on their transfer players with community college water polo backgrounds for leadership and performance.

University of California-Santa Barbara "A"

The Gauchos of the University of California-Santa Barbara "A" come back to the water polo scene this year more excited and ready to play than ever before. Following a Second Place finish in the Pacific Coast Division last season, the team hopes there is nothing that will stop UC-Santa Barbara from achieving its goal - to win the National Collegiate Club Championship.

University of California-Santa Barbara "B"

The only team in the Pacific Coast Division to field a "B" team, the University of California-Santa Barbara will use its extra squad to spread playing time and build even tighter bonds between players as they progress in their careers.

University of Southern California

The 2011 and 2012 National Collegiate Club Champions, the University of Southern California Trojans have placed Third, Seventh and Fifth in the Pacific Coast Division over the past three seasons. However, USC is ready to return to the forefront of the division as the Trojans "Fight On" for their third National Championship.

Colorado School of Mines

The Colorado School of Mines is having a large expansion year. A major focus for the team is teaching the game of water polo to people who have never played before. Colorado Mines is looking to build on their success from last year. With several new freshman and a travel team that has played together for a couple years, they are anticipating an exciting and challenging season.

Colorado State University

In its second year as a competitive sports club in the Collegiate Water Polo Association (CWPA), Colorado State University is in a critical stage as a team. The team lost a few players this past year, but has promising talent coming out to compete on the roster in 2016. Last year was a growing year for the program as it was the first year that the club relaunched, and the Rams are looking to expand upon their previous successes to make a run for the Rocky Mountain Division title.

Northern Arizona University

2016 marks Northern Arizona University's first year in the league and as a team. The Lumberjacks have put together a strong group of athletes who are looking to make an impact in the league. Northern Arizona is led by junior Corey Brooks who was a CIF Division 4 Champion in 2013 while attending Los Osos High School in Rancho Cucamonga, Calif.

University of Colorado "A"

This year the University of Colorado "A" team looks to continue its success of the past two years and win the Rocky Mountain Division Championship for the third year in a row. After graduating a large class, the Buffs have some work ahead of them. However, with alumni Billy Tiff and Darin Weltsch coaching, the team should be in good hands. Even though many players graduated, Colorado still has many season veterans on the team, including attacker Jordan Wensley and Nick Miller who in their 4th and 5th year on the team, respectively. Lefty Landon Carr is back for his third year after graduating in the Spring and returning for his Masters Degree. The team is looking forward to this season and what it brings and are excited to host the conference championships at their home pool in Thornton, Colo.

University of Colorado "B"

The University of Colorado "B" team will attempt to move up in the division standings and battle the Colorado "A" team for the division crown in 2016.

University of Denver

In the wake of a Sixth Place finish in the Rocky Mountain Division last season, the University of Denver will focus on developing its younger talent in 2016. An exceptionally strong sophomore class makes the Pioneers confident they can improve on last year's mark. Rocky Mountain Division Most Valuable Player Cole Pollina as well as Arist Sher-Jan, Will DeLany and Joshua Cole lead the sophomore class. Other key players include Jeff Lee and Andy Stockinger, as well as goalie and president Will Buchman who returns after missing last season due to study abroad.

University of New Mexico

Profile not available

University of Utah

An eight-time division runner-up (Rocky Mountain - 2008, 2010, 2011, 2013, 2015 / Southwest - 2003, 2004, 2005) and three-time champion (Rocky Mountain - 2007, 2009, 2012), the University of Utah will look to rebound after a Second Place finish in the Rocky Mountain ranks during 2015. The Utes return with a very strong roster led by head coach Tom Taylor. There are quite a few returning players who continued working throughout the year to be ready for this upcoming season. In addition, an infusion of young blood will revitalize Utah's title hopes as the team is poised to battle the nation's best for the penultimate club championship. The greatest asset that Utah has this Fall is an ability to swim down the opponents.

The team has placed an increased importance on swimming and leg drills. The Utes also have their returning goalies to stand guard in the cage.

University of Wyoming

The Cowboys of the University of Wyoming are gunning to contend as one of the best teams in the Rocky Mountain Division. Head coach Caroline Young led Wyoming to a best ever Third Place mark last year. Unfortunately, key components to last year's success such as All-America selection James Kiefer and star player Adam Kalms have retired from the game. However, returning players such as All-America pick Alex Vass, Gage Stroman, Kyle McCurley, Rebekah Cass and Jacob Kepler should prove tough to handle in the division. Incoming talent includes Jason Wahab, who is sure to make an immediate impact on the team's stingy defense. Entering its fifth season as a collegiate club, the team is learning not just to rebuild but to reload for another run at the Rocky Mountain Division crown.

California State University-Chico

Coming off a Third place finish in 2015 after back-to-back runner-up marks in 2013 and 2014, the California State University-Chico Wildcats hope to make it back to the Sierra Pacific Division Championship game in the 2016 season. Returning seniors and Captains, Matthew Buckingham and Connor Thompson lead the 'Cats in and out of the pool as they strive to achieve Chico State's first ever bid to the National Collegiate Club Championship.

California State University-Maritime Academy

On the heels of a Fifth Place finish in the Sierra Pacific Division in 2015, California State University-Maritime Academy enters the 2016 season with high hopes for a successful season. The roster includes seven seniors as the team returns six starters, including Second Team All-Conference center Connor McDonald and standout junior goalie Gaetano Antonellis. For a team that struggled scoring in 2015, the Keelhaulers will look to seniors Sean Barlow, Ruben Saucedo, McDonald and Zach Francey to guide the attack with junior Derek Sultz, sophomore Mana Robello and transfer Aldric Terral all looking to infuse some more scoring punch. Antonellis will anchor the defensive end in the cage with Terral and seniors Andrew Butler and Matt Berman defending in front of him.

San Jose State University

The Spartans of San Jose State University set their sights on finishing high in the standings this year. SJSU will be led by new captains Jonathan Sotelo and Ryan Lewin, and has a very different squad than last year. Other returners include Taylor Franklin and Thomas Rieber, who look to have repeat performances and keep San Jose State in the title hunt all season.

Stanford University

Entering the program's 10th season as a part of the collegiate club ranks, the Cardinal of Stanford University is firing on all cylinders after back-to-back Sixth Place finishes in the Sierra Pacific Division in 2014 and 2015.

University of California-Berkeley

The 2012 National Collegiate Club Championship runner-up and four-time defending Sierra Pacific Division Champions (2012, 2013, 2014, 2015), the University of California Golden Bears look forward to another great season with the goal of once again making the National Collegiate Club Championship tournament. Led by team captain and Collegiate Water Polo Association (CWPA) National Player of the Year Max Schell, the Bears return with six seniors and three graduate students, including First Team All-American picks Taylor Wingard (goalie) and Douglas Greer (center defender). Augmented with seven freshmen and looking to become the first Sierra Pacific Division team to win the National Championship, Cal is coached by Stephen Ambrose, a California graduate (class of 2014) and a former Division I and collegiate club player for the Golden Bears.

University of California-Davis "A"

The University of California-Davis will seek another strong year in the Sierra Pacific Division. Hungry for a league championship after being beat out by the University of California in overtime during the league championship match in 2015 for the program's first berth in a title tilt since placing second in the Pacific Coast Division during the 2006 and 2007 seasons, the Aggies will lean on their top scorers/seniors Connor Ryan and Keone Carrigan. UC-Davis also has a strong set of returning juniors in guard Micah Marmorstein, all-around player Evan Rhee and Dayne Barton. The Aggies retained a number of sophomores who have been working hard and are ready to take on the division. The prospective freshmen will be sure to add to the Aggies' lineup and help gear them up for competing for the league title.

University of California-Davis "B"

The University of California-Davis "B" team will provide a proving ground for the Aggies' future "A" team stars.

University of California-Merced

The newest member of the Sierra Pacific Division, the University of California-Merced is geared up to have a fun a season in its second year as a member of the Collegiate Water Polo Association (CWPA).

University of California-Santa Cruz

The Banana Slugs of the University of California-Santa Cruz will be a strong force this year with new leadership from senior Matthew Gonzalez giving the team an entirely new energy. Returning players will be the strongpoint of this team as they look to be competitive in their league. Thanks to new coach Gunther Gettlefinger bringing a new style of play, Cruz Polo will be a force to reckoned with long into the future.

Auburn University

Auburn University hopes to build on the success they had last year. With the addition of a new coach Page Remillard, and after a much improved 2015-2016 season the Tigers are looking to the goal scoring of Kyle Johnson and the much improved play of their goalie Tyler Gattis to make a run deep in the Southeast Division Championship tournament.

Clemson University

In the wake of a Seventh (2013, 2015) and Fifth (2014) Place finishes in the Southeast Division over the past three seasons, Clemson is hoping to become a more formidable team in order to compete for a berth to the National Collegiate Club Championship.

Emory University

In their seventh year back in the league, the Emory University Eagles seek to exceed last year's Sixth Place mark in the Southeast Division, rebuild their roster and notch a .500 mark or better in 2016.

Georgia College & State University

A first year program from one of the flourishing hotbeds of East Coast water polo, Georgia College & State University will strive to acquire experience in the program's inaugural season as a member of the Collegiate Water Polo Association (CWPA).

Georgia Institute of Technology

The 2012 Southeast Division runner-up to Vanderbilt University, the Yellow Jackets of the Georgia Institute of Technology (Georgia Tech) finished in Third Place (2013, 2014) prior to earning a Second Place mark behind the University of Georgia in 2015. A six-time Southeast Division champion (2002, 2003, 2007, 2008, 2009, 2011), the Yellow Jackets look forward to the upcoming season due to returning all but one of the squad's starting six from 2015. New head coach Nikolay Pero promotes an aggressive and quick offense that should help Georgia Tech fight and wreck their competition to get to the top of the Southeast Division standings. Goalie Alex Ulrich takes the lead on the defensive front for the third consecutive year.

The offensive initiative is led by captain Mark Gross and senior Cavan Hayes. The team's bench is deep and full of talent which will help the Jackets compete at their full potential.

University of Georgia

The University of Georgia has high hopes for the 2016 season as the Bulldogs bring back plenty of talent from the squad's 2015 Southeast Division Championship roster. The Dawgs look to be in good position to contend for the program's fourth Southeast Division Championship after previously taking home title plaques in 2010 and 2013.

University of Tennessee

The University of Tennessee Volunteers head into the season with a single goal of capturing the division championship title. While the Vols graduated a large number of seniors, recruitment has been strong and will allow the team to rebuild itself from the ground up. A strong focus on fundamentals along with an emphasis on sportsmanship has turned a once-depleted reserve of players into a formidable opponent with a strong team spirit and a determined play style.

Vanderbilt University

A two-time champion (2012, 2014), Vanderbilt University returns from an absence-ridden and injury-marked 2015 campaign the saw the Commodors finish in Second Place during the regular season and in Third Place at the Southeast Division Championship tournament. Vanderbilt will mix a strong group of veterans and a large class of freshman under the leadership of captains Michael Gilliland and Matthew Bedard.

Arizona State University

In the aftermath of a Fourth Place finish in the Southwest Division last year, Arizona State University will strive for the program's fifth title following previous Rocky Mountain (2011, 2013) and Southwest (2008, 2010) crowns.

San Diego State University

The two-time reigning Pacific Coast Division Champion and National Collegiate Club Championship runner-up, San Diego State University is looking at having its best year since the program's establishment in 2007. The Aztecs lost a few key players to graduation but will still have the core of their team back for another go at capturing the National Collegiate Club Championship. A strong freshman class joins the program along with a few transfer students as the Aztecs are on track for another great season.

University of Arizona

Among the most successful programs in collegiate club water polo since the mid-1990's and the most dominating team in the history of the Southwest Division, the University of Arizona holds 11 championships (Southwest - 1996, 1997, 1999, 2000, 2002, 2003, 2004, 2005, 2006, 2007, 2009) and has appeared in 17 title games (Southwest Runner-Up - 1998, 2001, 2008, 2010, 2015; Rocky Mountain-2012).

University of California-Irvine

Following a two-year absence from league competition, the Anteaters of the University of California-Irvine returned to the Pacific Coast Division two years back after the club's reestablishment in 2014.

UC-Irvine looks to rise in the standings this year after strengthening its core under the watchful eye of head coach Alec Follmer. New additions John Jackson and Paul Bibas bring experience and leadership to the team. Nick Cecchi, Andrew Shutt and John Higgins aim to close out their senior year seasons on top of the Southwest Division. Goalie Brandon Boehme-Decew returns ready to lead the defense for the Anteaters.

University of California-San Diego

In the wake of a Third Place finish at the 2015 Southwest Division Championship, the Tritons of the University of California-San Diego are gearing up for another tough season. After losing close games and coming just short of a national championship tournament appearance the past two seasons, the Tritons are putting in the work to have a different outcome this season. Graduating only a couple players, the team is very experienced and team chemistry is at an all-time high. All of the Tritons have come together through the adversity of the past couple seasons and are ready to make the 2016 season one to remember with the intent of reaching a division title game for the first time since a 2011 Pacific Coast Division berth.

University of San Diego

Thanks to an influx of talented freshmen, the University of San Diego is on the verge of competing for the Southwest Division title. Last year was a growth season which focused on getting old players back into the game. The emergence of Darius Tenorio at the center defender position and Rio Barnes in cage should help San Diego rate as one of the division's best by the concluding weekend of the season.

Baylor University

Injecting both youth and diversity, Baylor University looks to take a new stance in the Texas Division. Goals and expectations are high as talented younger players mesh with a core of experienced returners to provide a unique talent. The talent is there for Baylor to have the best team to date so far.

Louisiana State University

The first team from the state of Louisiana in the Collegiate Water Polo Association (CWPA) in several years, Louisiana State University embarks on its fourth season in the league after finishing seventh (2012), sixth (2013) and fourth (2015) after not competing at the 2014 Texas Division Championship tournament. LSU returns a handful of starters and has strong upperclassman leadership. This year's team will rely heavily on veterans Ridge Porter, Nate Cannon, Jake Braun, and Evan Jarrell who are all threats from anywhere in the pool. Jarrell also brings experience between the pipes.

Oklahoma State University

Oklahoma State University joins the Texas Division excited for the opportunity to travel and be part of the league.

Rice University

After finishing in Sixth Place during the Texas Division regular season in 2014, Rice University will rely on new talent and experienced veterans to compete against the best-of the-best in the Lone Star State. Thanks to a deeper pool of talent and more experience, the Owls of Rice are poised to move up the standings to contend for a spot among the Texas Division's elite.

Texas A&M University "A"

Texas A&M University hopes to continue its past success as the Aggies won the Texas Division in back-to-back seasons (2007, 2008) and qualified for four consecutive division title games (2007, 2008, 2009, 2010) prior to finishing second last year (2015) behind 10-time division champion the University of Texas.

Texas A&M University "A"

Texas A&M University will field a "B" team in 2016 to permit additional playing opportunities for the Aggies' vast roster.

Texas State University

On the heels of runner-up (2014) and Third Place (2013, 2015) finishes in the Texas Division, the Bobcats of Texas State University retained all but one of its players from last year to remain a championship contender.

Texas Tech University

Texas Tech University, which finished Seventh in the Texas Division last year, will work to reclaim the division championship for the first time since 2011. The nine returning players continue to work hard to get the newcomers physically and mentally up to speed. Among the nine returning players, five started in 2015.

University of Houston

Following back-to-back Fifth Place finishes in the Texas Division over the past two seasons, the majority of the University of Houston's starters have graduated. However, many promising recruits have come out to infuse the Cougars with new vigor and thoughts of a championship run.

University of Texas "A"

The 2003, 2004, 2005, 2006, 2009, 2010, 2012, 2013, 2014 and 2015 Texas Division champions, the Longhorns of the University of Texas boasts a strong and diverse club water polo team that combines playing styles from all around the state and nation. Led by veteran goalie Stefan Grasu and perimeter player Kyle Rathgeb, UT's defensive presence is felt by all. Evan Grimes and Cooper Raterink interchange at the center position, efficiently scoring with force and accuracy. The superior perimeter shooting ability of Forrest Austin opens up additional opportunities for outside scoring, further diversifying the team's offensive strategy. In addition to the seven starters, UT possesses a deep bench roster, with players like Mitch Tomazin, Wade Munger and Aaron Ebeweber, who are ready to enter the pool and play with the same ferocity as the starting crew. The two secondary goalies, Gus Cocchiarella and Joey Romano, also possess an uncanny talent for blocking the ball, and will make teams work hard to score. The Texas roster also includes many up and coming players like David Schwarz, Jacob Watson, Iliya Sabzevari and Han Chen who have been preparing to accept a larger role on the team and help Texas make it back to the National Collegiate Club title game for the first time since 2010.

University of Texas "B"

The University of Texas will field a "B" team for additional playing opportunities and more experience for the program's younger athletes.
