

UNDERSTANDING THE GAME OF WATER POLO

Water Polo can be a confusing game for spectators. The whistle is constantly blowing and the play never stops, even when someone is ejected for a penalty. In addition, there are many misconceptions about the game, including how the players keep their horses swimming. Well hang in there, because the following information should help to make the picture much clearer.

General Information

1. Each team has six field players and a goalie.
2. Field players can only use one hand to touch the ball, goalies two.
3. Games consist of 7-minute quarters for club divisions, 8-minute quarters for varsity divisions.
4. The object of the game is to score by placing the ball completely in the goal. Players may move the ball by swimming or passing.
5. Teams may substitute after a goal is scored, during a time-out or during the play from the ejection area.
6. Each team receives three time-outs and one 20-second time-out per game.
7. Shots blocked out of bounds by defensive players result in the defensive team receiving possession. If a defender uses two hands to block a shot, the offensive team receives a penalty shot.

Fouls

When an infraction of the rules occurs, the referee will point in the direction of the team taking possession, while blowing his whistle. The ball is put back into play with an action called a free throw. This means the player gets three seconds of free time to throw the ball to another teammate or swim it up the pool. A player cannot shoot his free throw unless outside the five-meter line. If the ball is not put into play within three seconds, the other team takes possession.

Fouls can be ordinary or major. Ordinary fouls are best understood as minor fouls. For example, a defender may reach over an opponent's back to get at the ball while facing away from the goal. The penalty for an ordinary foul is a free throw for the opposing team.

Major fouls are more severe and are penalized accordingly. For example, when a defender fouls an opponent too aggressively, or from behind when the opponent is facing the goal, the defender is ejected for 20 seconds (players may reenter the game if their team recovers the ball before the ejection time is up, or if the opposing team scores). When the foul occurs within five meters of the goal and the referee believes the player had a high chance of scoring, the opposition shoots a penalty shot. Major fouls can also occur through disrespect to the referee or when a player interferes with an opponent's free throw. Players may only receive three major fouls before elimination.

If all of this has you totally confused, just sit back and enjoy the game. The easiest way to follow the play is by watching the scoreboard. If your team is ahead at the end, great! If not, well consider that you have expanded your horizons. When the game is over, you can at least explain to your friends that the horses never get wet.

CWPA Sportsmanship Statement

The CWPA and the NCAA promote good sportsmanship by student-athletes, coaches and spectators. We request your cooperation by supporting the participants and officials in a positive manner. Profanity, racial or sexist comments, or other intimidating actions directed at the officials, student-athletes, coaches, event personnel or team representatives will not be tolerated and are grounds for removal from the site of competition. Also, consumption or possession of alcoholic beverages and tobacco products is prohibited.

Affiliate Organizations

There are many organizations affiliated with the sport of water polo and the landscape can be somewhat confusing when trying to sort out which entity offers what services. To make matters a little easier to understand, the organizations can be divided into two basic groups: scholastic and non scholastic. The scholastic organizations are those that have some affiliation with the educational system. These include college, high school, junior college and middle school teams, as well as their respective administrative bodies that offer competitive leagues and support. In this category you would find state sanctioning organizations, the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA), the National Association for Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA) and all the collegiate conferences recognized by the NCAA or NAIA. Each individual organization operates independently with its own governing structure.

The NCAA and the NAIA are two organizations that serve a unique position. They each provide a supervisory role for their member schools. The colleges and universities that are members of each respective organization choose to establish and follow a set of guidelines that govern competition. Specifically, these guidelines include eligibility, academic progress for their student-athletes, competitive rules, championship guidelines, recruiting, and financial aid.

Schools that become members of one of these organizations agree to abide by the rules and principles established within the organization. The NCAA and NAIA only provide oversight for the varsity teams on campus, not the collegiate clubs.

In addition to the NCAA and NAIA there are conferences that operate for the purpose of arranging competition for their member institutions. Some conferences like the Big East or Atlantic Coast Conference handle several sports, while others like the CWPA handle a single sport. With respect to water polo, all collegiate clubs that play competitively are members of the CWPA. To understand the difference between the league and the NCAA or NAIA, think of the conference on a smaller scale performing similar functions for its member institutions. The conference works with the NCAA and NAIA to help provide competitive opportunities and services, yet still remains an independent organization with its own governing system and budget.

Non-scholastic organizations include all other entities that provide the opportunity for people to be involved in the sport outside of an educational institution. These include YMCA's, Boys & Girls Clubs, parks & recreation programs, privately organized clubs, township/city programs, and independent organizations like American Water Polo. United States Water Polo fits under this category as well, serving as the National Governing Body for the sport. They are also responsible for supporting and training Olympic teams for men and women.

For more information about any specific organization, contact the CWPA office at 610-277-6787.

History of the CWPA

The Collegiate Water Polo Association originally began as the Mid Atlantic Conference, founded by Dick Russell (Bucknell University swimming & water polo coach) in the 1970's. Its founding membership included teams from Maryland, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and New York.

The management and oversight of the organization relied on volunteer coaches until 1990, when a commissioner was hired to perform basic scheduling for the 15-member teams in the league. Officiating assignments were performed at the time by an independent organization called the Eastern Water Polo Referees Association (EWPPA).

The next major milestone occurred in 1993, when the Southern and New England Conferences merged into the Mid Atlantic. The new structure combined all of the varsity teams in the East, along with the few sport clubs in existence at that time.

During the 1995 season, the conference received its first major challenge, as the organization experienced a strike by its officiating core. This strike ultimately resulted in the organization establishing its own officiating bureau, assuming responsibility for all of its officiating assignments. The conference hired Tere Ma as its inaugural Director of Officials and Loren Bertocci as its first Technical Director. These two individuals laid the groundwork for the Officiating Bureau that exists today.

Over the years, the Association has undergone dramatic changes:

1970's	The Mid Atlantic Conference is founded by Dick Russell.	2002	Men's Florida Division added. Men's Great Lakes Division added. Men's Midwest Division renamed the Ohio Valley Division. Membership increases to 124 men's teams and 91 women's teams totaling 215.
1990	The conference hires a commissioner to manage the league administration.	2003	Men's New England and North Atlantic Divisions realigned. Men's Division II Eastern Championship established. Membership steadies at 120 men's teams and 95 women's teams totaling 215. Office moves headquarters to Bridgeport after 13 years in Norristown.
1993	The New England and Southern Conferences merge into the Mid Atlantic. The conference changes its name to the Eastern Water Polo Association. Thirty-nine club and varsity teams participate in the new structure.	2004	Women's varsity teams realign to form Northern, Northeastern, Southern and Western Divisions. Men's Florida Division teams merge into Southeast Division. Men's Great Plains Division splits forming Great Plains and Missouri Valley Divisions. Membership grows to 126 men's teams and 98 women's teams totaling 224.
1994	The Association adds women's teams to its membership. Total membership equals 55 teams.	2005	Six women's varsity teams amicably leave to join the Metro Atlantic Athletic Conference and receive an automatic bid to the NCAA Championship. Remaining teams realign to form Northern, Western and Southern Divisions. Women's Atlantic and North Atlantic Divisions added. Women's National Collegiate Club Championship expands to 16 teams. Membership grows to 131 men's and 99 women's teams, totaling 230 teams.
1995	The conference ends its relationship with the Eastern Water Polo Referees Association and establishes its own officiating bureau. Tere Ma hired as the inaugural Director of Officials and Loren Bertocci hired as the first Technical Director. Men's Midwest division is added. Club championships are separated by division. Membership increases to 82 teams.	2006	Women's Atlantic Division merges with the Mid-Atlantic Division. Men's Ohio Valley Division members join Great Lakes and Missouri Valley Divisions. CWPA varsity teams establish a Technical Committee to oversee officiating education, evaluation and assignment for varsity contests. Membership grows to 138 men's and 96 women's teams, totaling 234 teams.
1996	Women's Midwest Division is added. Men's Southwest Division is added. Men's New York Division separates into regions to accommodate growth. Eastern Water Polo Association changes its name to Collegiate Water Polo Association to reflect the geographic representation of its membership. Membership rises to 95 teams.	2007	Women's Ohio Valley Division added. Women's Sierra Pacific Division added. Men's North Atlantic Division realigned to qualify for the Division III championship. Men's Florida and Rocky Mountain Divisions added. Education begins for referees and coaches via video clips on the website. Membership grows to 141 men's and 101 women's teams, totaling 242 teams.
1997	Women's Southwest Division is added. Women's Northern Division splits into New York and New England Divisions. Great Lakes Division is added. Men's New England Division splits to North Atlantic and New England Divisions. Membership reaches 110 teams.	2008	Women's Ohio Valley Division merges into Midwest Division. Membership grows to 143 men's and 100 women's teams, totaling 243 teams. CWPA launches new website.
1998	Northwest men and women's divisions added. Men's Pacific Coast Division added. Membership includes 40 women's teams and 97 men's teams, totaling 137.	2009	Big Ten men's club teams join the CWPA. CWPA initiates online education program for referees. CWPA Women's Division III Varsity Championship created New Team Leader orientation program established. Media Guide & cover win CoSIDA "Best in the Nation" Awards for conference publications. CWPA broadcasts men's championships for the first time Membership grows to 259 teams, including 161 men's and 98 women's programs.
1999	Women's Pacific Coast Division added. Midwest Women's Division reinstated. Men's Great Lakes Division changes its name to the Heartland Division. Men's Great Plains Division added. Membership increases to 52 women's teams and 107 men's teams totaling 159.	2010	Big Ten women's club teams join the CWPA. CWPA broadcasts women's championships for the first time. Membership grows to 272 teams, including 161 men's and 111 women's programs.

COMPETITIVE FORMAT

The Collegiate Water Polo Association is divided into two classes, varsity and sport club. Each class of membership is then divided into divisions based on geography.

Division I & II Varsity Class

Northern Division

Teams compete in a double round robin schedule within their division. The Division Champion is decided by the won/loss record from the regular season.

Southern Division

Teams compete in a double round robin schedule within their division to determine seeding for the championship. All teams attend the championship.

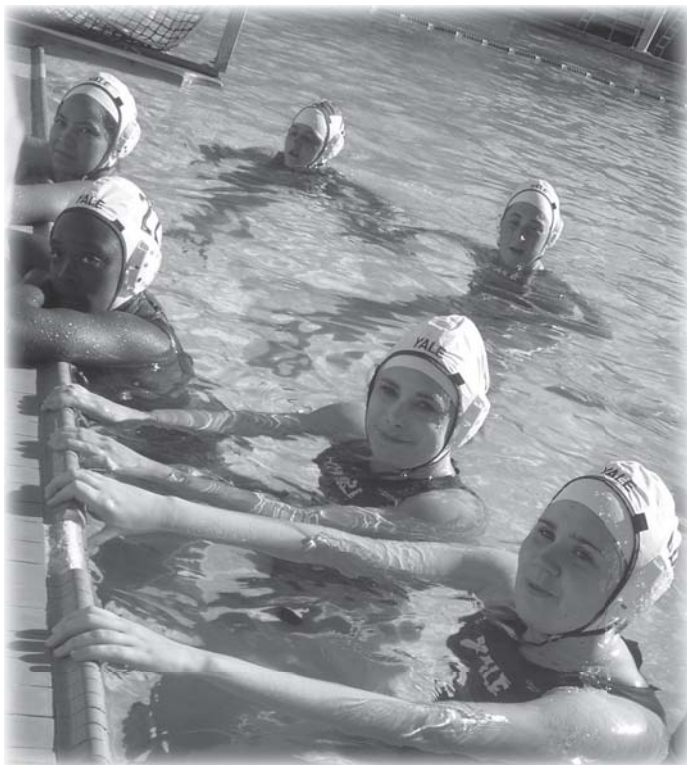

Western Division

Teams compete in a single round robin schedule. Seeding for the championship is based on the won/loss records from the regular season games, with all teams in attendance.

The top two teams from each division championship will move on to the Eastern Championship, accompanied by two teams chosen at-large by a committee. The first place team at the Eastern Championship qualifies for the NCAA National Championship, held in May.

Division III Varsity Class

Teams are divided into three regions based on geography and compete in a round robin format outside of their region and a double round robin format within their region over the course of two weekends. All teams attend the Division III championship with seeding based on the won/loss records during the regular season.

Sport Club Class

Teams are divided into divisions, based on geography. The top team from each division championship qualifies for the National Collegiate Club Championship.

Big Ten Division

Teams compete in a single round robin schedule over two weekends with additional seeding games drawn at random. All teams attend the championship tournament, with seeding based on the regular season won/loss records.

Heartland Division

Teams compete in a single round robin schedule over two weekends with additional seeding games drawn at random. All teams attend the championship tournament, with seeding based on the regular season won/loss records.

Mid Atlantic Division

Teams compete in a single round robin schedule within their region, in addition to a crossover tournament where they will play four opponents from the opposite region. All teams attend the championship tournament, which is separated into two groups, with the top seven teams from the regular season playing in one group and the remaining four teams in a second group. Seeding at the championship is determined by won/loss records from the regular season.

Midwest Division

Teams compete in a double round robin schedule over two weekends. All teams compete in the one-day championship, with seeding based on the regular season won/loss records.

New England Division

Teams compete in a double round robin schedule over two weekends. All teams attend the championship tournament, with seeding based on the regular season won/loss records.

New York Division

Teams compete in a double round robin schedule over two weekends. All teams attend the championship tournament, with seeding based on the regular season won/loss records.

North Atlantic Division

Teams compete in a double round robin schedule over two weekends. All teams attend the championship tournament, with seeding based on the regular season won/loss records.

Northwest Division

Teams compete in a single round robin schedule over two weekends with additional games drawn at random. All teams attend the championship, with seeding based on the regular season won/loss records.

Pacific Coast Division

Teams compete in a single round robin schedule over two weekends. All teams attend the championship, with seeding based on the regular season won/loss records.

Sierra Pacific Division

Teams compete in a single round robin schedule over two weekends with additional seeding games drawn at random. All teams attend the championship tournament, with seeding based on the regular season won/loss records.

Southeast Division

Teams compete in a double round robin schedule over two weekends. All teams attend the championship tournament, with seeding based on the regular season won/loss records.

Southwest Division

Teams are divided into two regions. Each team plays four games against opponents within their region, followed by a crossover weekend in which they will play teams from the opposing region. All teams attend the championship tournament, with seeding based on the regular season won/loss records.

Texas Division

Teams compete in a single round robin schedule over two weekends with additional seeding games drawn at random. All teams attend the championship tournament, with seeding based on the regular season won/loss records.

Tie Breaker System - All Situations

If at any time two teams are tied in regular season record or in goal differentials as you walk through the tie breaker system below, the result of their head-to-head competition breaks the tie.

Tie Breaker System - Two Teams

If the teams each beat one another, the goal differential in their games is used to break the tie. If the goal differential in their contests against one another is the same, the total of goals scored against each other is used. If the total of goals scored between the teams is equal, the differential for all common opponents seeded higher is used. If no common opponents are seeded higher, the goal differential against the highest seeded common opponent is used.

Tie Breaker System - Three or More Teams (for seeding championships)

If more than two teams are tied in won/loss records, goal differentials among the teams tied serves as the tiebreaker. If two teams are tied in goal differential, the head-to-head competition breaks the tie. If the goal differential in their contests against one another for all teams is the same, the total of goals scored against each other is used. If the total of goals scored among the teams is equal, the goal differential between common opponents seeded higher will be used to determine ranking. This may require calculating the goal differential per game if the number of games among common opponents is unequal. Should teams be tied in won/loss record and they have not played each other, goal differentials against common opponents that are seeded above them are used to break the tie. If no common opponents are seeded higher, the goal differential against the highest seeded common opponent is used.

(for advancement w/in championships)

If more than two teams are tied in won/loss records, goal differentials among the teams tied serves as the tiebreaker. If the goal differential in their contests against one another is the same, the total of goals scored against each other is used. If the total of goals scored between the teams is equal, their original seeding will serve as the tiebreaker. If the totals are tied at any time between two of the three teams, the tie is broken by their head-to-head result.

Goal Differential

Goal differential is a term used to describe the difference between goals scored against an opponent and the number of goals scored by an opponent against a particular team.

CWPA VARSITY DIVISION I TEAM PROFILES

NORTHERN DIVISION

Brown University

Brown University will look to return to the Eastern Championship this year after placing fourth at the 2009 championship hosted by Harvard University and placing second in the CWPA Northern Division. Led by seniors Sarah Glick, Stephanie Laing and Lauren Presant, the Bears return two First Team All-Eastern selections. On offense, Glick and Presant look to add to their school record totals in goals and assists. They will be aided by Joanna Wolhmuth at the center position, with Rita Bullwinkel and Samantha Ryu at attack. Freshmen Brittany Westerman, Claudia Ruiz and Avery Mosser should also factor on the offensive end by providing depth and speed. Defensively, Laing will look to repeat as an All-America selection. Center defenders Kat Stanton and Kat Booher will be relied on to control the front of the cage.

Hartwick College

Hartwick College water polo brings back all but two players from last season's squad which finished the year 28-12, won its ninth straight CWPA North crown and advanced to the CWPA Eastern Championship finals. The Hawks return their four top point producers from 2009, including ACWPC honorable mention All-America selections Kirsten Hudson and Jessica McKee. Hudson, the only Hartwick player to earn the honor three times in College history, recorded one of the most impressive seasons of any player at Hartwick since the program's inception. She became the first player to break the 200-point mark in a single season, broke the all-time goals and points records and reached the 500-point mark for her career. Further, she was named the Eastern Championship Most Valuable Player for the second time in three years and earned first team All-Tournament honors for the third straight time. A CWPA Northern Division First Team all-star for the third consecutive season, she earned her division's Player of the Week award four times during the 2009 season. McKee concluded the year with 65 goals and 44 assists for 109 points to rank second on the team in goals behind Hudson and recorded the 10th highest single-season point total in the history of the water polo program. A second team selection at the Eastern Championships, McKee now has 119 goals and 80 assists for 199 points at Hartwick. Stalwarts Christina Evans and Jessica Dorman also are back for Hartwick. Evans received All-North honors for the first time in her successful three-year career. In 2009, Evans was second on the team in goals (65) and points (84). On the college's career charts, she ranks seventh in points (249), seventh in steals (150), and is tied for fifth in goals (182). Dorman was a second team CWPA All-North pick and a second team selection at the Eastern Championship last year. Dorman, in just two seasons, now has accumulated 809 stops in the Hawks' cage. Sophomores Shannon Leonard (21g, 47a), Sian Ells-Tewhiu (48g, 17a), Allyssa Analytis (31g, 14a), and Lisa Bass (20g, 14a) also return for the Hawks. In addition, seventh-year head coach Alan Huckins, who has racked up a record of 177-63 while piloting the Hawks, welcomes 11 talented newcomers to the lineup as the team searches for its fourth NCAA Tournament berth in the last seven seasons.

Harvard University

The Harvard University women's water polo team looks to elevate into the elite of the Collegiate Water Polo Association this season. The Crimson finished 2009 with a 12-16 overall record and a 3-4 mark in the CWPA Northern Division, good for fourth in the conference. The team also placed third at the CWPA Northern Division Championships and seventh at the Eastern Championship. Due to the CWPA realigning the Northern Division following the creation of a Division III group, Harvard, Brown University and Hartwick College are the only remaining members. The Crimson will face both teams twice during the regular-season. With only three teams in the division, the top two finishing teams will advance to the CWPA Eastern Championship against the best two teams from both the Southern and Western Divisions, in addition to two at-large selections. The Crimson returns 85 percent of its scoring from a year ago, including sophomore Devan Kennifer who lead the team with 80 tallies. Kennifer is also the reigning CWPA Northern Division Rookie of the Year and was selected to the CWPA All-Northern Division first team. She was also named to the All-Eastern Championship Tournament team, as well as the Rookie of the Tournament. Sophomore Monica Zdrojewski, a CWPA All-Northern Division second team honoree who scored 39 goals last season, also returns for the 2010 campaign. Harvard also returns sophomore goaltender Laurel McCarthy, who accumulated 52 saves and seven wins last season. McCarthy is the lone netminder on the Crimson's roster for 2010. Seniors Kelly Peeler and Kristina Bergquist will serve as team captains for this season. Peeler, an attacker hailing from Westfield, N.J., found the back of the net nine times in 2009. Bergquist, who is a native of Danville, Calif., tallied six goals last season during her junior year. The Crimson boasts a young squad with loads of experience. Harvard welcomes four freshmen to the program for the upcoming season and returns 13 veterans: three seniors, four juniors and six sophomores.

SOUTHERN DIVISION

Bucknell University

Bucknell University returns five of its six top scorers from last year's squad that went 18-17 and posted the program's fourth above-.500 finish in five years. Leading the Bison offense is senior co-captain and two-time Honorable Mention All-America selection Valentina Rozas. She totaled 73 goals and 97 points last year and enters her final season fourth in career goals (190) and sixth in career points (255) at Bucknell. Junior Kandis Canonica, who has 125 assists in 71 career games, and senior co-captain Shana Palencia, who has seen her goal total go from 18 to 42 to 49 over her career, will also help offset the loss of Honorable Mention All-America honoree Aubrey Rowe to graduation. Senior Alison Carter, who ranks third in school history with 460 career saves, is expected to be the primary starter in goal for a third consecutive season. Sophomore Amanda Skonezney, who won 77-of-143 sprints last year, will continue as the Bison's primary sprinter. On the bench, two-time CWPA Southern Division Coach of the Year John Abdou, who is 44-27 in his two years at the helm of the program, will seek to take the Bison to their first Eastern Championship title game since 1994.

George Washington University

Head coach Scott Reed is confident this year's George Washington University team is experienced and talented enough to return the program back to where it finished its inaugural season a decade ago – battling for the CWPA Southern Division title and competing in the Eastern Championship. With eight upperclassmen returning and five underclassmen adding depth at every position, Reed is aiming for a team-oriented approach this spring. "We're hoping to spread our scoring around, with a pair of all-conference players in sophomore Allison Peotter and senior Marissa Stamler leading the attack. We're also looking to be one of the best defensive teams in the conference," notes Reed. Peotter and Stamler accounted for nearly half of GW's goals and points in 2009. Peotter became the first GW freshman to earn First Team All-South honors after pacing the team in goals (49), points (84), steals (75) and sprints won (70) last season. Even after a standout rookie year in which she also set the program's single-season mark with 35 assists, Peotter is embracing a set-up role to make the Colonials' attack more well-rounded in 2010. Stamler was named to the All-South Second Team for the second consecutive season, totaling 42 goals and 27 assists as a junior. Adding to the attack are senior Bernadette Karandy, junior Erin Delker and freshman Jessie Hurd. Karandy and Delker combined for 13 goals and 23 assists last season and are expected to spark the Colonials' counterattack with their speed. Hurd will contribute immediately, while senior Emily Chereson, junior Melissa Sesana and sophomore Megan Walker will form a three-player rotation at center. Chereson thrives on creating man-advantage opportunities and already ranks second all-time at GW with 113 ejections drawn. Walker enjoyed a solid rookie campaign, ranking second behind Chereson with 34 ejections drawn and third on the team with 27 goals. Defensively, the Colonials will rely on seniors Tara Sullivan and Sarah Fitch at utility and junior Charlotte Schou in goal. Sullivan provided a boost in the attack with 16 goals and 26 assists, third-highest on the team behind Peotter and Stamler, while Fitch ranked third on the team with 38 steals. In her first season as starting goalkeeper for the Colonials, Schou finished with 286 blocks, just five shy of GW's single-season mark. In addition, sophomore Antonia Raris, who totaled 27 saves in eight quarters of action last spring, and freshman Rebecca Kipnis will serve as back-ups behind Schou.

Princeton University

Princeton University enters the 2010 season looking to regain the Southern Championship after falling to the University of Maryland in the title game a season ago. The Tigers were 16-14 a season ago. A trio of seniors in Carolina Ardila, Phoebe Champion and Helen Meigs will lead Princeton this year as all three will serve as co-captains. Ardila currently ranks eighth all-time at Princeton with 58 assists and 16th with 79 career goals. The reigning Southern Division Most Valuable Player, a three-time All-South and two-time All-East selection, Champion ranks among the program leaders as she is seventh all-time at Princeton with 124 goals and fourth with 66 career assists. Meigs was an All-Southern choice last year and currently ranks first at Princeton with 161 career assists, more than double the player in second place, and holds the three top single-season assist totals. She also ranks 14th in career goals with 84. Princeton returns eight of its top nine scorers from last season. That group also includes junior Lauren Brunner, a two-time All-Southern Division choice, and junior Tanya Wilcox, who earned All-South honors as a freshman. Defensively, Princeton will rely on sophomore goalkeeper Kristen Ward, who was a first-team All-South choice last season and had a .560 save percentage.

University of Maryland

The University of Maryland is coming off its best finish in the six-year existence of the program, posting a third-place showing at the 2009 CWPA Eastern Championship. The Terrapins have high hopes for the 2010 campaign due to the return of seven players who started at least one game last season, including Elina Goldenberg and Shannon Simerly, and a number of talented youngsters that should make an immediate impact in 2010. Goldenberg set the Maryland single-season scoring record in 2009 with 55 goals, while Simerly tallied 32, which was fourth on the team. Carly Hoshko, Allison Beck, Christine Goetsch and Meghan Powers, all of whom produced double-digit goal outputs last season, should help make up for the departure of All-America picks Elizabeth Hopkins and Blaise Stanicic. Junior Shelby Reyes, who played in 14 games last season, is expected to take over for record-setting netminder Ashleigh Jobson. Sophomore Leanne Spedding should push Reyes for playing time. The Terps roster should also be buoyed by the addition of six freshmen, including Allison Campbell who competed in the 2009 Water Polo Junior World Championship.

WESTERN DIVISION

Gannon University

Gannon University returns 11 letterwinners from last season's 11-8 squad. The Lady Knights lost only three players from their 2009 squad and return 87 percent of their scoring after finishing third at the CWPA Western Division Championships with an 11-10 victory over rival Mercyhurst in the third-place match. Head coach Don Sherman's program returns its top four scorers. Senior Annie Greenhill is the top returning scorer with 44 goals, 17 assists and 42 steals last season. Sophomore Molly Andrews had 27 goals, six assists and 30 steals. Sophomore Colleen Harriger and senior Kendra Plackemeier complete the top returning four with 26 and 23 goals, respectively. Sophomore Libbie Guina returns in goal after posting a 9.31 goals against average and .329 save percentage last season.

Indiana University

Indiana University enters the 2010 season with plenty of experience, as the Hoosiers return 16-lettertwinners and six starters from a 2009 team that finished with a 21-16 overall record and a 6-1 mark in CWPA Western Division play. Head coach Barry King will deploy a balanced attack that includes Kelsey Campbell, an All-Western Division First Team selection, and Lauren Wyckoff, the team's leading scorer from last year. All-Western Division Second Team choice Nicole Redder and Kelly Palmberg will also contribute to the Hoosiers' attack this season. 2009 Western Division Rookie of the Year Jakie Kohli also returns and will look to take Indiana to the next level while building on her impressive freshman campaign. The goalkeeper position will be one of the team's biggest strengths with the return of Cassie Wyckoff and Katie Carson. The pair of talented keepers performed well throughout the 2009 season while splitting time in the cage.

Mercyhurst College

With 13 players returning from a team that made a late run to end the 2009 season, head coach Curtis Robinette has high expectations for his 2010 Mercyhurst College women's water polo team. "A lot of our players we started last season were freshmen and transfers," said Robinette. "Once they got some games under their belts, they played great, especially in the second half. They're a talented bunch that should pick up right where they left off last year." Robinette's lineup in 2010 should look a lot like 2009's, just with more experience. Junior Rachel Griepsma returns after leading the team in scoring for a second-straight season. Despite playing in 19 games due to injury, Griepsma reeled off 48 goals and 54 points to earn All-CWPA and All-American honors after the season. "Rachel definitely made the transition easier for the newcomers. Her drive to score made teams focus on her and open up some of the other players." Junior Nicole Nelson and sophomore Laura Perez might have benefited from that with big numbers in their first seasons on the team. Nelson, a transfer from Illinois State, ranked second on the team in goals (21) and placed fourth in points (37) while Perez, a true freshman last season, netted 38 points, caused 34 turnovers and drew 33 ejections. "Laura was one of our best all-around players. Her play tremendously helped out on both offense and defense." The Lakers saw another newcomer step up on defense as well, as sophomore goaltender Hope Rozelle started 18 games as a first-year player. "A lot was asked of Hope to start as a freshman in goal last season, but she learned so much from that experience. We have a lot of confidence in her abilities and that confidence will allow us to be more creative on defense this year."

Salem International University

Salem International University returns to the Collegiate Water Polo Association following a brief absence with the long-term goal of reaching and capturing the Eastern Championship tournament and building a dynasty in the league. Although small in numbers, the Tigers are excited to build the foundation for the SIU water polo program as Salem International will seek to be competitive in the CWPA now and in the future.

University of Michigan

The University of Michigan Wolverines will be a different looking team as they seek a third straight Collegiate Water Polo Association Eastern Championship. With the loss of the most successful class in program history, senior Leah Robertson and juniors Alison Mantel, Cara Reitz and Lauren Orth will be turned to on offense to fill the void. Robertson, a two-time All-America selection, and fellow All-America pick Mantel combined for 159 points and 119 steals a year ago. Two-time All-Western Division first team goalkeeper Brittany May returns to the U-M cage and, with four strong underclassmen as her back-up, looks to continue the Michigan legacy in net. Michigan will have 14 rookies on the roster for the 2010 season and will count on the continuing development of sophomores Meagan Cobb and Morgan Turner. In addition to seeking the program's ninth division crown and fifth Eastern Championship title in 2010, Michigan is looking to become the first CWPA team of the modern era to reach the 250-win plateau. The Wolverines enter the new decade with a 248-105-1 record, winning at a .702 clip. Ranked seventh in the final poll of the 2009 season, Michigan will seek to continue a string of success which earned the program the title of "CWPA Women's Varsity Team of the Decade" in balloting by league fans. The Maize and Blue claimed four conference titles during the decade, emerging as Eastern champions in 2002, 2005, 2008 and 2009. Since finishing second in the Western Division during its inaugural season, U-M has rattled off eight consecutive division championship runs.

CWPA VARSITY DIVISION III

TEAM PROFILES

DIVISION III

Carthage College

Carthage College comes into this season and the Collegiate Water Polo Association with a renewed passion as the Lady Reds will seek to capture the newly-formed CWPA Division III title. First-year head coach Sarah Denny and returning captains Jessi Shopiro and Patti Blatter will help the team move forward with strong leadership. A strong offense will keep the momentum going and a solid defense anchored by three outstanding goalies will make the Lady Reds a formidable team.

Chatham University

Chatham University enters its second season of varsity play. The Cougars return leading scorers Selina Breiner and Natty Burford to lead the offensive attack, while goalie Chelsea Mummert will once again anchor the defense. Newcomers Lyndsay Minnich, Brianna Britos-Swain, Claire Thomas and Sachelle Taylor should provide a spark for the team in 2010 as Chatham works to build on a 3-10 mark and seventh place finish in the CWPA Western Division last year.

Connecticut College

Connecticut College welcomes seven freshmen this year to a team which finished the 2009 season with a 4-7 mark. Led by senior co-captains Phoebe Bakanas and Jaki Fishkin, as well as juniors Ada Spahjia and Jordan Kohnstam, the team will rely on defensive focus, a strong work ethic and overall patience to key the squad's success in 2010. The sophomore class will also play a role in a postseason title drive as Katie Mullaley and Lora Ramano will compete with Emily Hunter on top of the scoring leader board, while Lily Polatchek is expected to anchor the defense from between the pipes.

Grove City College

The Lady Wolverines of Grove City College will seek to continue their climb to the top of the CWPA and remain a national contender in Division III. Grove City will be relying on their veteran leadership as they return nine players from last season's squad that finished 13-13, including senior captains Kate Stiebler and Amanda Thompson. Stiebler, a two-time All-America recipient, led the team with 43 goals and 21 assists, while Thompson was not far behind with 34 goals and 15 assists. Returners Lauren Baur, Chelsea Johnson and Brittany LaPalme will be depended on to make key contributions this year. Under the direction of new head coach Jon Miller, Grove City should be in position to contend for the CWPA Division III championship this season.

Macalester College

On the heels of a seventh place finish at the Division III National Collegiate Championship, the Macalester College Scots will need to rebuild in a new league as only seven of last season's top 12 players return to a run at the Collegiate Water Polo Association Division III title. A key challenge will be replacing goalie Sofia Shaw, co-Most Valuable Player for the Midwest region, who finished the season with a Macalester single season record of 403 saves. Shaw played a crucial role in the team's success. Relying on senior co-captain Sarah Ellerton, who led the Scots with 66 goals and 96 steals last season,

Macalester will seek to improve its record. The squad will be stable at the two-meter position with Catherine Flint, while Harris Grigopolous and co-captain Jillian Benson will key the defense. Ramona McCabe and Melinda Vogel will supply contributions on offense.

Pennsylvania State University, Erie-The Behrend College

Pennsylvania State University, Erie-The Behrend College looks to improve on its finish from last season and dominate on the way to the newly created CWPA Division III championship. Captains Jenna Zeyfang and Danielle Wilson, along with senior Jenny LaFuria will lead the team. Juniors Tegan Boland and Jillian Sebrosky along with sophomores Kendell Duffy, Hilary MacManus and Anne Lawrence will bring their experience from last season to add to the Lions' offense and defense. A key to the team's title hopes will be the play of the program's freshmen. MaryEllen Spooner, Kim Ballentine and Stef Pontillo bring experience to the offensive end of the pool, while Kelly Wehner will add speed to the defensive end.

Utica College

Utica College begins the first season of Collegiate Water Polo Association Division III play with high hopes and talented players to help the team come out on top of the competitive structure. The Pioneers return all seven starters from the 2009 campaign to boast many leaders in and out of the pool. Junior Amanda Sulicz, sophomore Lisa Torii and freshman Bea Butler will see substantial playing time this year, while Alyssa Cortese, Kristine Wowelko and Sarah Gross will be the backbone of the Utica offense.

Washington & Jefferson College

Washington & Jefferson College will experience change for the third time in four years as former Salem International University men's head coach Greg Jones takes over the program and hopes to improve upon last year's 11-14 finish which included a sixth-place showing at the Collegiate III National Championship. Goalie Polly Ziegler will lead the Presidents early on after an All-America season a year ago with a career-high 264 saves. Senior Jessica Barby bolsters the Presidents' offense. Barby will have to fill the void left by Alicia Sutton, who graduated as the school's all-time leading scorer, as Barby contributed 31 goals and 36 assists in 2009. Seniors Katie Silvestri and Erica Harpur will serve as veteran leaders for a roster which features five juniors, three freshmen and one sophomore. Silvestri and Harpur combined to produce 22 goals and 18 assists last season. This year's senior class is hoping to make its third trip to the Collegiate III National Championship. The foursome has won 27 matches over the past three seasons.

Wheaton College

Although Wheaton College lost five players to graduation or attrition, including graduated All-America selection Hannah Veldt, the 2010 season looks promising for the Thunder as five experienced freshmen players join the program. Add in the presence of All-America selection Heather Crockett and Emma Higgins-Morris, the 2010 Wheaton team looks like a serious contender for the first-ever Collegiate Water Polo Association Division III title in the program's first season in the CWPA. Last season, the team came on strong down the stretch. However, this year the team will need to build a cohesion early due to the large influx of new players and the load of being in the new league.

CWPA CLUB TEAM PROFILES

BIG TEN DIVISION

Indiana University

The Hoosiers of Indiana University join the Collegiate Water Polo Association with one goal in mind: to capture the first-ever Big Ten Division Championship in the CWPA and advance to the 2010 National Collegiate Club Championship hosted by the University of Arizona.

Michigan State University

The Michigan State University women's water polo team has been among the most consistent teams in the Big Ten, never placing less than third in the Big Ten and Midwest Regional Championships while claiming the National Collegiate Club Championship title three out of the eight appearances made. The Spartans return an accomplished team with a strong defensive core that should transition into a well-rounded and intimidating offense. With the addition of seven talented freshmen for the 2010 season, Michigan State is ready to compete to their highest potential under the leadership of a confident and experienced senior class. The team is ready to face the challenges this season will bring and win back the Big Ten Championship title after falling to the University of Michigan a year ago. With a new coaching staff headed by experienced players Chase Plank and Timmy Wickes, the team has big expectations for the 2010 season. A challenging schedule will keep the Spartan's focus on maintaining a championship program, which means challenging for the Big Ten Division title and qualifying for a trip to the National Championship at the University of Arizona.

Purdue University

The Boilermakers of Purdue University return this season hopeful about their chances to advance to the National Collegiate Club Championship. Anchoring the team at two-meter offense is Alaina Matthews, a two time All-Big Ten Second Team recipient, who will be a great asset to both the offense and defense. Juniors Mary O'Shea, Natalie Pike and Claire Hacking who provide the team with solid outside shooting ability and counter-attack speed. Purdue lost two starting players from last season and their absence will be greatly felt. Speed will be key for the squad as Courtney Wininger and Heather Moore will aid in the team's transition. Lauren Pawlowski heads up the two-meter defense and is expected to lend a hand in the perimeter shooting. Boasting a large and deep quantity of sophomores, in addition to a slew of freshmen, this year's team is young, but hopeful about its chances for a trip to the desert.

University of Illinois

The Fightin' Illini join the Collegiate Water Polo Association as part of the Big Ten Division looking to make an immediate impact on the league by knocking off long-time powerhouse Michigan State University and 2009 Big Ten champion the University of Michigan.

University of Iowa

After a challenging 2009 Season, the Iowa Hawkeyes are back and ready to battle in 2010. The team has trained diligently throughout the off season to return as a threat in the Big Ten Division. Under the leadership of co-captains Jenna Georgacakis and Sydney Werd, the Hawkeyes have developed into team of solid athletes who work together and fight to the finish. Iowa's starting two-meter defenders of Werd and sophomore Lynna Malloy will impose their will in front of the cage. In goal, freshman Jill Nagle frustrates shooters with her quick hands and can toss accurate outlet passes to ignite the offense. The team's drivers of sophomores Kailey Arrivo and Jenna Nagle, along with freshmen Katie Kopale and Vanessa Thompson, will provide excellent movement on the offensive end. At the heart of the Hawkeyes' offense, juniors Jenna Georgacakis and Desiree Baenen share time at two-meters, both racking up points with their sleek sweep shots and brutal backhands. Overall, the team has grown into a well-rounded and cohesive unit that works as one to run a tight press defense and vigorous motion offense. Throughout the 2010 season, look to the Hawkeyes for dynamic physical play and a ruthlessly unforgiving attitude.

University of Michigan

The 2009 Big Ten champion University of Michigan Wolverines placed seventh at the National Collegiate Club Championship at the University of California-Davis last year. Unfortunately for their opponents, Michigan returns in strength for the new year having lost only one starter from the last year's Nationals line-up. The team has gained several very promising freshmen to provide the team with much greater depth. A player to watch is goalie Kathryn Godlewski, who dominated in cage for the Wolverines during the 2009 Big Ten season and at the National Collegiate Club Championship. Seniors Sarah Peterson, Allison Born, Cara Finn and Aleis Pugia enter into their final campaign with high hopes and are once again ready to lead the team to victory.

University of Wisconsin

The University of Wisconsin Badgers enter the new season with three goals in mind: outlast the snow, bring the Big Ten Division Championship home and earn a trip to the Southwest to compete in the 2010 Women's National Collegiate Club Championship at the University of Arizona.

HEARTLAND DIVISION

Carleton College

The Carleton College Knights look forward to an exciting, fun-filled season. Despite graduating four players from last year's star-studded team, including four time All-Heartland Division selection Becky Alexander, the Knights jump into the 2010 season with a strong line-up and high expectations. Three All-Heartland Division players return, including sophomore co-captain Arielle Rebek, 2009 Heartland Division Most Valuable Player, goalie and co-captain Hannah Nerenhausen, and leading scorer Maggie Alexander. The lineup is bolstered by the return of experienced utility players including Ellen Esch, Eleonore Dixon-Roche and Hannah Heavenrich. Freshman Nora Cassidy is also anticipated to make an immediate impact. The team will turn to coaches Brian Schuster and Brendan Cassidy for leadership and inspiration as they try to defend their position as Heartland Division champions with hopes of heading to the sun and sand of the Southwest for a chance at the National Collegiate Club Championship at the University of Arizona. Overall, the Knights anticipate a successful season and look forward to having a lot of fun.

Grinnell College

After achieving fifth place in the Heartland Division Championship, the Black Sheep of Grinnell College look to improve upon last season's finish. Although the team graduated five seniors, including three starters, Grinnell is confident in their chances with a strong team of returning and rookie players. As a younger team, the Black Sheep will benefit from the experience and leadership of senior defensive player Alex Peitz, former All-Heartland Division player Carolyn Wright, junior driver Andrea Leiser and returning goalie Hannah Lytle. The program will also draw strength from younger players, including outside shooter Megan Januska and freshmen players Lindsay Schwartz and Alex Staff.

Illinois State University

Illinois State University is excited to enter their second year in the Collegiate Water Polo Association. Last year, the team surprised many with their energy and skill level, especially for a program comprised of mostly freshmen such as two-meter Ashley Rampick and goalie Courtney Monaghan. Other members who are returning include captains Danielle Soudan and Lauren Fairburn, who are both experienced and excellent defensive players. While Illinois State shows immense strength on defense, they also bring to the table a new weapon this year -- speed. Freshmen Alex Bielski, Lindsay McCool, sophomore Erin Hayden, and junior Christine Byron enter the season as some of the fastest and most skillful players to play in the history of the program. The 2010 team is stacked with speed and talent, which should make them a contender.

Iowa State University

After placing seventh in the Heartland Division last year, the Iowa State University Cyclones are excited for the 2010 season. Several freshmen recruits will bolster an already strong line-up that includes several experienced veteran players, including 2009 All-Heartland Division First Team selection Rachel Goldsmith and outstanding goalie Maggie Goldsmith.

Knox College

The Burning Squirrels of Knox College look forward to an exciting season with their goals set on bettering last year's third place finish at the Heartland Division Championship. Knox returns six-of-seven starting players from the 2009 squad, in addition to a crop of new talent. Led by co-captains Sara Dreiser and Kelley O'Connor, the Burning Squirrels are looking for strong offensive contributions from sophomores Anne Heberle, Laura Blue and Katherine Miller. On defense, the team anticipates seniors Lu Yaeger and Kaylin Maanum to pick-up most of the load in keeping their opponents off the scoreboard. Sophomores Tory Kassabaum, Anna Dvorak and Bekah Bally should all be more seasoned than a year ago, while freshman Anna Claypool is expected to make some waves as well. Rounding out the team are talented international students Emilie Perrot and Carina Schroeder.

Lindenwood University

The Lady Lions of Lindenwood University will strive to improve on their second place finish at the Heartland Division Championship tournament. All-Conference players Stacy Fisher and Sarah Hannah return for the Lions, while other returning starters include Dee Fleuriot, Lucia Crivolio and Nikki Andre. Furthering the return of experience will be Jenna Nakamoto and Briana Preiss. Incoming freshmen who could see a dramatic load of playing time include Chelsea Simon, Kayla Kutinac, Paige Reeb and Ashley Juby.

Saint Mary's University (Mo.)

One of two new teams in the Heartland Division this year, Saint Mary's University will work to shock the rest of the Heartland Division and put itself in contention for a shot at the title by the end of the season.

Washington University (Mo.)

Washington University in St. Louis makes its debut this year as a member of the Heartland Division after previously competing in the Midwest Division. Ripe with young talent including many freshmen and sophomores who are ready to hit the road, the Bears retained leaders Tara Benesch, Stephanie Lindsey, Nicole Tatz, Karen Heisler and Rebecca Harris after losing several key players to graduation. The team's seniors provide excellent examples for their fellow teammates by working hard and demonstrating excellent sportsmanship.

MID-ATLANTIC DIVISION

Carnegie Mellon University

The Carnegie Mellon University women's water polo club enters its first competitive season in the Collegiate Water Polo Association. Having competed in combination with the men's team in years prior during the fall season, the 2010 season will prove to be a new challenge for even the Tartans most experienced players. Co-captains Clare McKendry and Nicole Carter, along with returning players Fiona Cormack, Dyanna Becker and Myrka Lembo, will provide the core of the team, along with freshmen Lea Masatsugu, Alice Tripp and Adrienne Chum. In addition, several new, younger players, all of whom are working hard to learn the game and ensure the squad with competitive players, are the hope for continued success and growth in the years to come for Carnegie Mellon water polo.

Duke University

Duke University is excited to begin the 2010 season after finishing sixth in the Mid-Atlantic Division during the 2009 season. In pre-season play, Duke went undefeated at the Southern Belle Classic tournament the program hosted in November. The team welcomes five new and potential impact players in freshmen drivers Justine Sinnaeve, Laura Broadhead, Joyce Yu and Birdie Rodriguez, in addition to graduate student Ally Heaney at two-meters. Following a year in which the squad lost a number of players to injury, the Blue Devils are looking forward to starting the season with many fresh players. Boasting a combination of new and experienced players, Duke hopes to continue its undefeated run into league play. The Blue Devils are also excited about the return of award-winning goalie Sara Pilzer and two-meter powerhouse Melissa Chernick to bolster a deep line-up which includes returning field players Jenny Lin, Monique Barrios, Kaitlin Solera, Robyn Schwartzman, Lauren Stival and Ashley DiSilvestro.

James Madison University

James Madison University looks to be very successful in the 2010 season anchored by the impenetrable goaltending of senior Emily Fano and a dedicated group of returners after losing two starters to graduation. The defense is rock-solid with Courtney Versfield and Lauren Rotsted at two-meter defense, as well as great defensive play by Allie Krafft, Allison Spangler and newcomer Lauren Davis. The Dukes are led by Alli Chaplin and Megan Flosdorf at two-meters on the offensive end, with the speed of Heidi Lindenfesler, Kelly Foelber, and Katie Bain bolstering a powerful scoring attack. Katie Jenkins, Chelsea Verdin, Jillian Pope, Shannon McKernin and a large group of eager newcomers add more depth off the bench for the Dukes than any previous incarnation of the program.

Pennsylvania State University

Pennsylvania State University returns most of its players from a 2009 season in which the Nittany Lions placed third in the Mid-Atlantic Division for a second consecutive year. Senior Kristi Falco is back after missing the previous campaign studying abroad in Australia, while junior Alexis Cherewka comes back to State College after spending the fall semester in Spain. Looking to claim the program's first division crown since 2005, Penn State will rely on the experience of senior Samantha Thompson and goalie Amy Magerman to lead the team. The Lions are packed with experience, but also expect a core group of underclassmen to bring enthusiasm and energy to the team. In loving memory of Jon Quigley, a member of the men's team who passed away in a car accident over the summer, the women's team will sport the initials JQ on their suits this year.

University of Pennsylvania

Following their best ever finish at the 2009 National Collegiate Club Championship, the University of Pennsylvania is looking forward to another successful season. Guided by senior captains Elizabeth Lawrence and Natasa Kordic, the Quakers are hoping to continue a tradition of excellence in the Mid-Atlantic Division and strive to improve upon last year's fourth place finish at the National Collegiate Club Championship. Lawrence, the 2009 Mid-Atlantic Conference Most Valuable Player and an All-America Honorable Mention selection, will take charge from the cage once again with All-Mid-Atlantic Division pick Kordic leading the offense. The Quakers will look to Kris Miller to direct the defensive effort and all-around strength will be provided by Soleil Roberts, a four-time All-Conference honoree (2006-2009), and senior Megan Calpin. The offense will be bolstered by strong perimeter shooting from juniors Amanda Zwarenstein, a 2009 All-Conference second team pick, Winnie Eastwood, and sophomore Kathryn Nary. New additions Julie Miller, Julia Zhang and Olivia Lenz provide versatility and depth. The addition of youth to the already strong line-up of veteran players is an unstoppable combination as the University of Pennsylvania vies for its fifth consecutive division championship.

University of Pittsburgh

The University of Pittsburgh will strive to better its fourth place finish at the Mid-Atlantic Championship last year. After graduating three seniors, Pitt will turn to the leadership of graduate student Erin Murphy and seniors Leah Cozzens, Sarah Dudeck, Lauren Martin and Courtlyn Mummert. Meg Milloy is expected to lead the offensive attack, while Caitlin Langton. Annie Brown, Kara Stone and Virginia Thistle will add to Pitt's speed and versatility. Goalie Lisa Czerniewski is set to anchor the team's notoriously tough defense. Tara Martin and Kelly Anne Tierney should add depth off the bench for the Panthers as they work towards another successful season.

University of Richmond

Although the University of Richmond Spiders lost a few key seniors, they have gained some new talent. Caitlin Manak, Ally Capriotti-Grant and Marie Lawrence return to head up the offense with Erin Michaud providing solid defense for the team's strong foundation. Newcomers Katie Murphy, Alyssa Porazzo, Emily Schworer and Cory Widdowson will provide the added numbers and revitalization this program needs to improve on a seventh place mark in the division from a year ago. Add in the experience of Meg Schroeder and steady net-minding of goalie Amanda Benjamin as the Spiders could make a run at the title in just their second year back in the CWPA.

University of Virginia

The University of Virginia will work to improve its final position in the Mid-Atlantic Division standings by one place this year as the Cavaliers placed second in the division last year. Guiding the team in its campaign for the title will be Chris Warneke who returns to coach Virginia after greatly contributing to the program's past successes. All-Conference star Kelly Benedict and leading scorers Joanna Curran and Dana Gulbransen return for another season, while Karen Blaha and Courtney Crane should star on offense and defense, respectively. The team will turn to new players, sophomore Hannah Moody and goalies Anne Murrow and Lauren Heiman to complete the team due to the loss of All-Conference Second Team player Elizabeth Grater and strong offensive player Anne Dawson. However, Dawson will stay affiliated with the team this year serving as an assistant coach.

United States Coast Guard Academy

The Bears of the United States Coast Guard Academy enter the 2010 season in transition after not fielding a women's team last year. However, five starters traveled with the men's team during the 2009 fall season to gain valuable experience useful in developing the young team. A fast team, 13 players will come into the season following a long winter NCAA Division III swimming season which provided the athletes with countless hours of training. Coast Guard plans to capitalize on this strength and outswim opponents. Juniors Anna Moorman and Megan Willman, sophomores Heidi Gayman, Sam Sworden and Nicolle Lirette, and freshmen Rachel Christensen and Terri Jozsa will all see substantial playing time this season.

Virginia Polytechnic Institute & State University

After a fifth place finish in the Mid-Atlantic Division, Virginia Tech enters the 2010 season with many returning players and several new recruits. Following the graduation of several seniors from last year's team, the Hokies' sophomore players are ready to step into the line-up and make an impact. Graduate student Alondra Izquierdo-Roman, seniors Rachel Gicquelais and Lindsay Chapon, as well as sophomore Molly Boal return as strong assets to help the team in the division race. In cage, Stephanie Malm returns to mind the pipes. Senior Jackie Carl and sophomores Julie Lotz, Sarah Michaelson and Caitlin O'Brien will also see significant playing time.

West Chester University

West Chester University is looking forward to a successful season with a group of returning players primed to improve on last year's ninth place finish in the Mid-Atlantic Division. Players to watch for the Rams include seniors Anna Leggett, Christine Janyszek and Kasey McManus. Also, keep an eye on second-year goalie Emily Klein and sophomore Noelle Brett.

MIDWEST DIVISION

Grand Valley State University

The Lakers of Grand Valley State University come into the 2010 season with high aspirations after placing third in the division for a third consecutive year. Due to the University of Notre Dame placing second at the 2009 National Collegiate Club Championship in Davis, California, Grand Valley State will be aiming to make it back to the Midwest Division title game for a fourth consecutive year as the top two teams in the division will advance to the 2010 National Collegiate Club Championship at the University of Arizona.

Miami University (Ohio)

Miami University is ready to get down to business to defeat its competition and earn a spot to the National Collegiate Club Championship. Led by seniors Christine Ahern and Betsy Clyde, in addition to juniors Brittany Ashman, Colleen Briggs, Megan Rigali and Whitney Weber, the team is aiming for its eighth Midwest Division title after previously capturing the 1996, 1997, 2000, 2003, 2004, 2005 and 2006 crowns. Sophomores Chelsea Groh and Jen Seyl along with newcomers Jane Gleaves, Anne Golembeski, Katie Knable, Kelsey Novotney, Kelly Muenchen and Alaine Perconti provide depth, speed and finesse.

Ohio University

Coming off a fourth place finish in the Midwest Division last year, Ohio University is prepared to battle and move up in the standings by challenging Grand Valley State University, Miami University (Ohio) and the University of Notre Dame for the division's berth to the National Collegiate Club Championship.

University of Notre Dame

A highly competitive and dedicated group of young women, the University of Notre Dame women's water polo team has remained among the Top 12-nationally ranked club teams since 2001 and has been ranked as high as #1 several times over the past few seasons. A six-time Midwest Division champion (1999, 2001, 2002, 2007, 2008, 2009) the Irish continue on a continuous upswing as the program advanced to the 2009 National Collegiate Club Championship at the University of California-Davis. At Nationals, Notre Dame placed second for the best finish by a non-West Coast institution since the 2006 season. A diverse team with players ranging from 10-years of experience to no experience in the sport, the Irish are coached by 2009 Collegiate Water Polo Association National Collegiate Club Coach of the Year Brian Coughlin. A University of Notre Dame alum, Coughlin played for the men's water polo team and currently works at the University in an administrative position. This season, the Irish return four starters, two All-America selections and one All-America Honorable Mention pick. In addition, the team will field one of the strongest benches in the collegiate club sport as the team's reserves will push the starters for additional playing time. Further, with some luck and hard-work, the Irish hope to make a return appearance at the National Collegiate Club Championship and pick up the institution's first national title in the sport of water polo.

NEW ENGLAND DIVISION

Boston College

Coming off a season in which the program went undefeated in the North Atlantic Division before defeating Massachusetts Institute of Technology 9-3 in the championship game, Boston College will look to repeat the feat in a new division and earn its third straight trip to the National Collegiate Club Championship. Although the team lost three seniors in Erin Whinnery, Torie Pascoe and Allison Samluk to matriculation, a young but strong group returns to make a run at another division title. Starters and captains Lia Breunig, Mackenzie Campbell and Lisa Stebbins return to lead the team in the quest. Her team's leading scorer, Campbell possesses great speed in the water. Speed will also be provided by Meghan Grimes and Stebbins. Under the guidance of returning coach Ted Emistad, the Eagles hope to end the season in the desert at the University of Arizona holding the National Collegiate Club Championship plaque.

Boston University

Boston University comes into the season with several fresh faces on the team after graduating three starters last year. Coached by Konrad Szupinski and former player Liz Lacy, BU finished second in the New England Division during its first year of competition in the division. Led by captains Sarah Murray and Elyse Kadokura, the Terriers are aiming for the first division title in program history as the team previously advanced to the 2005 and 2006 North Atlantic Division title games, but fell to the Engineers of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology both years. Key to the title hunt is the play of goalie Brittainy Tousley and newcomer to the sport and team, freshman Courtney Zambory. Playing the field are returners Lily Bowers, Alex Nawrot, and Joanna Chan. BU is excited to see what freshmen Alyssa Biller, Emily Zendt, Katrian Lyter, Arielle Egan and Colleen Cleary can bring to the pool. Joining the team for their sophomore years are Kayla Binggeli, Hailey McCall, Kate Sullivan and Stephanie Graves who are all proving to be a force in the pool.

Dartmouth College

The Dartmouth College women's team is entering the 2010 season full of optimism with a roster of new names. Fielding nine returning players, with the rest of the squad new to the team, Dartmouth polo is looking to build from a strong foundation. Two of the team's top scorers Haley Carstensen and Aoife Duffy return this year, along with Kara Podkaminer, an engineering graduate student and top competitor who is entering her fifth season with the Big Green. Following a successful 2009 season, the women's team is set to compete for its third New England Division title in four years after taking the 2007 and 2009 crowns. Coached this year by Kelly (Heuchan) Parks, a former Australian Olympian, and captains Averil Spencer and Nicki Williamson, the players are confident in their ability to remain a top competitor in the New England Division.

Williams College

The return of several key players and the influx of several freshmen should help the Williams College women's water polo team contend for the New England Division title this year. Sophomores Paula Moren and Marissa Robertson, as well as seniors Abby Islan, Lisa Chu, Sophia Sequeira and Gigi Campo return with the goal of taking the team to its first-ever division title game. Although the loss of graduated two-meter set Courtney Asher will leave Williams with a weakened offense, newcomers Claire Seizovic, Elise Baker and Anna Marrs are anticipated to fill the void and keep the team's potent offensive onslaught a continuous event.

Yale University

Yale faces some challenges this year in adjusting to a change in coaching staff and the graduation of their starting goalie. However, senior goalkeeper Meredith Hitchcock and All-Conference guard Kirsten Forsberg will head up a solid defense, with the help of Karin Lee and Nicole Darricarrere. Senior returning players Julie McComish, Alina Yang, Allison McLaughlin, Faris Montgomery and Sinead Daly will be offensive forces, along with Blake Zwerling and Kim Tsao at the two-meter position. Returning high scorer and All-Conference player Stephanie Cuevas, Margaret Lazzarini and Liza Starr, are expected to be the offensive mainstays in Yale's lineup.

NEW YORK DIVISION

Colgate University

Colgate University, which is coming off a fifth place finish in the New York Division Championship a year ago, will seek to climb back up the standings and return to the division title game for the first time since the 2006 season.

Columbia University

After a second place finish in the New York Division last year, the Lions of Columbia University are looking forward to another strong season. Although the club lost numerous players, an influx of new players will bolster the roster. Freshman Jacqueline Parker was a three-year varsity player in high school. A powerful sprinter and set defender, she was her team's Most Valuable Player in 2007 and will bring a new dimension to the Columbia line-up this year. Other new players to watch include freshmen Sydney Forrester and Morgan Marmaro as well as sophomore Stephanie Tecca. Among the returning players, sophomore Hannah Posen and junior Ashley Ellenson will lead the team during another strong season.

Cornell University

Cornell University will seek to improve on last season's third place finish in the New York Division. While losing several All-Conference players, Cornell remains competitive with two-meter offensive players Yi Wen Ng, Brie Reid and defender Katherine Mooney ready to take on the division's best. Seniors Mollie Miller, Cathy Fahey, Lily Siu and Yuliana Gomez will establish an unyielding defense, while the team will rely on returning senior starter Alessandra Roqueta to power the team's offense. Fellow returning players Noelle Chaine, Mallory Matsumoto, Diana Foster, Catherine Kim and Cassandra Gallanger are expected to contribute significantly to the Big Red's success. Several new players, including graduate student and goalie Karen Swetland, will also be featured in the team's efforts this year.

New York University

New York University looks forward to another successful season hoping to three-peat as New York Division Champions. A four-time division titleist (2002, 2004, 2008, 2009), NYU returns a core of experienced players led by two-meter set Meg Weichman and All-New York Division First Team selection Emily Rauscher. The net will be minded by Lauren Reilly again this season who is looking to be a First Team All-Division selection and a force to be reckoned with if the team qualifies for a trip to Arizona and a berth at the National Collegiate Club Championship. Rita Warkov and Asya Roberts also return as experienced veterans that will be called upon to not only perform in the water, but also bring along a slew of newcomers as this is the most balanced NYU team in years. New addition Katelyn Schactus should help the team improve on last year's 15th place mark at the National Collegiate Club Championship.

Syracuse University

Following a fourth place finish in the New York Division a year ago, Syracuse University will work to return to the division title game for the first time since the 2008 season and claim the program's first-ever championship.

NORTH ATLANTIC DIVISION

Bates College

Bates College returns this year primed to take on the North Atlantic Division's best and make a run at the division's berth to the National Collegiate Club Championship. Even though the team lost a few key players from the 2009 Bobcats' squad which finished second in regular season play and fourth at the North Atlantic Division tournament, Bates will turn to the shots of Kristy Zera and Teresa Cooper along with fast drives from Sarah Reingold and Anna Tuggle to accompany the goalkeeping of Maura McGee to keep the 'Cats in the water and the game this season.

Bowdoin College

The Polar Bears of Bowdoin College come into the North Atlantic Division with experience as a number of the players participated on the men's club team during the fall.

Massachusetts Institute of Technology

A three-time North Atlantic Division champion (2005-07) and the only team to advance to all five division title games, the Engineers return all the starters from the 2009 squad. At two-meters, All-Conference selections Analiese DiConti and Blair Brettmann are primed to lead MIT back to the National Collegiate Club Championship. Kellie Young is reuniting with the team to provide a strong defensive wall for the Engineers, while Carrie DeBoer chips in her experience to the MIT offense.

Middlebury College

Middlebury College is poised and excited for a successful season in 2010, fueled by a third place finish in the New England Division last year. The Panthers are entering their first-ever season in the North Atlantic Division as Middlebury will seek to claim its the program's second division title in three years after claiming the New England Division crown in 2008. A key to the team's title hopes filling the void left by six graduated seniors from the 2009 team. Tri-captain and All-Conference player Amelia Noble will lead the offense while sharing the two-meter position with fellow captain Sara Black who returns after missing last season due to studying abroad. Tri-captain Kristen LaPlante will once again anchor the defense while protecting the net in her senior season. Junior Lois Parshley will also be counted on to frustrate opposing two-meter players. The team will look to Joanna Wood, Colleen Carroll and Chelsea Ward-Waller along with rookie Olivia Noble to also tack on offensive contributions.

Wellesley College

Wellesley College is excited for another competitive season. Seniors Laura Foley, Shaina Meyer, Lauren Allison and Dersha Patel are looking forward to their final year on the team and plan to make it the best one yet. Sabrina Maisel and Shaheen Rangwalla highlight a litany of new players who may prove to be key to the team's title hopes this season. By using skilled two-meter offense from Maria Toro and captain Laura Foley, strong two-meter defense from captain Shaina Meyer, and exceptional shooting by Dersha Patel and Sabrina Maisel, Wellesley hopes to be competitive in the division.

NORTHWEST DIVISION

Central Washington University

In only their second year of play, the Central Washington University Wildcats are looking forward to their first season with the Collegiate Water Polo Association. Captains Sarah Clark and Denise Wilson are looking forward to leading and coaching the team through its first few tournaments. On offense, CWU will rely heavily on two-meter players Clark and Ariel Walker, as well as talented new players Alex Luqué, Laura Farley and Laura Westervelt. The Wildcats possess a strong defense with returning players Megan Razey and Wilson. Rachel Coley shows promising talent in the goal and will undoubtedly be an obstacle for seasoned teams. Though a new team, the Wildcats are ready to be competitive and should not be underestimated this season.

Oregon State University

After losing some of the team's top starters in Allie McNamara, Katleen Reab, Angie Scarminach and Whiteny O'Dell and placing third in the Northwest Division in 2009, this season will be a rebuilding year for Oregon State University. All-Conference First Team selection Karin Rottman will be a key asset to the Beavers' offense, while newcomer Sarah Bennion is also expected to contribute greatly to the offensive strategy. Other players to watch include Rachel Hanson and Margarate Nagle who were both top scorers last season. On defense, two experienced goalies, Hannah Smith and Jenny Murray, will see time. between the pipes behind defenders Jane Stevenson and Kelsi Johnson.

University of Oregon "A"

After finishing second and third at the National Collegiate Club Championship Tournaments over the past two years, the Ducks of Oregon return all but one player from last's year team with their eyes on returning to the National Championship game. All-America recipients Jessica Kragt and Beth Gordon, along with stars Lizzy Flower, Laura von Stockhausen, Caitlin Hermann, Hilary Wilcox and Katie Peront will lead this year's team as the Ducks aim for their sixth straight Northwest Division title. A large freshman class will strengthen an already deep and talented pool of players from which Oregon can draw this year's line-up and future teams. The biggest change for Oregon will come on the deck as Chet Eimstad takes over as a first year coach looking to help the Ducks to their sixth Northwest championship after previously taking the 2002, 2005, 2006, 2007, 2008 and 2009 crowns.

University of Oregon "B"

The University of Oregon "B" will seek to improve on last year's fourth place finish in the Northwest Division.

University of Washington

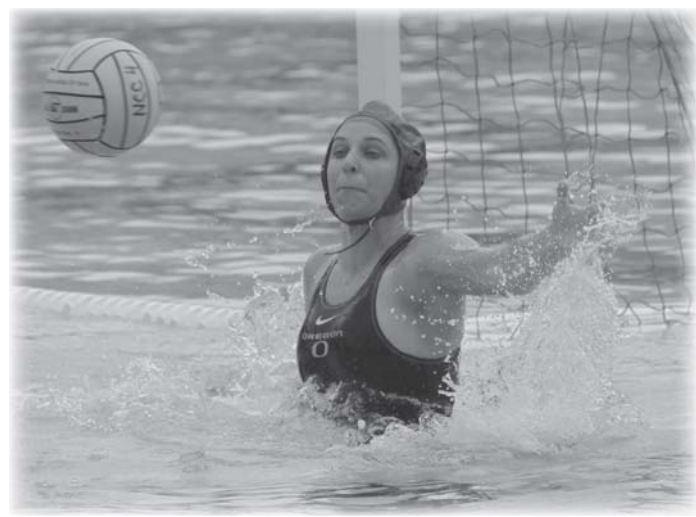

No stranger to the Northwest Division title hunt after taking the 1998, 1999, 2000, 2001 and 2003 championships while finishing as runner-up in 2004, 2005, 2006, 2007, 2008 and 2009, the University of Washington enters the 2010 season looking to return to the top of the division and earn another bid to the National Collegiate Club Championship.

Western Oregon University

Western Oregon University continues to rebuild its program after a downturn in the number of water polo players on campus during the past several seasons. Last year, Western Oregon finished seventh in the Northwest Division.

Western Washington University

The 2010 Western Washington University women's water polo team will welcome many new members to add to the veteran Vikings' players. Led by head coach Kevin Reese alongside assistant coach Justin Clements and captains Sarah Henneford and Sarah Paschall, key returning players include Corina Cheever, Tawni Christiansen, Elisa Medrzycki and Tanya Waller. Newcomers Stephanie Bluhm, Sally Candler, Brooke Flaquinti, Carly Gauche, Kelsey Gauche, Alix Jorgenson, Brittany Koenker, Laura Ledesma, Molly McNeish, Amanda Mika, Taylor Mozzone, Rose Reale and Sasha Turgman will bolster a Lady Vikings team which placed fifth in the Northwest Division a year ago.

PACIFIC COAST DIVISION

California Polytechnic State University

Fresh off a second consecutive Women's National Collegiate Club Championship title, California Polytechnic State University is looking to make it a "three-peat" and claim the program's sixth women's championship. The 2003, 2004, 2005, 2008 and 2009 Collegiate Club champions rank as the most successful collegiate club team in the history of the sport. The Mustangs return this season looking strong even after the loss of five graduated players including starters Greta Carroll, Kristin Gause and Roxanne Eastwood. Cal Poly is ready to work hard and elevate their level of play with the help of a deep returning line-up. In the field, the Mustangs look to returning players Erika Bigbie, Kelley Gause and Sarah Ur for consistency, leadership and power. Bigbie, Gause and Ur all ended the season with top honors and have proven to be threats on offense and defense. Cal Poly also expects lefty-shooter Kate Warner and seniors Brittany Gavin and Jessica Wilson to help fill the gaps and carry the team to another national title.

Loyola Marymount University

A second-year club in the Collegiate Water Polo Association, the Loyola Marymount University Lions will seek to improve on a ninth place finish in the Pacific Coast Division last year.

Pepperdine University

Fielding nine new players and a first-year coach, the Pepperdine University women's water polo team is entering into a rebuilding year. A group of up and coming young players, Pepperdine is excited for the coming season and cannot wait to compete and improve on last year's sixth place finish in the Pacific Coast Division.

San Diego State University

San Diego State University is bringing the heat this season. Last year was the team's first year in the Collegiate Water Polo Association and as the Aztecs finished fourth in the Pacific Coast Division. However, they did not go without a fight, losing 11-10 in overtime to eventual division and national champion Cal Poly State University in the last second of semifinal play at the Pacific Coast Division Championship. The team had only two starting players graduate, Allison Chico and Diana Tellechea, but received a gain of previous SDSU varsity members, including Erin Herold, Kimi Noltensmeier and Jenn Needham. San Diego State should be stable at two-meters with juniors Lauren Cono, Rachel Julson, Amanda Acera and Roni Coffey setting the tone. The Aztecs are still a very young team with only two senior players, Whitney Elsen, and club president, Brittain Euwema. On the deck, experienced coach Sean Green will help to lead San Diego State to a successful season.

University of California-Irvine

Entering its third season as a member of the Collegiate Water Polo Association, the University of California-Irvine hopes to improve on the program's seventh place finish in the Pacific Coast Division last year.

University of California-Los Angeles "A"

After a disappointing first round loss at the 2009 National Collegiate Club Championship tournament following a second place finish in the Pacific Coast Division, the University of California-Los Angeles Bruins look to get back on track with new and returning talent in 2010. Led by captain Catrina Gallardo and All-America stand-out Adele Young, UCLA seeks to take their first Pacific Division title and return to the NCCC stronger than ever. The Bruins will be helped out by a returning core group including Lexi Nest, Sam Ellis and Desiree Wilson. Jaclyn Stahl, after dealing with two years of nagging injury, will look to help the Bruins get back on top of the rankings, and finish her senior year with a division title. Look for newcomers Erica Bonetti and Bre Sheldon to add significant offense to an already stacked UCLA line-up. Freshman goalie Bari Cappalletti will anchor the Bruins on defense.

University of California-Los Angeles "B"

A group of up and coming players, the University of California-Los Angeles "B" seeks to improve on last season's eighth place finish in the Pacific Coast Division.

University of California-San Diego

Founded in 2004, the University of California-San Diego women's water polo team lost two games all season, beating teams like National Collegiate Club Championship qualifier the University of California-Los Angeles and the University of Southern California, to place third in the Pacific Coast Division. Comprised of players of all skill levels the team welcomes many talented freshman, as well as some strong returning players. Due to the loss of Christel Smith at goalie, Allie Johnston has stepped into her place as UCSD's sole net-minder this season. A strong group of returning players like Carey Wong, Whitney Landgrebe and Katie Oatley should aid the team in achieving some big wins this season. A relatively new team, UCSD is quickly building a reputation as a tough competitor with the drive and talent to compete at the championship.

University of Southern California

The University of Southern California will strive to improve on last year's fifth place mark at the Pacific Coast Division Championship.

SIERRA PACIFIC DIVISION

California State University-Chico

The runner-up in the Sierra Pacific Division last year, California State University-Chico is geared for another run at the National Collegiate Club Championship in 2010. A participant in the past two National Collegiate Club Championships, finishing 12th in 2008 and 13th in 2009, the team is led by head coach Greg Ahtye. On offense, the play of Krista Winkler and Jessica Wellman will be vital to the Wildcats' hopes of a trip to Arizona and the 2010 National Collegiate Club Championship. Goalie Amy Crawford and two-meter defender Natalie DiMora will anchor the defense. Eryka Ueltzen, Jen Thomas, Rachel Westerhoff and Kaitlyn Mansker also show great promise for the upcoming season.

California State University-Fresno

California State University-Fresno returns this year with a larger group of girls than the previous year and a brand new coach. In 2009, Fresno State finished fifth in the Sierra Pacific Division. This year, the squad is hoping to fight its way to a higher ranking and a return to the National Collegiate Club Championship. Fresno State will rely on the offensive output of Erika Tasier who helped the team to its last appearance at Nationals in 2007 as the team won the National Championship. Boasting many new faces alongside the several first-year players from last year, Fresno is hoping to have a great season.

California State University-Maritime Academy

California State University-Maritime Academy will seek to improve on last season's performance as the Keelhaulers placed sixth in the Sierra Pacific Division in 2009.

Saint Mary's College (Calif.)

The 2010 Saint Mary's College women's water polo team currently consists of 14 players who are dedicated to improving and bringing the program to the next level of excellence. With the help new head coach Aaron Grusonik, a Saint Mary's Water Polo alum, SMC hopes to bring a positive change to the SMC water polo program after placing seventh in the Sierra Pacific Division in 2009. This year's players come from all around the country with various levels of experience and talent. Due to multiple members of the starting line-up being lost to matriculation, the team returns with strong groups of freshmen and underclassmen who are ready for this season to get underway.

University of California-Berkeley

The University of California Golden Bears come into the new year with a stronger and more experienced team, as seniors Seana Diemer, Leah Mogabgab, Ilana Rieser, Rhonda Adato, Sonya Petcavich, Shauna Badheka and Breeanna Lorenzen return for their final season of competition. The Bears expect solid goalkeeping from Rieser and sophomore goalie Anna Faris, while turning to Badheka and Adato for action in the set position. Petcavich, Mogabgab, Diemer and Lorenzen should aid on the offense and defense for the Golden Bears this year too. Cal anticipates outstanding all-around play from juniors Coral Kemp and Tiffany Chan, as well as sophomores Hillary Raya, Liz Carey, Daisy Cuevas, Berit Kaesler and Allegra Tringali.

University of California-Davis "A"

Having placed in the Top 5 at the National Collegiate Club Championship the past two years, the University of California-Davis comes into the 2010 season looking strong with experienced returning players like Mindy Bacharach, Emily Muniz and Kelly Marshall. A talented influx of new players such as Katie Paznokas, Noelle Heise and Ally Grace Esparza bolster the line-up and give rise to expectations of another run at a National Collegiate Club Championship bid. Although they lost ten seniors last season, including All-America goalie, Elyssa Thome, Davis looks to new goalies Kasey O'Connor and Laura Heddleston to step up. 2009 Sierra Pacific League MVP and All-America pick Meredith Muecke, along with fellow captain and All-Conference selection Erica Leima, hopes to lead Davis to a third consecutive Sierra Pacific Division title and a high placement at the National Collegiate Club Championship.

University of California-Davis "B"

The University of California-Davis "B" gets a fresh start this year with mostly new players and few returners. New talent includes goalie Christa Arthur and utility player Megan Reese. Coaches Jorge Sifontes and Matthew Calhoun hope to lead their team to a successful 2010 season, improving on their fourth place finish in the Sierra Pacific Division last year.

University of California-Santa Cruz

The University of California-Santa Cruz enters its first season as a club team after being cut from the university's NCAA Division III varsity athletics program last year. Among the most successful Division III programs over the past several seasons, the Banana Slugs placed third at the Division III National Championship in 2008 and 2009. Under the leadership of Brian Fischl and Blair MacDougal, the program hopes to establish itself in the Sierra Pacific Division. UCSC will be covered on the defensive end by returning goalies Jen Parra and Rachel McCracken, who have both proved their worth in the cage while frustrating shooters with their blocking abilities. Standouts Mollie Chadwick and varsity All-America Honorable Mention recipient Nila Ward will use their aggressive playing styles to help the team as both are skilled in defense, offense and driving at two-meters while ranking among the leaders in scoring. Also at two-meters, the team will look to Kelly Gentry, Erica Simanonok and Danielle Muzzini to step up in their respective positions and lead the team to a winning season. The Banana Slugs include a strong core of returning sophomores, including outside shooters Laura Rudolph and Mollie Harary, strong defenders Jennifer Gunnell and Val Lew, and driver Daryan Namba. The team will also be enhanced by the experience and knowledge of driver Danielle Brainard and goalie Chelsea Rohrbach, both seniors. Filling out the roster is a promising group of newcomers including speedsters Haley Bartosh and Sharon Lee; drivers Isabell Duarte, Anya Vierra and Michelle Hicks; and goalie Charlotte Nelson.

SOUTHEAST DIVISION

Emory University

On the heels of a fifth place finish at the 2009 Southeast Division Championship, the Emory University Eagles will work to return to the division title game for the first time since a string of appearances from 2001-03.

Florida State University

Florida State University is looking forward to the upcoming 2010 season. With leadership from returning upperclassmen Kelley Greer, Alicia Hollingworth, Ellen Moore, Alexis Andres, Paige Derner and Chrissie Gorman, the Seminoles hope to make a splash in the Southeast Division and reach the title game for the first time since the 2005 season. Returning underclassmen Nicolle Losada, Hagen Finn, Taralynn Priep and Courtney Auspitz look to add to the team's depth on both the offensive and defensive sides of the ball. Newcomers Jennifer Weyuarch and Jackie Vincent add more talent to the FSU line-up.

University of Central Florida

The reigning Southeast Division titleist, the Lady Knights from the University of Central Florida are ready to defend their crown and earn another plane trip to the National Collegiate Club Championship. Last year, the team was able to stun eight-time division winner University of Florida 7-6 to become only the second program in division history to win the championship. Due to losing only one starting player from last year's championship team, plus the addition of new strength from newcomers Rachael Rein, Olivia Overton, Brittany Riley, Vanessa Zabala, Melissa Ellinport and many other future stars, the Lady Knights are primed to make another run at the title. Led by All-America selection Stephanie Beauchemin, All-Southeast Division players Crystal Milliken and Blaire Martin, in addition to fellow returning players Nicole Chavez and Stefanie Clark, the Knights appear ready to defend their Southeast Division title.

University of Florida

An eight-time Southeast Division champion (2001-08), the Gators of the University of Florida experienced their first runner-up finish last year. This year, Florida comes into the season with expectations of improving on last season's mark. Seniors Anna Autrey, Victoria Israels, Courtney Lenner, Rebecca Rowley and Jaquelyn Suarez-Murias are set to begin their final year of collegiate water polo a memorable one. Returning to help lead the Gators to success are goalie Mary Kathryn Atkinson and Justine Bronson, who are both juniors. Sophomores Sarah Wright, Carly Arnold, Jennifer Keeler, Stephanie Brant, Maggie Reach, Chrisi Sanchez, Katie Ambrose, Amanda Skeels and Chelsey Fojo along with freshmen Emily Warner, Maddie Gonzalez and Emily Hester will also contribute to the Gators' cause. Led by head coach Katie Goodrich and assistant coach Tim Larson, Florida will utilize its depth, talent, skill and speed to return to the top of the Southeast Division.

University of Georgia

After losing several senior leaders from last season's team which placed sixth in the Southeast Division, this year's University of Georgia lineup is primarily composed of underclassmen including sophomores Brittany Tweedy, Hannah Drum, Kaitlin Wutschel, Lenora Bryant and Stephanie Simpson; newcomers Jackie Murtha, Kristy McGee and Madison Beckett; and seasoned old hands Heidi Potratz, Kaitlin McNally and Paige Barlow. This young group will strive for excellence and enjoyment this year.

SOUTHWEST DIVISION

Arizona State University

The Sun Devils of Arizona State University join the Collegiate Water Polo Association for the 2010 season looking to turn some heads in their inaugural season. Kaitlyn Morris will anchor ASU's last line of defense in the cage, while Katy Lawlor will spark the team's goal-scoring output on offense. Due to the fact this is Arizona State's first year in women's competition after fielding a men's team for a number of years, the program's primary objectives are to have fun and grow exposure for the university to attract more players. However, the Sun Devils do have their eyes set on a trip to Tucson to compete in the National Collegiate Club Championship.

Colorado College

Colorado College begins its first collegiate club season with a bang. After an administrative decision to move the team from NCAA Division III varsity to the Collegiate Club level, the Tigers have wasted no time reorganizing and attracting more talent. CC has already emerged in the fall as a top contender in the Southwest Division with a blend of previous varsity players, new found talent and a new coaching staff. Returning for the Tigers in 2010 are varsity players Malia Vitousek, Joycelin Hunter, Karen Friefeld, Angela Dang, Aki Mochizuki, Emily Fukunaga, Cassandra Benson and Aki Mochizuki. Excited and eager for a new season, Colorado College has developed a strong group of experience goalkeepers, four left-handed players and key centers. Led by coaches Kyle Torke and Belton Copp, the Tigers look forward to what may be their best season yet.

Colorado State University

Colorado State University is excited for the season under head coach Chris Rubo following back-to-back fifth place finishes at the 2008 and 2009 Southwest Division Championship tournaments.

Northern Arizona University

Northern Arizona University comes into this season hoping to build on the progress made last season. With only six returning players, the Lumberjacks will welcome a group of freshmen and new players to the team. Junior Christina Paddock's strong left-hand shooting and defensive skills will be helped by the speed of the team's new members, such as sophomore Jessie Garbesi who is sure to be a great help with swim-offs and offensive breakaways. Junior Danielle Tapia will continue to be a forceful offensive left-wing. Add in the presence of returning sophomores Samantha Steuby, Jenna Sorrell and Amy Poling, and NAU appears set to improve on last year's fourth place mark in the Southwest Division.

United States Air Force Academy

The United States Air Force Academy women's water polo team is set to soar to new heights this year following a second place finish at the Southwest Division Championship. The Lady Falcons are poised to strive for unprecedented levels of success under the leadership of seniors Cristina Richter and Carrie Moore, while motivated to excel with returning leading scorer Katie Gorbacz and all-around solid defensive efforts from Cristina Richter and Kathryn Lynn. Fellow returning starters Kim Burghart and Jessica Bickford will further help the team to notch victories. Junior Esther Kim and freshman Shelby Schaefer will act as afterburners for the team's speed, while freshman Hannah Bergstrom should emerge as a solid goalie. Due to Southwest Division teams placing sixth and eighth at the National Collegiate Club Championship in 2009, the competition will be strong in the division. However, the Lady Falcons are ready to clutch new prey with their talons at every competition and stake their claim for a berth to the 2010 National Collegiate Club Championship.

University of Arizona

The University of Arizona will aim to pick up the program's seventh division title this year. The 1998, 2000, 2001, 2007, 2008 and 2009 Southwest Division champions, the Wildcats placed sixth at the National Collegiate Club Championship a year ago and are guaranteed at least a return trip to the National Championship field as host of the 2010 tournament.

University of Colorado

The University of Colorado will field a strong line-up this year as the team lost only two seniors following a fourth place finish in the Southwest Division a year ago. Senior Elizabeth Knorek, a two time All-Southwest Division First Team player, will lead the offense at the two-meter position position with help from junior Carrie Gelman and graduate student Emily Harlan. Following an injury which limited her time in the water, sophomore Jenny Whyte will also be counted on to keep Colorado competitive. Two-meter defense will be covered by returning starter Lauren Daggett.

University of New Mexico

Following back-to-back sixth place finishes in the division the past two seasons, the University of New Mexico will seek to improve and climb into the Southwest Division's Top Five in 2010.

University of Utah

The University of Utah finished the 2009 season perfect in the Southwest Division, including a 10-9 victory over division champion the University of Arizona, to claim the regular season title and a spot at the National Collegiate Club Championship at the University of California-Davis. At Davis, the young team of mostly freshmen and sophomores placed eighth to set up another run at the division title and a repeat berth to the National Collegiate Club Championship in 2010.

Baylor University

Team captain Sally Woolweaver, president Lillian Lockhart and the majority of last season's Baylor University women's water polo team will dive back into the pool for another season of Texas Division play. The addition of several freshmen, including Alex Zayas and Caitlin Kyle, should help the Bears move up in the rankings and fill up the stands this year. Other returning players include Kristine Williams and Katie Craig, who will be sprinting for the team. Joseph Kirasich takes over as the team's head coach for Matt Martin, while Will Havens and Mason McBee will serve as assistant coaches.

Rice University

Rice University will continue to build upon the strong foundation laid by past Owls' teams this year as the program seeks to improve on last year's fourth place finish in the Texas Division.

Texas A&M University

The Texas A&M University Aggies remember the feeling of being the division champion and want to return to the National Collegiate Club Championship. The 2001 and 2008 Texas Division champion, the Aggies placed 15th in their last trip to the National Championship tournament two seasons ago. Led by All-America selection Rachel Edwards and All-Conference goalie Erin Kasperak, A&M will lock horns with the rest of the teams in the division with hopes of returning to the collegiate club sports' biggest stage and playing for the championship once again.

Texas State University

Among a crop of rising teams in the National Collegiate Club ranks, Texas State University is coming off a fifth place finish in the Texas Division last year.

Texas Tech University

Entering its third season as a member of the Collegiate Water Polo Association, the Red Raiders of Texas Tech University have added a number of players for this season. Thanks to the bolstered line-up, Tech plans to have fun with the goal of remaining among the best three teams in the Texas Division.

Trinity University (Texas)

Trinity University, a seventh place finisher in the division for the past two seasons, comes into 2010 in a rebuilding mode with a relatively young team.

University of Texas

The women's water polo team at the University of Texas is hoping for another promising campaign. Last year, the team returned to the National Collegiate Club Championship for the second time in three years and placed 10th in the final standings. Featuring one of the deepest line-ups in the nation, including 2009 Texas Division Most Valuable Player Becca Lewis and fellow All-Conference first team selections Abby Edwards and goalie Courtney Coffey, the Longhorns are poised to capture the program's fourth division championship in 2010. Taking into account the number of returning players and promising freshmen, Texas will once again have its eyes set on a return trip to the National Collegiate Club Championship.

PoloBase

Water Polo Event Manager

PoloBase is the only fully-integrated scoring system for water polo for use by high school, collegiate, open, and club teams. With PoloBase, one person can run the entire scoring table with ease. PoloBase includes:

- One-button game and shot clock management
 - Game score sheet and box score reports
 - On-demand reports, including team and athlete stats
 - Scoreboard display manager

Designed by a USWP “A”-rated referee with more than 30 years experience in software development, PoloBase is available in a Base edition, an entry-level Club edition, and a FINA-compliant International edition.

PoloBase is an Official Supplier of the CWPA.

PoloBase meets all requirements of USWP, NFHS, NCAA, and CWPA.

PoloBase was used at the:

- 2001 National Junior Olympics in Ann Arbor, MI
- 2004 Men’s National Collegiate Club Championships at Notre Dame University
- 2005 NCAA Women’s National Championships at the University of Michigan

“PoloBase software is incredibly simple to use, and it permits teams to manage the desk with fewer people. This will make it much easier for teams to organize and run events, knowing they need less staff.”

— Dan Sharadin
Commissioner, CWPA

“PoloBase software significantly reduces the chance of table errors. This allows our officials to focus more on the flow of the game and creates a better playing environment for the athletes, the coaches, and even the fans.”

— Tom Tracey
Director of Officials, CWPA

“I ran PoloBase at the Junior Olympics and the Michigan Boys and Girls High School State Championship tournaments. Workers actually have fun using PoloBase!”

— David Stover
Ann Arbor Pioneer High School
