

UNDERSTANDING THE GAME OF WATER POLO

Water Polo can be a confusing game for spectators. The whistle is constantly blowing and the play never stops, even when someone is ejected for a penalty. In addition, there are many misconceptions about the game, including how the players keep their horses swimming. Well hang in there, because the following information should help to make the picture much clearer.

General Information

1. Each team has six field players and a goalie.
2. Field players can only use one hand to touch the ball, goalies two.
3. Games consist of 7-minute quarters for club divisions, 8-minute quarters for varsity divisions.
4. The object of the game is to score by placing the ball completely in the goal. Players may move the ball by swimming or passing.
5. Teams may substitute after a goal is scored, during a time-out or during the play from the ejection area.
6. Each team receives three time-outs and one 20-second time-out per game.
7. Shots blocked out of bounds by defensive players result in the defensive team receiving possession. If a defender uses two hands to block a shot, the offensive team receives a penalty shot.

Fouls

When an infraction of the rules occurs, the referee will point in the direction of the team taking possession, while blowing his whistle. The ball is put back into play with an action called a free throw. This means the player gets three seconds of free time to throw the ball to another teammate or swim it up the pool. A player cannot shoot his free throw unless outside the five-meter line. If the ball is not put into play within three seconds, the other team takes possession.

Fouls can be ordinary or major. Ordinary fouls are best understood as minor fouls. For example, a defender may reach over an opponent's back to get at the ball while facing away from the goal. The penalty for an ordinary foul is a free throw for the opposing team.

Major fouls are more severe and are penalized accordingly. For example, when a defender fouls an opponent too aggressively, or from behind when the opponent is facing the goal, the defender is ejected for 20 seconds (players may reenter the game if their team recovers the ball before the ejection time is up, or if the opposing team scores). When the foul occurs within five meters of the goal and the referee believes the player had a high chance of scoring, the opposition shoots a penalty shot. Major fouls can also occur through disrespect to the referee or when a player interferes with an opponent's free throw. Players may only receive three major fouls before elimination.

If all of this has you totally confused, just sit back and enjoy the game. The easiest way to follow the play is by watching the scoreboard. If your team is ahead at the end, great! If not, well consider that you have expanded your horizons. When the game is over, you can at least explain to your friends that the horses never get wet.

CWPA Sportsmanship Statement

The CWPA and the NCAA promote good sportsmanship by student-athletes, coaches and spectators. We request your cooperation by supporting the participants and officials in a positive manner. Profanity, racial or sexist comments, or other intimidating actions directed at the officials, student-athletes, coaches or team representatives will not be tolerated and are grounds for removal from the site of competition. Also, consumption or possession of alcoholic beverages and tobacco products is prohibited.

Affiliate Organizations

There are many organizations affiliated with the sport of water polo and the landscape can be somewhat confusing when trying to sort out which entity offers what services. To make matters a little easier to understand, the organizations can be divided into two basic groups: scholastic and non scholastic. The scholastic organizations are those that have some affiliation with the educational system. These include college, high school, junior college, and middle school teams, as well as their respective administrative bodies that offer competitive leagues and support. In this category you would find state sanctioning organizations, the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA), the National Association for Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA), and the collegiate conferences recognized by the NCAA or NAIA. Each organization operates independently with its own governing structure.

The NCAA and the NAIA are two organizations that serve a unique position. They each provide a supervisory role for their member schools. The colleges and universities that are members of each respective organization choose to establish and follow a set of guidelines that govern competition. Specifically, these guidelines include eligibility, academic progress for their student-athletes, competitive rules, championship guidelines, recruiting, and financial aid.

Schools that become members of one of these organizations agree to abide by the rules and principles established within the organization. The NCAA and NAIA only provide oversight for the varsity teams on campus, not the collegiate clubs.

In addition to the NCAA and NAIA there are conference structures that operate for the purpose of arranging competition for their member institutions. Some conferences like the Big East or ACC handle several sports, while others like the CWPA handle just one sport. With respect to water polo, all collegiate clubs that play competitively are members of either the Big Ten or the CWPA conferences. To understand the difference between the conferences and the NCAA or NAIA, think of the conferences on a smaller scale performing similar functions for their member institutions. The conferences work with the NCAA and NAIA to help provide competitive opportunities and services, yet they still remain independent organizations with their own governing systems and budgets.

Non scholastic organizations include all other entities that offer the opportunity for people to be involved in the sport outside of an educational institution. These include YMCA's, Boys & Girls Clubs, township programs, parks and recreation programs, privately organized water polo clubs, and independent organizations like American Water Polo. United States Water Polo fits under this category as well, serving as the National Governing Body for the sport. They are also responsible for supporting and training Olympic teams for men and women.

For more information about any specific organization, contact the CWPA office at 610-277-6787.

History of the CWPA

The Collegiate Water Polo Association originally began as the Mid Atlantic Conference, founded by Dick Russell (Bucknell University swimming & water polo coach) in the 1970's. Its founding membership included teams from Maryland, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and New York.

The leadership and management of the organization relied on volunteer coaches until 1990, when it hired a commissioner to perform basic scheduling for the 15 member teams. Officiating assignments at the time were performed by an independent organization called the Eastern Water Polo Referees Association (EWPPRA).

The next major milestone occurred in 1993, when the Southern and New England Conferences merged into the Mid Atlantic. The new structure combined all of the varsity teams in the East, along with the few sport clubs in existence at that time.

During the 1995 season, the conference received its first major challenge, as the organization experienced a strike by its officiating core. This strike ultimately resulted in the organization establishing its own officiating bureau, assuming responsibility for all of its officiating assignments. The conference hired Tere Ma as its inaugural Director of Officials and Loren Bertocci as its first Technical Director. These two individuals laid the groundwork for the Officiating Bureau that exists today.

Few changes were made to this structure until 2006, when the conference established a Technical Committee, comprised of former coaches and non-active CWPA officials for the purpose of education and development. One of these members, Ed Reed, initiated the CWPA's first online education program in 2007 for referees using video clips.

Over the years, the Association has undergone dramatic changes:

- 1970's The Mid Atlantic Conference is founded by Dick Russell.
- 1990 The conference hires a commissioner to manage the league administration.
- 1993 The New England and Southern Conferences merge into the Mid Atlantic.

COMPETITIVE FORMAT

The Collegiate Water Polo Association is divided into two classes, varsity and sport club. Each class of membership is then divided into divisions based on geography.

Varsity Class

The top four teams from each division championship move on to the Eastern Championship. The first place team at the Eastern Championship receives the CWPA's automatic berth and qualifies for the NCAA National Championship.

Northern Division

Teams compete in a single round robin schedule within the division to determine regular season rankings. All teams attend the division championship, with the seeding determined by the won/loss records during the season.

Southern Division

Teams play a double round robin schedule within their respective regions (east or west) to determine seeding for the all-inclusive division championship.

Sport Club Class

Teams are divided into divisions, based on geography. The top team from each division championship qualifies for either the National Collegiate Club Championship or the Division III National Collegiate Club Championship.

Atlantic Division

Teams play a single round robin schedule within their region and then a crossover event where they compete against four of the five teams from the opposite region. The four opponents in this instance are selected at random. All teams attend the championship tournament, with seeding based on the regular season won/loss records.

Florida Division

Teams play a single round robin schedule over two weekends with additional seeding. All teams attend the championship tournament, with seeding based on the regular season won/loss records.

Great Lakes Division

Teams play four opponents drawn at random during the first weekend to seed for the championship. All teams attend the championship tournament, with seeding based on the regular season won/loss records.

Great Plains Division

Teams play a double round robin schedule. All teams attend the championship, with teams seeded according to the regular season won/loss records.

Heartland Division

Teams play a single round robin schedule over two weekends with additional seeding games drawn at random. All teams attend the championship tournament, with seeding based on the regular season won/loss records.

Mid-Atlantic Division

The western region teams play a double round robin schedule within their region. The eastern region teams play a single round robin schedule with additional games drawn at random within their region. All teams attend the championship tournament. Seeding at the championship alternates between the regions, with the region that won the prior season receiving the first seed.

Missouri Valley Division

Teams play a single round robin schedule within their region and then a crossover event where they compete against four of the five teams from the opposite region. The four opponents in this instance are selected at random. All teams attend the championship tournament, with seeding based on the regular season won/loss records.

New England Division

Teams play a single round robin schedule over two weekends with additional seeding games drawn at random. All teams attend the championship tournament, with seeding based on the regular season won/loss records.

New York Division

Teams play a single round robin schedule within their region and then a crossover event where they compete against four of the teams from the opposite region. The four opponents in this instance are selected at random. All teams attend the championship tournament, with seeding based on the regular season won/loss records.

North Atlantic Division

Teams play a single round robin schedule over two weekends with additional games drawn at random. All teams attend the championship, with seeding based on won/loss records.

Northwest Division

Teams play a single round robin schedule over two weekends with additional games drawn at random. All teams attend the championship, with seeding based on won/loss records.

Pacific Coast Division

Teams play eight opponents drawn at random over two weekends. All teams attend the championship tournament, with seeding based on the regular season won/loss records. During the championship, the top eight teams compete for places first through eighth. The remaining teams compete for places ninth through fifteenth.

Rocky Mountain Division

Teams play a single round robin schedule over two weekends with additional seeding games drawn at random. All teams attend the championship tournament, with seeding based on the regular season won/loss records.

Southeast Division

Teams play double round robin over two weekends. All teams attend the championship, with teams seeded according to the regular season won/loss records.

Southwest Division

Teams play double round robin over two weekends. All teams attend the championship, with teams seeded according to the regular season won/loss records.

Texas Division

Teams play a single round robin schedule over two weekends with additional seeding games drawn at random. All teams attend the championship tournament, with seeding based on the regular season won/loss records.

Tie Breaker System - All Situations

If at any time two teams are tied in record or in goal differentials as you walk through the tie breaker system below, the result of their head-to-head competition breaks the tie.

Tie Breaker System - Two Teams

If the teams each beat one another, the goal differential in their games is used to break the tie. If the goal differential in their contests against one another is the same, the total of goals scored against each other is used. If the total of goals scored between the teams is equal, the differential for all common opponents seeded higher is used. If no common opponents are seeded higher, the goal differential against the highest seeded common opponent is used.

Tie Breaker System - Three or More Teams (for seeding championships)

If more than two teams are tied in won/loss records, goal differentials among the teams tied serves as the tiebreaker. If two teams are tied in goal differentials, head-to-head competition breaks the tie. If the goal differential in their contests against one another for all teams is the same, the total of goals scored against each other is used. If the total of goals scored between the teams is equal, the goal differential between common opponents seeded higher will be used to determine ranking. This may require averaging the goal differential per game if the number of games between common opponents is unequal. Should teams be tied in won/loss record and they have not played each other, goal differentials against common opponents that are seeded above them are used. If no common opponents are seeded higher, the goal differential against the highest seeded common opponent is used.

(for advancement w/in championships)

If more than two teams are tied in won/loss records, goal differentials among the teams tied serves as the tiebreaker. If the goal differential in their contests against one another is the same, the total of goals scored against each other is used. If the total of goals scored between the teams is equal, their original seeding will serve as the tiebreaker. If the totals are tied at any time between two of the three teams, the tie is broken by their head-to-head result.

Goal Differential

Goal differential is a term used to describe the difference between goals scored against an opponent and the number of goals scored by an opponent against a particular team.

CWPA VARSITY TEAM PROFILES

NORTHERN DIVISION

Brown University

The Brown University men's water polo team hopes to rebound off a disappointing end to their season last year. Brown's four seniors, Mike Gartner, Grant LeBeau, Hank Weintraub and Nico Fort, hope to lead the team to the program's first Eastern Championship since 1985 in their final year. Helping them on that quest are two sophomores that saw critical minutes last season in Gordon Hood and Corey Schwartz. For the first time in a few years, Brown will also be able to rely on its bench for support. Adding depth to the squad are two returning players and seven new additions. Sophomore Brandon Yoshimura and junior Zack Levko will provide instant speed along with their collective experience to fuel the Bears' counter attack. They will also be asked to lead a group of strong freshmen led by utility players Marcus Gartner and Toby Espinosa. In addition, transfer student Bryan Russell looks to bring his experiences from Chapman University where he was the team's third leading scorer as a freshman. For the third year in a row, Brown will have Kent Holland, one of the premier goalies in the Collegiate Water Polo Association, between the pipes. Holland looks to set new school records for saves and goals against average. He will be backed up by incoming freshman Max Lubin, who will get an opportunity for plenty of playing time. With the new additions and returning eight of its top ten scorers, Brown hopes to improve on its sixth place finish at last year's Eastern Championship despite the competition in the CWPA.

Connecticut College

The new season brings a resurgence for the Camels of Connecticut College as the team welcomes five newcomers, including four freshmen. A sophomore, Carson Miller joins the team after focusing on swimming at the college last year. Among the freshmen, Sam Mitchell comes to Connecticut from Los Angeles after finishing his career at the Chadwick School, while local athlete Ryan Pelham joins the squad as an experienced club swimmer and Premier League player. James Green, who played for the Hill School (Pa.) and New Orleans native Chris Swanson, add depth to the Camels' roster. In addition, head coach JJ Addison will be joined on the sideline by Granger Abuhoff '06 who returns to Connecticut College as an assistant coach after serving as a coach at El Modena High in Orange, Calif. A key player to watch for the Camels is two-meter defender Connor Matzinger. Matzinger, who earned Division III Eastern Championship All-Tournament first team honors last year, will look to attack more on offense this year. Senior Nick Llewellyn is expected to provide leadership and a strong outside shot for the Camels, while Brian Sager will look to transition to an offensive mindset after playing on defense last year. In cage, the duo of Matt Brown and Brendan Kempf will look to continue their success from a year ago as the duo earned 2007 Division III Eastern All-Tournament second team honors. On offense, Hahn Jon Je, who led CC in goals per minute a year ago, is poised to keep scoring this year, while Connor O'Brien returns at driver.

Fordham University

The Fordham water polo team enters the 2008 season with a strong sense of optimism under fifth year head coach Bill Harris. The Rams went 11-15 a year ago, but Fordham was in every contest as seven of its 15 losses were by three goals or less. Despite the graduation of two-time All-North Division performer Paul Shrewsbury and four-year starter Taylor Landesman, the Rams bring back a very deep pool of talent in 2008, led by the senior duo of Todd Conway and Timmy Will. Conway, an All-North Division performer in 2006, was once again a force in the center of the Rams' attack, tallying 34 goals and 38 steals, while drawing a team-high 55 kickouts. Will begins his fourth season as the Rams' starting goalkeeper in 2008, after another impressive campaign. He registered a career-high 205 saves in 26 games, marking only the second time a Fordham player has registered over 200 saves in a season. A group of young guns will back up the senior duo this year, led by sophomores Alex Powell, Ryan Hultman, Jakob Muller and Brian Jucas. Powell was the Rams' leading scorer in 2007 with 56 goals and 65 points, and earned CWPA Player of the Week honors once as a freshman. Hultman ranked second on the team in scoring with 38 goals and 14 assists for 52 points, while adding a team-high 35 steals. Muller came on strong at the end of last season to finish with 18 goals and 10 assists, while Jucas added 18 goals.

Harvard University

With a roster of 20 student-athletes, including 10 upperclassmen, the Harvard men's water polo team will look to improve on its third-place finishes at both the Northern Division and Eastern Championships this fall. Returning to the Crimson are All-North Division players Jay Connolly and Bret Voith. Connolly was honored as the Northern Division's first team all-league goalkeeper, while Voith earned a spot on the conference's Second Team. Connolly, a senior co-captain, will provide stability between the pipes after ranking second nationally in saves with 312. He reached double figures in saves on 19 occasions in 2007 and made a season-high 17 in a win over Washington & Jefferson College. Voith, a sophomore, ranked second on the club with 41 goals and 27 steals and paced the Crimson with 21 assists during his rookie season. He scored two goals in his college debut and finished with 10 multi-goal efforts. Spencer Livingston, Harvard's leading goal scorer with 48 last year, returns for his junior season. Livingston also had a team-best 16 kickouts drawn and was among the club leaders with 14 ejections and 13 steals. Senior co-captain David Tune, who tallied 17 goals and led Harvard with 22 ejections, and junior Egen Atkinson, who was fifth on the team with 20 scores, are also key returnees on offense. Other team members who provided major contributions in 2007 are juniors Dan Furman (six goals, six assists), Sean Mitchell (six goals, two assists), Mitch Denti (seven goals, one assist) and Thomas Bailey (five goals, one assist). Sophomores Alex Thompson (eight goals, six assists, 12 steals, 10 kickouts drawn), Jeff Lee (five goals, three assists) and John Kolb (two goals, two assists) had strong first seasons for the Crimson. Harvard also welcomes five freshmen who will look to make an immediate impact on the club. Head coach Erik Farrar enters his fifth season as the leader of both the men's and women's water polo programs at Harvard. The 2007 men's squad finished 15-15 overall and placed third at both the Northern Division and Eastern Championships.

Iona College

Iona enters the 2008 season following the loss of two major components from its 2007 squad. The graduation of co-captains Brendan Barrow and Mark Rich serve as the biggest hits as both were leaders in and out of the pool. The Gaels return two red shirt starters and add nine freshmen to comprise what is shaping up to be the program's best squad since 2003 and a fifth place finish at Easterns. Senior co-captain and All-Northern Division selection Patrick St. Cin will once again lead Iona's offense. St. Cin scored 67 goals while handing out 24 assists in 2007. Nick Velasquez, who was voted team Most Valuable Player with St. Cin, had his best year in the Maroon and Gold as a junior in 2007 tallying 42 goals and adding 24 assists while leading the defense in steals and field blocks. Junior Joe Przekota looks to live up to his All-America potential and to have another dominant season on both ends of the pool. Przekota has led Iona in scoring and total points in each of his first two seasons. Defensively, the Gaels look to be much improved with a defensive oriented freshman class and a return of their five best defenders from a year ago. Senior Ed Gronkowski has tremendous talent on the offensive end with 41 goals, but will continue to serve as the Maroon and Gold's most valuable defender. One of the top two-meter defenders in the North, Gronkowski's play will be bolstered by fellow backline mates Nick Velasquez, junior Emre Erdogan and red shirt senior Mark Di-Cola. Sophomore goalie Eric Konzem won the starting job during the playoff run and will start for the Gaels in 2008. Depth was Iona's downfall in its numerous close losses throughout the 2007 season. This setback has been solved with several players returning from injury and a strong recruiting class. Sophomore Seth Tasman was Iona's leading scorer before an injury forced a medical red shirt early last year. Tasman is a pure scorer who has the potential to be one of the top three goal scorers in Iona's attack this year. Trevor Creighton, Matt Joslyn, Matt Kolb and Cameron Hudson will immediately play important roles as stand out freshmen. The Gaels' ultimate goal in 2008 will be a deep run at both the Northern and Eastern Championships after a 2007 season in which Iona steadily improved. The 2007 Iona College men's water polo team got off to a slow start, but rebounded and saved its best polo for the stretch run at the end of the season. With solid play coming on its California trip and in the second half of their league schedule, the Gaels hit a hot streak that continued into the Northern Championship. Entering the Northern Championship as the No. 5 seed, Iona defeated No. 4 seed MIT in the opening round and qualified for its fourth Eastern Championship appearance in seven years. At Easterns, the Gaels faced a tough draw, matching up against top-seed Navy in the opening round. The team played solidly for three quarters, but could not keep up in falling to the Midshipmen. Iona rounded out the championship taking tough losses against Brown and Johns Hopkins.

Massachusetts Institute of Technology

Following a fifth place finish at the 2007 Northern Division Championship, MIT will look to return to the Eastern Championship and claim the program's first conference championship. Leading the charge will be a pair of All-Conference players in John Preis and Devin Lewis. An All-North Division second team selection, Preis became the first MIT player to earn the Northern Division Rookie of the Year award as he recorded a team-high 72 goals to tie the Institute record for goals in a season equaling the mark of Pete Sanders in 1971. He led an Engineers' offensive juggernaut that established a new program record for goals in a season as MIT netted 358 scores last year. An All-America honorable mention recipient and All-North first team selection, Lewis was Tech's third leading scorer with 55 goals to up his career tally to an even 100 and place him fourth all-time on the MIT scoring charts. The Most Valuable Player of the Division II/III Eastern Championship for scoring 14 times in the tournament to help MIT clinch both the Division III Eastern Championship and the Small College Championship crowns, Lewis will be joined by three other Division III Eastern All-Tournament selections as goalie Nick Souza earned first team honors, while Preis and Mike Smith-Bronstein received second team recognition. Seniors Smith-Bronstein, Palmer Rosemond and Forrest Funnell will be looked to for leadership as the Engineers will seek their sixth Division III Eastern crown before attempting a run at the Eastern title and an NCAA berth.

Queens College

The Queens College water polo team is looking for a fresh start this season. Coach Joseph McComons is adding 10 new faces to his returning roster of four men, making this the largest water polo team Queens College has fielded in four years. Recruited from Turkey, Virginia and New York, freshmen Ibrahim Dincer, Luck Culicerto and Mike Oppedisano are excited for their first experiences on the college level and make up only three of the 10 new players on the Knights' roster. The remaining seven players, transfers from either junior or community colleges, are all sophomores, juniors or seniors each with a very rich and deep water polo background. Other players to watch include Boris Balkhiyev, Jake McCommons, Luiz Cordovil, Phil Cabasino, Guilherme Cordovil, Camilo Bedoya and Jason Shotwell. Doug Leresche, Pearce Selleck, Joshua Tatro and Matthew Degorio are eager to add a California flare to the mainly East Coast Knights.

Saint Francis College

The St. Francis College Terriers are once again poised to be competitive in the CWPA Northern Division. The 2007 season was a learning experience for the young Terriers, who return all but two of last year's squad. Despite a 23-6 season record, St. Francis hopes to improve on last season's disappointing second place finish at the Eastern Championship. The team should be in a strong position to improve as they return many integral players from their successful 2007 campaign, which included Northern Division and Eastern College Athletic Conference (ECAC) Championships. Leading the way for the Red and Blue are senior co-captain Nemanja Pucarevic. A vital member of the Terriers' 2005 Eastern Championship, St. Francis will look to Pucarevic for leadership this year. Anchoring the defense will be All-North Division goaltender Nikola Djuric. Only a sophomore, the Terriers need Djuric to perform well to be in the hunt for a championship. Leadership and steady play from Djuric and Pucarevic will be major keys to the season in order for the Terriers to contend and match up with the other powers in the Collegiate Water Polo Association. The team will also depend on senior Or Gill, whose exceptional speed makes him a valuable weapon both defensively and also on the counter attack. Sophomore southpaw Stefan Gencic and driver Boris Plavsic will be much improved with a year of collegiate experience under their belts. Replacing graduating senior and All-Conference player Botond Szalma, now playing professionally in The Netherlands, will be a challenge. However, the coaching staff was successful in recruiting some exceptional players who are expected to make an immediate impact this season. Freshmen Filip Sasic and Aleksandar Pantic are expected to compete for playing time with an already experienced roster. Incoming freshmen driver Tamas Toth and two-meter player Richard Polgar should also help ease the loss of Szalma. The coaches hope the international experience of the new players will help the Terriers work more efficiently at both ends of the pool.

SOUTHERN DIVISION, EASTERN REGION

Bucknell University

Coming off a 20-win season, its first since 2000, the Bucknell men's water polo team will have plenty of changes in 2008. The Bison lost seven key seniors to graduation. Additionally, longtime head coach John Zeigler left the coaching profession and former assistant coach John Abdou assumed the reigns. Although four of the top five scorers from last year's squad were seniors, Bucknell still returns plenty of firepower. Sophomore Richie Hyden made an immediate impact as a freshman and earned Collegiate Water Polo Association Southern Division Rookie of the Year honors after totaling 40 goals and 31 assists. His 71 points were third on the squad and were the most by a Bison freshman since 2002. Senior co-captains Gabriel Heiber and Alex Lampley should provide plenty of leadership in the pool. The pair has combined to play in 163 career games and has registered 96 goals and 27 assists. Both play the center forward position and have rarely been in the pool together in the past, but that should change in 2008. Lampley was one of six Bison to score at least 30 goals last year and he is the second-leading returning scorer. A key to Bucknell's season will be the emergence of some veterans who have been role players in the past. Juniors Randy Ang, Andrew Nelson and Johnny Stupp will fill much more prominent roles this season, while sophomores Sean Coghlan and Howie Kalter are expected to improve from their rookie campaigns. Sophomore Miles Gihuly won the starting goalkeeper position last season and he will battle once again with junior Nick Donahue and freshman Michael Kumcu. Gihuly led the team with 123 saves last year and stopped 51.5 percent of the shots he faced. He registered a season-high 12 saves on two occasions.

George Washington University

George Washington head coach Scott Reed predicted his team was going to take the next step during the 2007 season. Reed's pre-season prediction of a CWPA Eastern title and NCAA Tournament berth almost came to reality as the Colonials upset nationally-ranked Bucknell and Brown to make the deepest postseason run in the program's 24-year history. GW placed third at the Eastern Championship, finishing two victories shy of the Final Four and ranked 17th in the nation for the program's first national ranking in nearly a decade. The team's goals of an Eastern crown and an NCAA bid remain the same heading into 2008. Reed, the 2007 CWPA Southern Division Coach of the Year, will have added depth this year with 12 returning letterwinners and five newcomers. Leading the returning players are four starters from the Colonials' record-setting team in seniors David Zenk, Nick Eddy and Sergei Shev and junior John-Claude Wright. One of the league's best all-around players, Zenk became the first GW men's water polo player to garner All-America honors as he earned honorable mention accolades last season after pacing George Washington with 94 points and 43 assists while setting school records with 100 sprints won, 89 steals and 17 field blocks in 2007. The CWPA All-South and All-Eastern Championship first team selection is on pace to set new program marks in assists and steals this season. Eddy made a triumphant return to the pool in 2007 with 74 points, 49 goals and 41 ejections drawn to earn CWPA All-South second team honors after red-shirting the 2006 season. Four-year starter Shev, who has appeared in 84 games through his first three seasons, returns to anchor the Colonial's two-meter defense slot and is expected to take advantage of his scoring chances on attack. Backing up Shev at two-meter defense is senior Bill Richardson and sophomore Peter Thomas. Wright paced George Washington's scoring attack with 55 goals and 15 assists while finishing second on the team with 57 steals. However, Reed believes the key to the team's title hopes is senior Connor Lynagh. An aggressive driver who appeared in all 30 games last fall, Lynagh must have "a breakout season in order for the team to reach its goals," according to Reed. Junior Marshall Freedman will work out of the two-meter set position more with the graduation of John Jennings, while classmate Nick Archambault, a double-digit scorer in each of his first two seasons, will see increased time. Also returning to the attack is junior Rick Rogers and sophomores Nick Yeager and Brett Gall. Another key factor to GW's success this season is the impact of the team's five-player recruiting class. Alex Sotolongo and Craig Merlin will fight for starting goalkeeper duties following the departure of the program's career saves leader, Chris Whittam. Dan Allesandri, John Rebstock and high school All-America selection Cray Rogers will compete for time at driver.

Johns Hopkins University

Johns Hopkins enters the 2008 season tied for second in Division III with 93 points and opens its schedule with arguably the toughest two weeks in the country. JHU will play six ranked teams in its first five games - No. 1 UC Berkeley, No. 3 Stanford, No. 10 Navy, No. 12 St. Francis, No. 14 UC San Diego and No. 19 Brown. "This schedule will test the team's conditioning and provide the opportunity to compete with the nation's elite Division I programs," said head coach Ted Bresnahan. Nineteen letterwinners return from last year's team that went 16-15 and finished second at the Southern Championship, including senior All-America Peter Davis and captains Alex Bond and Josh Kratz. Senior Chris Rochester will see more playing time this season to provide the Blue Jays with experience and depth. A two-time All-America selection, Davis ranked second on the team in goals scored last season, finishing with 56. He currently ranks seventh in program history with 166 career goals. In addition to Kratz and Bond, junior Kyle Gertridge returns to lead the offense for the Blue Jays. Both Kratz and Gertridge were 20+ goal scorers a year ago. Returning in the goal this season are senior Chris Hutchens and sophomore Jeremy Selbst. Both saw significant playing time last season. Key additions for the Blue Jays this season are incoming freshman Mark Strickland and transfers William Choi and Eric Stewart. Strickland, the younger brother of former Hopkins swimmer and water polo player David, earned first team all-state in Texas as well as Second Team NISCA All-America honors. Stewart is transferring to JHU after one year at UC Davis. Choi, a goalie, played for one of the toughest high school divisions in the country and led La Jolla to a division championship.

Princeton University

The Princeton men's water polo team enters the 2008 season with its sights set on a return to the Eastern Championship, after coming up a few goals short in 2007. The Tigers played to a 15-14 overall record last season and were 3-5 in the CWPA Southern Division placing fifth at the Southern Championship. Princeton will look to improve with 16 returning players and four newcomers. Senior captains Brendan Colgan and Alex Edmunds will lead the team. A first team All-Southern Division performer as a sophomore, Colgan has scored 60 goals in his career to rank 12th on Princeton's all-time scoring list. Edmunds scored a career-high 21 goals last season and has found the back of the net 36 times in his career. Junior Mark Zalewski, who scored 36 goals last season to rank second on the team in scoring and first among returning players, was Princeton's top sprinter in 2007. Junior Eric Vreeland, who ranks 11th on the program's scoring charts with 73 goals and rates second in career assists with 70, will also bolster the offense. Junior Gregor Horstmeyer, a second team All-South choice last season, provides the Tigers strength throughout the pool, as he scored 25 goals and added a team-high 28 assists with 35 steals last season. The team's defense will be a strength as sophomore Matt Hale returns after leading all Tigers with 52 steals. The goalkeeping trio of juniors Scott Hvidt and Henry Fyfe and sophomore Mike Merlone will share responsibilities. Both Hvidt and Merlone appeared in 11 games last season with above .500 records.

United States Naval Academy

Coming off its best season in school history, United States Naval Academy head coach Mike Schofield will look to seven returning letterwinners to continue Navy's recent success. The Midshipmen, who won a program record 30-games and finished third at the NCAA Championship a year ago, will look to senior Mike Mulvey to lead the squad again. Mulvey was named an honorable mention All-America selection last year after scoring 98 points (75 goals, 23 assists) and enters his senior season with 208 career points (143 goals, 65 assists). Also returning will be junior Kevin Bell (22 goals, 28 assists, 50 points) and Chuck Baker (21 goals, six assists, 27 points). Defensively, Schofield needs to find someone to replace Tyler Hill and George Naughton. Hill was a key figure in helping Navy's defense to allow just 7.1 goals per game, while Naughton set the school record for saves in a season (329) and career (729). Naughton, along with departed All-America recipient Aaron Recko, were first team All-East selections last year in helping the Naval Academy defend its 2006 Eastern crown. Over the last two years, Navy is a dominating 44-2 against East Coast teams.

SOUTHERN DIVISION, WESTERN REGION

Gannon University

Gannon returns eight letterwinners from last year's 13-9 squad which finished third at the 2007 Division II/III Small College Championship with an 8-7 victory over Washington & Jefferson and captured seventh at the CWSA Southern Division Championship with a 13-11 decision over the Presidents. The Golden Knights return two of their top three scorers from a year ago, including leading scorer Richie DiLoretto. The senior recorded 47 goals, four assists, 33 steals, 13 earned kickouts and 10 sprints last season. Sophomore Greg Naranjo also returns after posting 24 goals, 13 assists, 26 steals, nine earned kickouts and seven sprints as a true freshman in 2007. Sophomore Darren Stone is the favorite to start in goal after splitting time last year with graduated senior Brandon Thomas. Stone played in 11 matches, posting a .479 save percentage. Gannon has reached double digits in victories during five of its first seven seasons at the varsity level.

Mercyhurst College

After registering a school-record 14 wins and a second consecutive Western Region regular season title in 2007, Mercyhurst looks to have another breakout season with a roster full of talent and depth. Senior leadership will be essential as head coach Curtis Robinette returns five seniors and eight letterwinners. Mercyhurst's all-time leading goal scorer Andrew Schonhoff headlines the class after leading the Lakers with 48 goals in 2007. The fourth-year center has a shot at becoming the first player in school history to break 200 career goals if he can repeat the success of his 2006 All-America campaign. Classmates Jake Coin, Jorge Montero and Oscar Calderon should help Schonhoff in his quest for 200 and a berth at the Eastern Championship. Utilitymen Montero and Calderon combined for 50 points last season, while defensive specialist Coin added 26 points with 56 steals and 12 ejections drawn. After missing the 2007 season, standout junior

Kane Ashton returns to the Lakers' lineup. As a freshman, he ranked third on the team with 32 goals and 17 assists in 20 appearances. Sophomores Alex Moggridge and Andy Sekulski are also expected to have a dramatic impact this season. Moggridge will look to duplicate his rookie success after netting 26 goals and 32 points from the utility position, while second-year netminder Sekulski will once again be heavily relied upon to hold down the cage. As a freshman, Sekulski became the first freshman to be named to the Division II All-America first team after posting a .559 save percentage with 176 saves. In addition to the returning talent, Robinette will have four newcomers on the roster as the Lakers will field a 12 man team.

Pennsylvania State University-Erie, The Behrend College

Penn State-Behrend will look to have a breakout season as the Lions will be led by co-captains Jon Bacon and Jacob Bernstein. Players to watch include Keith Yeagle and Robert Westhelle in cage, while Kevin Wolak, Keith Meehan, Chris Graves, Robert Gausman and Ricardo Ortiz will also factor in the Lions' championship hopes this year.

Salem International University

Salem International will continue its development in 2008 as the team rejoined the league last year after aquatics programs were placed on hiatus following the 2005 season. In their first year back in the league, Salem made dramatic strides without the use of the campus pool. After a quarter million dollar renovation, the pool and aquatics programs are both up and running. Freshman Max Martin will handle the goaltending duties, while leading scoring Hector Sanchez returns to lead the offense. Seth Finch, Bogdan Matei and Jose Florentino round out the veterans on offense.

Washington & Jefferson College

After losing five starters to graduation, Washington & Jefferson will look for leadership from seniors Andy Whittam and Eddie Werner to lead the Presidents to the top of the Southern Division. Junior John Todd takes over the goaltending duties as the starter for the first time after splitting the job for his first two seasons. Steve Hilty and Bill Krause bring additional experience in the field, while juniors Will Kidston, Dan Martin and Chris Bleuher along with sophomore Chris Hosking will be called upon to carry a large portion of the workload. Other players to watch include Andy Rish, Nathan Steiner and Zach Nigrelli as the trio will take on supporting roles this year.

CWPA CLUB TEAM PROFILES

ATLANTIC DIVISION

Duke University

Duke heads into the 2008 season hungry to make another run at the Atlantic Division title. Junior Charlie Neiman will spark the team as he looks to build upon his standout 2007 season in which he scored 53 goals and added 33 assists in the team's 11 league games. Fellow captain Jamie Friedland and senior Ersen Akici will add major contributions to the team's offensive output, while Ben Rothstein and Will Garrigues frustrate teams on the other end of the pool. Duke will also call upon Ryan Goldhahn to use his combination of speed and strength to create mismatches, while Sami Mardam-Bey and Matt Crowe will add tremendous length and speed on the counterattack. The team's defense will be anchored by senior goaltender Ted Belsches, who seeks to improve upon his .600 save percentage from last year. While the team will miss the contributions of its graduated seniors, the Blue Devils look to add a solid recruiting class to its experienced squad's core for the 2008 campaign.

Georgetown University

Georgetown enters the 2008 season with a competitive lineup primed to take command of the Atlantic Division after a disappointing fifth place finish at the division championship a year ago. Having lost only one senior, the team expects to capitalize on its strong senior leadership. Driven by a group of veteran team members, and supported by some junior talent, the Hoyas' seniors of Brian Badala, Colin Behr, Stephan Connelly, Fitz Nowlan and Danny Elgahzi expect a strong season and some intense competition throughout the fall. Last year was a development season in which younger players improved their skills and learned to collaborate well with the established team.

James Madison University

On the heels of a seventh place finish in the Atlantic Division last year, James Madison University returns to the pool to seek the first division title in school history. Following the graduation of three players, the team will see an influx of talent as several members of the former varsity swim team and several high school players could join the squad during the season to bolster an emerging team.

Loyola College

Loyola's co-ed water polo team is embarking on a crucial building season with excitement about the program's potential growth. Under the direction of new coach Lauren Brug, the young squad of both veteran and novice players hopes to develop as a more competitive team in the division. The Greyhounds look forward to the new season's challenge with hopes of improving individually and as a whole.

North Carolina State University

Following a strong sixth place finish in the Atlantic Division at the conclusion of the 2007 season, the North Carolina State Wolfpack is looking to build upon its success and continue to move up in the division. Under the leadership of new coach Adam Moore, the Pack will rely on both experienced upperclassmen and a strong recruiting class to compete with every team in the conference.

Saint Mary's College (Md.)

The Atlantic Division's newest team, Saint Mary's College will look to make an immediate impact in its first season as a member of the Collegiate Water Polo Association.

University of Maryland

The University of Maryland will seek to become the sixth team in the history of the Atlantic Division to capture the title and move onto the National Collegiate Club Championship. Last year, the Terrapins dropped a tight 16-13 slugfest versus Virginia Tech in the division title game to barely miss out on joining Richmond, Georgetown, Virginia and the Hokies in capturing the division championship. The 2007 Atlantic Division Coach of the Year Marissa Corwin will have a arsenal of talent at her disposal as first team All-Conference goalie Roy Lyford-Pike returns to anchor the defense with John McHugh, while defensive specialists Nasas Papanikolaou, Alexander Motsiopoulos, Igor Shetynbuk and Ivan Iovic will lock down potential scorers in front of the cage. On offense, All-Conference first team selection Kyle Schafer returns for another season. He will be bolstered by Noah Abelson, Luke Conlin, Justin Smith, Mike Schwartz, Daniel Lindsay, Amin Asemani and Brendan Desaulniers as the Terrapins' attack will be anything but slow in 2008.

University of North Carolina

Returning nine underclassmen players from the 2007 campaign, North Carolina is looking to have another rebuilding year. Strong talent among the returning players, as well as a field of talented recruits coming in, will allow the Tar Heels to battle for their first conference title in 2008. The loss of goalie Russell Parmele and set Andy Young to graduation will leave a hole to fill in the lineup, especially on offense. Keeping UNC competitive against the league's best will require outstanding play by the returning upperclassmen and a rapid display of talent and skill by the incoming recruits.

University of Richmond

After a ninth place finish in the Atlantic Division last year, Richmond will seek its second division title after taking the 2000 crown. Experienced seniors Zachary Dreyer, Kevin Hylinski and Andrew Dodd look to lead the team to a winning season. Returning after a one year hiatus, senior Logan Finerty will play a crucial role at two-meter defense. The team will rely on the offensive power of Kevin Rose and John Frey to tear through defenses. Juniors Vin Lipari and Paul Murad will see plenty of playing time due to their utility on offense and defense. Austin Lehmann, the only returning sophomore, will similarly be counted on for his versatility. In addition to the returning talent, the program anticipates the incoming freshmen to build a solid base for a successful season.

University of Virginia

Virginia comes into the 2008 season with a motivated squad primed to improve on the team's 7-1 mark in the Atlantic Division during the regular season a year ago. Overall, the team suffered just two losses last year, falling 9-8 to eventual division champion Virginia Tech during the regular season and dropping an 8-7 in the division semifinals to No. 5 seed Maryland. Comprised largely of graduate students and upperclassmen, the team boasts a deep pool of talent.

The offense will be led by two-meter Matt Fifer and returning first team All-Conference selection Dan Sunday. Defensive star John Kupstas also returns, while fourth year goaltender Isaac Wood, who had a successful season last year, looks to improve and get the Cavaliers into the National Collegiate Club Championship field. Virginia will also look to the experience of veterans Tommy Schaperkötter, Liam De Los Reyes, Caleb Euhus, Tim Liederbach and Joe Jablonski and the speed of Kevin Walsh and Wes Mellow. Rob Wyllie and Stu Keech fill out the remainder of the team's core.

Virginia Polytechnic Institute & State University

The two-time defending Atlantic Division champion, Virginia Tech will look to make history and become the first team in the division's history to capture three straight titles. Last year, the Hokies knocked off Maryland in the title game behind the play of All-Conference first team selections Peter Biskaduros, Chris Roil and division Most Valuable Player Rory Brannan to earn a spot at the National Collegiate Club Championship hosted by the University of Arizona. At NCCCs, the team placed 15th as Virginia Tech concluded the season just outside the Top 20 in the final Collegiate Club poll.

FLORIDA DIVISION

Florida International University

The FIU Panthers are looking forward to another strong showing this season after finishing on top of the newly reformed Florida Division and placing sixth at the National Collegiate Club Championship to finish the season with a No. 6 national ranking. The team will be led once again by two-meter set Alex Lipin who was an All-Florida Division first team selection. The team's leading scorer and a NCCC All-Tournament first team honoree will team up once again with Alex Martinez who led the team in assists and joined Lipin on the All-Florida first team. Theo Jenetopolous returns in the cage after an All-Florida Division first team caliber season. Returning starters Mario Mora, Andy Alvarez, Chase Vaughan, Alexis Luis and Raul Echarte are all ready to make an impact in the water and put the Panthers back in the hunt for a national title. Returning players JD Garcia, Alex Sergoff and Eric Lilly along with some new local talent will fill out the roster and add to FIU's title drive.

Florida State University

University of Central Florida

Central Florida has one goal for the new season - compete for the Florida Division title and take a shot at capturing the 2008 National Collegiate Club Championship. In 2007, UCF gained respect as a new potential power in the division and will look to complete its ascension to the list of national contenders with a conference title in 2008. Key returning players include Billy Jolly and Ryan Donnell who will seek to continue a growing tradition of excellence.

University of Florida "A"

Florida heads into the 2008 season looking to win its first conference title since 2003. Last year in the Florida Division title game, the Gators fell to Florida International 12-11 in sudden-death overtime as it marked the second year in a row FIU downed Florida in a division title game. Led by head coach Andrew Orr and All-America recipient Justin Oakes, Florida is stronger than ever and looking to take command of the division in 2008.

University of Florida "B"

Profile not available

University of Miami

Entering into their second year in the CWPA, Miami is on the rise. The loss of coach Milan Vranes will be a hard blow for the team, but the program's recruiting efforts have helped soften the loss with an influx of new players. Sophomores David Goldberg, Ian Dixon and Ethan Roberts helped to bolster the roster last year, and two-meter men Corey Bubb and Ryan Freedman are looking to jump-start the Miami offense this year in what could be a breakout season. Club President Justin Bousquin has steadily grown and pushed the program to better each player and the team as a whole. In addition to the emergence of the men's program, a women's program is developing as Courtney MacMahon, Brittany Vacik, Corina Antal and Nikki Keen will aid the team during the fall and look to initiate a women's club for the spring.

GREAT LAKES DIVISION

Ball State University

Profile not available

Grand Valley State University

Arguably the most consistent program in the Great Lakes Division, Grand Valley State will look to continue its string of success this year as the Lakers are seeking their seventh straight championship, with five of the six starters returning from the 2007 titleist. In 2007, Grand Valley rolled to a fifth place finish at the National Collegiate Club Championship and placed fifth in the final poll of the season. Following the loss of All-America third team selection Chris Posthumus, a trio of potential and past All-America players return to the Lakers' lineup this year to lead the team back to the National Collegiate Club Championship field in Pete Huyser, Nenad Ciric and Zach Heathman. All-Great Lakes Division players a year ago, the three will look to equal their past performances. The team's starting goalie, Huyser was a wall in the cage for the Lakers, while Heathman and Ciric rattled the cage on the other end with scoring shots. For their prowess in 2007, Ciric, a second team All-America pick, and division Most Valuable Player Heathman, who earned All-America first team recognition, were both recognized on the NCCC All-Tournament second team.

Ohio University

Ohio finished third in the Great Lakes Division last year and will look to move up the standings in 2008. The Bobcats' hopes are bolstered by the addition of four new players on the roster with high school water polo experience. After losing only two starters and the addition of many new players, Ohio's team will have more depth than in the past. On defense, Brian Zaborski will be an asset, while Pete Zien returns to control an offense featuring All-Great Lakes Division honorees Hart Williams and Stephen Leow.

University of Chicago

The University of Chicago Water Polo club is still in its early years, but the program continues to move forward after a successful second season of competition. Chicago hopes to build on their minor success of finishing sixth at the Division III National Collegiate Club Tournament in St. Louis last fall. The team is ready to face intense competition during league play and hopes to improve its tournament record against rival Grinnell College.

University of Notre Dame

Notre Dame is looking to make great strides in 2008 with over half the players on the roster being underclassmen. Led by sophomore captain Matt Fordonski, the young players should show great improvement as the season progresses. The Fighting Irish also return a number of upperclassmen, including senior captains Tom Fletcher and Patrick Connors. Sebastian Testero is also a key addition from last fall and will be ready to make an immediate impact in the Great Lakes Division.

GREAT PLAINS DIVISION

Iowa State University

A program rebuilding after capturing the 2005 Great Plains title, Iowa State is comprised of a wide range of skilled players. Although the program is small, the team will seek to improve on its fourth place finish in the division a year ago.

Kansas State University

Among a slate of new programs joining the Collegiate Water Polo Association this year, Kansas State will look to shock the division and dethrone the University of Minnesota as Great Plains champions. Although the majority of the Wildcats' players had never played water polo before participating in an invitational at the University of Kansas last spring, Kansas State is striving to increase and improve the game in the Midwest.

Marquette University

Marquette enters its third season as part of the Great Plains Division stronger than ever. After coming in second each of the past two seasons, the Golden Eagles will look to take advantage of a veteran core and contend for a trip to the National Championship. Returning almost the entire team, Marquette is led by 2007 Great Plains first team recipients Paul Grusecki and Pat Jackson, as well as offensive threats Bob Conrath and Martin Hopkins. The Golden Eagles will be dangerous in half-pool offense and defense, but will have to shore up their transition defense and conditioning if a trip to Nationals is in their cards.

University of Minnesota

The University of Minnesota completed a successful campaign in 2007 with another trip to the National Championship. In division play, the Gophers completed an undefeated season to earn a bid to the National Collegiate Club Championship at the University of Arizona. Upon going to Nationals, the team finished 12th for the best showing in the history of the program. Looking to the 2008 season, the Gophers are sure that they will make their strongest showing yet at the national level. Losing one player in the off season, the team plans on adding onto last year's success through a strong year of development. Minnesota will be led by the strong and dynamic offense of Rob Pesun. The team's sharpshooter Cyrus Jamnejad will continue to rack up goals, while Jon Hoedeman and Gunner Stromquist-LeVoor will continue their intense play from set and the left side. The team will continue to rely on the speed and agility of Jake Wollensak and Matt Kuzma. Matt Dahlberg, the team's goalkeeper, has another year of experience under his belt and plans on continuing his steady net-minding. The Gopher's look forward to another successful season in the Great Plains Division with a return to the National Championship for the third consecutive season.

HEARTLAND DIVISION

Carleton College

Graduating seven seniors last year, the Carleton water polo team looks forward to the upcoming season as an opportunity to develop new talent and begin an ascent to the top of the CWPA. The team retains experience with goalie Jason Pipkin and powerful shooters Chris Peck, Brendan Cassiday and Brian Schuster, and will look to add depth to the bench with new recruits. Carleton will also rely on strong contributions from its female players, who surprise the all-male teams in the Heartland Division with their speed, shooting and overall game sense.

Grinnell College

After finishing second at the 2007 Division III National Collegiate Club Championship in St. Louis, Grinnell will look to capture the title this year and repeat as the Heartland Division champion.

Knox College

Led by coach Johnathan Powers, the Knox Burning Squirrels look to the coming season as one to build on the conference tournament success of a year ago. Although the team graduated several key players, a core of experience with senior co-captain Gary Novak and junior Tony Meyer remains. Sophomore Kelley O'Connor will play a key offensive role, while the Squirrels will look to Aaron Barnett and goalie Sara Williams on defense. The team hopes to fill the gaps with new talent as well as experienced players such as Liz McPhail, who will step into starting roles.

Macalester College

Having graduated over half of its starters, 2008 will be a rebuilding year for Macalester. Thanks to the help of a solid block of experienced seniors, the Scots are looking to young talent like sophomore Jeff Yamashita and goalie Max Kulicke to make waves on both ends of the pool. The Scots are hoping to capitalize on their speed with swimmers Nathan Young and Bobbi Gass, as well as the strength and skill of Tyson Morgan and captain Seth McIntire.

Monmouth College

Monmouth College has very high expectations as they enter their second season in the CWPA. The Fighting Scots return their entire squad from last season, and their large incoming freshman class will provide even more depth and experience on an already sound roster. Senior Kurt Niemeier has taken over coaching duties for the club; the experience he brings to the team both as a player and coach will prove valuable as the team aims for a conference title and improvement upon last year's seventh place finish at the Division III National Collegiate Club Championship. Monmouth will be led in the water by last year's leading scorers Tom Pedersen and Joe Moran. Returning starters Matt O'Rourke and Ed Novak will provide a strong outside game, while senior Eric Pavlacka will force a strong presence on the defensive side of the pool. Monmouth also has plenty of depth in goal. In addition to the return of Matt Travník and Kevin Satler, freshman Frank Wasielewski will also be competing for playing time. All three goalies are efficient in the field as well and will be able to contribute offensively when called upon. The team is still young, but with a full season behind them Monmouth knows exactly what it is up against. Experience has made all the difference as improvement was evident on a game-by-game basis last year. With an improved training schedule and an unmatched determination to return to nationals, the squad feels they are the team to beat in the Heartland Division.

Saint Mary's University (Minn.)

The Saint Mary's water polo team returns in 2008 looking to improve upon last season's record and seventh place finish in the Heartland Division. Following an intense period of practices last spring, the Cardinals return with a new insight to the game. A promising group of freshmen appear ready to replace some key older players and help the squad be a stronger contender for the Heartland Division crown.

Saint John's University

After a fifth place finish at the 2007 Division III National Collegiate Club Championship in St. Louis, Saint John's and captains Clarence Manuel and Bobby Chapman will look to capture the Heartland and National crowns in 2008. The Johnnies return six starters. Following the loss of outstanding left-hander Pat Stanaway, the Johnnies will be looking to John Sarabia and Aaron Sinner to step-up and fill the offensive hole. The Johnnies should be stable around the perimeter with the return of the duo of Mark Solinger and Chapman. However, their greatest strengths lie with the two-meter position and on the defensive end. Saint John's will have great depth at the two-meter position with the return of Trent Novotny and Manuel. On the defensive side, Neil Wackwitz will be joined in goal by freshman Chase Miller, with the two-meter position controlled by Novotny and Marty Walsh. Another key addition for the Johnnies will be their talented incoming pool of freshmen, and the speedy Fernando Galeano.

MID-ATLANTIC DIVISION

Bloomsburg University

The Huskies are looking to pick up where they left off last year, coming into the 2008 campaign stronger and faster with six returning starters: Dominick Paraschak, Nick McGuiness, Josh Chandler, Travis Young, Dave Mancinelli and Steve Withers. The additions of Tyler Delorenzo, Joe Bentz, Dereck Fritz, Kyle Weisenbach and Jim Kivlen will help Bloomsburg have its fastest team to date. Newcomers Cesar DeLacerda, Aaron Steinhart, John King, Juan Castaneda, Rich Lopez and Mike Bierds join seniors Drew Osipower, Lindsey Polacheck, Sarah McCoach and junior TJ Galnos in helping the Huskies remain competitive and improve on the team's ninth place finish at the division championship in 2007.

Carnegie Mellon University

Drexel University

Coming off an impressive first season of league play, including standout performances at two spring tournaments, Drexel hopes to continue its progress into the 2008 season with all of its players returning this fall.

Grove City College

Grove City faces the challenge of improving on a season in which it proved to be an emerging team notching a winning record, placing fourth at the Division III National Collegiate Club Tournament in St. Louis and earning a fifth place finish at the Mid-Atlantic tournament behind the play of All-America selections Peter and Lincoln Larsen. Third-year veterans Ben Leach and Peter Larsen will captain a squad also led by Lincoln Larsen and Matt Green on defense. In addition, driver Caleb Courage returns to Grove City to provide an offensive boast after participating in the Olympic Trials.

Lehigh University

After what was deemed a rebuilding year, Lehigh's entire roster is returning to bring the team back to success. Sophomores Andrew Crompton and Hunter Leese provide a new breath of offense and stellar man-to-man defense. Seniors Bethany Ashman, Kimberly Rofrano, Andrew Scavone and Alex Jones look to leave their mark in the pool. The squad will rely on juniors Libby DeFeo and Michael Fedorka as the upperclassmen's time in the Lehigh Water Polo program draws to an end.

Millersville University

Millersville comes into this season with a bright outlook. After some inconsistency last season, the Marauders look forward to proving their worth. Seniors Kyle Clark, Tom Wilt, Danny Seddon, Sean Pyle, Julie Rafalawski and Darlene Pattay, the team's leading scorer, will power the 'Ville offense. Rising leaders Melanie Buchanan and Joe Dooling and returning goalie Keith Sparano will aid Millersville in registering a winning season.

Pennsylvania State University

The Nittany Lions enter the new season ready to make a run at the division title. Experience meets talent in 2008, as Penn State Polo returns its largest core group in several seasons. In 2007, PSU was led to a third place finish by league Most Valuable Player Andrew Bauman - impressively earning the award as a freshman. Possessing a large roster, Penn State will seek to support Bauman on both ends of the pool with a balanced scoring attack and relentless defense. Underclassmen Sean Wagner will join the returning veteran group of Andrew Baxter, Kelsey Britton, Mike Frasso, Steve Hilk, Nate Mensch, Mitch Palski, Guillaume Perrinaud and Sean Plunkett on a roster built for speed and power. PSU will turn to the duo of junior Lane Jubb and senior Chris Simcox in goal for defensive consistency and accurate passes to lead the counter attack.

University of Delaware

Although the Blue Hens have graduated most of their founding members, Delaware will aim to remain competitive after a promising season in 2007. Boasting a strong core of young players with a mix of upperclassmen whom are ready to compete and continue to improve, the Blue Hens are excited about the present and future achievements of their club.

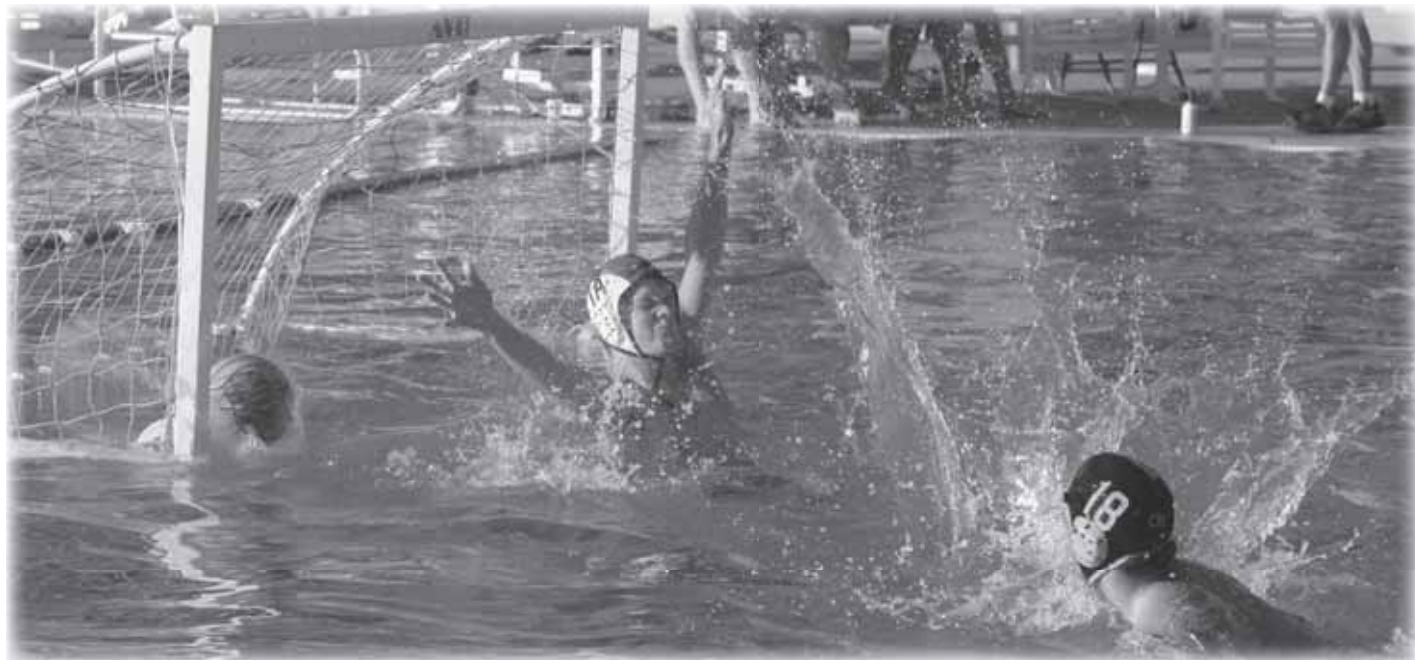

University of Pennsylvania

Pennsylvania is coming off the program's best year in recent times as the Quakers defeated Villanova to advance to the National Collegiate Club Championship in Arizona. The team moved up two spots from their seed, finishing seventh and tying with the University of Utah for seventh in the final national poll of the season. Penn, which will seek its second straight and sixth Mid-Atlantic title, returns the majority of its starting seven to highlight a roster featuring new talent at both the undergraduate and graduate levels.

University of Pittsburgh

Entering its third season as a member of the Collegiate Water Polo Association, Pittsburgh returns all but one player from its team that finished seventh in the Mid-Atlantic Division last year.

Villanova University

Although close to qualifying for the 2007 National Championship, Villanova came up short for the third straight season. Whether the Wildcats can get over the hurdle to win the division will depend on the development of their new players and the ability of the returning athletes to pick up the offensive slack left by the graduation of All-America selection Danny Perez. Likewise, Sean McEleney's move from the field to the cage will be another adjustment the team will need to overcome, as previous goalie Lloyd Masson transfers to an institution closer to home in California. Fortunately for Villanova, Kevin Comber's return will be a boast in the counterattack and scoring departments. His speed and driving skills create great offense for the team. Sharing the offensive responsibilities will be Brent Green at two-meters. Green has come into his own in the last two years and will be a dominant force in the Mid-Atlantic Division this year. As teams adjust their defense to match up with him, drivers Mike Mishik, Dave Rounce, Chris McKay and Jim Bell should be able to take advantage of their opportunities. Defensively, the Wildcats will be relying heavily on Rounce's ability to defend two-meters since McEleney has moved to the cage. If Villanova's incoming players can have an impact, along with the returning athletes, the program should be contending for the title once again.

Illinois State University

Illinois State dives into the 2008 season by entering the Missouri Valley Division for a second season. The Redbirds look to do well in conference play with sophomore Brian Nathe, juniors Billy Carson, Danielle Soudan, Bryan Engall, Nick Griffin, Nick Stercay and Bob Raggio returning for another season.

Lindenwood University "A"

This marks Lindenwood's sixth season in the Collegiate Water Polo Association and the Lions will be shooting for an unprecedented third consecutive National Collegiate Club Division III title this fall. Thanks to the entire roster returning for another campaign, along with a strong incoming class led by Kevin Gallus, Jeremy Hentschke and Enrique Vera, the Lions' hopes of a third title in a row appear within striking distance.

Lindenwood University "B"

The 2007 season marks the fifth consecutive year that Lindenwood University will field both an "A" and a "B" team.

Miami University (Ohio)

Miami is coming off a division title and a third place finish at the 2007 National Collegiate Club Championship and returns an experienced squad that lost two starters. Exploiting a fast paced offense that focuses on ball movement and teamwork, Miami will test itself against the best in and out of the division travelling to the Hillbilly Classic in Tennessee and the UC Davis Invitational.

Northern Illinois University

A year of transition is on the horizon for Northern Illinois following the loss of Steve Michelau and goaltender Brad Donatille on the heels of a fifth place finish in the Missouri Valley Division.

Saint Louis University

2008 marks the return of Saint Louis to the CWPA after an absence of several seasons. The Billikens will count on a lineup heavily anchored by underclassmen to propel them to success. Two-meter Jim Heafner, drivers Steve Warner and Greg Keogh and freshmen Kevin Arnold, Michael Kubik, Pat Donovan and Ben Kruse are expected to contribute offensively, while co-captains Ray Kreienkamp and Pete Cosentino highlight a suffocating defense. Netminder Tony Kruse will also be key if Saint Louis is to make a run at the league title.

University of Illinois-Chicago

Illinois-Chicago seeks to make a return to the national championship tournament for the first time since 2006 and to erase the memory of last year's narrow loss to Miami (Ohio) that kept the team off the largest stage in collegiate club water polo. Losing Marty Allen after last season, UIC will look to fill the leadership void with All-Missouri Valley players Andrew Peterson and Michael Walsh and goalie Derrick Brace. Outside the pool, Matthew Foley is assisted in coaching by the Chicago Apostles Masters Water Polo team.

Washington University (Mo.)

Fielding a strong starting lineup of hardened players, Washington looks to have a great year in the Missouri Valley Division. Seniors Andrew Kraft, Adam Webb and Tony Mustoe will hold down the center position as the team will look to play a power game. Player and motivational speaker Aaron Hecht, who suffered a leg injury last season, will provide the spark and drive of winners that the team will need to capture the division title. On the defensive end of the tank, senior Nathaniel Roman will lead the pack in the goal, while Kraig Young will clog up the middle at the two-meter defensive position. A possible dark horse is Howie Rudnick who enter his sophomore season better conditioned and with a more defined understanding of the game. Finally, senior Chris Clark and graduate students Alexander Bean and Brian Flaherty will help make this the most successful season in Washington history.

Boston College

Profile not available

Boston University

Boston University enters its second season in the New England Division looking to improve on its freshman campaign. The Terriers return nine of their 10 scorers, including All-Conference set Paul Toran (42 goals, 12 drawn kickouts). Junior goalie Steve Yun returns from an injury that sidelined him for the second half of the season. With Yun in goal, utility player Bobby Long (30 goals, 53 steals, 19 assists, 52 saves) will move to the field. Sophomores Jeremy Butz and Eric Choi are effective team players on both ends of the pool. Captain Phil Miller, Konrad Szupinski, Rene Gonzales and Ike Yato will also see significant playing time. If BU can remain healthy, the Terriers should finish in the top half of the division.

Dartmouth College

After finishing a strong season in 2007, Dartmouth is setting its sights on another trip to Nationals this year. Six starters return as medical school brothers Dan and Mike Bazylewicz, two-meter defender Porter Diehl, goalie Kyle Finnegan and strong outside shooters Doug Nelson and Scott Sorensen will look to move the Big Green to the next level. Dartmouth is fortunate to have a deep roster and is looking forward to seeing the talent that will be coming off the bench, especially freshmen Ray Li and Marcelo Menezes.

Middlebury College

Middlebury will strive to repeat last year's finish as the New England Division champions. The Panthers will rely on the depth of their team to fill the gap left by graduating seniors and look forward to the addition of several promising new players. Captains Kevin O'Rourke, Peter Swanson and Jamie Robins lead the squad into another spirited season, combining intensive training and league play with tournaments. Juniors John Dillon and Can Celebi will take on larger roles in the pool this year as the duo builds on two years of tutelage under coaches Brian Goodwin and Tom McGinn. Likewise, sophomores Jay Li and Jay Voit will bring their speed to the team, and freshman Erik Shaw will take on the role of the team's goalie as Middlebury hopes to make its third appearance at Nationals in four years.

University of Massachusetts

Massachusetts returned to the CWPA after a six year absence from water polo last year and battled through, squaring off with some of the nation's best teams. Following an off-season that focused heavily on recruiting new players and developing talent, UMass is poised for vast improvement. Having graduated only two key players from last year's squad, the team returns top scorers John Gallagher and Brian McNeil in addition to key starters Andrew Detwiler and Mike Silivia. A group of talented newcomers will join the team, including Egyptian Ahmed El-Shafei and left-handers Greg Braun and Gry Lei. In goal, Ian Martin will be the Minutemen's last line of defense.

Wesleyan University

Profile not available

Williams College

Williams steps into the 2008 season in a rebuilding mode having graduated six seniors, three of whom earned All-New England Division honors. Despite fielding a relatively inexperienced squad, the Ephmen look to be a major contender for the division title under the tutelage of senior captain David Lebovitz. Lebovitz has played a large role in the team's past success, having started the first three years of his career, and looks to wrap up his career with nothing less than a league title. Williams will depend on Robert Hannigan to anchor what is sure to be a stifling defense. Hannigan's superior fundamentals and leg strength allow him to shut down larger opposing centers. At two-meters, Ben Wampler is an imposing figure as his 7'3" wingspan make him a consistent scoring threat.

Yale University

Yale is looking forward to avenging its fourth place finish at the league championship in 2007 with a well-rounded, balanced squad. Thomas Lazzarini and David Gerstle will continue to strike fear in goaltenders. Paull Randt continues to be solid in goal for a team which has an incoming class of freshmen that will embolden both the offensive and defensive sides of Yale's game.

NEW YORK DIVISION

Binghamton University

Binghamton is coming off a seventh place finish in the New York Division to continue a series of improving seasons. The mark continued a climb by the team as Binghamton placed 10th in 2005 and eighth in 2006 after placing ninth in 2003 and 2004.

Colgate University

After graduating one of the best players in program history last year, Colgate is looking to rebuild under the leadership of team captains Scott Dunleavy and Kevin Williams. On the offensive side of the pool, sophomores Greg Reutershan, Jason Cohen and Parker Caldwell lead a youth movement as Colgate seeks to build for the future. Sophomore Youyou Qui and juniors Adam Weisbarth, Carl Ruggerio and Mike Fingerhut will also see playing time this year.

Columbia University

Last season, in a rebuilding mode after losing many experienced players, Columbia managed to finish third in the New York Division. A year later, the Lions plan on coming back stronger with most of last year's team returning in hopes of capturing the division title. After losing their top shooter from the 2007 edition of the team, Columbia will look for leadership from veterans Joseph Matuk, Alexi Shaw, Musa Kurdi, Prospero Herrera and Lia Rosner. Other players to watch who helped keep the Lions near the top of the division include Chris Viola, Akhil Mehta and James Hao. In addition, Jeremy Reich, Donnie Yeganeh, David Iscoe, Michael Charley, Jason Patinkin and Joredan Keenan will factor in the team's title hopes.

Cornell University

An experienced core of upperclassmen will lead a group of freshmen and sophomores at Cornell in a quest for the New York title. Seniors Dan Smith, Alex Casey, Jordan Garroway, Wu Jianmin and Leif Eriksen will wrap up their undergraduate campaigns with help from junior starters Alex Calderon, Mike Rozner and Chris Rubacha. UC Davis transfer Jeff Kaufman provided consistent goalkeeping last season and will return as the starting goalie. Sophomore Junguk Choi leads an impressive group of underclassmen including Joel Sun, Gabe Gershenfeld and George Yorgakaros, along with incoming recruit Doug Greer. Look for Cornell to benefit from the coaching of Professor Yuval Grosman, who formerly competed at the international level. The Big Red are excited to build off the momentum of a solid finish to the end of last season, and has high hopes for the next couple of years.

New York University

After an undefeated regular season ending in the New York Division Championship, New York advanced to the National Collegiate Club Championship for the first time in school history last year. Due to the loss of three starters to graduation, including the team's two leading scorers, NYU will need to fill a sizable void in scoring power. However, on the defensive end New York will be anchored by goalie Adam Espinoza and team steals leader David Myre. The pressure will be on Chris McClure and Markus Quinn to lead at the offensive end of the pool alternating out of the two-meters position if NYU wants to repeat as division champions.

Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute

Rensselaer Polytechnic will seek to increase its win total coming off an impressive year for a young team a year ago. A goal for the club in the next year will be to earn another berth to the Division III National Collegiate Club Championship as RPI made the tournament two years ago.

Syracuse University

Syracuse has its eyes on first place and will be a force to be reckoned with in the New York Division after placing fourth and losing one starter from the 2007 club. SU will rely on the explosive offense of graduate student Mario Martone and strong defensive stands by sophomore Pete Smith and senior co-captain Carl Murray. Junior co-captain Bryan Young, senior Eric Hammill and junior John Gilligan will see an increase in playing time this year as their experience and leadership will help propel Syracuse throughout the season.

United States Military Academy

The United States Military Academy water polo team is coming into 2008 in the wake of finishing second in the New York Division the past two seasons. After losing four seniors, Army will look to again dominate the division with a younger cast. Led by two-time All-America goalie Kyle Davis and James Lowe, the team's captains, the Black Knights are expecting nothing but success. A trend to watch will be Army's home winning streak as the Academy will host two home tournaments with every New York team in attendance giving ample opportunity for someone to challenge USMA's four years of undefeated regular season home play.

University of Rochester

Although Rochester brings back New York Division Most Valuable Player Felix Santiago, the team is expected to go through a rebuilding stage. Following the loss of All-Conference goalie Adam Williamson, UR is looking to its incoming class of freshmen for his replacement. The squad is looking to build the future of the program around veterans Andrea Zucchiati, Mike Hoffman and John Liobe. Other key returning players include Pat Messmer, Nicketti Handy, Eleni Papademetriou, Julie Tabroff, Tamara De La Loza, Sarah DuBois, Gil Zimmerman and Pete Yen.

Amherst College

Amherst finally tasted success this past year, finishing as the runner-up in the conference tournament. While pleased with last year's result, the team is looking forward to another successful season and possibly even the division title. Although he wasn't a key player last year, the growth in talent of Josh Glasser has the team excited for this year's championship run. The team also welcomes back starting goalie Dan Peterson, who will assume the position of full goalie duties after the departure of Andrew Vasta. Furthermore, the YoHo Penguins look forward to a successful senior campaign from Trinidad native and set, Edward Prevatt. The return of 2007 starters Christian Witzke, Alex Fraser and Reid Fitzgerald will compliment captains John Neff, Joe Scala and Spencer Haught to form an impenetrable force of drivers. While the mourn team will miss the previous senior class, Amherst looks forward to the immense talent coming in with the freshman class.

Bates College

Bates will seek to improve on an eighth place finish in the North Atlantic Division last year and contend for the program's fifth division title after capturing the 1999-2002 crowns.

Bowdoin College

Bowdoin will seek to carry the momentum the team built at the North Atlantic Division Championship a year ago in 2008 as the Polar Bears clinched a fifth place finish, including a 14-8 upset of third seed Colby College.

Colby College

Despite the heartbreaking loss of several senior players, the Mules are coming off of a four year consecutive winning streak in the Colby-Bates-Bowdoin competitive circle, and Waterville's finest are ready to make it five. A diverse group, the Colby squad promises to delight its many onlookers and fans. Offensive set and co-captain Sam Wampler, Travis Townsend, Kerill O'Neil, Reilly Taylor, Vaughn Read and co-captain Zac Bloom return for another season of looking to make headlines for their play.

Trinity College (Conn.)

Trinity's team looks to be competitive in the North Atlantic Division following a few years of hiatus and a fourth place finish in the North Atlantic Division last year which primed the team to being its rise to the division's elite.

Tufts University

The Jumbos return after an impressive 13-1 season last year, accumulating six All-Conference selections and four All-America honors. After going undefeated in conference play, Tufts returned from Division III Nationals with third place for the second year in a row. The Jumbos lost three seniors to graduation and will look to Alex de Castro-Abeger, Matt Miller and Mac Carlson to fill their roles. Anchoring the defense will be Braulio Rivas, who led the team in steals last year, and returning starter Matt Burke, who led the team in blocked shots. This year's three captains enter their fourth year as starters together. At two-meters, All-Conference selection Ben Mitchell will lead the attack, playing significantly more minutes without the support of last year's All-America super senior Eric Appelin. In addition, captain and All-Conference honoree Loren Austin will slide into two-meters periodically to cause problems for goalies and defenders, while he continues to disrupt and frustrate any two-meter that cross his path. The Jumbos return last year's division Most Valuable Player, two-time All-Conference and All-America selection Pete Georgakakos who will continue to be a serious offensive threat. With 155 career goals to date, Georgakakos will be heavily guarded by teams and fill a playmaking role this year so the Jumbos will expect other players to step up into shooting roles. On 6-on-5, Tufts will look to seniors Peter Accomando and Ben Moscovitz to continue to score their trademark goals and clamp down on defense in close games. Seniors Jonah Peppiatt, Fritz Froelich, Matt Murphy, juniors Larry Chan, Rob Delean, and sophomores Joe Lessard, Chris Vorlicek, Ed Mayerson and Brian Canter will all see substantial playing time this season and will be counted on to keep Tufts competitive. The addition of several new freshman will also keep the Jumbos ready for battle. Mitchell, Austin, and Georgakakos will look to lead the Jumbos to their first National Championship with a strong returning squad and deep bench.

United States Coast Guard Academy

The United States Coast Guard Academy Bears are ready to compete in the North Atlantic Division once again this season. Captains Ian Campbell and Ashley Lerner are leading the enthusiastic team for one last year with their new coach Jon Andrechik. Returning to the starting line up are Ian Campbell, Nate Baladad, Chris Woods, Jack Shadwick, Tim Berry, Mark Tatara and goalie Ashley Lerner. The starting seven Bears are supported by a strong bench full of returning players.

University of Vermont

Profile not available

NORTHWEST DIVISION

Central Washington University

Central Washington is looking to build its membership and success for the 2007 season. Though several players were lost to graduation, the season is looking bright due to returning contributors Sam Clark, Kris Hernandez, Patrick Monson and Stacey Rupert.

Oregon State University

Following a disappointing finish in 2007, Oregon State is looking to bounce back to the top of the Northwest Division. Returning seniors Erik Rottman, Zeno Helm and Jonathan Gabriel should make the 2008 season a good one. The Beavers return seven starters and a very deep bench of quality players with their eyes set on a division championship and an appearance at the National Collegiate Club Championship.

University of Oregon

The Oregon Ducks return for the season with firepower from both new and old players. Conor Broom earned a keystone spot in the starting lineup and Matt Sillaman crafted his shot during the off-season, while John Siegfried, Pete Cromelin and Trapper Felt lead the team as co-captains. As always, Oregon promises to be a strong contender for the division title.

University of Portland

Portland is looking to come out strong this year despite losing stand-out senior Jake Luty. However, with the combination of veterans and the anticipation of a strong freshman crew, the Pilots are ready for business. Leading the way is Brett Turner, bringing with him an eager squad of returnees with fierce competitiveness. Protecting the cage on defense will be dark horse goalie Sam Luty. Brice Frey, a defensive force, will shore up the Pilots end of the pool. Portland is counting on the speed of Charlie Hinckle, the brains of Liz Newby and the stamina of Sam Cuffe to battle their way through the Northwest Division. Once again joining the team this year and looking to further the Pilots' cause are Kevin Lockwood, Colton Coughlin and Amber Larson.

University of Washington

Washington placed second in the Northwest Division last year, falling to Oregon 12-9 in the division title game. This year, they will seek revenge as the five-time division champion Huskies strive for their sixth title. Anchored by Tyler Farmer in goal, Washington will rely on outstanding players such as Andrew Gartland, Riley Brazil, Justin Rohrer, Phil Roan, Rick Farmer, Kyle Hardersen, Arad Abadi and Alex Turner to regain the upper-hand in the division and dethrone the Ducks.

Washington State University

Washington State will look to move up in the division standings as the team placed fifth in 2007.

Western Washington University

Western Washington comes into the new season looking strong with the entire 2007 roster returning for another run at the division title. Sophomore Nick Maxwell returns after an excellent season last year as the team's number one scorer. Goalie David Brown will also be returning for another great season to help the Vikings. Further, veterans Miles Gilmore, Jason Ingraham and Michael Stephen-McRae will dive back in to compete in what appears to be the strongest season in program history.

PACIFIC COAST DIVISION

California Polytechnic State University

Returning most of the 2007 National Championship squad, Cal Poly expects to dominate the league and compete for the National Championship once again in 2008. With savvy veterans like Josh Mix, Daniel Harris and Brandon Ross returning, and eager incoming skilled players, Cal Poly should maintain its championship level play for years to come.

California State University-Chico

Chico State looks to rebound from a disappointing 2007 season in which the team placed ninth in the Pacific Coast Division. The goal for Chico this year is to make its way back into the top five of the division.

California State University-Maritime Academy

The Cal Maritime Keelhaulers return on the heels of their strongest performance as a club team finishing fifth in the conference after an eighth place finish in 2006. A talented freshman class added to the core of experienced upperclassmen will help the team make a run at the conference title. Cal Maritime returns six starters and a slew of talented players, including Morgan Williams, Ben Gomez, Paul Burgin, David Prater, Tom Sweeney, Peter Dorrance, Ross Diaz, John Daeblich and Eric Macy. Incoming freshmen Gunnar Ohnstad and Henry Hendrix will add to the Keelhaulers' success.

Fresno State University

Fresno State strives for another great season in the Pacific Coast Division by returning a strong roster of several starters, as well as a solid group of incoming freshmen.

Saint Mary's College (Calif.)

Saint Mary's placed seventh in the Pacific Coast Division last year and will look to set a program best finish this year after finishing fourth in 2003.

San Diego State University

A new team in the league this year, San Diego State will seek to improve this year under the leadership John Wesselman.

San Jose State University

San Jose State should be a team to watch this season, packed with a group of talented players ready to make their mark in the division and the national stage. Coach Serge Azarenok has been working hard to groom the potential of this athletes. The blend of new and veteran talent should lead to increased success for the Spartans. Freshmen to look for include Greg Hightower, Kyle Schempp, Xavier Volgenau and Kyle Wowak. Collin McDonough will be the team's starting goalkeeper this year, but will be relieved by Brian Lachance. Veterans Matt McElroy and John Wagner will be the primary two-meter offense threats, while speed will come from Aaron Lefevre and Jamie Dunnam.

Stanford University

Stanford's club team is in its second year and is looking to continue its spring season success. Although the team struggled in 2007 in its inaugural year, the Cardinal continued to practice and improve, finding success in the spring -- going 3-1 and beating several teams that it had lost to in the fall. Several incoming freshmen, new upperclassmen and a solid returning foundation will help the team improve on last year's record.

University of California-Berkeley

Entering into the competitive Pacific Coast Division, the California Golden Bears are looking to make a statement in their first season as a new member of the CWPA. Although this will be the first official season for the Bears, California has been practicing together since 2004 and are no strangers to their competition. Previously, the team placed second behind Cal Poly in the 2006 Fall Davis Open and captured the 2007 Spring Davis Open. As a first-year team, the Bears have nothing to lose and will look to team leaders Jay Stampfl, David Wright, John Chan and David Soderberg to deliver solid performances. Expect to find Nate Lorenzen at two-meters, while juniors Carson McDaniel and Mike Sontag round out the lineup and add to the team's speed.

University of California-Davis

UC Davis had one of its most successful seasons, in its short history, last year reaching the No. 1 ranking in the nation for five straight weeks. The 2008 team looks to build on that progress and continue the winning tradition that has been created at UC Davis. There will be a lot new faces on this year's team. Key newcomers include Tom Conte, Dino Sulprizio, Joey Seroy and David Stevns. UC Davis should also be solid in the cage with new goalie Kobe Watt. Davis also expects positive production from returners Kyle Hudson, Eric Stewart, Brian Bucher and Ryan Arioli. The team's goal this year remains the same, win the Pacific Coast Division and National Championship.

University of California-Los Angeles

After missing the 2007 Pacific Coast Championship tournament due to administrative issues and falling to Cal Poly in the 2006 division title game, UCLA has something to prove this year. Fortunately, the majority of the 2007 team returns with juniors Matt Wiener and Eric Vallone, seniors Andy Akers and Chris Soper and a solid group of underclassmen. UCLA is ready to lead the way back to the division title the Bruins last captured in 2005 and a shot at a national championship.

University of California-San Diego

UCSD is looking to win a national championship after being the only team to defeat 2007 National Champion Cal Poly and placing fourth in the Pacific Coast Division.

University of California-Santa Barbara

This year UCSB enters this season with increasing potential. Despite losing both senior captains, Brian Featherstun and Riley Graetz, UCSB is joined by strong additions to their roster, including juniors Chris Holmblad and Tim Gross. Leading the defense of UCSB will be returning goalkeepers Chase Motley and Kyle Shobe. Coming off of their initial season as a club team, UCSB will look to improve upon their past results in their most promising season yet.

University of Southern California

Following a third place finish in the division to equal the 2004 team for the program's best finish, USC will look to knock off Cal Poly and UC-Davis to capture the squad's first championship.

University of San Diego

ROCKY MOUNTAIN DIVISION

Colorado State University

Colorado State returns looking to upset the University of Denver for third place in the division this year. Head coach Dave Grovdahl begins his second season with the Rams. He will be assisted by Chris Rubbo, and under the leadership of captains Chris Whitaker and Steve McVicker the squad will look to compete with the division's best.

University of Colorado

Coming off a 7-1 regular season record and a second place finish in the Rocky Mountain Division, Colorado will seek to regain its position on top of the division and make another run for the national championship.

University of Colorado "B"

University of Denver

An up and coming team, Denver finished 4-4 in the regular season last year and placed third at home in the division championship tournament.

University of Utah

Utah finished the 2007 season with a No. 7 ranking, for the best final ranking in school history. This year looks promising as Sam Thomas returns to the cage as one of the most impressive goalies in the Rocky Mountain Division. Matt Clark, Brent Weldon and Vig Mikulis will give the experienced leadership a new height this season with great scoring potential and multiple scoring options. Freshmen, Steven Rij, Graham Smith, Weston Anthon and the Player twins, bring speed and strength to an already strong team. Expect great things from this team, as they look towards a goal of finishing among the top teams in the nation.

Utah State University

Utah State finished fifth in the Rocky Mountain Division a year ago with a 4-4 record, a mark which the team would like to improve on in 2008.

SOUTHEAST DIVISION

Auburn University

Auburn heads into fall 2008 with a top-heavy team loaded with seniors and returning starters. Sharpshooter Joey Kirkpatrick continues to provide sting to the Auburn offense along with fellow perimeter shooter Patrick Gilday. Experienced sophomore Bob Sivewright returns to bring intimidating two-meter offense, while newcomers Nick Walsh and Mike Leigh will add more speed to the Auburn lineup. Danny Gutierrez and Jimmy Hanson, excellent all around players, will be necessary to make the Auburn offense work. Clint Smith, and other new recruits will look to improve their skills and add to Auburn's depth chart. Mike Thompson, Matthew Stuckwisch and Brock Wilson are returning defensive specialists that will aim to block most shots before they ever reach senior goalie, Craig Millar.

Clemson University

Clemson is now entering its fifth CWPA season. As a co-ed, student led and coached program, the club has made a habit of recruiting ex-swimmers and turning them into polo players. The team returns to league action after completing its most successful spring season ever. This is the most experienced squad that Clemson has fielded in its brief history after losing only one player from last year's team.

Georgia Institute of Technology

Coach Manny Torres and Georgia Tech placed ninth at Nationals last year for one of the best finishes in school history. However, the loss of five starters, including the goalie, due to graduation could force the team to claw their way up the division ladder with some newly found talent. New goalie Pari Ram looks to extend his reach for the upcoming season with high intensity training. After playing in one tournament, sharp shooter Chris Bauerlien has established himself as the lead scorer on the Georgia Tech team and looks to continue that in the new season. Stepping up to fill in as starters, Bryan Kveen and Talyor Weiss look to bring their California skills to the pool and dominate the competition. Greg Stutter, Andres Arbelaez, and Sarah Ketcham look to fill the bench and help out the team with fresh legs and quick strokes. Meanwhile veterans Steve Kuehnle, Brian Twynham and Kim Weaver should lend their experience to the young Georgia Tech team in hopes of another title run.

University of Georgia

The University of Georgia Bulldogs are ready to take on the Southeast Division. After placing second in the Southeast last year, the team will not settle for anything less than a bid to the national championship this season. Team captain Alex Webb, Dave Courter and John Weatherford are primed to earn All-Conference honors and lead the Dawgs to the postseason.

University of Tennessee

Due to a promising number of freshmen, Tennessee's rebuilding plan looks to take hold this year as the program continues to regain the strength and numbers it had a few years ago. Seniors Katherine Bunton, Seth Frank, Julianna Tullos and Franklin Curtis will aid captains Drew Rhodes and Chris Cox in training the new players in preparation for competing against the division's best teams.

SOUTHWEST DIVISION

Arizona State University

In only their third season as a team, the Sun Devils are looking to pick up where they left off by making another appearance at the National Collegiate Club Championship. Returning to the team are All-America selections Tyler Oakes and Wes Sjolholm, who led Arizona State in scoring last year. Other key returning athletes are Anthony Cusumano, Andy Lowe, Josh Phillips, Marcos Favela and Rob Semanchik. Sam Grucky looks to have a breakout season along with Luke Shafer and Dave Wied. ASU is excited about the fresh new faces on the team this year, including Todd Clapper and Johann Elbertse in the cage. Due to their youthful energy and a brand new outlook on the season, the Sun Devils have their eyes on their first division championship.

Northern Arizona University

Due to the loss of several key players, Northern Arizona will turn to Mikey Fonseca, Adam Glick and the rest of the returning players to lay a new foundation to assist the sport and the club grow in the Southwest.

University of Arizona "A"

The Wildcats are looking to continue their dominance in the Southwest division and make it to their sixth straight National Collegiate Club Championship Final Four. Led by a strong group of seniors, the Wildcats are hungry for their elusive first National Championship. The outside shooting of seniors Alex Negronida and Louis Wills will be a dangerous combination, while the inside presence of seniors David Brookbank and Greg Rodriguez should not be ignored by their opponents. As always the Wildcats will rely on their counter-attack to score goals, and the charge will be led by speedster seniors Karta Khalsa and South Africa Olympian Darian Townsend. Senior Alejandro Sisqueiros, a native of Sonora, Mexico, will add to the international flavor of the Wildcats' counter-attack. Stuffing shots and making those important counter-attack passes out of the cage will be senior Brian Davies and junior Evan Zaggy. The Cats' defense will be anchored by a feisty group. Seniors Austin Harrell and Cameron Simmons, along with juniors Michael Meier and Alex Williams, look to give opposing offenses nightmares with their tough pressure. Depth has been a source of pride for the Wildcats in the past, and juniors Bret Krouskup, Jacko Aulet-Leon and Sheridan McPheeters will be big contributors this season at both ends of the pool.

University of Arizona "B"

Profile not available

University of New Mexico

New Mexico is excited to return to the Southwest Division after a fourth place finish last year. As one of the division's underdogs, the Lobos have great expectations to knock off one of the national contenders and establish their name in the water polo community. Captains Ben Ediger and Noe Roybal, along with 2006 and 2007 All-Southwest selection Corbin Plugge, will look to leave the program on top after the season as the trio are playing their final season. Goaltender Michael Garavaglia will seek to join Plugge on the All-Southwest team this year, while Bryant Shuey, Stephen Sisneros, Elliot Barela and Tala Saint-Lot could have breakout seasons.

TEXAS DIVISION

Baylor University

Confident and ready to compete, Baylor faced numerous challenges in rebuilding its program during the 2007 season after a year of not competing. However, the Bears should be a viable and tough threat in 2008 thanks to a solid group of returners with plenty of experience and a very talented group of freshmen. Captaining the team is Zach Gentry, a senior with plenty of experience and scoring power. Matt Martin, Jack Woodward, Philipp Pitchford and Jeff Dugan, along with new players Brian Sanders, Joseph Kirasich, Jeff Haven, Will Havens and Andrew Henningsen, should help the team make an impact in the division.

Rice University

Due to the graduation, Rice could face the challenge of the year in the CWPA as the team will need to replace players that accounted for ninety-seven percent of the team's scoring in 2007. However, the team maintains a solid goalie in Brent Stephens, and a technically sound offense focused around Nick Berndsen and Bryant Chan. Additionally, Craig Labbate, Edgardo Dos Santos and Chris Thomas, will aid in the Owls' title quest.

Texas A&M University

Texas A&M looks to improve off of its first conference championship in four years and a 13th place finish at Nationals last year. All seven starters, including conference MVP Matt Davis and All-America selection Brian Carey, return as a legitimate preseason national championship contender. Davis and Carey will look to lead both the offensive and defensive attack, as each will see time at two-meter offense and defense. Watch for Kyle Mendez, Brandon Lawver, and Cameron Glass to make firm contributions on the offensive end, as all three are naturally gifted scorers. Defensive specialist Brian Coyle will make a huge difference with his field blocking abilities as he averaged over three per game as a freshman. There will be good competition in cage as Kevin Goebel returns from an early injury last year to challenge incumbent goalie Braden Keith for the starting position. Jake Smith and Dustin Parker will play roles off the bench as they play both ends of the pool very well and have the ability to challenge for starting positions. Thomas Carmine and Roland Glenister will also see significant minutes as depth is the strongest asset of this team.

Texas State University

Profile not available

Texas Tech University

Texas Tech finished their first year in the CWPA in fourth place in the Texas Division. This year, the entire 2007 roster returns for at least one more season which should make Tech a contender for the division title and an automatic spot in the National Collegiate Club Championship. John Cogliandro and Ryan Schurdell return as the team's top scorers, while Justin Kloetzer and Ben Parker, who led the team in steals and assists respectively, also return to the pool. In goal, David Preston will remain the Red Raiders last line of defense. Texas Tech should have more depth to the line-up as several freshmen join the team.

University of Houston

After busy spring and summer seasons, Houston is looking forward to the upcoming fall competition. Five starters return for the Cougars, including three of the top four scorers from a year ago. Additionally, UH has added two freshmen that have extensive high school state championship experience, and can help the team move up the Texas Division standings.

University of Texas "A"

The Longhorns of Texas enter the season on unfamiliar footing as they fell to Texas A&M in the 2007 Texas Division Championship game to snap a four-year conference title win streak. Historically, Texas has appeared in all seven title games taking the 2003-06 crowns.

PoloBase

Water Polo Event Manager

PoloBase is the only fully-integrated scoring system for water polo for use by high school, collegiate, open, and club teams. With PoloBase, one person can run the entire scoring table with ease. PoloBase includes:

- One-button game and shot clock management
 - Game score sheet and box score reports
 - On-demand reports, including team and athlete stats
 - Scoreboard display manager

Designed by a USWP "A"-rated referee with more than 30 years experience in software development, PoloBase is available in a Base edition, an entry-level Club edition, and a FINA-compliant International edition.

PoloBase is an Official Supplier of the CWPA.

PoloBase meets all requirements of USWP, NFHS, NCAA, and CWPA.

PoloBase was used at the:

- 2001 National Junior Olympics in Ann Arbor, MI
- 2004 Men's National Collegiate Club Championships at Notre Dame University
- 2005 NCAA Women's National Championships at the University of Michigan

"PoloBase software is incredibly simple to use, and it permits teams to manage the desk with fewer people. This will make it much easier for teams to organize and run events, knowing they need less staff."

— Dan Sharadin
Commissioner, CWPA

"PoloBase software significantly reduces the chance of table errors. This allows our officials to focus more on the flow of the game and creates a better playing environment for the athletes, the coaches, and even the fans."

— Tom Tracey
Director of Officials, CWPA

"I ran PoloBase at the Junior Olympics and the Michigan Boys and Girls High School State Championship tournaments. Workers actually have fun using PoloBase!"

— David Stover
Ann Arbor Pioneer High School
