

UNDERSTANDING THE GAME OF WATER POLO

Water Polo can be a confusing game for spectators. The whistle is constantly blowing and the play never stops, even when someone is ejected for a penalty. In addition, there are many misconceptions about the game, including how the players keep their horses swimming. Well hang in there, because the following information should help to make the picture much clearer.

General Information

1. Each team has six field players and a goalie.
2. Field players can only use one hand to touch the ball, goalies two.
3. Games consist of 7-minute quarters for club divisions, 8-minute quarters for varsity divisions.
4. The object of the game is to score by placing the ball completely in the goal. Players may move the ball by swimming or passing.
5. Teams may substitute after a goal is scored, during a time-out or during the play from the ejection area.
6. Each team receives three time-outs and one 20-second time-out per game.
7. Shots blocked out of bounds by defensive players result in the defensive team receiving possession. If a defender uses two hands to block a shot, the offensive team receives a penalty shot.

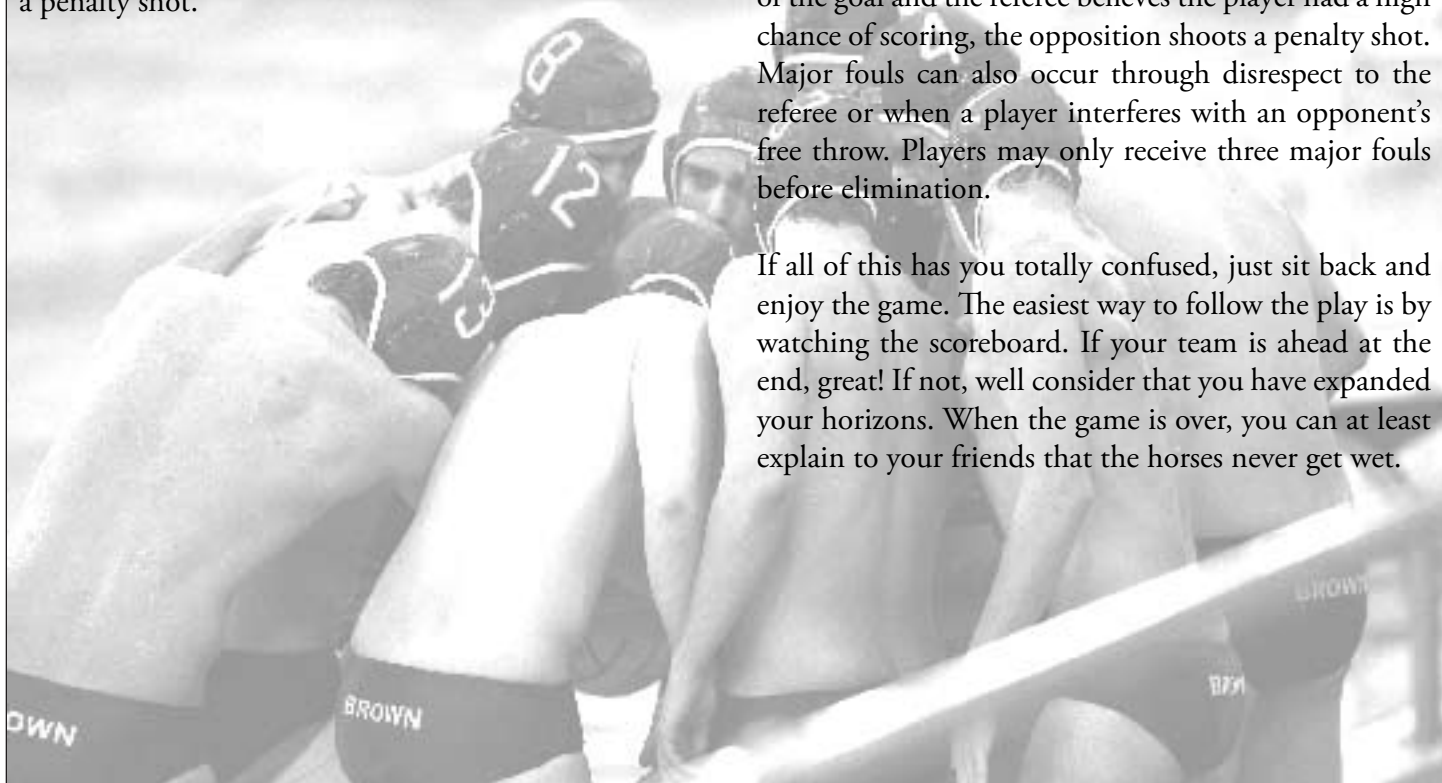

Fouls

When an infraction of the rules occurs, the referee will point in the direction of the team taking possession, while blowing his whistle. The ball is put back into play with an action called a free throw. This means the player gets three seconds of free time to throw the ball to another teammate or swim it up the pool. A player cannot shoot his free throw unless outside the five-meter line. If the ball is not put into play within three seconds, the other team takes possession.

Fouls can be ordinary or major. Ordinary fouls are best understood as minor fouls. For example, a defender may reach over an opponent's back to get at the ball while facing away from the goal. The penalty for an ordinary foul is a free throw for the opposing team.

Major fouls are more severe and are penalized accordingly. For example, when a defender fouls an opponent too aggressively, or from behind when the opponent is facing the goal, the defender is ejected for 20 seconds (players may reenter the game if their team recovers the ball before the ejection time is up, or if the opposing team scores). When the foul occurs within five meters of the goal and the referee believes the player had a high chance of scoring, the opposition shoots a penalty shot. Major fouls can also occur through disrespect to the referee or when a player interferes with an opponent's free throw. Players may only receive three major fouls before elimination.

If all of this has you totally confused, just sit back and enjoy the game. The easiest way to follow the play is by watching the scoreboard. If your team is ahead at the end, great! If not, well consider that you have expanded your horizons. When the game is over, you can at least explain to your friends that the horses never get wet.

CWPA Sportsmanship Statement

The CWPA and the NCAA promote good sportsmanship by student-athletes, coaches and spectators. We request your cooperation by supporting the participants and officials in a positive manner. Profanity, racial or sexist comments, or other intimidating actions directed at the officials, student-athletes, coaches or team representatives will not be tolerated and are grounds for removal from the site of competition. Also, consumption or possession of alcoholic beverages and tobacco products is prohibited.

Affiliate Organizations

There are many organizations affiliated with the sport of water polo and the landscape can be somewhat confusing when trying to sort out which entity offers what services. To make matters a little easier to understand, the organizations can be divided into two basic groups: scholastic and non scholastic. The scholastic organizations are those that have some affiliation with the educational system. These include college, high school, junior college, and middle school teams, as well as their respective administrative bodies that offer competitive leagues and support. In this category you would find state sanctioning organizations, the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA), the National Association for Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA), and the collegiate conferences recognized by the NCAA or NAIA. Each organization operates independently with its own governing structure.

The NCAA and the NAIA are two organizations that serve a unique position. They each provide a supervisory role for their member schools. The colleges and universities that are members of each respective organization choose to establish and follow a set of guidelines that govern competition. Specifically, these guidelines include eligibility, academic progress for their student-athletes, competitive rules, championship guidelines, recruiting, and financial aid.

Schools that become members of one of these organizations agree to abide by the rules and principles established within the organization. The NCAA and NAIA only provide oversight for the varsity teams on campus, not the collegiate clubs.

Schools that become members of one of these organizations agree to abide by the rules and principles established within the organization. The NCAA and NAIA only provide oversight for the varsity teams on campus, not the collegiate clubs.

In addition to the NCAA and NAIA there are conference structures that operate for the purpose of arranging competition for their member institutions. Some conferences like the Big East or ACC handle several sports, while others like the CWPA handle just one sport. With respect to water polo, all collegiate clubs that play competitively are members of either the Big Ten or the CWPA conferences. To understand the difference between the conferences and the NCAA or NAIA, think of the conferences on a smaller scale performing similar functions for their member institutions. The conferences work with the NCAA and NAIA to help provide competitive opportunities and services, yet they still remain independent organizations with their own governing systems and budgets.

Non scholastic organizations include all other entities that offer the opportunity for people to be involved in the sport outside of an educational institution. These include YMCA's, Boys & Girls Clubs, township programs, parks and recreation programs, privately organized water polo clubs, and independent organizations like American Water Polo. United States Water Polo fits under this category as well, serving as the National Governing Body for the sport. They are also responsible for supporting and training an Olympic Team for men and women.

For more information about any specific organization, contact the CWPA office at 610-277-6787.

History of the CWPA

The Collegiate Water Polo Association originally began as the Mid Atlantic Conference, founded by Dick Russell (Bucknell University swimming & water polo coach) in the 1970's. Its founding membership included teams from Maryland, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and New York.

The leadership and management of the organization relied on volunteer coaches until 1990, when it hired a commissioner to perform basic scheduling for the 15 member teams. Officiating assignments at the time were performed by an independent organization called the Eastern Water Polo Referees Association (EWPPA).

The next major milestone occurred in 1993, when the Southern and New England Conferences merged into the Mid Atlantic. The new structure combined all of the varsity teams in the East, along with the few sport clubs in existence at that time.

During the 1995 season, the conference received its first major challenge, as the organization experienced a strike by its officiating core. This strike resulted in the organization establishing its own officiating bureau, assuming responsibility for all of its assignments. The conference hired Tere Ma as its inaugural Director of Officials and Loren Bertocci as its first Technical Director to lay the groundwork for the Officiating Bureau that exists today.

Over the years, the Association has undergone dramatic changes:

1970's	The Mid Atlantic Conference is founded by Dick Russell.	2002	Texas Division added for men and women. Membership increases to 122 men's teams and 80 women's teams
1990	The conference hires a commissioner to manage the league administration.
1993	The New England and Southern Conferences merge into the Mid Atlantic. The conference changes its name to the Eastern Water Polo Association. Thirty-nine club and varsity teams participate in the new structure.	2003	Men's Florida Division added. Men's Great Lakes Division added. Men's Midwest Division renamed the Ohio Valley Division. CWPA formalizes internship program and hires two full-time interns. Membership increases to 124 men's teams and 91 women's teams totaling 215.
1994	The Association adds women's teams to its membership. Total membership equals 55 teams.
1995	The conference ends its relationship with the Eastern Water Polo Referees Association and establishes its own officiating bureau. Tere Ma hired as the inaugural Director of Officials and Loren Bertocci hired as the first Technical Director. Men's Midwest division is added. Club championships are separated by division Membership increases to 82 teams.	2004	Men's New England and North Atlantic Divisions realigned. Men's Division II Eastern Championship established. Membership steadies at 120 men's teams and 95 women's teams totaling 215. Office moves headquarters to Bridgeport after 13 years in Norristown.
1996	Women's Midwest Division is added. Men's Southwest Division is added. Men's New York Division separates into regions to accommodate growth. Eastern Water Polo Association changes its name to Collegiate Water Polo Association to reflect the geographic representation of its membership. Membership rises to 95 teams.	2005	Women's varsity teams realign to form Northern, Northeastern, Southern and Western Divisions. Men's Florida Division teams merge into Southeast Division. Men's Great Plains Division splits forming Great Plains and Missouri Valley Divisions. Student Athlete Advisory Committee established for the conference. Membership grows to 126 men's teams and 98 women's teams totaling 224.
1997	Women's Southwest Division is added. Women's Northern Division splits into New York and New England Divisions. Great Lakes Division is added. Men's New England Division splits to North Atlantic and New England Divisions. Membership reaches 110 teams.	2006	Six women's varsity teams leave to join the Metro Atlantic Athletic Conference and receive an automatic bid to the NCAA Championship. Teams realign to form Northern, Western and Southern Divisions. Women's Atlantic and North Atlantic Divisions added. Women's National Collegiate Club Championship expands to 16 teams.
1998	Northwest men and women's divisions added Men's Pacific Coast Division added. Membership includes 40 women's teams and 97 men's teams, totaling 137.
1999	Women's Pacific Coast Division added. Midwest Women's Division reinstated. Men's Great Lakes Division changes its name to the Heartland Division. Men's Great Plains Division added. Membership increases to 52 women's teams and 107 men's teams totaling 159.	2007	Women's Atlantic Division merges with the Mid Atlantic Division. Men's Ohio Valley Division members join Great Lakes and Missouri Valley Divisions. Technical Committee established within Officiating Bureau with Andy Takata, Ed Reed and Russ Yarworth named as inaugural members. Membership grows to 138 men's and 96 women's teams, totaling 234 teams.
2000	Men's Southeast Division added. Men's Atlantic Division added. Membership increases to 54 women's teams and 121 men's teams totaling 175.
2001	Women's varsity and club programs separate competitively. Women's varsity teams form Northern and Southern Divisions. Women's Southeast Division added.
			Women's Great Lakes Division splits, creating the Ohio Valley Division. Women's Pacific Coast Division splits, adding the Sierra Pacific Division. Online education begins for the first time. Men's Southwest Division splits, forming Rocky Mountain Division. Men's Southeast Division Splits, re-establishing the Florida Division. Men's New England and North Atlantic Divisions realigned. Membership grows to 145 men's and 103 women's teams, totaling 248 teams.

COMPETITIVE FORMAT

The Collegiate Water Polo Association is divided into two classes, varsity and sport club. Each class of membership is then divided into divisions based on geography.

Varsity Class

Northern Division

Teams play a single round robin schedule within the division to determine regular season rankings. All teams attend the division championship, with the seeding determined by the won/loss records during the season.

Southern Division

Teams play double round robin schedule within their respective regions (east or west) to determine seeding for the championship, in which everyone attends.

The top four teams from each division championship move on to the Eastern Championship. The first place team at the Eastern Championship qualifies for the NCAA National Championship in December.

Sport Club Class

Teams are divided into divisions, based on geography. The top team from each division championship qualifies for either the National Collegiate Club Championship or the Division III National Collegiate Club Championship.

Atlantic Division

Teams play a single round robin schedule within their region and then a crossover event where they compete against four of the five teams from the opposite region. The four opponents in this instance are selected at random. All teams attend the championship tournament, with seeding based on the regular season won/loss records.

Florida Division

Teams play double round robin over two weekends. All teams attend the championship, with teams seeded according to the regular season won/loss records.

Great Lakes Division

Teams play four opponents drawn at random during the first weekend to seed for the championship. All teams attend the championship tournament, with seeding based on the regular season won/loss records.

Great Plains Division

Teams play double round robin over two weekends. All teams attend the championship, with teams seeded according to the regular season won/loss records.

Heartland Division

Teams play a single round robin schedule over two weekends with additional seeding games drawn at random. All teams attend the championship tournament, with seeding based on the regular season won/loss records.

Mid Atlantic Division

Teams play a single round robin schedule with additional games drawn at random within their regions. All teams attend the championship tournament. Seeding at the championship alternates between the regions, with the first seed awarded to the region that won the prior season (western) in 2006. During the championship, the top three teams from each region will compete for places 1st through 6th and the bottom three in each region will compete for 7th through 12th.

Missouri Valley Division

Teams play a single round robin schedule over two weekends with additional seeding games drawn at random. All teams attend the championship tournament, with seeding based on the regular season won/loss records.

New England Division

Teams play a single round robin schedule over two weekends with additional seeding games drawn at random. All teams attend the championship tournament, with seeding based on the regular season won/loss records.

New York Division

Teams play a single round robin schedule within their region (east or west) and then a crossover event where they compete against four of the teams from the opposite region. The four opponents in this instance are selected at random. All teams attend the championship tournament, with seeding based on the regular season won/loss records.

North Atlantic Division

Teams play a single round robin schedule over two weekends with additional games drawn at random. All teams attend the championship, with seeding based on won/loss records.

Northwest Division

Teams play a single round robin schedule over two weekends with additional games drawn at random. All teams attend the championship, with seeding based on won/loss records.

Pacific Coast Division

Teams play eight opponents drawn at random over two weekends. All teams attend the championship tournament, with seeding based on the regular season won/loss records. During the championship, the top eight teams compete for places first through eighth. The remaining teams compete for places ninth through thirteenth.

Rocky Mountain Division

Teams play a single round robin schedule over two weekends with additional seeding games drawn at random. All teams attend the championship tournament, with seeding based on the regular season won/loss records.

Southeast Division

Teams play double round robin over two weekends. All teams attend the championship, with teams seeded according to the regular season won/loss records.

Southwest Division

Teams play double round robin over two weekends. All teams attend the championship, with teams seeded according to the regular season won/loss records.

Texas Division

Teams play a single round robin schedule over two weekends with additional seeding games drawn at random. All teams attend the championship tournament, with seeding based on the regular season won/loss records.

Tie Breaker System - All Situations

If at any time two teams are tied in record or in goal differentials as you walk through the tie breaker system below, the result of their head-to-head competition breaks the tie.

Tie Breaker System - Two Teams

If the teams each beat one another, the goal differential in their games is used to break the tie. If the goal differential in their contests against one another is the same, the total of goals scored against each other is used. If the total of goals scored between the teams is equal, the differential for all common opponents seeded higher is used. If no common opponents are seeded higher, the goal differential against the highest seeded common opponent is used.

Tie Breaker System - Three or More Teams (for seeding championships)

If more than two teams are tied in won/loss records, goal differentials among the teams tied serves as the tiebreaker. If two teams are tied in goal differentials, head-to-head competition breaks the tie. If the goal differential in their contests against one another for all teams is the same, the total of goals scored against each other is used. If the total of goals scored between the teams is equal, the goal differential between common opponents seeded higher will be used to determine ranking. This may require averaging the goal differential per game if the number of games between common opponents is unequal. Should teams be tied in won/loss record and they have not played each other, goal differentials against common opponents that are seeded above them are used. If no common opponents are seeded higher, the goal differential against the highest seeded common opponent is used.

Tie Breaker System-Three or More Teams (for advancement w/in championships)

If more than two teams are tied in won/loss records, goal differentials among the teams tied serves as the tiebreaker. If the goal differential in their contests against one another is the same, the total of goals scored against each other is used. If the total of goals scored between the teams is equal, their original seeding will serve as the tiebreaker. If the totals are tied at any time between two of the three teams, the tie is broken by their head-to-head result.

Goal Differential

Goal differential is a term used to describe the difference between goals scored against an opponent and the number of goals scored by an opponent against a particular team.

VARSITY TEAM PROFILES

NORTHERN DIVISION

Brown University

Brown University comes into the season looking to build on last year's success, which saw the Bears climb as high as 19th in the national Top 20 poll and finish fifth at Easterns. After graduating just two seniors the Bears' major change will be outside the pool rather than in it, as new Head Coach Felix Mercado comes over from MIT and will look to build on the success of the departed Jason Gall, who was 39-31 in three seasons at Brown. The Bears return their top four goal-scorers from last season, including ACWPC Honorable Mention All-America selection Mike Gartner, who lead the team with 2.4 goals per game from the center forward position after missing the first 14 games with an injury. Also returning are Gartner's fellow juniors Grant LeBeau and Hank Weintraub, who were first and third on the team with 68 and 47 goals, respectively. Senior Gerrit Adams, who was second on the team with 53 goals, remains one of the top two-meter defenders in the East, while sophomore goalkeeper Kent Holland will look to build on his strong rookie campaign. Sophomore Zach Levko (33 goals) and junior Nico Fort (29 goals) will again play important roles in the rotation, while senior Alex Robb and junior Jerry Wolf Duff-Sellers compete for playing time. Freshmen Corey Schwartz, Brandon Yoshimura, Kevin White, and Gordon Hood could all compete for playing time in their rookie seasons as well.

Connecticut College

Connecticut College fields a thinner squad in 2007 after graduating six players and losing two more for the season to academic pursuits. What remains is a leaner, more physical group of young players who will have to work hard, and work together, to improve on a 2006 season that hit historic highs for the young CC program. Seniors Dan O'Shea and Rene LaPlante look to be especially dangerous for the Camels as both are returning from international experiences and both are eager to end their careers on a high note. Juniors AJ Briccetti and Wright Scott-Kem will take on leadership roles in and out of the water to help their program along and classmate Nick Llewellyn will look to play more significant minutes as he returns from injury. Sophomores Connor Matzinger and Brendan Kempf will be asked to step up their play immediately and classmate Brian Sager has been away from the pool for a while but he too will have to play an important part if the Camels are to succeed. Incoming freshmen Matt Brown, Hahn Je and Brennan Hartigan will all be asked to dive right into the biggest benefit of the Connecticut College water polo experience—a contributing role, as they constitute 75% of the entire bench this year.

Fordham University

Coming off one of its most successful seasons in over 20 years, the 2007 Fordham University Water Polo Rams look to improve on the success of 2006 when finished the year with an 11-11-1 record, marking the first season Fordham has finished at .500 or better since the mid-1980s. Leading head coach Bill Harris' Fordham squad in 2007 will be junior Todd Conway, who was named First Team All-Northern Division by the Collegiate Water Polo Association. On the year, Conway led the Rams in goals (39), points (45), steals (33), and kickouts drawn (47) last season. Also back for the Rams is senior Taylor Landesman, who was second on the squad in scoring, netting 30 goals and adding 13 assists for 43 points along with senior Paul Shrewsbury, who was third in scoring, recording 19 goals and tying for the team lead with 19 assists for 38 points. Junior Luke Forand, who tied for the lead with 19 assists, returns providing the Rams some defense (24 steals) along with his offense. Junior Tim Will returns to man the goal for the Rams in 2007 after leading the squad last fall with 195 saves, while posting 43 steals and eight assists. Based on current available records, his 195 saves were the second most by a Fordham player behind only P.J. Toolan, who had 207 saves in 2003.

Harvard University

Despite nine freshmen and sophomores on a roster of 16, this year's Harvard University men's water polo team will be looking to not only gain experience, but compete for a Northern Division championship. The Crimson will have extra incentive this year to advance to the Eastern Division Championship as Blodgett Pool will play host to the eight-team field on November 15-17. The biggest challenge of the new season will be replacing league all-star Michael Garcia as a game-changing lefty and team leader. Chris Ludwick, one of three seniors on this year's roster and a co-captain, contributed 25 goals and 17 assists, which was second best in both categories a year ago. Spencer Livingston also tallied 25 goals as a freshman. Senior co-captain Michael Byrd had 20 goals, fifth best on the team, and 13 assists, third best. Brian Kuczynski, the third senior, had eight goals and three assists. A major strength on the squad should be the goalkeeper position, with junior Jay Connolly having recorded 164 saves a year ago and establishing himself as one of the top keepers in the region. Connolly stepped up when called upon with and recorded a pair of 14-save games and one 13-save effort. Other team members who provided major contributions offensively were juniors David Tune (17 goals, eight assists), Both Egen Atkinson (11 goals, five assists) and Mitch Denti (five goals, three assists) had strong freshman campaigns and will be looked upon to contribute as members of a strong sophomore class. Newcomers Bret Voith, Jeff Lee, Alex Thompson, John Kolb and David deVries will add additional depth to the Crimson roster. Head coach Erik Farrar returns for his fourth season at the helm of Harvard with a 60-33 career record in men's competition. The head coach of both the men's and women's programs at the university, Farrar will guide the Crimson through a tough schedule as Harvard will face four preseason ranked opponents, all on the road, during the month of October as the team will meet #2 University of California-Berkeley, #11 University of California-Davis, #17 United States Air Force Academy and #13 Pacific University.

Iona College

The 2007 Iona Gaels will look to turn around last years under-achieving finish at the Northern Division Championships. The Gaels, 10-13 last year, will lose key veterans, however, they will thrive on young dominate talent and try to push the Gaels to win their first ever Northern Division title. Last year's captains Eric Nowakowski, Christopher Vidale, and Brett Settles paved the way for the Gaels and will be tough to replace. Nowakowski was named team MVP along with second team honors for all conference in the CWPA. Chris Vidale was the Gaels starting defensive two-meter, and provided strength and leadership that will be missed. The Gaels also lose a big part of their counter-attack in Brett Settles, however, he will join the coaching staff and will be alongside Coach Kelly in the Gaels' much anticipated season. This year the Gaels are led by seniors Mark Rich and Brendan Barrow, who look to lead the team in their hunt for their first Division Championship. Also helping to lead the hunt are returning players Patrick St. Cin, Ed Gronokowski, and Joseph Przekota. The Gaels will get another much needed boost with the return of junior Nick Velazquez who was injured in last year's season causing him to miss the Conference Championship. Przekota looks to follow up a fantastic freshman year in which he led the team with 50 goals, and 57 kick-outs drawn. St Cin, who was close behind with 45 goals last season, will look to give the Gaels a strong man-advantage offense this year. Also returning are junior Ed Gronkowski and sophomore Emre Edogan who contributed a combined 63 steals last year and will look to make the Gaels defense one of the best on the East Coast. Incoming freshman Seth Tasman, Chris Richards, and Drew Velazquez will look to provide strength to the growing offense and will fit nicely in Coach Brian Kelly's rotation. Joining them are freshmen goalie sensations Grant Kiessling and Eric Konzem, who will both be competing for the starting goalie position all season for the Gaels.

Massachusetts Institute of Technology

Under the direction of first-year head coach Adam Foley, MIT's water polo contingent enters the 2007 season eager to build upon the success that the program achieved last season, which included the Cardinal and Gray's third ever trip to the Eastern Championships. Foley, who was the 2003 Collegiate Water Polo Association (CWPA) Division III Player of the Year, will guide a young squad, as three-quarters of the team is comprised of freshmen and sophomores. Despite the relative youth of the Engineers, they return a number of last year's biggest contributors, including the team's top four goal scorers. Sophomores Devin Lewis (45 goals), Mark Artz (37 goals) and Rob Kalwarowsky (29 goals) will partner with junior Mike Smith-Bronstein (40 goals) to provide an extremely potent attack. Meanwhile, senior Morgan Laidlaw (14 goals) and junior Palmer Rosemond (12 goals) also return after notching double-digit goal-totals in 2006. Sophomore goalkeeper Nick Souza will once again serve as the backbone of Tech's defense, after the Culver City native recorded 220 saves over the course of his freshman season – good for the third-highest single season total in program history.

Queens College

Queens College comes into the 2007 season still rebuilding the program after placing fifth at the 2005 Northern Championship to fall one spot short of advancing to the Eastern Championship field at Princeton University. The Knights will look to the veteran leadership of seniors Gus Cordovil, Chris Goode, Jake McCommons and goalie Kory Wilson to guide the program back to the Eastern Championship tournament with a chance at an NCAA Tournament berth on the line. Junior Travis Martin and sophomore Boris Balkhiyen will also factor in the Knights' success, while freshmen as Gui Cordovil and Sergio Ramirez should contribute over the course of the season.

Saint Francis College

The 2007 season will be one of rebirth for the Terriers of Saint Francis College as the team will look to regain its position as the Eastern Champion after a disappointing third place finish at the Collegiate Water Polo Association's penultimate event a year ago. Last year, Saint Francis saw its dreams of back-to-back Eastern titles end in the Eastern semifinals as Princeton University scored with less than a minute left in the second overtime period to take an 11-10 victory in the event's semifinals. On the heels of a 22-5 record last year and the program's third ECAC title in as many years, the Terriers will look to recapture the magic of the 2005 season in which the team captured the Eastern, ECAC and CWPA Northern Division crowns with a 20-10 record and advanced to their first trip to the NCAA Men's Water Polo Final Four. Under the leadership of coaches Carl Quigley and Mikhail Klochkov, Saint Francis will turn to a corps of veteran players primed to regain their place at the top of the CWPA. Leading the charge will be seniors Misha Vasilchikov and two-time All-America selection Botond Szalma. Szalma has been a constant force in the CWPA over the last two seasons as he earned MVP honors at the 2005 Eastern tournament and was named to the 2005 and 2006 Eastern All-Tournament teams. However, there are holes to fill for the Terriers as goaltender Dusko Radovanac, Christopher McClure, Milos Vuksic, Benjamin Barnett, Andrija Vrdoljak and All-America selection Bogdan Petrovic were lost to graduation. A player to watch will be Filip Kisdobranski who returns for his second season of competition after earning CWPA Rookie of the Year honors.

SOUTHERN DIVISION, EASTERN REGION

Bucknell University

Bucknell will return two of its top three scorers from 2007 this fall as senior co-captains Jason Rechel and Kyle Roslyn will shoulder the offensive load. That duo combined for 77 goals and 135 points. Additionally, they had 74 total steals and drew 51 ejections. A total of five seniors and two juniors will give the Bison experience, although a handful of freshman are expected to challenge the veterans for playing time. Senior Luke Belenky was the starter in goal in every game last year and he is expected to challenge for that position again, although he will have competition from sophomore Nick Donahue, who made 12 saves in five games last year. Belenky recorded 176 saves and played more than 800 minutes. Josh Sunday, who had 23 goals, Gabriel Heiber, who totaled 24, and Randy Ang, who had nine goals in limited minutes as a freshman, should help out on the offensive end as well.

George Washington University

The George Washington men's water polo team continues to take strides in the right direction as witnessed by last year's 14-12 finish, which marked the program's first winning campaign in eight seasons and the third consecutive year the program increased its win total. However, with six starters and 13 letterwinners returning for 2007, ninth-year head coach Scott Reed is confident the Colonials can make a bigger leap to contend for a CWSA Eastern Championship title and a berth in the NCAA Championships. "Last season was a big step," said Reed. "We finished strong, narrowly missing Easterns, and are looking to build upon the experience and knowledge our returnees gained last fall. Offensively, this is the most talented team I've ever had, but the test will be in how the players complement each other's abilities." Despite losing top goal-scorer John Hornberger to graduation, Reed believes his lineup still boasts four potential 40-goal scorers in juniors David Zenk, Gustavo Canto and Nick Eddy and sophomore John-Claude Wright. Zenk is the Colonials top returning scorer with 94 points on 47 goals and 47 assists in 2006. Typically the fastest swimmer in the pool, Zenk set a school-record with 72 sprints won last fall and is on pace to break the career record in 2007. The starting defense remains intact with senior goalkeeper Chris Whittam and two-meter defense junior Sergei Shev back. Whittam excelled as the team's primary net-minder last season, finishing 11th in the nation with 226 saves to earn second team All-CWSA Southern Division honors.

Johns Hopkins University

The 2007 Johns Hopkins Blue Jays field possibly the most experienced team in program history. Hopkins lost just one starter to graduation and have six incoming freshman that will contribute immediately, led by John Barrett, Bennett Givens and Jeremy Selbst. This could be another very talented class of JHU freshmen. Co-captains Chris Hemmerle and Sean McCreery have been four-year starters and should provide strong leadership for this year's squad. McCreery and junior Peter Davis return as Division III All-Americans. McCreery was named First Team All-East last year as well as the Division III National Player of the Year for the second consecutive season. Juniors Chris Hutchens and Alex Bond anchor the Blue Jays defense with Hutchens leading from the cage. This year's schedule provides the Blue Jays with their toughest ever, starting off the first weekend with three top-15 Division I opponents including NCAA Champions Cal Berkeley.

Princeton University

Princeton reached both the Southern and Eastern Championship games in 2006, but both times fell just short to league foe Navy. Princeton will look to go one step farther and return both titles to DeNunzio Pool for the first time since Princeton was the Southern and Eastern champion in 2004. In order for the 2007 season to be a successful one, Princeton will call on a large group of underclassmen as the Tigers return just two players that saw action in all 26 games last season and four that played in 20 or more games. Princeton's leading returning scorer is junior Brendan Colgan, who scored 29 goals and added 18 assists for the Tigers last season. Joining him as returning players with 20 or more goals scored last season are senior Zach Beckmann, a 22-goal scorer a year ago, and sophomore Mark Zalewski, who scored 21 goals in his freshman season. Princeton returns all three of its goalkeepers, including senior Scott Syverson who carried the bulk of the workload a season ago. Syverson was 16-8 for the Tigers and made 181 saves in 24 games played. Along with 12 returning letterwinners, the Tigers will add five freshmen to the mix in 2007 and sport a 17-player roster.

United States Naval Academy

Head coach Mike Schofield isn't one to mix words when previewing the upcoming season. He usually tells it like it is, good or bad. That's why he speaks quite highly of his squad as it prepares for the 2007 season. "All eight of our seniors are in a position to accomplish as much as any class in Navy water polo history," said Schofield, who enters year 23 on the Yard with 488 career wins. He needs just 12 wins to reach 500, which would make him the second coach all-time at Navy to win 500 games at the school (Baseball's Joe Duff -- 595 wins in 32 years from 1962-93). The reason for the optimism is that Schofield welcomes back 14 letterwinners, while losing just three, off last year's squad that went 24-7 and earned the school's 12th NCAA Tournament bid. The Mids went 24-3 against teams ranked outside the top four in the country (USC, California, Stanford and UCLA) and were 19-1 against teams from the East. Leading the senior charge is a pair of returning NCAA All-America selections in Aaron Recko and George Naughton. Recko ended his year last year with third-team honors after scoring 89 points (70 g, 19 a). His 70 goals last year ranked ninth on the single-season list and were the second most for a Navy player since 1995. Naughton, who will serve as the team captain, earned honorable mention All-America accolades after stopping 267 shots - the second-highest single-season total in school history. Other key returnees from the senior class include Bram Arnold (57 g, 11 a), Andrew Bingham (4 g, 3 a), Eric Gardiner (14 g, 5 a), Tyler Hill (27 g, 13 a) and Reed MacKenzie (7 g, 5 a). The junior class, led by Mike Mulvey, also appears headed for a big year as well. Mulvey ranked second on the team last year with 82 points (44 g, 38 a), ranking seventh on the single-season assist list with 38. He was a member of the U.S. Junior National Team in the summer of 2006 and has played at a high level ever since his arrival at Navy two years ago. Chuck Baker also had a strong year in the pool, tallying 31 points (23 g, 8 a). Other key contributors will be John Connors (1 g, 6 a), Marek Malik (1 g, 2 a), Andrew Neuwirth (1 g, 4 a) and Dan Zoellick (6 g, 2 a). Of the sophomores, Kevin Bell saw the most action a year ago, appearing in 26 games and scoring 12 points (6 g, 6 a). Johnny Meiners was the only other freshman to play double-digit games, as he appeared in 19 games with nine points (7 g, 2 a). Zac Anderson and Joe Moffit also had outstanding summers and look to contribute as well. Navy will once again play one of the nation's most-difficult schedules. Last year's schedule consisted of 22-of-31 games against ranked foes, including seven games against the nation's top 12 teams.

SOUTHERN DIVISION, WESTERN REGION

Gannon University

Gannon begins one of its few rebuilding season after losing eight players, including four of its leading scorers from a year ago. With seven returning players, Gannon will have to rely on freshmen to step up and fill positions. The seven returning players form a solid nucleus for head coach Don Sherman. Despite rebuilding early, the Golden Knights still expect to contend for the Southern Division title. Paul Musille, Pat Mack, Zach Duskcas, and Brandon Thomas return as Gannon's leaders and will have the task of bringing the freshmen-laden team together if the program is going to continue to grow in 2007. The recruiting class looks to be one of the best overall ever to come to Gannon. The Golden Knights will look to counter attack with freshmen such as Greg Naranjo, John Stedding, John Krakowski and Mike Piper. Other newcomers who will immediately compete for playing time in the two-meter, two-meter defense and goalie include Demitri Simonoff, Alex Perez, Kevin Kuser, Ben Syme and David Villegas.

Mercyhurst College

Mercyhurst is coming off of its most successful season to date (12-8). A mix of veteran players and talented newcomers will provide a consistent threat to opposing teams. Leading the attack is 2006 Division II All-America Andrew Schonhoff. He finished last season with 54 goals and 18 assists on his way to setting Mercyhurst's career record for goals in just two seasons. Schonhoff's 72 points also tied the record for points in a season with Brad Armstrong, the only athletes in program history to be named first team All-America. Kevin Riordan once again broke the single season assists record with 37, while improving his school records for career assists (96) and career points (167). The Lakers' lineup will be filled with utility players who will contribute on both offense and defense. Returning starters Oscar Calderon and Jorge Montero are attempting to bounce back from shoulder injuries that shortened their 2006 seasons. Calderon will look to take back his season assists record while Montero will try to return to his freshman form when he had 40 goals and a school-record 40 steals. Key freshmen Alex Moggridge and Ryan Speers bring international experience and intensity that will help them compete for starting spots. Other new additions are transfers Ryan Holt and Alex Perry. Last fall, Perry earned Community College first team All-America honors and led the state of California in scoring with 129 goals. Holt is transferring from Slippery Rock University. Mercyhurst will have a much improved defense thanks to the addition of transfer Jake Coin and freshman Andy Sekulski. Sekulski will join Kyle Bogucki in competing for the starting goalie position. Trevor McIlwaine will also compete for a starting spot while firming up the defense, while Nathan Steiner and Ashton Ferrell round out this year's deep and talented roster.

Penn State Erie, The Behrend College

Leading the Lions of Penn State Behrend this season will be tri-captains Mitchell Dwelley, Anthony Spoto and Jacob Bernstein. Along with Spoto and Dwelley, the senior class of Rodolphe Acelor, Andre Prancevicius and Vincent Brewer should provide strong support. Brewer reutrn for his senior year after tallying 82 steals, 11 assists and 11 drawn kickouts. Ian Johnson will reutrn as a strong outside threat and the lone junior. Matt Pluta will be looked at as a strong sophomore two-meter defender, as strong offensive and defensive skills by fellow sophomores Bernstein, Jacob Guiher and Chris Munton should also help the team this season. Seven new faces will join the Behrend Lions and look to be strong threats offensively and defensively.

Salem International University

Salem International University rejoins the Collegiate Water Polo Association this year after the water polo and swimming programs were placed on hiatus following the 2005 season. In their last action, the Tigers held their own as part of the Eastern Region of the Southern Division and finished sixth at the 2005 Southern Division championship, but will look to move up in the standings and make an immediate impact in Salem's first year back in the league.

Washington & Jefferson College

Washington & Jefferson College will look to new leadership this year as the team will be led by first year head coach Vaughan Smith. Smith, who takes over for Bob Filander, comes to the Presidents' after spending two seasons as the head men's water polo coach at The Latin School of Chicago. A member of the Zimbabwe national swimming team which competed at the 1998 Summer Olympic Games in Seoul, South Korea, he will look to guide W&J to a new beginning as the team is coming off a 5-16 record, fourth place finish at the Division III Eastern Championship and an eighth place performance at the Southern Championship. Leading the charge will be seniors Mike Sneeringer, Brent Johnson, Joe Hamilton and Mike Adams. Hamilton should be the Presidents' go-to scorer this year as he enters the 2007 season with 94 goals and 53 assists in his career. Last season, he put up 31 goals and 21 assists to rank third on the team in scoring. A key to the season will be replacing Brian Train who graduated after registering 157 goals and 105 assists in his four-year career at W&J, including 44 goals and 39 assists with a team high 34 steals last season. In goal, Washington & Jefferson will have depth in the form of Andrew Wnuk, John Todd and Sneeringer. Wnuk grabbed a team-high 184 saves and 30 steals in 2006, while Todd made 17 stops with a .650 save percentage.

CWPA CLUB TEAM PROFILES

ATLANTIC DIVISION

Duke University

Duke looks to improve upon its second place finish in the 2006 Atlantic Division campaign in pursuit of its first ever division championship. Led by senior captains Brint Markle and Brian Pearson, the team's over 30 returning players will give the team a tremendous amount of depth and fuel its aggressive style of play on both sides of the ball. Offensive standouts Ryan Goldhahn and Charlie Neiman will initiate the offense on the counter attack, while Cliff Cummings and Jamie Friedland provide a threat from two meters in a half-court set. Will Garrigues, Ben Rothstein and Ersen Akici will bring versatile skill sets to the team and will be counted upon to provide key defensive stops. Junior Ted Belsches will anchor the team on defense, seeking to better his second team All-Conference effort earned after spending just three months learning his position.

Georgetown University

Georgetown University enters the 2007 season optimistic. Having lost only a handful of seniors, retaining a strong squad of juniors, and gaining some quality freshman talent, the team appears well equipped to again be a competitor in the Atlantic Division. The early tournaments will provide some unique challenges, but will force all the teams to get in the pool early and train aggressively. Georgetown is confident in its strength this year and will be fighting for the title at the Division Championships. Last year's third place finish was a disappointment, but the team is working to develop its offense further and tighten its defense.

James Madison University

The James Madison Dukes enter this season with confidence, having built up a strong team over the past few years. Senior and 2006 All-Conference selection Chip Severn leads JMU this year, flanked by fellow seniors Craig Whitchee, Robby Saady and Jesse Gibbs. The Dukes talent is augmented by the depth of their bench: juniors Kevin Zeiler, Matt Spencer and Thant Thein, as well as the dynamic duo of sophomores Andrew Dean and Dan Holden, all possess scoring ability.

Loyola College

Loyola will depend on its young talent heading into the 2007 season. Following a year in which half the team graduated, the program has big shoes to fill in order to have a competitive and successful year. The task becomes even more difficult with the loss of Coach Matt Reinhart from the team, last year's Coach of the Year, to other commitments. Under the leadership of seniors Gibbs Burke and captain Tim Snow, who led the team in scoring last year, the squad will lean on a group of dedicated sophomores. Lindsay O' Connor, Katelin Santhin, and Leesie Parry have all shown dedication in playing the game and are determined to expand the club further in the coming years. The addition of experienced freshmen, such as Josh Barnes, will tremendously aid Loyola in its efforts to achieve its first winning season. Loyola is excited about hosting the first water polo tournament on its campus.

North Carolina State University

North Carolina State hopes to continue its upward swing with the return of many key players. Starters Ryan Everett, Adam Gerken, Alex Paleocrassas, Matt Delellis and Ralph Abbey return along with other experienced players who hope to fill the void left by the loss of last year's seniors. The presence of the returning veteran players and a talented incoming freshmen class should help NC State return to the top of the Atlantic Division.

University of Maryland

The University of Maryland's new coaches, Glenn Boslego and Marissa Corwin, will lead the Terrapins into the season with hopes of capturing the division crown. Phil Wight, Dave McEnerney and Igor Shteynbuk, as well as goalie Roy Lyford-Pike, will lead the team on defense. Commanding the offense will be Michael Kellermann, Noah Abelson, Kevin Ford and Jon Meltz, who will bring cannon-like shots to Maryland's efforts. Justin Smith, Brenden Hanrahan, Nasos Papanikolaou and Joe Flores will also be big contributors this year.

University of North Carolina

North Carolina returns from a rebuilding year with the hope of returning to nationals for the first time since 2004. The Tarheels are led by two fourth year seniors, hole set/defender Andy Young and goalie Russell Parmele, and brings back a powerful squad of experienced players including Nick Zafiroopoulos, Jonathan Cowan, Andrew Busscher and Tommy Bastable. UNC has high hopes to bolster its team with help off the bench from younger players such as James Gladden, Brian Hunt, Anderson O'Brien Cox, Chris Wallace, George Hodgins and Adrian Randall. The Tarheels also have a strong incoming class led by John Hall, a two-meter set from Hawaii. Having lost their All-America star, Adrian Cummins, UNC will rely on its stifling defense and larger contributions from its field players in a more fluid offensive set.

University of Richmond

The Richmond Spiders are looking to improve upon their fourth place finish last year. Despite losing three seniors, including their two-meter and goaltender, the Spiders have a core group of young talent to build upon in 2007. Seniors Ryan Wentling, David Sylvia, Jay Mense and James Cartmell look to provide leadership, while underclassmen Kevin Hylinski, John Frey, Drew Trefsgar and Zac Dreyer round out the core members of this year's team. Gunnar Millier will provide a strong final line of defense in goal.

University of Virginia

Virginia comes into this fall with an experienced team, consisting of mostly graduate students and upperclassmen. The team will be lead by returning offensive veterans Dan Sunday, Alex Hawkins and Jeff Barry. The upperclass leadership is also filled in by Tommy Schaperkotter, Liam de los Reyes, Paul Kiehl and Caleb Euhus. The old squad is joined by new and experienced players John Kupstas, Tom Gaunt and Wes Mellow.

Virginia Polytechnic Institute & State University

The Virginia Tech Hokies enter the 2007 season after competing in their first ever Nationals tournament and winning the Atlantic Division Championship in 2006. Virginia Tech hopes to repeat last year's performance by once again getting back to basics and working hard in the practice pool.

FLORIDA DIVISION

Florida International University

The Florida International Panthers are looking forward to another strong showing this season after finishing on top of the Southeast Division and placing fifth at Nationals last year. The team lost one of its best players in Chris Arias, who will no longer be in the water for FIU, but will be helping from the sidelines as the team's assistant coach. Defensively, Theo Jenetopolous will be taking over as starting goaltender, allowing Alex Martinez to start in the field. Damien Martinez will be the primary defensive hole again this season. A new addition to the team, Alex Lipin, should prove to be a tough force in the offensive two-meter position. Returning starters ready to make an impact in the water again this year include Alex Mendoza, Andy Alvarez, Chase Vaughan and Danny Martinez. Other returning players include Alexis Luis, Brandon Murphy and Raul Echarte. The team has also added some more depth this season with Mario Mora, Alex Sergoff and J.D. Garcia.

University of Central Florida

Central Florida has a solid team coming back with a new team president that is dedicated to improving the standing of the UCF men's club team and contending for the Florida Division's title and berth to nationals.

University of Florida "A"

After a tough loss in the 2006 Conference Championship, the Gators of Florida look to rebound by trading in some of their expired talent for a stable of new stallions. Returning All-Conference field players Ryan Kamp, Javier Sierra and Patrick Topps look to set it and forget it to two classically trained two-meter sets, Lery Bonnin and Justin Oakes. Other full-time students looking to improve their abilities and contribute to the team in the cut-throat Florida Conference include international student Eisa Al-Nashmi and lob-shot specialist Craig Blocher. Jeff Davis and Brent Moser also plan to lead the Gators with their sharp bar-in shooting. Defense should not be a problem for the Gators when goalie Jarrod Bonsman builds his brick wall over the cage. Though the Gators were not ranked in the preseason Top 20 poll, the team looks to make waves by swamping the competition with an unprecedented combination of size and charm.

GREAT LAKES DIVISION

Ball State University

Ball State University comes into the 2007 season looking to build on the success that it had in 2006. Last year the team made huge gains and is looking forward to improving this year. To be able to improve from last year, Ball State as a team will have to overcome the loss of goalie Matt Hatoway. The team also lost Tommie Cuticchia who contributed eight goals last year and was a great defensive player.

For 2007, the team has three key players returning from last year. Daniel Miller returns for his fourth year and is the program's leading scorer, while Mark Serrao returns for his second year playing for Ball State but brings years of past experience along with him. The third returnee is Jon Cozart who has worked hard during the summer months to be more of an asset to the team. The whole team is looking forward to the 2007 season.

Grand Valley State University

Grand Valley State University comes into the 2007 season looking to avenge its National Championship defeat by Michigan State University. The team returns four starters from the national runner-up team, but the rest of the young team is hungry to prove they can step up and bring the National title back to the Collegiate Water Polo Association. Grand Valley looks to continue as a force in the Great Lakes Conference and National Championship picture.

Ohio University

After losing one senior and starting player, Ohio University looks to improve their record within the Great Lakes Division. Greg Jones and player/coach Pete Zien will control the perimeter shooting, while Hart Williams and Stephen Leow direct the two-meter play. In addition to the roster, Ohio is anticipating the return of graduate students Greg Jones and Matt Kittle as both provide balance to the offense. Maintaining the defense, Ohio looks to players such as Chuck Kilgore, Lucas Leighty and Brian Zaborski who have become fast and aggressive players while still holding room for improvement. The Bobcats bench is expected to grow due to a large and promising freshmen recruiting class as well as the level of commitment shown by the returning players.

Rose-Hulman Institute of Technology

Rose-Hulman joins the Collegiate Water Polo Association for its first year of competition in 2007. The #1 undergraduate engineering school in the country for the ninth year in a row, Rose-Hulman will look to match the institution's academic rigor in the water and make a run at a national championship tournament appearance. Founded during the 2004-2005 school year, Rose-Hulman's water polo team received full club status in 2006. The team is looking to gain experience and a source of competition this year as the program builds to winning the National Collegiate Club title.

University of Chicago

The University of Chicago Water Polo club is still in its early years, but the team is continuing to move forward after a successful inaugural season. With a majority of the team returning, the team hopes to build on their minor success last year after placing second at the Northern Illinois University Tournament this past spring. Returning players include European strongmen Balazs Szentes, Gustaf Bruze and Kristian Myrseth. Grinnell alum Brian Clites continues to dominate in the net, and third years Cyrus Shirzadi and Danny Urbina-McCarthy lend their experience and leadership to the Maroons. Major losses for Chicago are standout Peter Stavros, who graduated after the last academic year, and Andrew Kreek who is spending this academic year abroad. However, the remaining team's spirit is at an all time high and there is a strong desire to build on last year's season. There is a lot of aspiration in the Chicago camp this year and the team hopes to make a major impact in competitions.

University of Dayton

The Flyers of the University of Dayton come into 2007 with high hopes. After graduating only one starter the Flyers plan on making a run at the Great Lakes Conference. Dayton is an experienced team led by four seniors including fifth year Mike Melzak, drivers Chris del Campo Hartman and Chris Daues and goalie Mark Laubie. The Flyers also added former Chaminade University players Lance Takenaka and Brendan Blume to their starting roster. Juniors Tommy Shewchuck and Scott Hofmeister will be called upon for significant contributions as well as sophomores Mark Abram, Matt Patterson and Ben Beachler.

University of Notre Dame

Notre Dame looks to build on its National Championship berth last season. The Irish return a number of starters including Jon Kelly, Colin Dunn, Zhanwei Kaw, and Patrick Connors. Look for significant contributions from the underclassmen as well. The Irish are excited for the 2007 season and hope to earn a trip to the CWPA National tournament once again.

GREAT PLAINS DIVISION

Iowa State University

Profile not available

Marquette University

Marquette hopes to have a solid second year in the Collegiate Water Polo Association, building off a second place finish in the Great Plains division last year. The team returns all but one of its starters, but lost division Most Valuable Player Davor Mitrovic to graduation. The team's future is bright as Marquette received a huge boost, and most of its outstanding play from its freshmen a year ago. All-Division first teamers Billy Doerrer and Bob Conrath and second teamer Pat Jackson return to provide a firm foundation for a team looking to win its first division title and head to nationals. A key to Marquette's title hopes will reside on the deck as the team hired a new coach, 2006 graduate Martin Hopkins, who was a high school star in California.

University of Kansas

University of Minnesota

Coming off the most successful season in the club's history, the Minnesota Gopher's return to action in 2007 determined to return to the National Collegiate Club Championship. The Gopher's squad looks to be more experienced than ever, returning every player from last year's team except in goal. However, the team completed a successful spring season developing two young goalies in Robert Cacic and Jack Hellerstedt. Offensively, the Gophers will be led once again by All-America selection and potential Player of the Year Cyrus Jamnejad, along with Jake Wollensak, John Hoedeman, Gus Glaisner, Elvio Sadun and Dave Hamming. Defensively, the Gopher's will rely on All-America selection Don Kim's two-meter defense along with the stringent play of Chris Redman, Dennis Bebie and Jeff Remakel. Along with the returning starters, the Gopher's produced a promising class of freshmen including Gunner Stromquist-LeVoor, Matt Kuzma and Jonah Wagan.

Minnesota State University-Mankato

Minnesota Mankato will look to improve on a fifth place finish in the Great Plains Division a year ago. Leading the charge for the team will be Bram Olson, Marty Wahle, Bryce Bachman, Andrew Makepeace, Jose Rosales and Zac Ruczyki.

HEARTLAND DIVISION

Carleton College

After graduating few seniors last year, and training new deep-end goalie Jason Pipkin, the Knights are ready to take advantage of the building mode adopted last season. A powerful defense centered around Pipkin and veteran shallow-end goalie Seth Bowerr will be augmented by two-meter defenders Theo Sullivan and Ben Tompkins. The offense will take advantage of the flexibility offered by three competent players in the role of two-meter offense: Bret Jackson, Luke Dodd and Jason Bartlett.

Grinnell College

Grinnell is looking to dominate the Heartland Division following a building year. All of the Wild Turkeys' starters will be returning this year, led by division Most Valuable Player Ali Titiz and Coach of the Year Zach Wegermann. Returning from injuries will be Thor Kahn and Pat Blachly, ready to jump start the Wild Turkeys' offense and anchor the defense. Grinnell will look to its five All-Conference players to provide solid performances. Brian Smith will be returning to the net to frustrate shooters, while Patrick Thomas, Max Stephenson and Matt Hochstein all contribute at the perimeter.

Knox College

Knox is ready to start off a new season with some old faces. Although the team lost leaders Andy Prendergast, Kim Kreiling and Erin Vorenkamp, this season looks to be a strong one for the Prairie Fire. Junior Gary Novak and senior Lexie Kamerman, an All-America honorable mention player during the women's season, will lead the team with their strong shots. Senior John Baillie returns to the goal and the team plans to depend on the hard work of field players Aaron Barnett, Sara Dreiser, Christy Dechaine and Tony Meyer to round out a strong Knox team.

Macalester College

Macalester is hoping for a three-peat this year in the Heartland Division as the Scots hope to be in the thick of things this year. First Team All-America and 2005 Player of the Year Elad Rachevsky returns for his senior season and looks to cap off a stellar collegiate career. Rachevsky is not alone as fellow seniors Jared Rudolph and Murat Ilgen will bolster the stingy Mac defense. On the offensive side of the ball Tyson Morgan, Ramiro Nandez and Jeremy Glover will carry the load. In addition newcomer Jeff Yamashita and sophomore Jordan Cline will need to play key roles if the Scots are to earn a trip to St. Louis.

Monmouth College

The Monmouth Crab People join the Collegiate Water Polo Association for their first year of action. Led by senior Coach Kurt Niemeier and sophomore Joe Moran, Monmouth is expecting spectacular performances from new goalie Joe Schwinger.

Saint Mary's University

The Saint Mary's Cardinals water polo team returns in 2007 with the return of a promising line up. Team Most Valuable Player Bob Nibitz returns along side co-captain Brian Joyce, an All-Conference honoree last season. All-Conference Johnny Snipes also returns this season, while Jen Salzmman, Eric Hills, Steve Wieshalla, Matt Peyton and Tom Walsh make up the remainder of the Cardinals' solid line up. On the heels of a rough season last year with five rookies in the lineup, the Cardinals now possess experience and are ready to make a run at the Heartland crown.

Saint Johns University

MID-ATLANTIC DIVISION, EAST REGION

Drexel University

Drexel enters its first season of competition in the Mid-Atlantic Division with a group of young and ambitious players who make up a formidable team. In their first game last spring, the Dragons narrowly fell to Villanova University 8-7 as Drexel will look to make a run at the division title this fall. Paul Bonnevie, William Deck and Aaron Shrickler will see substantial playing time, while Drexel should be stable on defense with Hidayet Agaoglu and Ben Cambell on the two-meter line. Goalie Matt Shanaman will be the last line of defense for the Dragons to keep the team competitive.

Lehigh University

Lehigh is looking to rebound in the Mid-Atlantic after slipping from a school high fourth place finish in 2005 to seventh in 2006. The loss of seniors Eryn Gaul, John Kupstas and Claude Kershner will not make that task any easier. Luckily, the Mountain Hawks are not expecting to lose any team members at the conclusion of this year, allowing a solid starting team to develop for the next two years and soar through the division standings. Last year's goalie Thomas Boinot has grown into his position and his skills have continued to develop. Alex Seipp and Alex Jones will likely need to step up and fill in for the loss of Kupstas and Kershner, while returning veteran polo players Nicole Woormer and Nikolaos Papaioannou are expected to lend their experience and knowledge to freshmen Hunter Leese and Emilia Kubo. In addition, Libby DeFeo and Michael Fedorka both had excellent freshmen years, suggesting their sophomore year will be explosive. The young Mountain Hawks are expecting an excellent rebound season this year, so best be wary as polo season begins.

Millersville University

Millersville is looking at a fresh start as the squad's two captains from last year were lost to graduation. Returning veterans Sean Pyle, Thomas Wilt, Julie Rafalowski, Luis Salazar, Darlene Pattay, Danny Seddon, Kyle Clark, Royce Leon Hilsinger and Keith Sparano will guide a team primed to emerge as a leader in the Mid-Atlantic this year. The team will have additional talent during the season as the leaders intend to recruit new players to bolster the Marauders.

University of Delaware

The beginning of Delaware's third season finds the team short several of its founding players. This year's returning players look forward to another competitive season as they prepare to work with some promising newcomers, continue to develop skills and strategy and further build relationships with neighboring teams.

University of Pennsylvania

Profile not available

Villanova University

The Wildcats will be hard pressed this season to fill the gaps left by the loss of their two All-America stars, Tom Hallett and Rob Mida, as big questions must be answered at two-meters and in the cage. Sophomore Brent Green will need to mature quickly at set if the team is to be effective on offense. Likewise, Lloyd Masson will be the key to filling the void left by Hallett. A graduate student from La Canada, California, Masson played this winter for the Wildcats and was critical to the team's defensive play. Look for Danny Perez, Dave Rounce and Sean McEleney to be the mainstay of the team's defensive effort, especially at two-meters. Kevin Comber's speed will be the key to the team's counterattack and should fill some of the scoring lost to Mida's graduation. Additional players Chris McKay, Mike Mishik, and Matt Papson are expected to round out much of the offense for the squad. Inexperience will be a serious test for the Wildcats in 2007 as only five of the program's 25 players had competitive water polo backgrounds prior to college. Villanova's title shots will be dependent upon the players' ability to play together against more talented teams in the division.

MID-ATLANTIC DIVISION, WEST REGION

Bloomsburg University

Bloomsburg comes into the 2007 season with its most competitive attitude yet. Last year, the Huskies finished tenth in the Mid-Atlantic Division and will be working overtime to improve. Four starters return, including top scorers, senior Nick McGuinness and junior Dominick Paraschak, along with seniors Jim Evaninsky and Paul Brones. The Huskies will rely on the speed of junior Steve Withers and sophomore Dave Mancinelli to lead the counter-attacks. Senior Jim Toolan along with juniors Josh Chandler, Drew Osipower, and Lindsey Polacheck will see substantial playing time and will be expected to keep the Huskies competitive throughout the regular and postseasons.

Carnegie Mellon University

The Tartans of Carnegie Mellon enter the 2007 season with a strong core of returning players from last year and hope to continue their progress from the end of last season. Returning in goal is junior Alex Schlichting, who hopes to improve upon his first season in goal last year. Graduate student Jonathan Hurst, senior Matt Eager and captain junior Nik White also return to bring a core of experience to the Tartans. A large group of sophomores will comprise a large portion of the CMU team, with the notable returns of Steve Luminais, Christine Anderson and Fiona Cormack. However, while the squad hopes to improve upon last season, its main focus is to have fun hanging out as a team.

Grove City College

Grove City plans to continue building on last year's progress in which the program finished sixth at the Division III Club Nationals. The loss of four seniors, including both the starting two-meter offense and two-meter defense, will be sorely missed. The 14 returning players will be pressured to fill in the gaps and return Grove City to the top of the Division III ranks. Stepping up in both two-meter positions will be Tyler May. Drivers Ben Leach and the Larsen brothers, Peter and Lincoln, will also continue to lead the Wolverines' offense. At the defensive end, Grove City will look to four-year starter Jeremy Harbaugh and rising sophomore Matt Green.

Pennsylvania State University

Following a 4-4 season with a fifth place finish at the Mid Atlantic Division Championship in 2006, the Penn State Nittany Lions will look to return to championship form in 2007. While 2006 was a rebuilding year for PSU, the team now has experience and depth on its side as Penn State's strength will come from a veteran senior class and a very talented group of underclassmen. Look for the Lions to be solid in 2007, making another run for a championship and national tournament appearance.

University of Pittsburgh

Pitt is returning a solid core of young players which led the Panthers to a sixth place finish at the Mid-Atlantic tournament in the team's first season in the Collegiate Water Polo Association.

Slippery Rock University

The defending Mid-Atlantic Division champions, Slippery Rock University will enter the 2007 season looking to become the first team since Villanova University in 2003 and 2004 to repeat as division champion.

MISSOURI VALLEY DIVISION

Illinois State University

Illinois State University dives into the 2007 season by entering the Missouri Valley Conference for the first time. The Redbirds look to do well in conference play with several players returning from last year's squad and a few exciting newcomers. Newcomers to the team this year are transfer student Billy Carson (Cal Lutheran), Brain Natche and Nikki Nelson. Returning for the Redbirds are sophomores Danielle Soudan, Bryan Engnell, Nick Griffin, Nick Stercay and Bob Raggio. Juniors Doug Kruez, Ryan Lodes and Pat McKernin, and senior Tom Cooney will anchor the team as the team's experience should help Illinois State be competitive in its first season.

Lindenwood University "A"

Lindenwood enters the 2007 season in a rebuilding mode after taking the 2006 Division III championship courtesy an 8-6 victory over host Wesleyan University, and capturing the Missouri Valley title. This year the team will look to repeat as national champions at home when Lindenwood hosts the Division III Men's Collegiate Club Championship in St. Louis. The team will turn to 32 players to defend the crown, including an excellent freshmen class which includes five All-State players from Michigan, Missouri and Illinois.

Lindenwood University "B"

The 2007 season marks the fourth consecutive year that Lindenwood University will field both an "A" and a "B" team.

Miami University

Miami returns a very balanced team of seniors and sophomores, that are looking to build on last year's 10th place finish at nationals. The RedHawks only lost three starters from last year's squad. The team is led offensively by Jeff Cammon, Scott Keller, and Ross McConnell while the defence is anchored by the goalies Andy Stiebler, and new comer Jason Appelbaum. Miami is being coached by player Andy Stiebler who led the womens team to a tenth place finish this past spring. The team is working hard to make a run at conference and nationals.

Northern Illinois University

Northern Illinois lost three starters due to graduation since last year, but will return a strong core of their past team. The Huskies will be looking for big contributions from seniors Brad Donatille, Steve Michelau and Steve Hatcher. Junior Kevin Reeves will play a large role as well. The Huskies look for improvement in depth and stability through the contribution of their freshmen.

University of Illinois-Chicago

Illinois-Chicago is looking to win the Missouri Valley Division after a disappointing overtime loss to Lindenwood University in 2006. The young team looks to reduce mistakes and return to nationals as goalie Derrick Brace and stand out two-meter defender Marty Allen return for another run at the national title. Offensively, the team lost some shooters but bench players and new talent should more than replace the lost talent.

Washington University

Washington University expects an excellent year as the Bears performed well last season and almost no assets were lost. Kraig Young and Lewis Thomas will dominate the two-meter position both offensively and defensively, while Nathaniel Roman has accelerated his goal tending capabilities, and he will be an essential component of the Bear's defensive effort this season.

Western Illinois University

NEW ENGLAND DIVISION

Boston College

The Boston College Eagles look to make a big impact this year in a new league with a roster stocked full of talent. BC is led by the fast paced game of Ryan Moore and the shot accuracy of Justin Gibbs. Jaime Martz will continue to be a dominating presence in two-meter defense, along with Erin Cobb regulating on the perimeter. Moore's speed will be flanked by Paul Aguilera's ability to do the same. It should be an interesting year for the Eagles as they welcome in five freshmen before on-campus recruiting starts.

Boston University

The 2007 season marks is Boston University's second season, but its first in the CWPA since 1997. Coach Zachary Shufan and BU will continue to build a team that will rival the top teams in the region as the squad welcomes its second freshman class that should cement a dominant starting six that will carry over to the 2008 season. The team is composed mostly of sophomores and juniors and will lose only two graduating seniors this spring. After a disappointing premier season, the Terriers strive to establish themselves as fierce competitors and a force to be reckoned with in the New England Division.

Dartmouth College

Dartmouth looks to have a great season this year despite losing a few key players from last year's squad. Captains Neil Willis and Chris Knape look to lead a young but well-rounded team. Brothers Dan and Mike Bazlewics will anchor the team with their experience and skill. Seniors Peter Laidlaw and Drew Wenzel, who is moving out of the goal, will add speed to Dartmouth's traditionally quick attack. Goalie Kyle Finnegan seeks another successful season in the net as defensive leader Porter Diehl and Taylor Holt come back from injuries. A talented sophomore class will provide strength in set and agility outside.

University of Massachusetts

UMass looks to return after a six year absence from water polo. The Minutemen enter the league with high expectations from a new and inexperienced team. Looking to build off a strong base of competitive swimmers, many with college swimming experience, as well as several veteran water polo players from a variety of backgrounds, the Minutemen look to have a successful first year in the New England division of the CWPA. The athletes aspire to recreate the tradition of excellence that once defined UMass Water Polo.

Middlebury College

Middlebury looks to reclaim its title as league champions after placing third last season. Coaches Brian Goodwin and Tom McGinn continue to bring a wealth of national team-level experience and knowledge to show the team how to compete at the international level. Seniors Andrew Herzik, Matt Sullivan, and Satoshi Kido will continue to bring much needed leadership, experience and organization to the Middlebury team. Senior Robbie Burton returns to the team after training in Europe for the previous season, and senior Kuni Suzuki comes back to the team after recovering from a serious hand injury. The junior class is highlighted by Jamie Robins' strong defense and Kevin O'Rourke's fast counter offense. Sophomore Can Celebi and Chris Stonerook will be returning to the field, adding much needed skill and depth to the team. Meanwhile, sophomore Patrick Burton continues as goalie after showing promise at the end of last season. Freshman Mitch Tucker is a new addition to the team, adding more speed to the already strong Middlebury offense.

Wesleyan University

Wesleyan is poised to take on the competition in its new division this fall. Coming off last season which proved to be a year of immense improvement, the team will enter the 2007 season un-coached, sans the tutelage of former New England Coach of the Year Mac Clonan. This year the feisty young group will need more than just mistake-free water polo to achieve success; they will rely on returning All-America candidate two-meter man Andrew Jaycox. The 6-4, 215 pound sophomore goal machine lead the Cardinals in scoring last year and is ready to settle in as a recognized offensive force throughout the league. His offensive power will be complemented by the skilled veteran play of Erich Klothen and the speed and versatility of senior captain Mike Pepi. The team looks to develop the promising core of frosh it received last year. The sophomore group, deep in talent and athleticism, boasts rising stars such as Jae Lee, Dan Storms, Ry Arnoldi and Ryan Beck. Topped off by the arrival of an incoming freshman class of mythic proportions, the 2007 Wesleyan Cardinals are determined to continue its tradition of excellence.

Williams College

The Williams Ephs look to build on past years' successes after graduating only two seniors last year. Several players return from abroad to supplement the incoming freshmen, as the Ephs will field one of the deepest benches the team has seen in its history. Following a sixth place finish at the National Collegiate Club tournament last year, Williams seeks another bid despite a shake-up of the New England Division sure to add formidable regional adversaries. The Ephs will maintain their solid defense with returning seniors Sebastian Shterental at two-meter defense and co-captain Jeremy Doernberger covering the cage. Co-captain Mike Daub is sure to be an offensive powerhouse once again after his performance in 2006. Seniors Henry Felker, Dan Meyer and co-captain Alex Wentworth-Ping will bring experience and leadership that the team missed while they were abroad as juniors last year, and senior Jeff Lyon will continue to be a special offensive contributor. Junior David Lebovitz hopes to have a healthy season after breaking his thumb during play at Nationals last year, and the legs of juniors Tyler Bonewell and Regi Pereira will be needed to keep the team going through tough later quarters. A large class of rising sophomores, including Henry Blackford, Nick Herzik, Edwin Layng and Jose Martinez, will need to build on their strong first-year performances to truly be a presence on the team. The Ephs are hoping for a comparable class of incoming freshmen to maintain their place as New England champions and improve upon their finish at Nationals.

Yale University

After placing second in the New England Division last year, the Yale University Bulldogs return to the pool with a strong starting lineup, having lost only a few key players. Senior co-captains David Williams and Jason George and player-coach Paul Mittermiller are expected to spearhead the team's offensive attack with powerful moves out of set and precision shots from the perimeter. Last season, both George and Williams were honored as members of the All-Conference First Team, while Williams was also named Most Valuable Player of the division and chosen on the All-America second team. Backing up the Bulldog's on the defensive end is senior Paull Randt, who brings speed, agility and experience to the water. This year, with knowledgeable alumni coaching from deck and a deep bench, the Bulldogs hope to be highly competitive in the realms of both conference and national play.

NEW YORK DIVISION

Binghamton University

The Binghamton Bearcats look to 2007 with high hopes after one of the club's stronger seasons in recent years thanks to the efforts and commitments of a stellar rookie class in the 2006 campaign. The Bearcats returning, containing the club's leading goal scorer from last season, David Bohr, will look to fill the voids left on the team by losing a talented lot of players due to graduation and study aboard programs. This core of players, who will be greatly missed, include former co-president Jackie Minichiello and goalie Anton Deshchenko, among many others.

Colgate University

Colgate is primed to return to the top of the New York Division in 2007 after a mediocre finish in 2006. The Raiders will field a strong and well balanced team that aims to recapture the form that took it to three consecutive New York Division Championship games and advanced them to the National Championship Tournament on two of those occasions. Senior Captain J.J. Figueroa will lead the Raiders' offense with an accurate outside shot and a speedy counter attack. The offense also looks to receive an enormous boost from senior co-captain Michael Wooldridge and sophomore Kevin Williams who will share the two-meter man responsibilities. The solid Colgate defense will be anchored by sophomore goalie Steffan Pierre, while Figueroa will work to stymie the opposing two-meter man. A strong supporting cast including junior James Reutershan and sophomores Carl Ruggiero and Adam Weisbarth provide a tenacious defense that will be crucial to the team's success. Colgate also expects to receive immediate contributions from its new members, senior David McKenzie and freshmen Greg Reutershan and Jason Cohen, as it pursues another New York Division title.

Columbia University

Last season, Columbia University defeated the United States Military Academy on their home turf to capture the championship and make Columbia water polo history as the Lions earned a birth to Nationals. A solid returning lineup of dynamic talent, New York Division Coach of the Year Igor Samardzija and several new players that create a powerful frontline will help Columbia be stronger than ever and ready to take on whatever team comes its way. This season Columbia has one goal in mind: to be champions yet again. The Lions have a commanding offense lead by such players as co-captain Billy Martin and junior Alexi Shaw and a sturdy defense backed by junior Matt Rowen. Strong veteran players include juniors Prospero Herrera, Musa Kurdi and co-captain Joseph Matuk. Bolstered by the incoming talent, Columbia looks forward to the challenge of hard competition and another successful season in defense of their title. Although underestimated in the past, Columbia has a roster that proves it has grown into a prominent team. If last year's 8-0 season wasn't proof of this change, then only time will tell just how much of a bite these cats have.

Cornell University

Cornell comes into 2007 with a balanced and cohesive team. Led by captains Sam Elchert and Dan Patry, Cornell comes into the new season with strong junior and senior classes. Returning seniors include Derek West, Dan Willenborg and Manny Allende, with juniors Elchert, Dan Smith, Alex Casey, Jordan Garroway and Leif Ericksen back for another run at the New York crown. Alex Calderon is the only returning sophomore. The Big Red will seek to balance their offense with defensive strength, led by Calderon in goal.

New York University

After finishing fourth in the division and fifth at Division III nationals last year, the New York University Bobcats are looking to rebound in 2007. Led by their three returning All-Conference players John Barnett, Jeff Fine and Jason Spindler, and five returning starters, NYU looks to have a promising year in 2007. The offense will be anchored by the strong play of Barnett, and a combination of speed, veteran leadership and experience should make for a strong offensive presence. But the real strength of the Bobcats will be its defense. Led by its pair of two-meter defenders, Fine and junior Brett Garrison, plus returning goalie Adam Esparza, NYU will look to stymie and frustrate opposing offenses all season. Led by a solid, experienced core, and with the addition of a few promising newcomers, the Bobcats are poised to have a strong season and to take a run at the division title in 2007.

Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute

Rensselaer Polytechnic is entering its second year in the New York Division with a positive outlook. As a rookie team last year with a roster comprised mostly of freshmen and a new coach, RPI placed seventh in the Division III National tournament. This year, returning Coach Eric Bostard hopes to lead the more seasoned team to victory.

University of Rochester

Returning from a third place finish in the New York Division, the Rochester Yellowjackets aim to once again lead the Western Region and make a strong showing at the division championship. The 2007 squad will be led by several veteran players and bolstered by a large wave of sophomores hungry for playing time. Rochester's offense will rely on the leadership of John Liobe and the speed of Michael Hoffman. Adding to the sting of the Yellowjackets' offense will be newcomer and sharpshooter Andrea Zucchiatti. Rochester's defense will be anchored by Aaron DeWitt at two-meters and Adam Williamson in goal. Yellowjacket opponents should also watch out for the hidden talents of sophomores Patrick Messmer and Peter Yen, who are anxious to leave their mark on the competition.

Rochester Institute of Technology

Profile not available

State University of New York-Geneseo

SUNY-Geneseo will look to its veteran upper classmen to lead the team to a successful season in 2007. Returning to the team as seniors are captain Mike Baker, Dirk Keefe, Tim Picciott and Nick Watson. Also returning this year is sophomore Mike Lilienthal, who will step in as the team's full time goalie.

Syracuse University

Syracuse enters this season off an improved 2006 season, and with the loss of only two seniors, looks to be a major contender in the 2007 New York Division. The team is led by sophomores Spencer Raymond and Danny Barry, and by veteran scorers in senior Sam Ricketts and juniors Carl Murray and Paul Dawson. A solid, rounded team with a greater level of experience across the entire roster, Syracuse has aimed its sights high for the 2007 season.

United States Military Academy

The United States Military Academy water polo team is coming into the 2007 season with 10 returning players as well as 10 new faces. Among the returning players are the current captain Ted Boeddiker, All-America goalie Kyle Davis, Andrew Lee, Peter Kim and Andy Song. Last season, the Army team placed second in the New York Division, losing to Columbia in the finals. Although the team lost many seniors last year, the team has picked up an array of new talent who are ready to contribute to the team. Currently in a transition phase as the team lost a majority of its starters, Army will look to rebuild this year. Leading the team's defense is Davis, who had a break out season a year ago, while returning two-meter guards Ted Boeddiker and Andrew Lee will also contribute to USMA. On the offensive end, Andrew Lee provided a substantial amount of goals for the Army team last season and is expected to repeat his performance. Sophomore James Lowe began to play an active role on the offense in 2006 and is expected to have a break out season. Also with the addition of new team members, Steven Tangen and Harry Williams, the Army team is expected to add some speed to their offense.

NORTH ATLANTIC DIVISION

Amherst College

The 2007 season looks to be an exciting one for Amherst. Having recently joined the North Atlantic Division, the Yoho Penguins are looking forward to competing against a new and challenging set of opponents. While graduating few seniors and adding a promising group of freshmen and sophomores, the team is poised to perform well in their new division. Captains James Stanton and John Neff are looking forward to leading and shaping the team's plentiful raw talent. Rising sophomores Spencer Haight, Tad Homchick and Josh Glasser all show exceptional work ethic and beginning to tap their potential. In addition, hard-shooting Edward Prevatt, and speedsters Christian Witzke and Joe Scala add a layer of versatility that hasn't been seen for several seasons. The Yoho Penguins are led by an experienced core of seniors including Andrew Maslan, Marcella McClatchey, David Ullian and Stanton.

Bates College

Profile not available

Bowdoin College

The Bowdoin Polar Bears are excited for the North Atlantic Division where the new competition will lead to a refreshing 2007 season. Unfortunately, the team will be missing experienced players Mike Signolfi and Dave Swanson due to graduation and a study abroad semester, respectfully. Not fazed by their losses, the team will be courageously led by Jon Freedman's unparalleled goal keeping and Jim Bittl's pure speed. As seniors, Nick Alcorn, Kelsey Killmon and Mike Tillotson will set the standard for performance. Juniors Matt

Eshelman, Josh Kimball, Julia Lindsay, Melissa Locke and Ian Wadner together with sophomores Christina Fish, Matt Kuan, Sean Morris and Simon Ou will surely provide the breadth of talent for the team to make a competitive impact. The team hopes to recruit a strong freshman class in order to continue the Polar Bears' legacy in seasons to come.

Colby College

Colby finished the 2006 season ranked fourth in the North Atlantic Division. Following the graduation of their two top scorers Jabez Dewey and Ryan Adams, the Mules are looking to its upperclassmen and recruits to fill the offensive void. Given the depth and sheer size of the team the Mules won't have to look too far. All-Conference star Sam Wampler is poised to assert his dominance in hole set as the unbeatable duo of Andrew Peterson and goal master Kit Clark will continue to be the keystone of Colby's formidable defense. The versatility of team veterans Michael Finnerty, junior Zac Bloom and faculty member Kerrill O'Neill will solidify the starting lineup and are expected to significantly increase Colby's offensive prowess. Sophomores Reilly Taylor and David Hirsch will see ample playing time to contribute to the team depth. In all, the Colby Mules look to maintain their dominance in the reformed North Atlantic Division.

Trinity College

Trinity's team looks to be competitive in the North Atlantic Division following a few years of hiatus which primed the team to be ready to win.

Tufts University

Tufts hopes to improve on its third place finish at the Division III Club National Tournament as the majority of the Jumbos' 2006 team returns for another title run. Key offensive threats Pete Georgakakos and Matt Burke look to lead the attack, with two-meter set Ben Mitchell providing stability in the center and honing his skills under the tutelage of battle tested super-senior Eric Appelin. First year head coach James Longhurst will lead the team with his signature brand of in-your-face instruction. Goalie Hayden Reich will direct an unyielding defensive front with strong support from Loren Austin and Braulio Rivas. Senior captains Drew Curhan and Marshall Somers, along with Ryan Bouldin, will provide leadership for the growing team. Upcoming juniors Ben Moskowitz and Fritz Froelich look to improve on last year's performance. Highly touted prospects Mac Carlson, Matt Miller and Elaine Hoffman will look to wreak havoc on the opposition. The move to the North Atlantic looks to bode well for the Jumbos, who are hoping to return to their dynasty status that marked much of the 90's.

United States Coast Guard Academy

The United States Coast Guard Academy Bears are ready to attack their first season in the North Atlantic Division. Captains Lisa De Pace, Ian Campbell and Ashley Lerner are leading the hard charging team all ahead full. Returning to the starting line up are Doug Fallon, Bobby Brown, Nate Baladad, Ian Campbell, Tim Berry and goalie Ashley Lerner. The starting line up is supplemented by the addition of freshman Mark Tatara. The starting seven Bears are supported by a strong bench including many returning players.

University of Vermont

The Vermont squad looks forward to having another great season. This team has increased its win total every year since joining the league. Vermont finished their amazing last season with an upset win over Bowdoin College in the Championship and they enter the season with another strong team. They are led by the dynamic duo of Dan Harrington and Ian Sotzing. Harrington led the team last year in goals, assists and steals; while Sotzing is looking to finish off his Vermont polo career by putting up impressive numbers with his amazing skills. These two All-Conference winners will lead Vermont at the scoring end and strike fear into their opponents. With the addition of Bates transfer Josh Goldfarb, Vermont will be a scoring threat from any angle. After an incredible first year in goal, Joe Hardie will continue to dominate between the pipes. The team will also be faster in the water with converted sprinter Zack Ahrens doing the swim offs and leading the charge down the pool. Steve Addison's defense improved immensely last year and will continue to put pressure on the opposition's two-meter set. Juniors Sam Elinon and Will Bowen and Senior Callie Burgess will also see plenty of pool time and give the Catamounts a competitive edge.

NORTHWEST DIVISION

Central Washington University

Central Washington is looking to build its membership and success for the 2007 season. Though several players were lost to graduation, the season is looking bright due to returning contributors Sam Clark, Kris Hernandez, Patrick Monson and Stacey Rupert.

Oregon State University

The Oregon State Beavers have their goals set high for the 2007 season. Led by Erik Rottman, the Beavers return starters Jon Gabriel, Matt Viglione, Russell Rosenberg and Zeno Helm looking to secure a Northwest Division title and make a trip to the National Collegiate Club tournament. The loss of second leading scorer Zach Flippo will be a minor setback for the team. However, there are many motivated players this year capable of stepping up to fill that void. After a couple of years of rebuilding, all the pieces are finally in place with a core group of returning starters, the spring term recruitment of goalie David Trench and a group of incoming freshmen that show both talent and an interest in working hard.

University of Oregon

The success of this year's Oregon Ducks' squad is due to captains Peter Cromelin and Sam Schragger who have led the team with brute strength. The heart of this team lies in a group of seniors known as Eugene's Finest.

University of Portland

University of Washington "A"

The Washington Huskies are building on the success of the 2006 squad, which won the Northwest Division and placed eighth at Nationals. Having lost Kijel Carlson and David Myre to graduation, while Colin Sterling and Alex Turner will be unable to play due to injury and a study abroad semester, respectively, the Huskies will turn to a plethora of talent. Goalie and Northwest Division Most Valuable Player Tyler Farmer will anchor the defense for another year. The returning student/athletes will be responsible to reemerge as a solid, unified core. The Northwest Division will be as competitive as ever, with many experienced players and teams competing in 2007.

University of Washington "B"

Western Washington University

Western Washington comes into the season with several returning players and will look to improve. Miles Gilmore returns as the goalie with help from Michael Stephen-Mcrae and Danny Pellissier as the top scorers.

PACIFIC COAST DIVISION

California Polytechnic State University

Cal Poly enters the 2007 season ready for a strong result. After placing third at Nationals last year, the team is preparing for another run at a title. Poly will be led by 2006 Pacific Coast Conference Player of the Year Daniel Harris, and captains Josh Mix and Bobby Erzen. The Mustangs will look to bring pressure on both offense and defense this year with the addition of a few new players. On the defensive end, Shilling and Harris will anchor the two-meter position. Smillie, Mix, and Erzen will help lead the charge on offense, with Sigourney and Heinichen taking over at two-meters.

California State University-Chico

Chico State is looking at a solid set of junior and senior players to fill the starting lineup this year. Backed by great supporting players, and an influx of freshmen talent, the team will be looking to climb the league standings this year.

California State University-Fullerton

California State University-Maritime Academy

The Cal-Maritime Keelhaulers return for the 2007 season on the heels of perhaps their strongest performance as a club team. After finishing league play with a 6-2 record, a disappointing finish at the conference championships fuels the upcoming season with renewed energy. The Keelhaulers have added talented freshman to a group of experienced upper classmen to make another run at the conference championship. Cal Maritime returns five starters this year. CMA return's MVP Phil Spann, top scorer Sean Baptista, two-meter defense specialist Nick Beene, perimeter ace Peter Dorrance and goal keeper Steve Lafrenze, who with the best arm on the team will play the field and give incoming freshman sensation Ben Gomez a shot at keeping goal.

Fresno State University

The Fresno State Bulldogs are looking to build upon the strengths and skill already surrounding the team. As a strong junior class returns, the Bulldogs are looking to strengths such as Gabe Calderon, Julio Alvarez and Rick Martinez to put them in the running this season. Fresno State will also be welcoming other returning players as well as some new talent entering in the new class. Last year, Fresno State finished in the middle of the pack in the Pacific Coast Division but the Bulldogs are looking to start this season off in the right direction and take the Pacific title in 2007.

Saint Mary's College

The St. Mary's water polo team heads into the 2007 season with great upside. While graduating only one player from last season, key returning players Fareed Fityan and Michael Joyce look to lead their fellow Gaels to a successful season by inspiring team unity and bonding amongst the team members.

San Jose State University

San Jose State should be a team to watch this season, packed with a new coach, several veteran seniors and new transfers. UC San Diego graduate Serge Azarenok is now the new head coach of the Spartans. Transfers Chris Connelly, Nathan Brandon, Wes Gage, Dean Garcia and Justin Poole bring Junior College and other University experience to the table. There is also new talent from freshmen Goalie Collin McDonough who is a wall in front the cage. Second Team All-Conference players Michael Walters and Matt McElroy will be strong in their offensive roles.

Stanford University

A newcomer to the Collegiate Water Polo Association, Stanford enters its first year looking to make an immediate impact. The players are eager to return to the pool after many years of academics and land sports that cannot satiate the hunger to play water polo. Stanford does not know what to expect in terms of league play, but they do know they will be having fun.

University of California-Davis

UC-Davis is coming off a second place finish in the Pacific Coast Division in only its second year in the Collegiate Water Polo Association. UCD suffered some key personnel losses as first team All-America selection Kevin Meyer and third team pick Dave Banister are no longer on the roster. However, first team All-America goalie David Pursell and honorable mention All-America two-meter set Dylan Malot will anchor a team set to bring the National title back to California. In addition, UCD will see significant contributions from three-year player Scott Toback, Matt Crawford, Chris Cunningham, Will Medina, Eric Brenneman and Dan Main. Davis has many offensive threats, and with Pursell in the cage, they have the opportunity to be competitive in any game.

University of California-Los Angeles

Fresh off a fourth place finish in the Pacific Coast Division, UCLA has a very promising outlook for the upcoming season. The Bruins return each member of last year's team, including first team All-Conference two-meter set Andy Akers and second team All-Conference goalie Mike Stevenson, and the addition of several promising recruits. Ranked 13th in the country during the preseason, the UCLA program will use their "ice-water" mentality and undying determination to earn its second spot at nationals in hope of improving on a fourth place finish in the 2005 National Collegiate Club Tournament hosted at Williams College. Coached by team alumnus Douglas Merckel and UCLA law student John Wiener, the Bruins will practice the team play and focus instilled by 2005 and 2006 Coach of the Year Sam Bahkshandepour.

University of California-San Diego

University of California-Santa Barbara

The 2007 season will be UC-Santa Barbara's first year in the Collegiate Water Polo Association. The Gauchos are led by the strong play of senior co-captains Brian Featherstun and Riley Graetz, and sophomore two-meters Byron Markel. However, UCSB is a very deep team and will look for big performances from the likes of sophomore utility Chris Jergenson, senior driver Trevor Morgan and senior utility Lonya Brietel, among many others. Solid goal keeping is another staple of the Gauchos' program, with the rotation of Kyle Shobe, James Higgins and Chase Motley combining for over eight saves a game in the spring. The graduation of senior driver Frank

Hurd could be a drawback, but a strong incoming class of freshmen looks to fill the gaps left by Hurd's departure, as well as to bring new dimensions to a team that has the potential to surprise a lot of opponents in their inaugural season this fall.

University of Southern California

ROCKY MOUNTAIN DIVISION

Colorado School of Mines

As only half of its starting lineup from a year ago returns, the Colorado School of Mines is looking to try to raise another competitive team this year. Senior Dan Fletcher replaces Kris Davis in goal as the team will need to rebuild its defense. The addition of a few freshmen, and the return of a few junior and senior starters, should help CSM remain a competitive force in the league this year.

Colorado State University

Colorado State comes into the 2007 season with a host of young talent, having graduated only two seniors from the last season. CSU looks forward to showcasing the program's talent and hopes to find itself well-ranked in the new Rocky Mountain Division.

University of Colorado

The Colorado Buffaloes look to build off of a successful 2006 campaign. Lead by captains Clint Beall and Robert Gregg, the team is aiming for the title of the newly created Rocky Mountain Division. With the talent of the 2006 Southwest Player of the Year, Nick Engebretson, and a strong freshmen class, the Buffs are poised for an outstanding season. In addition to conference play, the team will compete in an invitational tournament hosted by UC-Davis in early October.

University of Denver

University of Utah

Utah had a great year for recruiting bringing some of the best players from the state to the team. Last year's overtime loss in the division semifinals fueled a strong desire to do better and make a trip to Nationals. The return of All-Conference players Justin Crump and Zac Smith show the strength and talent the team returns, but the addition of Sam Thomas, an All-America goalie, will be the key to Utah's title hopes.

University of Wyoming

Profile not available

Utah State University

Utah States's returning players have more experience than ever before and their new players bring a lot of depth and talent. The program has been growing and developing and this year will prove to be the best squad Utah State has had during the program's history.

SOUTHEAST DIVISION

Auburn University

After spending the off-season working on their fundamentals and gaining new talent, the Auburn Tigers look toward the 2007 season with high expectations. Returning to the field are Andrew Garrett, Joey Kirkpatrick, Patrick Gilday, Jimmy Hanson, John Holcomb and Brock Wilson with the addition of Ed Hoomalu at two-meter offense. Justin Washburn and Craig Millar will be competing for the starting goalie position. Also seeing considerable playing time will be Terrance Serna, Matt Stuckwisch, Mike Thompson, Josh Cropp and new recruits Joe Berry and Nathan Robinson. The men will also be joined by members from the women's team including Ali Greene, Zoe Russell, Ashley Whitaker, Erica Anderson and Brittany Presley.

Clemson University

Clemson returns almost all of its starters with several new and experienced players joining the team. Using a more aggressive approach to the game, with new plays and techniques, the team is excited to host its first tournament on September 29-30, and place high in the Southeast Division.

Georgia Institute of Technology

Profile not available

University of Georgia

Carrying momentum and experience from their first season in the CWPA, the University of Georgia Bulldogs are looking to have a breakout year. An exciting combination of experienced players will be bolstered by talented new members. Under the guidance of coach PF Gay, the Dawgs are eager to face the competition in the new Southeast Division and fight for the title in 2007.

University of Tennessee

The Tennessee Volunteers look to come off a year of rebuilding with a young, but well rounded, group of players. As 12 members of the Volunteers 2006 team return, Seth Frank and Chris Cox look to lead Tennessee to a good record in the Southeast. Also, the Vols will look to the experience of Dan Wallace, Franklin Curtis, Kate Parker and Katherine Bunton for advice and leadership. Goalie Patrick Quisser is coming off a 400+ save season and will continue to be a strong defensive force. The Vols expect to have a solid year of sharpening individual skills and strengthening team cohesion.

SOUTHWEST DIVISION

Arizona State University

The Arizona State Sun Devils are out for blood this year following a poor finish in the 2006 season. AJ Grucky, Lindsay Fraka and Matt Masters return to lead a very powerful sophomore class including All-America pick Wes Sjolholm. One thing is for sure, the Sun Devils are ready to dominate in their new division.

Northern Arizona University

Northern Arizona will look to overcome the loss of several key players and have a competitive season. Hawaiians Mike Fonseca and Adam Glickstein will be looked to often for their outside shots and play-making abilities. Two-meter offense will be a question mark this year but Dustin Hillard and Juan Linares return to the hole defense position. Goalie Zachary Brown will dive in for another year between the pipes.

University of Arizona "A"

The Arizona Wildcats are coming off a fourth place finish at Nationals last year and are looking to improve for the 2007 season as the 'Cats will host the 2007 National Tournament. Arizona will benefit from five returning seniors as well All-Conference player Alex Negronida. Additionally, the Wildcats' bench will be deep this year, with skilled players at every position in the pool. Arizona will welcome new leadership as Emily Schmit takes over as head coach for the 2007 season.

University of Arizona "B"

Profile not available

University of New Mexico

Led by 2006 Southwest Division first team player Corbin Plugge, and Noe Roybal, a former varsity player at Washington & Jefferson College, New Mexico is ready for a new season in its newly downsized division. Even though the division may have been downsized, the UNM squad is intimately aware of the talent they will face from Arizona and the rest of the teams in the Southwest. Expecting a season of serious play and rivalry, a deep line-up of veteran players and a wave of new interest should more than adequately represent the state of New Mexico in 2007.

TEXAS DIVISION

Baylor University

The Baylor Bears will undergo a rebuilding year with a large group of committed newcomers under the guidance of veterans Zach Gentry, David Hammack, Matt Martin, Jack Woodward, Greg Valentine, Andrej Pogribny and Philipp Pitchford. The Bears are looking to be a competitive force in the Texas Division and are ready to make their presence known in the pool.

Rice University

Rice enters the season with the strongest lineup in the history of its program, and will look to build on the program's breakout year in 2006. The Owls were defeated by The University of Texas in the Texas Division Championship game last year after Rice advanced through the semifinals courtesy an upset of second seed Texas A&M. This year's team will be built around a majority of returning starters, including seniors Nick Berendsen, Dean Burke and Andrew Helvenston. Expect to see lots of action from sophomore Bryant Chang, along with many experienced freshman. Rice has long anticipated the return this year of senior Nick Hambley, who sat out last season but was the Owls' leading scorer in 2005.

Texas A&M University

The Texas A&M Aggies are looking to bounce back from a very disappointing finish in 2006. Led by All-Conference players Brian Carey and Matt Davis, A&M will be looking for key contributions from a very talented freshman class. The Aggies will be returning two other starters beside Carey and Davis. Outside scorers Kyle Mendez and Brandon Lawver look to make even larger contributions to this growing team. A&M will work with its depth this year as Jake Smith, Blake Lavender, Thomas Carmine and Dustin Parker will see extended minutes in the hope of ousting defending division champion, the University of Texas.

Texas State University

Texas Tech University

The 2007 season will be Texas Tech's first year of competition in the CWPA. The Red Raiders made an impressive showing at the South by Southwest Tournament in Austin in the spring of 2007, placing seventh out of 12 in their first ever competition. Returning all of its players, the team plans on entering the Texas Division as a legitimate championship contender. Providing the core of the Red Raiders offense are John Cogliandro and Ryan Schurdell, while Lee Mazurek and Greg Preston should serve as threats from the outside. On the defensive end, junior David Preston intends to frustrate shooters as the team's goalie.

University of Houston

The Houston Cougars are looking to build on their momentum that has been growing over the past few years. With two new recruits from Clear Brook High School, they have a great balance of fresh enthusiasm and the leadership of several returning upperclassmen to take the team further than it has ever been before in the program's fifth CWPA season.

University of Texas

The Longhorns of Texas are looking forward to another strong year in which the team will again capture the division and improve on its seventh place finish at the 2006 National Collegiate Club Tournament. To get back to Nationals, Texas will need to knock off its division foes, including nemesis and rival, Texas A&M. The team has several strong returning players including All-America goalie and division Most Valuable Player Jon D'Andrea. Returning All-Conference set Steven Kosler and guard Mike Hoffman will aid in the Longhorns stampede back to Nationals, while Kosler's co-captain Josh Rachner will aid the team directing the offense. Senior speedster Nathan Drummond brings depth to the team's offense with his driving, while Michael McDonnell, Jeff Miller and Matt Tanner add to the team's offense with their aggressive driving and shooting.

PoloBase

Water Polo Event Manager

PoloBase is the only fully-integrated scoring system for water polo for use by high school, collegiate, open, and club teams. With PoloBase, one person can run the entire scoring table with ease. PoloBase includes:

- One-button game and shot clock management
 - Game score sheet and box score reports
 - On-demand reports, including team and athlete stats
 - Scoreboard display manager

Designed by a USWP "A"-rated referee with more than 30 years experience in software development, PoloBase is available in a Base edition, an entry-level Club edition, and a FINA-compliant International edition.

PoloBase is an Official Supplier of the CWPA.

PoloBase meets all requirements of USWP, NFHS, NCAA, and CWPA.

PoloBase was used at the:

- 2001 National Junior Olympics in Ann Arbor, MI
- 2004 Men's National Collegiate Club Championships at Notre Dame University
- 2005 NCAA Women's National Championships at the University of Michigan

"PoloBase software is incredibly simple to use, and it permits teams to manage the desk with fewer people. This will make it much easier for teams to organize and run events, knowing they need less staff."

— Dan Sharadin
Commissioner, CWPA

"PoloBase software significantly reduces the chance of table errors. This allows our officials to focus more on the flow of the game and creates a better playing environment for the athletes, the coaches, and even the fans."

— Tom Tracey
Director of Officials, CWPA

"I ran PoloBase at the Junior Olympics and the Michigan Boys and Girls High School State Championship tournaments. Workers actually have fun using PoloBase!"

— David Stover
Ann Arbor Pioneer High School
