UNDERSTANDING THE GAME OF WATER POLO

Water Polo can be a confusing game for spectators. The whistle is constantly blowing and the play never stops, even when someone is ejected for a penalty. In addition, there are many misconceptions about the game, including how the players keep their horses swimming. Well hang in there, because the following information should help to make the picture much clearer.

General Information

1. Each team has six field players and a goalie.
2. Field players can only use one hand to touch the ball, goalies two.
3. Games consist of 7-minute quarters for club divisions, 8-minute quarters for varsity divisions.
4. The object of the game is to score by placing the ball completely in the goal. Players may move the ball by swimming or passing.
5. Teams may substitute after a goal is scored, during a time-out or during the play from the ejection area.
6. Each team receives three time-outs and one 20-second time-out per game.
7. Shots blocked out of bounds by defensive players result in the defensive team receiving possession. If a defender uses two hands to block a shot, the offensive team receives a penalty shot.

Fouls

When an infraction of the rules occurs, the referee will point in the direction of the team taking possession, while blowing his whistle. The ball is put back into play with an action called a free throw. This means the player gets three seconds of free time to throw the ball to another teammate or swim it up the pool. A player cannot shoot a free throw unless outside the five-meter line. If the ball is not put into play within three seconds, the other team takes possession.

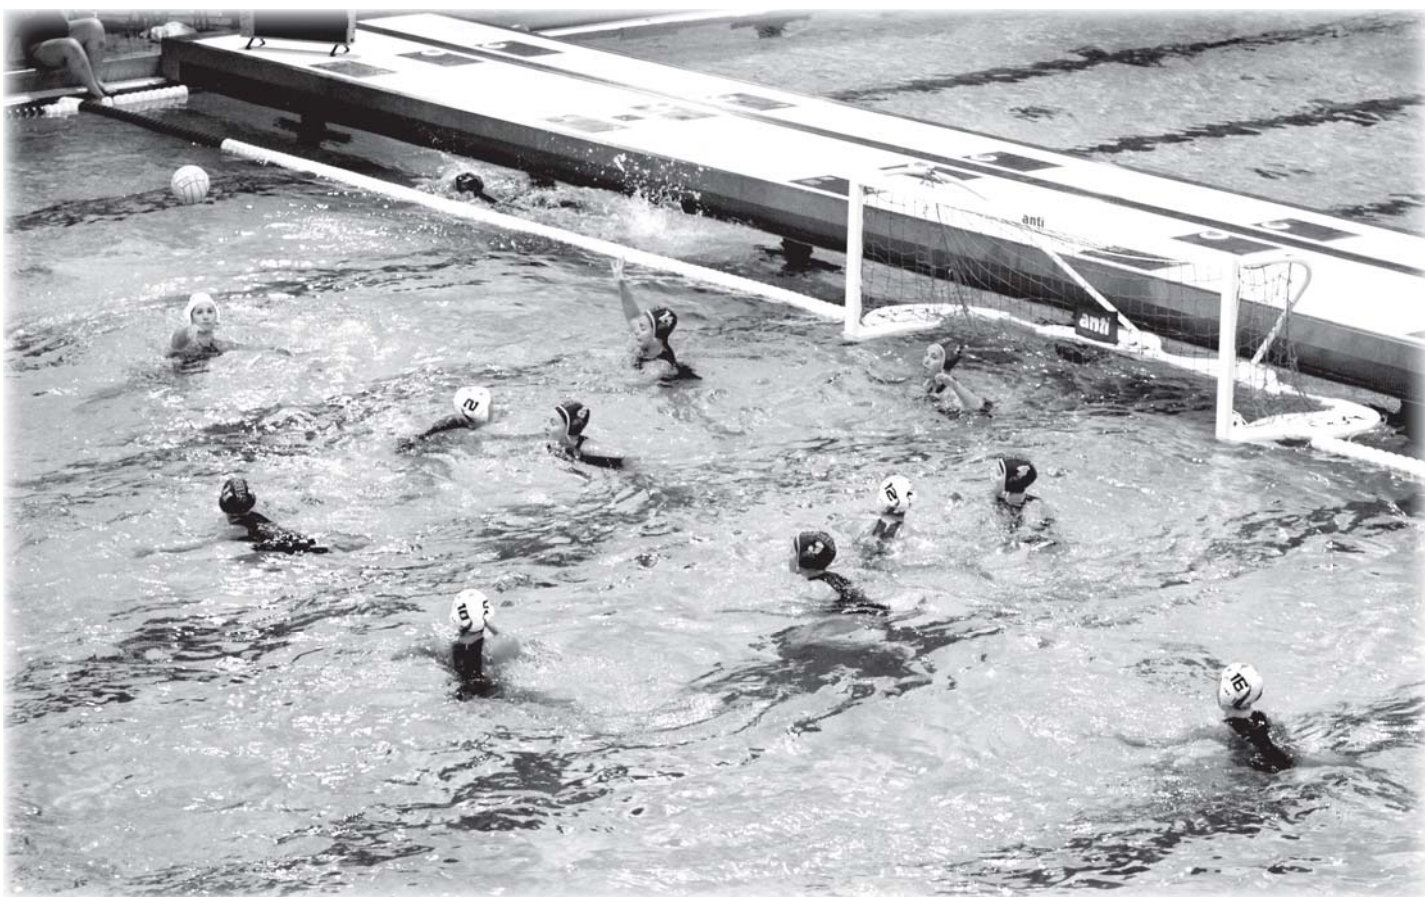

Fouls can be ordinary or major. Ordinary fouls are best understood as minor fouls. For example, a defender may reach over an opponent's back to get at the ball while facing away from the goal. The penalty for an ordinary foul is a free throw for the opposing team.

Major fouls are more severe and are penalized accordingly. For example, when a defender fouls an opponent too aggressively, or from behind when the opponent is facing the goal, the defender is ejected for 20 seconds (players may reenter the game if their team recovers the ball before the ejection time is up, or if the opposing team scores). When the foul occurs within five meters of the goal and the referee believes the player had a high chance of scoring, the opposition shoots a penalty shot. Major fouls can also occur through disrespect to the referee or when a player interferes with an opponent's free throw. Players may only receive three major fouls before elimination.

If all of this has you totally confused, just sit back and enjoy the game. The easiest way to follow the play is by watching the scoreboard. If your team is ahead at the end, great! If not, well consider that you have expanded your horizons. When the game is over, you can at least explain to your friends that the horses never get wet.

CWPA Sportsmanship Statement

The CWPA and the NCAA promote good sportsmanship by student-athletes, coaches and spectators. We request your cooperation by supporting the participants and officials in a positive manner. Profanity, racial or sexist comments, or other intimidating actions directed at the officials, student-athletes, coaches, event personnel or team representatives will not be tolerated and are grounds for removal from the site of competition. Also, consumption or possession of alcoholic beverages and tobacco products is prohibited.

Affiliate Organizations

There are many organizations affiliated with the sport of water polo and the landscape can be somewhat confusing when trying to sort out which entity offers what services. To make matters a little easier to understand, the organizations can be divided into two basic groups: scholastic and non scholastic. The scholastic organizations are those that have some affiliation with the educational system. These include college, high school, junior college and middle school teams, as well as their respective administrative bodies that offer competitive leagues and support. In this category you would find state sanctioning organizations, the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA), the National Association for Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA) and all the collegiate conferences recognized by the NCAA or NAIA. Each individual organization operates independently with its own governing structure.

The NCAA and the NAIA are two organizations that serve a unique position. They each provide a supervisory role for their member schools. The colleges and universities that are members of each respective organization choose to establish and follow a set of guidelines that govern competition. Specifically, these guidelines include eligibility, academic progress for their student-athletes, competitive rules, championship guidelines, recruiting and financial aid.

Schools that become members of one of these organizations agree to abide by the rules and principles established within the organization. The NCAA and NAIA provide oversight for the varsity teams on campus, not the collegiate clubs.

In addition to the NCAA and NAIA there are conferences that operate for the purpose of arranging competition for their member institutions. Some conferences, like the Big East, Mountain West or Atlantic Coast Conferences, handle several sports, while others like the CWPA handle a single sport. With respect to water polo, all collegiate clubs that are eligible for the National Collegiate Club Championship are members of the CWPA. To understand the difference between the league and the NCAA or NAIA, think of the conference on a smaller scale performing similar functions for its member institutions. The conference works with the national governing bodies (NCAA and NAIA) to help provide competitive opportunities and services, yet remains an independent organization with its own governing system and budget.

Non-scholastic organizations include all other entities that provide the opportunity for people to be involved in the sport outside of an educational institution. These include YMCAs, Boys & Girls Clubs, parks & recreation programs, privately organized clubs, township/city programs and independent organizations like American Water Polo. United States Water Polo fits under this category as well, serving as the National Governing Body for the sport. They are also responsible for supporting and training Olympic teams for men and women.

For more information about any specific organization, contact the CWPA office at 610-277-6787.

History of the CWPA

The Collegiate Water Polo Association originally began as the Mid Atlantic Conference, founded by Dick Russell (Bucknell University swimming & water polo coach) in the 1970's. Its founding membership included teams from Maryland, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and New York.

The management and oversight of the organization relied on volunteer coaches until 1990, when a commissioner was hired to perform basic scheduling for the 15-member teams in the league. Officiating assignments were performed at the time by an independent organization called the Eastern Water Polo Referees Association (EWPPA).

The next major milestone occurred in 1993, when the Southern and New England Conferences merged into the Mid-Atlantic. The new structure combined all of the varsity teams in the East, along with the few sport clubs in existence at that time.

During the 1995 season, the organization experienced a strike by its officiating corps. This strike ultimately resulted in the organization establishing its own officiating bureau, assuming responsibility for all of its officiating assignments. The CWPA hired Tere Ma as its inaugural Director of Officials and Loren Bertocci as its first Technical Director.

Few changes were made to this structure until 2006, when the conference established a Technical Committee. One of these members, Ed Reed, initiated the CWPA's first online education program in 2007 for referees using video clips.

Over the past years, the Collegiate Water Polo Association has undergone dramatic changes:

1970's	The Mid Atlantic Conference is founded by Dick Russell.		League office moves to Bridgeport, Pennsylvania after 13 years in Norristown, Pennsylvania. Membership steadies at 120 men's and 95 women's teams, totaling 215 teams.
1990	The conference hires a commissioner to manage the league administration.	2004	Women's varsity teams realign to form Northeastern, Northern, Southern and Western Divisions. Men's Florida Division teams merge into Southeast Division. Men's Great Plains Division splits forming Great Plains and Missouri Valley Divisions. Membership grows to 126 men's teams and 98 women's teams totaling 224.
1993	The New England and Southern Conferences merge into the Mid-Atlantic. The conference changes its name to the Eastern Water Polo Association. Thirty-nine club and varsity teams participate in the new structure.	2005	Six women's varsity teams amicably leave to join the Metro Atlantic Athletic Conference (MAAC) and receive an automatic bid to the NCAA Championship. Remaining teams realign to form Northern, Western and Southern Divisions. CWPA agrees to act as the Officiating Bureau and assigning agent for the MAAC. Women's Northeastern Division merges into the Northern Division. Women's Atlantic and North Atlantic Divisions added. Women's National Collegiate Club Championship expands to 16 teams. Membership grows to 131 men's and 99 women's teams, totaling 230 teams.
1994	The Association adds women's teams to its membership, totaling 55 teams.
1995	The conference ends its relationship with the Eastern Water Polo Referees Association and establishes its own officiating bureau. Tere Ma hired as the inaugural Director of Officials and Loren Bertocci hired as the first Technical Director. Men's Midwest Division is added. Club championships are separated by division. Membership increases to 82 teams.	2006	Women's Atlantic Division merges with Mid-Atlantic Division. Men's Ohio Valley Division members join Great Lakes and Missouri Valley Divisions. CWPA varsity teams create a Technical Committee to lead the education, evaluation, and assignment of referees. Officiating Bureau uses online video for the first time in the education process for referees. Membership grows to 138 men's and 96 women's teams, totaling 234 teams.
1996	Women's Midwest and Men's Southwest Divisions are added. The Eastern Water Polo Association changes its name to the Collegiate Water Polo Association to reflect the geographic representation of its membership. Membership rises to 95 teams.
1997	Women's Southwest Division is added. Women's Northern Division splits into New York and New England Divisions. Great Lakes Division is added. Men's New England Division splits to North Atlantic and New England Divisions. Membership reaches 110 teams.	2007	Pacific Coast Women's Division splits forming Sierra Pacific Division. Women's Great Lakes Division splits forming Ohio Valley Division. Men's Southwest Division splits forming Rocky Mountain Division. Men's Southeast Division splits to re-establish the Florida Division. CWPA initiates online education program for referees. Membership grows to 141 men's and 101 women's teams, totaling 242 teams.
1998	Men's and Women's Northwest Divisions added. Men's Pacific Coast Division added. Membership includes 40 women's teams and 97 men's teams, totaling 137.	2008	Women's Ohio Valley Division merges into Midwest Division. Membership grows to 143 men's and 100 women's teams, totaling 243 teams.
1999	Women's Pacific Coast Division and Men's Great Plains Division added. Women's Midwest Division reinstated. Men's Great Lakes Division changes name to Heartland Division. Membership increases to 52 women's teams and 107 men's teams totaling 159.	2009	Big Ten Division club teams join the CWPA. CWPA Women's Division III Varsity Championship created New Team Leader orientation program established. CWPA begins streaming championship games on-line. Membership grows to 259 teams, including 161 men's and 98 women's programs.
2000	Men's Southeast and Atlantic Divisions added. Membership increases to 54 women's teams and 121 men's teams totaling 175.	2010	Membership grows to 277 teams, including 160 men's and 117 women's programs.
2001	Women's varsity and club programs separate competitively. Women's varsity teams form Northern and Southern Divisions. Women's Southeast Division added. Men's and Women's Texas Divisions added Membership increases to 122 men's teams and 80 women's teams totaling 202.	2011	Women's Southwest Division splits forming Rocky Mountain Division. Men's Southwest Division merges into Rocky Mountain Division. Men's Sierra Pacific Division formed with teams from the Pacific Coast Division Membership grows to 282 teams, including 156 men's and 126 women's programs
2002	Men's Florida and Great Lakes Divisions added. Men's Midwest Division renamed the Ohio Valley Division. Membership increases to 124 men's teams and 91 women's teams totaling 215.
2003	Men's New England and North Atlantic Divisions realigned. Men's Division II Eastern Championship established.

COMPETITIVE FORMAT

The Collegiate Water Polo Association is divided into two classes, varsity and sport club. Each class of membership is then divided into divisions based on geography.

Division I & II Varsity Class

Teams play a single round robin schedule within each division followed by respective Division Championships in which all teams attend. Teams are seeded according to their won/loss records from the regular season.

All teams move on to the CWPA Eastern Championship, with the first place team at the Eastern Championship qualifying for the NCAA National Championship.

Division III Varsity Class

Teams are divided into three regions. Each team plays a single round robin format outside of their region and a double round robin format within their region over the course of two weekends. All teams attend the championship with seeding based on the won/loss records during the regular season.

Sport Club Class

Teams are divided into divisions, based on geography. The top team from each division championship qualifies for the National Collegiate Club Championship.

Big Ten Division

Teams play a single round robin schedule over two weekends with additional seeding games drawn at random. All teams attend the championship tournament, with seeding based on the regular season won/loss records.

Heartland Division

Each team plays round robin within their region, in addition to a crossover tournament where they will play four opponents from the opposite region. The top teams based on the regular season won/loss records will be placed in one bracket and the bottom teams in a consolation bracket. Final division of brackets will be based on total number of teams involved.

Mid-Atlantic Division

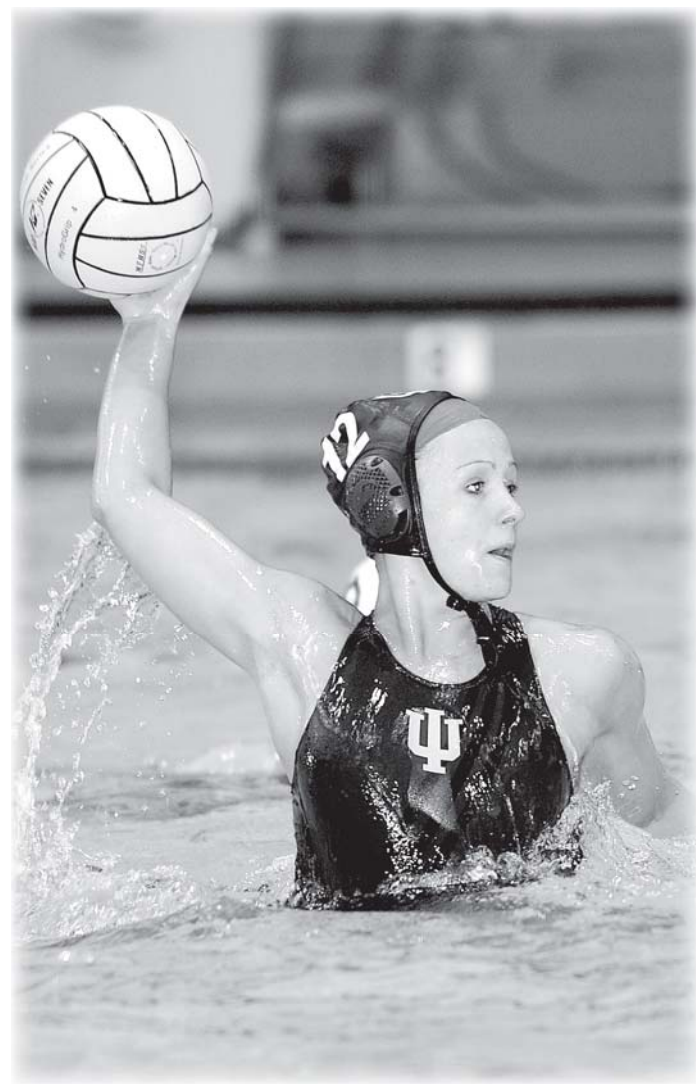

Each team plays round robin within their region, in addition to a crossover tournament where they will play four opponents from the opposite region. All teams attend the championship tournament, which is separated into two groups, with the top seven teams from the regular season playing in one group and the remaining four teams in a second group. Seeding at the championship is determined by won/loss records from the regular season.

Midwest Division

Teams play a single round robin schedule on one weekend. All teams attend the championship tournament, with seeding based on the regular season won/loss records.

New England Division

Teams play a single round robin schedule over two weekends with additional seeding games drawn at random. All teams attend the championship tournament, with seeding based on the regular season won/loss records.

New York Division

Teams play a single round robin schedule over two weekends with additional seeding games drawn at random. All teams attend the championship tournament, with seeding based on the regular season won/loss records.

North Atlantic Division

Teams play a double round robin schedule over two weekends. All teams attend the championship tournament, with seeding based on the regular season won/loss records.

Northwest Division

Teams play a single round robin schedule over two weekends, with opponents drawn at random. All teams attend the championship, with seeding based on won/loss records.

Pacific Coast Division

Teams play eight games in the division over two weekends, with opponents drawn at random. All teams attend the championship, with seeding based on won/loss records.

Sierra Pacific Division

Teams play a single round robin schedule over two weekends with additional seeding games drawn at random. All teams attend the championship tournament, with seeding based on the regular season won/loss records.

Southeast Division

Teams play a single round robin schedule over two weekends with additional seeding games drawn at random. All teams attend the championship tournament, with seeding based on the regular season won/loss records.

Southwest Division

Each team plays within their region on one weekend, in addition to a crossover tournament where they will play opponents from the opposite region. All teams attend the championship tournament, which is seeded by won/loss records from the regular season.

Texas Division

Teams play a single round robin schedule over two weekends with additional seeding games drawn at random. All teams attend the championship tournament, with seeding based on the regular season won/loss records.

Tie Breaker System - All Situations

If at any time two teams are tied in regular season record or goal differential in the tie breaker system below, the result of their head-to-head competition breaks the tie.

Tie Breaker System - Two Teams

If the teams each beat one another, the goal differential in their games is used to break the tie. If the goal differential in their contests against one another is the same, the total of goals scored against each other is used. If the total of goals scored between the teams is equal, the differential for all common opponents seeded higher is used. If no common opponents are seeded higher, the goal differential against the highest seeded common opponent is used.

Tie Breaker System - Three or More Teams (for seeding championships)

If more than two teams are tied in won/loss records, goal differentials among the teams tied serves as the tiebreaker. If two teams are tied in goal differentials, head-to-head competition breaks the tie. If the goal differential in their contests against one another for all teams is the same, the total of goals scored against each other is used. If the total of goals scored between the teams is equal, the goal differential between common opponents seeded higher will be used to determine ranking. This may require averaging the goal differential per game if the number of games between common opponents is unequal. Should teams be tied in won/loss record and they have not played each other, goal differentials against common opponents that are seeded above them are used. If no common opponents are seeded higher, the goal differential against the highest seeded common opponent is used.

(for advancement w/in championships)

If more than two teams are tied in won/loss records, goal differentials among the teams tied serves as the tiebreaker. If the goal differential in their contests against one another is the same, the total of goals scored against each other is used. If the total of goals scored between the teams is equal, their original seeding will serve as the tiebreaker. If the totals are tied at any time between two of the three teams, the tie is broken by their head-to-head result.

Goal Differential

Goal differential is a term used to describe the difference between goals scored against an opponent and the number of goals scored by an opponent against a particular team.

CWPA VARSITY TEAM PROFILES

NORTHERN DIVISION

Brown University

On the strength of Honorable Mention All-America sophomore Kate Woods, the Brown University women's water polo team will look to be back in contention for the title during the 2012 season. Losing just three seniors to graduation, the Bears return 14 letter winners from last year's squad and will be led by senior captain Samantha Ryu. Offensively, the key for the Bears will be Woods, who poured in 100 goals for Brown last year; the most any freshman has ever scored in a single season. A six-time CWPA weekly award winner during the 2011 season, she garnered First Team All-South honors and was the CWPA Southern Division Rookie of the Year accolades. Helping her on the offensive end will be Ryu, and juniors Brittany Westerman, Katharine Booher and Claudia Ruiz. Other sophomores who will look to improve their offensive output will be Sarah Presant and Emily McNamara. Leading the defense will be sophomore Sarah Shin, who saw action in 31 games for Brown. She tallied 162 saves and had a 10.25 goals against average with a 14-17 record. Also vying for time in the cage will be rookie Evan Cranston, a four-year keeper from Castillejas (Calif.). Newcomers Madison Pepper, Lix Rosen, Rebecca Zak, Chloe Kempf, senior Sandra Mastrangelo and sophomore Kristi Munoz will also be key contributors.

Bucknell University

An experienced senior class, a sophomore group that made an immediate impact as rookies in 2011 and plenty of talent and experience in cage should make for a strong 2012 campaign for Bucknell. New coach John McBride will bring a different style to the squad, which returns its two top scorers in senior Hallie Kennan (55) and sophomore Julianne Valdes (47). That duo combined for nearly one-third of the team's 319 goals in 2011. Overall, seven players scored at least 20 goals last season and five of these return. One of the keys from this group is senior Amanda Skonezney, who won a team-high 29 sprints and was fifth on the squad with 43 points in 2011. The defense will be backed up by goalies Brittany Connell and Rena Heim who split time in cage last year, with Connell collecting 126 saves to Heim's 123 stops.

George Washington University

With 12 returning letter winners and nearly 94 percent of its scoring back from last season, the George Washington University women's water polo team is poised to boast one of the top attacks in the Collegiate Water Polo Association in 2012. Senior All-America candidate Allison Peotter is on pace to become the program's career goals and points leader after already setting all-time marks in assists, steals and swim-offs won. The only Colonials' player to earn CWPA First Team All-South honors three times, Peotter could become the program's first-ever All-America selection with a solid senior campaign. Despite the all-around talent of Peotter, GW head coach Scott Reed will look for a more balanced attack this spring behind seniors Megan Walker and Monica Hanson and 10 talented underclassmen. Second Team All-South honoree Megan Walker finished second on the team in goals scored and led the Colonials in ejections drawn from her center position, where she will be joined by sophomore Adina Zepfel this season. Sophomore Rachael Bentley enjoyed a successful rookie season during which she ranked second on the team in assists and third in goals, and will lead a crop of eight second-year players. Sophomores Megan Brolley, Erin Dickson and Laura Londono, and freshmen Meagan Moreland and Mikaela Pyrch will help in the counterattack, while junior Jessie Hurd will provide aggressiveness on the perimeter. The Colonials will need increased contributions from sophomore center defenders Katherine Berry, Allison Littlejohn and Kayley Marshall, all of whom will be playing in front of a freshman goalkeeper. Rookie Chandler Vilander should adjust quickly to the college game as she steps in for Charlotte Schou, the program's career saves leader who graduated in May.

Harvard University

The Harvard University women's water polo team looks for a bright 2012 as the team returns its top 11 goal-scorers from the 2011 squad, which finished 17-15 overall. The Crimson took home sixth place at the Collegiate Water Polo Association Eastern Championship a year ago and are led by into the new year by senior Devan Kennifer. The Monterey, Calif., native had a team-high 76 goals and 81 steals and was named to the CWPA Southern Division All-Conference First Team in 2010. Monica Zdrojewski and the Price sisters (Aisha and Shayna) also return after impressive campaigns last season. Zdrojewski tallied 60 goals, while the sisters accounted for 87 scores (Aisha 54, Shayna 33). Shannon Purcell will also provide a boost for the Crimson as she led the team in assists a year ago with 50.

Mercyhurst College

Mercyhurst College won 16 games last season, as seniors Rachel Griepsma and Nikki Nelson led the way. In 2012, the Lakers will look to find replacements for those departed players and develop new stars for the future. Coach Curtis Robinette's squad started out 1-2 last season, but won all four games at the Chapman Tournament in California. Hoping to build upon that type of momentum, Mercyhurst will be competing in a newly realigned division which will leave them out of the mix for some traditional rivalries in conference play, including Salem International and Gannon. The Lakers beat Gannon University all three times they met in 2011, extending their win streak in the series to five. Keys for the squad in the coming season will be the leadership of several veterans. Rebecca Wright added 48 goals in 2011 and Lisett Calderon contributed 38 goals and 31 assists last year, while Laura Perez is back after scoring 25 goals and compiling 28 assists, along with 27 steals. These individuals will need to be major factors in 2012. Likewise, senior Hope Rozelle played all 26 matches, earning 252 saves, 49 steals, and 11 assists in net. Her defensive strength will also play a major role for the squad this season.

Princeton University

Princeton University enters the 2012 season with hopes of building upon a learning season a year ago. Playing a younger lineup, the Tigers were 18-11 overall, finishing third at the Southern Division Championship and fifth at the Collegiate Water Polo Association Eastern Championship. The Tigers return their three top scorers in sophomores Katie Rigler and Molly McBee and junior Brittany Zwirner. Rigler scored a team-high 56 goals as a freshman and was an All-America Honorable Mention selection in addition to honors from the Southern Division and at the Eastern Championship. Zwirner scored 36 goals as a sophomore after netting 50 in her freshman season, while McBee contributed 32 strikes for the Black & Orange. Princeton returns another 20-goal scorer in junior Saranna Soroka which will help the Tigers keep pace with any offense in the league. Senior Kristen Ward will handle the bulk of play in goal. The three-time All-South honoree has a .561 career save percentage. A five-time Southern Defensive Player of the Week with 39 career wins, she will look to break the 50-win mark in her final collegiate season.

WESTERN DIVISION

Gannon University

Following a 9-19 record and 11th place finish at the 2011 Collegiate Water Polo Association Eastern Championship, the Lady Knights of Gannon University return 13 letter winners who will seek to move up the league standings and continue the program's development. Fielding a team that has a mix of veteran leadership and youth, the squad is primed to compete against the division's best. All seven of the team's leading scorers return, while just four student-athletes, who accounted for 25 of Gannon's 243 goals last season, are not on the 2012 roster. Senior Colleen Harriger returns after recording 69 goals, 59 steals and 20 assists in 2011. Other top returners include senior Molly Andrews (48 goals in 2011) and sophomore Katelyn Jacobs (25 goals in 2011). Junior Kelly Steininger and sophomore Jacqueline Rzymek will also be factors after each scored 18 goals last year. Both goalkeepers - senior Libbie Guina and junior Janelle Bartman - are back to protect the net. The duo split time in goal last season with Bartman making 98 saves and Guina adding 60.

Hartwick College

A three-time Collegiate Water Polo Association Eastern Champion with titles in 2004, 2006 and 2007, the Hawks went 26-11 last season and advanced to the CWPA Eastern Championship semifinals before falling to eventual league champion Indiana University. Led by head coach Alan Huckins, who boasts a 228-80 record in eight seasons at the helm of the Hawks with 25 or more victories in each season, Hartwick returns 16 players from last season's squad and eight of the team's top 10 point producers. History will be made as the Hawks, who have 298 victories since the program's inception, are poised to become just the second Division I institution to hit the 300-win mark in the modern era early this season. Hartwick, which is in search of its 11th division title in the last 12 years, will seek the program's seventh Eastern title game appearance and a return trip to the National Collegiate Athletic Association Championship field.

Indiana University

The Indiana University Hoosiers enter the season looking to build on the memorable 2011 campaign that included hosting the Collegiate Water Polo Association Eastern Championship and a sixth place finish at the National Collegiate Athletic Association Championship at the University of Michigan's Canham Natatorium. The Hoosiers welcome back some key pieces to that title run, but will also be integrating 11 freshmen into the equation after the graduation of seven seniors that accounted for 50 percent of last season's scoring. Indiana will likely rely on a stingy defense that has become a staple of the program. The backbone of that defense, Cassie Wyckoff, is back for her senior season after setting the Indiana single-season saves record in 2011 and earning All-America honors. The Hoosiers will be without the services of two-time All-America selection Jakie Kohli as she redshirts this season to recover from a shoulder injury. Indiana will need to find scoring from a variety of sources, as only three starters return from their league championship squad, but look for sophomore Shae Fournier to continue her consistent offensive production that helped her earn Western Division Rookie of the Year honors in 2011 after scoring 61 goals. Sophomores Meghan Lappan and Amanda Redfern were contributors during their debut seasons, starting a combined 46 matches and will be key factors in 2012.

Notre Dame College

Notre Dame College looks to improve on its inaugural varsity campaign as the Lady Falcons enter their first season in the Collegiate Water Polo Association. Led by returning captain/senior Julie Maginnis, Notre Dame will also look to returning starters Victoria Cliff, Mariya Smith and Lucinda Darvell to allow the Falcons to soar to the top of the Western Division. Chelsea Law and Angela Belback round out the returning core as the young program will seek to build for the future and make their mark on the league. Major contributions are expected from junior college transfers Michelle Berrios and Olena Orlova. In addition, the program has brought in a strong freshman class. Demiko Barrett, Taliese LaVerne, Kanoe Lyons, Gina-Bella Mata'afa, Taylor Nanamura and Elena Williams are also expected to compete for starting positions and will see valuable game time.

Salem International University

Following a six-year hiatus from competition, Salem International University enters the season with an immediate task of re-establishing its presence in the league and building towards a long-term quest of claiming the Collegiate Water Polo Association Eastern Championship crown. Small in numbers and lacking the postseason experience of other programs in the league, the Tigers are excited to construct the foundation for a bright future. Head coach Robert Bullion comes from a rich heritage of water polo and, in particular, Salem International University. His father, current SIU Athletic Director Keith Bullion, guided the Tigers men's team to the Collegiate Water Polo Association Eastern Division II Championship in 2004 and a berth in the Eastern Championship Tournament, a postseason legacy that the younger Bullion would like to equal. Eleven freshmen highlight the roster with only Kerinn Fields having any previous collegiate water polo experience. Fields played two years at California State University-Bakersfield before enrolling in the Masters program at Salem International. Monique Hill, who came to Salem as a part of the swimming team, was welcomed onto the women's basketball team when the swimming team went on hiatus at the end of 2010-2011. Competing in her third sport at the university, she deepens the pool of athletic talent on the team as the Tigers look forward to once again compete against the division and league's best programs.

University of Maryland

The University of Maryland is coming off one of its best seasons in program history and hopes to build on that success in 2012. The Terps, who finished 19-14 and a program-best No. 17 in the final 2011 National Top 20 Poll, welcome back five of seven starters from last year. Joining seniors and co-captains Shelby Reyes and Christine Goetsch are juniors Allison Campbell and Simone Lewis, as well as sophomore Katie Ermakova. Campbell led the squad in scoring last year (89 points) en route to Collegiate Water Polo Association Southern Division Most Valuable Player honors, while Ermakova was third in goals (41) which earned her a spot on the All-Southern Division Second Team. Lewis set the table for a number Campbell's and Ermakova's goals with her team-high 34 assists. Reyes, last year's All-Southern Division First Team keeper, will backbone the defense for a third straight season under Carl Salyer who earned division Coach of the Year honors in 2011. Maryland, which matched a program-best with a third-place finish at the 2011 CWPA Eastern Championship, hopes to build for the future with its eyes on claiming the National Collegiate Athletic Association Championship.

University of Michigan

The University of Michigan enters the 2012 season with youth, experience and a thirst to reclaim the CWPA Eastern Championship. The Wolverines finished the 2011 campaign at 32-5, falling short of an at-large bid to the National Collegiate Athletic Association Championship at home in Canham Natatorium. Ranked at No. 12 in the preseason poll, the Wolverines return 17 players from last year's roster after losing seven, including Association of Collegiate Water Polo Coaches All-America picks Alison Mantel and Lauren Orth. The Maize & Blue's depth chart features four seniors, six juniors, eight sophomores and seven freshmen. Seasoned veterans abound for the Wolverines, including a trio of goalkeepers - seniors Morgan Turner (8-2) and Tara Brigham (2-0) with junior Alex Adamson (22-3) coming off a season that was spotlighted with career highs in wins, saves (160) and steals (16). The Wolverines' offensive strength will be powered behind All-America selection Kiki Golden, Lauren Colton, Meagan Cobb and Claire Ivry. Golden finished third in points (39 goals, 31 assists, 70 points) and second in assists (31) on the squad, while leading the team in hat-tricks (six). Colton followed with five hat-tricks and 64 points, with Cobb chipping in 48 points. Ivry returns as one of the Wolverines' top drivers on offense. Defensively, the Wolverines will look to Hathaway Moore and Kelsey Nolan to keep the team competitive down the stretch and claim the program's fifth straight CWPA Eastern Championship title game berth.

DIVISION III

Carthage College

First-year head coach and former-student assistant coach Andy Bax returns eight-of-13 letter winners from last year's 12-3 Carthage College team, including All-Conference Second Team selection Kati Pedersen (27 goals, 23 assists, 36 steals). Hannah Duke (12 goals, 15 assists, 18 steals), Amanda Kuchan (10 goals, 15 assists, 29 steals), Ember McCoy (2 goals, 3 assists, 7 steals), Mari Paraskevopoulos (30 goals, 26 assists, 29 steals), goalie Ariel Rickelman (2.27 goals-against average), Agnes Wojtas (12 goals, 41 assists, 28 steals) and Ashley Wulf (12 goals, 17 assists, 14 steals) also return for another quest to claim the Collegiate Water Polo Association Division III title. Top newcomers include Kelly Baumgartner, Jordan Crocker, Tya Crosse, Jackie Knightly and Ashley McGhee as the Lady Reds will not be short on talent in 2012 and will seek to return to the Division III title game for the second time in three-years.

Chatham University

Chatham University begins the 2012 season primed to make a run at the Division III title. The Cougars are led on the bench by first-year head coach Katie Wieber and in the water by two-time All-Division III/All-America selection Sachelle Taylor. Natty Burford and Selina Breiner will also be keys to Chatham's offense, while goalie/wing Allison Bodine and wings Anneleis Layton and Tiffany Ross will all factor in the squad's quest to improve upon a 9-13 record from a year ago. Sophomores Lauren Burrows and Caitlin Fratangelo should make greater contributions to help Chatham carry a strong foundation into the future, along with rookie players Jade Lawson, Angela Klaczak and Caitlyn Stasny.

Connecticut College

Experience should be a strength of Connecticut College in 2012 as the Camels did not graduate a senior at the conclusion of the 2011 campaign and added several freshmen to help the team move to the next level. Led by three-time team captain/All-America center Emily Hunter and All-America defender Kristin Lampley, the Camels hope to have a breakthrough year in the Collegiate Water Polo Association. Seniors Lily Polatchek, Katie Mullaley and Gracie Miller are striving to end their collegiate playing careers on a high note. A strong junior class starts with Lampley, but touches on several critical positions for the Camels as utility player Megan Wright, defender Courtney Gardener, driver Maia Taft and goalie Pam Lovejoy form a solid core. Newcomers Shelter Wein, Karen Cardona, Kate Jacobson and Nicolle Jasbon will be asked to contribute right away.

Grove City College

The most successful Division III program in the Collegiate Water Polo Association, the Wolverines will aim to capture their third CWPA Division III Eastern Championship title in as many years with an experienced roster that is coming off a 17-12 record, including a 12-1 mark against league opponents. Senior Chelsea Johnson, an All-America First Team selection and 90 goal scorer a year ago, returns to lead an offense that averaged 9.5 goals per contest. On the other end of the tank, two All-America picks will anchor the Wolverines as senior two-meter defender Andrea Wilson and junior goalie Amanda Johnston lead a defense that allowed just six goals in three games at last year's championship tournament. Returners Amy Fleming, Amanda Brush and Kristi Baur all played significant roles in the program's 2011 title run. Sophomore Abby Wells, along with freshmen Lauren Hulsebus and Jocelyn Hinkle, will provide depth and compete for playing time as the Wolverines seek to continue their dominance of the league.

Macalester College

A program on the rise in the Collegiate Water Polo Association, Macalester placed fourth at the CWPA Division III Eastern Championship at home in St. Paul, Minn. last year following a ninth-place mark during the regular season. This season the team appears to be ready to take the next step to rate among the best small college programs in the nation. Led by head coach Jennie Charlesworth, the Scots will look for key leadership from seniors Catherine Flint and Grace Fleming. Defensively All-America Honorable Mention goalie Chloe Kaulas returns to anchor the Scots in the cage. A year ago, Kaulas started all 22 Macalester games in net and posted a .541 save percentage and 11.6 goals against average. Sophomore Rachel Harrington Abrams and freshmen Anya Phillips, Adrienne Burgin and Sarah Shoemaker will provide invaluable offensive assistance while aiding both sides of the ball. Despite its youth, Macalester looks to be a top team in the near future within the CWPA Division III ranks.

Pennsylvania State University-Erie, The Behrend College

Pennsylvania State University, Erie-The Behrend College will seek to improve on last year's ninth place finish at the Collegiate Water Polo Association Division III Eastern Championship. A player to watch is junior co-captain MaryEllen Spooner, who returns after earning All-America Honorable Mention status at the two-meter position last season. Spooner, who posted 42 goals, 11 assists, 47 steals and 30 drawn kickouts as a sophomore, will be the keystone of a Behrend Lions' program which will strive to move into the upper echelon of teams in the Division III ranks. In addition, co-captain Anne Lawrence, goalie Elizabeth Causgrove and driver Paula Rusca will help seven new faces integrate into the Behrend Lions system. Among the newcomers, freshman Lindsey Musoleno is expected to immediately contribute.

Utica College

Utica College will look to sophomore utility player Evelyn Kurzac to guide the Pioneers into the new season. The first player in the history of the college's water polo program to earn Division III All-America notice, Kurzac garnered honorable mention status for netting 55 goals to move into second place on the college's all-time scoring list. On the heels of a school-record win total (five) and eighth place mark at the Collegiate Water Polo Association Division III Eastern Championship, Utica is on the cusp of breaking through and contending among the best small college teams in the nation.

Washington & Jefferson College

Washington & Jefferson College looks to build upon the momentum of its 2011 season which ended with an 11-7 record for the first winning season in the program's 12-year history. The Presidents, who lost to Grove City College in the Collegiate Water Polo Association Division III Eastern Championship title game and tied the program record for victories in a season (11), will rely on senior Sarah Cull to power the offense. Cull led the Presidents with 34 goals last spring, while adding 18 assists and 25 steals, in a breakout season. Sophomore Margot Wummer returns after a 21-goal rookie campaign, while classmate Catherine Villa added 18 goals and 26 steals. Junior McKenzie Graf will once again be in goal after starting all 18 matches and producing 155 saves and 27 steals last year. The Presidents will also be led by a new coach as Jeremiah O'Neil takes control of the program.

Wheaton College

Wheaton College will rely on returning All-Conference players, Heather Crockett and Karalee Angus to lead the Thunder charge. Most of last season's starters return, while the program also adds two new players from California in Hannah Hibbs and Westmont College transfer Michelle Hee to bolster the Thunder's efforts to defend their Top Three conference finish and make a run at the Collegiate Water Polo Association Division III Eastern Championship in 2012.

CWPA CLUB TEAM PROFILES

BIG TEN DIVISION

Indiana University

Indiana University comes into the season in a rebuilding mode as approximately half of the team graduated at the conclusion of last season. Looking forward to playing with a new group of talented girls, the Hoosiers have multiple players with the ability to score and be offensive threats. Led by first-year head coach Dmitry Lubensky, Indiana should be competitive with any team in the Big Ten.

Michigan State University

Michigan State University continues to reload after not graduating a senior last season. The Spartans are looking forward to an exciting season under the direction of veteran head coach Ron Marsh, with seniors Colleen O'Hara, Alison Judson, Melissa Downing and Krystal Krejcek the leaders of a young but talented Spartans' team. Three juniors will help carry the team, while seven sophomores will have to step up and use their limited collegiate level experience for MSU to continue their winning tradition. Michigan State has a very talented and young freshman class as the Spartans are expecting great things from freshmen Emily DiGiovanni, Lisa Crompton, Jennifer Himle, Brianna Graves, Arielle Vivano, Taylor Downs, Angela Porta, Emily Kolean and Tori Shields.

Ohio State University

Ohio State University is excited and ready to start its second season as a member of the Collegiate Water Polo Association. After a slight learning curve last year, the Buckeyes are prepared to work hard and be successful as a team. A core group of returning players will anchor the squad, although the loss of two-meter set Kelsey Sutton will be felt on both ends of the pool. Katelyn Heath and two-meter defender Yasmine Ghoddoosi make a solid team up the middle, while the Buckeyes will rely on the speed of returners Julilyn Brown, Nisha Sachar, Rachel Creevy and Laura Guinness on counter attacks. Big things are expected from Erin McCormick, Haley Swenson and Carly Haller, with notable newcomers Erika Sheetz, Stephanie Gac and Alyssa Stahlgren adding more experience to a rising OSU team.

Purdue University

After Purdue University's fourth place finish in the Big Ten Division last year, the Boilermakers will have to fill in the gaps from their missing four seniors. Only three of Purdue's six starting players from the 2011 season return. Although Purdue lost a strong senior class, the team has an additional ten new players ready to step up to the challenge of dominating the division. Freshman Carnia Whaley's strong shot and the speed of fellow first-year Amanda Gregus adds to the danger of Purdue's offense. Junior Katie Groff and seniors Mimi Bradford, Emily Karcz and Kaylee Robbins will be relied upon to provide much of the club's offense. On defense, Erika Adamonis and Emily Wetzel will help the team to multiple victories.

University of Illinois

Entering its third year as a member of the Collegiate Water Polo Association, the University of Illinois is excited to defend and improve upon its 2011 second place finish in the Big Ten Division. The Illini graduated several key players, but are confident in their returning members and the talent of several incoming players. Keys to their success this year will be All-Conference selection Corissa Lee on offense and sophomore Amy Slana on defense. Sophomore Kaitlyn Webb should step up as the Illini's primary goaltender. Illinois will also rely heavily on the coaching expertise of Mike Berkemeyer and Miles Grachan to return to the division title game with a shot at earning the program's first berth to the National Collegiate Club Championship.

University of Iowa

Following a third place mark in the Big Ten Division, the University of Iowa Hawkeyes will rely heavily on seniors Kailey Arrivo, Breanne Higgins and Lynna Malloy to lead with their enthusiasm and fast break offense to another top finish. Sophomore Rachel Cortez along with freshmen Christine Roenitz and Hannah Theisen will also play important roles in frustrating defenses with their speed. Iowa will be stable at the two-meter position with freshmen Stephanie Ter Bush and Michelle Durkin. However, their greatest strength is at the defensive end, where All-Conference goalie Kristina Gordon and freshman Emma Ryan should antagonize shooters, while juniors Katie Kopale and Jillian Nagle will seek to shut down the opponent's two-meter game.

University of Michigan

The University of Michigan has high hopes for the 2012 season in the wake of finishing third in the nation and claiming the Big Ten Championship for the third consecutive season. The Wolverines will look to returning starters Millicent Brown (two-time Big Ten Player of the Week and First Team All-Big Ten), Marley Andrews (goalie), and captains Paula and Clio Finnegan to help make up for the loss of a significant senior class. Other players to watch include captain Elyse Deshaw, Diane Schroth, Jessica Ford, Kassia Zalewski, Maeve Daly, Heekyoung Lee and Morgan Rosentreter.

University of Wisconsin

Fielding a team of mostly returning players with a sprinkling of newcomers, the University of Wisconsin is ready to take command of the Big Ten Division. The team graduated many of its top starting players, however, the remaining veterans have stepped in to fill the voids as senior players Emily Hawley, Kristin Slovenkay and Jenny Renzas will lead the team on offense. Fellow starters Katie Moy, Welle Heuning and goalie Brooke Weiland will also help complete a well defined Wisconsin team through their defensive skills. Amanda Gumber, Nicole Delaney and Sarah Olney should see significant time, with freshman Jessie Lustman anticipated to be an asset due to her technical skill at the two-meter position.

HEARTLAND DIVISION

Augustana College

The newest member of the Heartland Division, Augustana College will work to make an impact on the league. Comprised of talented and dedicated women, the team is hoping to make significant improvements by the end of the season and build for a future championship performance in the division.

Carleton College

Carleton College is viewing this season as an opportunity to shine, on the heels of a second place finish at the 2011 Heartland Division Championship. After playing through all of men's season, the program is ready to finish last year's business with the goal of claiming the Heartland Division crown. Led by two-meter set Maggie Alexander and perimeter players Arielle Rebek, Samantha Sharpe and Sarah Carter, the team's offense will be formidable. However, a strong defense has been the hallmark of Carleton over the past few seasons. Due to the play of Nora Cassidy, Hannah Heavenrich and Catherine Christionson, this year's edition will be even stronger than normal under the tutelage of coaches Kevin Hallman, Ben Cerjan and Ben Southgate.

Grinnell College

Following a ninth place finish in the Heartland Division last year, the future seems bright for Grinnell College. Due to the loss of only one scoring player to graduation, Megan Januska '11, and a high rate of return, the Black Sheep are actively recruiting from the swim team to increase their numbers and build a stronger squad for this year and into the future.

Illinois State University

Illinois State University returns for its fourth season in the league with many veteran players and numerous new additions primed for another trek to the National Collegiate Club Championship after a one-year absence. Following a third place finish in the division last year and a championship performance in 2010, the team is dedicated to ending the 2012 campaign with a trip to Tallahassee, Florida and a berth in the National Collegiate Club Championship tournament at Florida State University. The loss of high scorer Christine Byron and starting goalie Courtney Monaghan could take a toll on the team, but freshman goalie Grace Williamson is up for the challenge. On offense Ashley Rampick, Alex Bielski, Emily Bornhoff, Lindsay McCool and Molly O'Connell return for another shot at glory.

Iowa State University

Coming off second (2010) and seventh (2011) place finishes in the division over the past two seasons, Iowa State University is hoping to take the final step and earn a bid to the National Collegiate Club Championship. Goalie Maggie Goldsmith is ready to take on the challenge during her final year in the league. Because the Cyclones have a majority of their team returning, there is no doubt that they will work together with an experienced mentality. Sophomores Kathryn Emerson and Julia Trausch will be forces to be reckoned with this season, while juniors Corrine Stoffel and Paige Baenen, along with seniors Chloe Dedic and Morgan Meyers form the core of the returning talent. Also expected to contribute is freshman Cecily Paldino, who offers great potential and will see playing time this season.

Knox College

Knox College is looking forward to another great season. This year's team is comprised of several returning players led by captains Anne Heberle and Laura Blue. The starting roster will consist of two-meter set Anna Claypool and defender Katherine Miller, while Christina Henke takes over in cage. Sprinter Tory Kassabaum and Rebekah Bally complete the well-rounded line-up for seasoned coach Jonathan Powers.

Lindenwood University

The 2011 Heartland Division champion, Lindenwood University will seek to repeat the feat, claim the program's fourth crown (2008, 2009, 2011) in the past five years, and improve on a 13th place mark earned at last year's National Collegiate Club Championship hosted by the University of Notre Dame. Fielding a roster of veterans along with five new players, key returning athletes include All-Conference two-meter defender Nicolette Andre along with drivers Meghan Kopecky and Christa Khatcherian, and set Kayla Kutinac. In addition to last year's talent, Stacy Fischer rejoins the program hoping to come back from where she left off two seasons ago. Candice Cherry departs from the cage to assist in the field, with Marlee Lyons taking over netminding duties. Freshman Deanna Mendoza has the potential to be a lethal outside shooter, while driver Arianna Conger will fill the gap as a two-meter defender. On the bench, Marko Cubranovic takes over as head coach after serving as an assistant coach for the past three seasons.

Monmouth College

A newcomer on the women's side of the Collegiate Water Polo Association, Monmouth College enters its first official season in the league with a high level of enthusiasm and strong expectations to cause some upsets. Led by senior captain Erica McAloon, the team consists of many athletes that are new to the game, so keep an eye on this team for drastic improvements by the end of the year.

Saint Louis University

Beginning its second season as a member of the Heartland Division, Saint Louis University will work to continue growing in size, talent and strength in the wake of an eighth place mark last year.

Saint Mary's University (Minn.)

Saint Mary's University looks forward to the start of a new season as almost all of its players return from previous campaigns. One exception is senior Nikki Farmer, who will not be able to compete during her last season due to an injury. Instead, she will work with Mark Ross as a coach for the club. To compensate for this loss, the team will rely heavily on Linda Tierney, who scored the majority of the team's goals in 2011. Others to watch include Abby Kratzke and Kristin Wilkes, who bring a strong competitive edge to the team.

University of Minnesota

The University of Minnesota brings a tight-knit team back for its second year in the league. A smaller group after losing five members, the skill level on the squad has risen over the past year, as nearly all of the team's members have been playing for an impressive three or more years. The Lady Gophers will pack a powerful punch with members like Becky Alexander and Jess Graf, who provide confidence and leadership to the group. A key to Minnesota's title hopes resides with Natalie Tisdale, who returns after an injury forced her out of the cage before last season's championship. With all these factors in play, the Lady Gophers hope to improve upon their fifth place finish in the Heartland Division and contend for a berth to the National Collegiate Club Championship.

University of Minnesota-Duluth

A first-year program, the University of Minnesota-Duluth will aim to finish in the upper echelon of the Heartland Division and build for the future.

Washington University in Saint Louis (Mo.)

Washington University in Saint Louis will work to improve on a sixth place finish at last year's Heartland Division tournament. The team will need to replace a pair of star players as All-Conference First Team/All-America Honorable Mention two-meter defender Betsey Crowder and All-Conference Second Team goalie Isabelle Henye do not return for another go-around. Due to a high retention rate of starters like Britany Lefkoe, Kristen Faddis, Naomi Epstein and Audrey Buatois, the team will work to develop its offensive strategy with hopes of a trip to the National Collegiate Club Championship. On defense, Anastasia Nieldski and Roni Rebish are eager to shut down the other teams' shooters and should be a dominating presence. Seniors Ariel Baugh and Sarah McDonald have not only added skill and effort to the team, but they also serve as great leaders and communicators in the pool.

MID-ATLANTIC DIVISION

Carnegie Mellon University

Carnegie Mellon University enters its third season in the Collegiate Water Polo Association with an older and more experienced team. Always looking to improve, the Tartans aim to best their ninth place finish from last year. Seniors Clare McKendry, Myrka Lembo, Nicole Carter and Taylor Pratt will provide leadership and solid play. Junior Alice Tripp, first year graduate student Maria Tartaglia and sophomores Erica Moore, Ashley Disbrow and Melanie Jasper all return for another shot at the division championship. The team will also look for contributions from new talent including Rachel Tjandra Leksana, Nikki Biskis, Faith Clayton and Katie Hopkins. The Tartans have been hard at work to improve their play under coach Kevin Alland and may surprise some teams this season.

Duke University

Duke University begins the season with an athletic line-up of new players including freshmen Arielle Brackett, Maryann Verghese, Carolyn Dugas and Rachael Clark, sophomore Jessica Feldman and graduate students Bobby Lee and Chrissy Becks. The squad's large pool of veteran players adds to the level of intensity and play the Blue Devils will bring to the water in 2012. Experienced players Ally Heaney, Ari Spigel, Birdie Rodriguez, Ali Putnam, Shannon Kalsow, Thanh-Ha Nguyen, Eva Bahnuk will add to a roster that includes All-Conference Second Team two-meter defender Kelsey Tarzia. Goalies Sara Pilzer and Jessie Smit, along with captains

Robyn Schwartzman and Justine Sinnaeve round out the talented group. Sinnaeve hopes to repeat her performance as the Mid-Atlantic Division's Most Valuable Player, while 2011 Coach of the Year Chad Lemons aims to help the club improve upon its fourth place finish in the division last year.

James Madison University

James Madison University is starting fresh after losing 10 seniors to graduation. With only six returning players having more than three-years of experience, the majority of the team is sophomores and freshman. Although inexperienced on the collegiate level, the new players bring several key elements to the program. Former varsity swimmers Emily Vance, Kate Kessler and Leah Webber will add speed to the team, while returning players Krista Meiers and Tori Ward will contribute strong defense. Junior Hannah Holloway and senior Chelsea Verdin will support goalies Caitlin van der Griten and Torrence Revell at two-meter defense. On offense, senior Kelsey Karach leads the scoring attack from two-meters, in addition to having good five-meter shooting ability. Senior Meg Flosdorf, whose has been playing since high school, consistently puts points on the board and is an all-around asset. Rounding out the squad are two sophomores, Shelly Kaplan and Kimmy Pepe, who are expected to contribute on both ends of the pool.

Pennsylvania State University

The defending Mid-Atlantic Division champion, the Nittany Lions of Pennsylvania State University will seek to retain their title. Coming off an eighth place finish at the 2011 National Collegiate Club Championship, for the best showing in Penn State women's water polo history, the Nittany Lions will seek to return to Nationals and make history by moving up in the final standings. Although the team graduated five seniors, including starters Alexis Cherewka, Danielle Palski and Sam Schmidt, senior starters Kaitlyn Knott and All-Conference Second Team pick Vivianne Velez, along with junior Christin DeMoss, return to control the pool. Along with the three returning field starters, junior All-Conference First Team goalie Lara Kaiserian resumes her dominance in the cage. Two-meter offense will be handled by sophomore Courtney Melos, while the two-meter defense position will be filled by rookie Shannon Harrop. Seniors Rachel Wallen and Molly Podgurski, juniors Samantha Jarmul and Bekah Hoffner and sophomores Kate Kinderwater and Allison Lederer will also see substantial playing time. With the influx of new talent, Penn State's deep bench will be utilized and counted on to keep them on top for another year.

University of North Carolina

The University of North Carolina will rely on a mix of veteran leadership, youthful exuberance and skilled players to earn the program's first berth in the Mid-Atlantic Division Championship title game in 2012.

University of Pennsylvania

The University of Pennsylvania experienced a unique event in 2011 - a second place finish in the Mid-Atlantic Division - as the six-time division champions (2004, 2006-2010) did not earn a bid to the National Collegiate Club Championship at the University of Notre Dame. In 2012, the Quakers will look to rectify their absence from the National Championship stage by reclaiming the division crown. Due to the graduation of star players Winnie Eastwood and Amanda Zwarenstein, Penn is rebuilding from scratch to incorporate a new group of girls and continue the program's legacy. Needing to regain their chemistry, the Quakers will rely on captains Julia Zhang and Casey Barnes-Waychus, the only starting players to return from last year's squad, to coordinate Penn's offensive strategy. Penn will also depend on veteran Ashley Armstrong at set and new additions Dana DeCinque, Megan Smith and Jessica Guzman on the wings. Similar to past seasons, the Quakers' defense will be among the division's best. The key defensive challenge will be in the cage, as they will need to fill in with a newcomer to take over the goalie position.

University of Pittsburgh

The University of Pittsburgh returns its entire team and will look to improve in the division. Experience and leadership from seniors Caitlin Langton, Christine Sabato, Carrie McCormick, Elaine Driscoll, Kara Stone, Lisa Czerniewski, Kelly Anne Tierney and Meghan Milloy will be integral to the potential championship effort. Juniors Angela Nepa, Annie Brown and Hannah Pierskalla add smart and aggressive play, with the experience of sophomore goalie Natalie Benoy providing a brick-like wall in the cage. Although Pitt has many experienced players, the team will rely on the energy and enthusiasm of several promising first and second-year athletes as well.

University of Richmond

The Lady Spiders of the University of Richmond will seek to return to the Mid-Atlantic Division title game for the first time since 2010. With four juniors, a senior and two sophomores, Richmond will be a force to be reckoned with in the Mid-Atlantic Division. Sophomore goalkeeper Chrissy Wengloski should be solid in cage, while junior Meg Schroeder, Catherine Romberger and Caitlin Manak are looking forward to another strong season in hopes of claiming the program's first trip to the National Collegiate Club Championship.

University of Virginia

Coached for the fourth season by Chris Warnecke, the University of Virginia will strive to improve upon a third place finish in the Mid-Atlantic Division a year ago. Seeking the program's first division championship since 2003, the returning players aim to lead the team to a winning record while helping the large number of new players gain water polo experience. Goalie Emily Voreas, in her first full season between the pipes, Dana Gulbransen, Karen Blaha, Courtney Crane, Cassidy Wolfe, Hannah Moody, Joanna Curran and Kelsey Milich are slated to form the starting rotation. The team will once again have a deep bench, as other returning players Christine Pajewski, Tina Davidson, Nessa Higginson and Jennifer Corena should see significant playing time.

Virginia Polytechnic Institute & State University

Following the loss of three starters to graduation, the Hokies of Virginia Polytechnic Institute & State University turn to a strong senior class. Led by co-presidents Sarah Michaelson and Caitlin O'Brien, the pair will be called upon to direct an unprecedented amount of new players. Returning member Julie Lotz directs the players in field, while junior Kiara Franco relies on a swimming background to lead the team down the pool. Senior Sara Hwang shows natural talent and intuition, despite a late start in the game, and should help to lead the Hokies' offense. Although new to the team, sophomore Jayme Craig brings prior polo experience, while freshman Kristin Gunther will join senior Callie Hyder in goal, as Virginia Tech looks forward to a promising season.

West Chester University

West Chester University is looking forward to another successful season with a group of talented returning athletes. Players to watch include goalies Sarah Gurgal, Lauren Dean and Erin Meingossner, along with field players Lauren Dean, Casey Fitzsimmons, Lauren Beck, and Noelle Brett. Also expected to play significant roles include, Brittany Siegel, Heather Mehr, Olivia Dekmar, Justine Conte, Leah Adams, along with Tiffany Moss, Marissa DeMichele, Leah Rand, Sarah Gurgal, Peyton McDonald, Chelsea Perugini and Kim Barren.

MIDWEST DIVISION

Grand Valley State University

On the heels of four consecutive runner-up finishes in the Midwest Division from 2007 to 2010, Grand Valley State University saw the run come to an end last season with a third place mark. This year, the Lakers are determined to claim the program's first division championship under the leadership of seniors Tara Bouma, Ashley Mulder and Kaitlin Dean.

Miami University (Ohio)

The Redhawks of Miami University return this season with renewed enthusiasm due to a large sophomore class and a slew of new players. The 2011 Midwest Division runner-up, the team attended the National Collegiate Club Championship hosted by division rival the University of Notre Dame for the first time since 2006 and finished with four players named to the All-Conference team. The returning All-Conference players, senior goalie Kelsey Novotny and sophomore field player Nikki Reimen, look forward to another strong season. With nine sophomores and 11 freshman expected to suit-up, Miami is poised to be a force on the division and National levels, not only this year, but far into the future with sophomore Megan Foster and junior Jane Gleaves leading the way. On the bench, knowledge will not be in short supply as Price Norman, Trevor Johnson, and 2011 Midwest Division Coach of the Year Zach Varwig, welcome Brennan Cline to the Redhawks' staff.

Ohio University

Ohio University lost two seniors to graduation, allowing the remainder of last year's fourth place team to remain intact. Two-meter guard Nora Winstead, the Most Valuable Player on the club a year ago, returns to lead the Bobcats with defender Stephanie Horsefield. Unlike last season when multiple team members, Caitlyn Stewart and Mary Dodson, were injured and unable to complete the season, Ohio will enter the season healthy. In addition, several prospective new players will strengthen the club on both ends of the pool. Although short in numbers, the experience and talent of the athletes, coupled with new coaches, could lead to a strong and successful year for Ohio.

University of Notre Dame "A"

Due to overwhelming interest in club water polo, the University of Notre Dame women's team will once again split into two squads for Collegiate Water Polo Association competition. Captains Maisie O'Malley and Erin Gibson lead the "A" team and look to the experience of fellow seniors Colleen Middleton, Kasia Ahern and goalie Kelly Gibson to replace All-America selections Eileen Flanagan and Ali Durkin. Junior Victoria Anglin returns as a solid all-around player, and two-meter sets Laura McCoy and Rachael Glenister anchor the offense. The Fighting Irish endeavor to win their sixth consecutive Midwest Championship and improve on a seventh place finish at the 2011 National Collegiate Club Championship.

University of Notre Dame "B"

The University of Notre Dame "B" aims to improve on a solid showing in last year's Midwest Division. The Fighting Irish, who return five of seven starters, look to senior captain Danielle Guidry to lead a talented group of incoming freshmen in their first season of competition. The Irish are anchored by seniors Mary Kate Fidler and Alissa Ott, junior Adi Austgen and sophomore Anastasia Hansen. The 'B' team allows a variety of individual players to gain experience in the field, and their improvement through competition will aid the entire program by the conclusion of the season.

Boston College

2012 will be a rebuilding year for Boston College after graduating six seniors. Captains Meredith Behm, Jackie Hay and Courtney Nolan look forward to developing the young talent with new head coach Mackenzie Campbell. After a tough loss to Dartmouth College for the 2011 New England Division Championship, the team is eager to get back in the pool and take on the competition this spring.

Boston University

After a disappointing fifth place in the New England Division a year ago, Boston University eyes the new season with promise. Under the leadership of Konrad Szupinski and Liz Lacy, seniors Alex Nawrot, Hailey McCall, Joanna Chan, Kate Sullivan and Abby Gavens are aiming to place higher at this year's championship and return to the division title game for the second time in the past four years. With a number of talented freshman eager to make their collegiate debut, the Terriers expect to make a big splash this season.

Dartmouth College

A seven-time New England Division champion (2002-05, 2007, 2009, 2011), the Big Green of Dartmouth College will once again field a strong team of returning players and promising freshmen ready to go for the program's eighth crown and another berth at the National Collegiate Club Championship.

Middlebury College

The newcomer to the New England Division, Middlebury College enters this season off an undefeated finish in the North Atlantic Division and a 13th place showing at the National Collegiate Club Championship. Coached by Brian Goodwin, the 2011 North Atlantic Division Coach of the Year, the team looks to continue their impressive performance after switching back to the New England Division. Having graduated a strong group of seniors last year, including North Atlantic Most Valuable Player Amelia Noble and All-Conference Second Team goalie Betty Dembicer, the Panthers will turn to its deep bench to make up for the absences. Led by captains Colleen Carroll, Divya Dethier and Olivia Noble, Middlebury is primed for the challenge of a new division. In addition to the scoring prowess of Olivia Noble, All-Conference First Team selection Andrea Tibbetts will help make the club one of the highest scoring in New England this year. The speed and power of junior Lauren Davidson and sophomores Alexandra Edel, Cori West and Maddie Jackson will be essential to the team's success. Recruits Jamie Hillas and Samantha Simas, returning senior Emily Blair, junior Petra Smitkova, sophomore Jenna Meyer and freshman Emily Caffry round out the team and will be counted on to provide depth off the bench.

United States Coast Guard Academy

The Bears of the United States Coast Guard Academy enter the 2012 season for their third time participating as a member of the Collegiate Water Polo Association. With five returning starters, and 18 freshman players, the Bears are optimistic about the upcoming season. Coast Guard plans to capitalize on its conditioning and strength to out swim its opponents, as many players come into the season following their participation on the NCAA Division III swim team. Juniors Rachel Christensen and Terri Jozsa, sophomores Kate Compagoni, Chantel Ferguson and Gabriella Scrudato will all see substantial playing time. Led by coaches Jody Maisano, Jackie Myers and Chris Stevens, the club anticipates a successful season and looks forward to having a lot of fun.

Williams College

Williams College is coming off a fourth place finish in the division a year ago, a mark the team looks to improve upon in 2012. With the loss of one senior, most of Williams' strength returns to bolster the squad. Additionally, the return of players from their junior year abroad combined with a talented freshman class makes this a promising season.

Yale University

Yale University seeks to improve upon a third place finish in the New England Division Championship last year. The team has been rejuvenated in recent seasons by a talented and large class of freshmen and sophomores. Leading the charge will be 2011 All-New England Division First Team selection Gianna Fote, along with seasoned returning players Kim Tsao, Stephanie Cuevas and Blake Zwerling. Yale hopes to use this season to build a strong foundation for years to come.

NEW YORK DIVISION

Colgate University

Following the loss of seniors Sarah Burczak and Jill Wakumoto to graduation, Colgate University acquired a number of promising recruits and elected a new captain. Captain Heather Frank plans to revolutionize the Colgate program with new leadership on the bench and a new style of play. A key component of Frank's plan is hiring coaches Elton Steinberg and Austin Allen. Allen and Steinberg are eager to use their understanding of water polo techniques native to the Scottish highlands to improve the Colgate program. The new coaching staff is expected to enlist the support of Scottish water polo player and trainer Donald Molten. During his tenure at the University of Nice, Molten collaborated with Haka specialist Rei Morimoto in developing workouts that incorporate the movement and rhythm of the traditional Maori war dance. Molten looks forward to sharing his knowledge and contributing to Colgate's accomplishments. With the help of the team's players, Allen, Molten and Steinberg, Frank has confidence in the future of the new squad.

Columbia University

Columbia University continues to climb the standings after placing second in the New York Division a year ago. After losing two players from last year's squad, the Lions will once again turn to Captain Sydney Forrester to lead the program alongside Rachel Bellows. On the defensive side, the team is pleased to have Becky Simonsen, a new-found goalie from last year who, has proven herself to rate among the strongest players in team history. This year marks an upturn in the program as the team numbers have grown. With a large bench filled with new recruits from across the country, Columbia expects to be competitive in the division with sights beyond the Empire State.

Cornell University

Cornell University brings back all but three players from last season's squad that finished the year 11-1, won the New York Division Championship and advanced to the National Collegiate Club Championship. Led by 2011 New York Division Coach of the Year Dr. Mario Martone, Cornell returns a core of experienced players including All-Conference selections Yiwen Ng and Brie Reid at two-meter set, along with set defender Diana Foster. The net will again be guarded by Karen Swetland. Catherine Kim, Kate Alexander, Mallory Matsumoto, Cassandra Gallagher, Alice McBride, and Orbi Ish-Shalom are experienced veterans that will also be called upon to perform in the water as the team aims to improve on last year's 15th place mark at the National Collegiate Club Championship.

New York University

New York University comes into the 2012 season after a third place finish in the New York Division. Despite the loss of several seniors, NYU retains the will to be a contender, win the division, and attend the National Collegiate Club Championship. Possessing a mix of returning members and important new additions, the team will be a formidable opponent in the New York Division once again.

Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute

Entering its second season fielding a women's collegiate club team in the Collegiate Water Polo Association, Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute is comprised of athletes with varied experiences and backgrounds with two goals: to have fun and build for the future.

Syracuse University

In the wake of a rebuilding season, Syracuse University is prepared to come out strong. The team has many returning players, including several experienced seniors like Brooke Belke, who returns as team captain for a third season. Sophomore Isabel Firpo, who performed exceptionally in her first collegiate campaign, will again guard the iron. However, they will have to overcome the loss of 2011 All-Conference selection Emma Gregg to injury. New coach Achintya Sankarraman is expected to aid Syracuse's quest for its first New York Division championship.

NORTH ATLANTIC DIVISION

Bates College

Bates College comes into the season confident after finishing second in the North Atlantic Division to Middlebury College a year ago. With the movement of Middlebury to the New England Division, the Bobcats are the highest finishing team in the division coming back for another shot at the championship. Although the loss of several senior leaders will be felt, a group of underclassmen are prepared to step in and guide Bates to its first division title.

Bowdoin College

This season looks like it will be a strong one for the Polar Bears of Bowdoin College. As most of the team returns for another spring fresh off a strong swim season, Bowdoin appears poised to fare well come championship time. The freshman class looks stronger than ever with Patty Boyer, an experienced player who competed with the men's club team at the Division III National Collegiate Club Championship, and Gabi Marks, an aspiring goalie, ready to contribute immediately. Walk-ons will assist the Bowdoin women in rounding out the roster. Returning seniors Talhia Nunez, Allen Garner, Tamara Perreault, Aileen Tschiderer and Catherine Johnston will also play integral roles in the team's success.

Massachusetts Institute of Technology

A three-time division champion with titles in 2005, 2006 and 2007 and runner-up marks in 2008, 2009 and 2010, the Massachusetts Institute of Technology will seek to make its seventh North Atlantic Division title game appearance in the past nine seasons.

Wellesley College

Wellesley College leaps into the new season ready to build from its previous year, when the team finished third in the North Atlantic Division. Emma Mrkonic, Alex Simas, Alex Poon and Genia Nizkorodov are expected to lead Wellesley to a higher finish in 2012. Genia Nizkorodov will again confound shooters in goal, while Liz Torres, Elena Quijano, Bailey Desmond, Poon and newcomer Tali Marcus will lead the offensive front as strong scorers. The duo of Poon and Simas are slated to dominate two-meters on the offensive and defensive end respectively, with help from Mrkonic and Quijano. On defense, Julia Gall and Julie Vining should keep other teams' leading scorers in check. Veterans Megan Lambert and Talia Schwartz will also be key factors as the club seamlessly incorporates promising newcomers Hayley Malkin and Luisa Reyes.

Wesleyan University

Returning to the North Atlantic Division after a short hiatus, the women of Wesleyan University are eager to begin competing once again. Due to the entirety of the roster either swimming on the collegiate level or having past water polo playing experience, the learning curve should be short. Watch for goalie Rachel Cohn, who led Loomis Chaffee to three NEPSA Championships prior to arriving at Wesleyan.

NORTHWEST DIVISION

Central Washington University

The Central Washington University Wildcats are back and ready to be competitive in their third season as a member of the Collegiate Water Polo Association. Led by captains Megan Razey and Tia Thomasson, CWU should impact the Northwest Division title race. On offense, the Wildcats will depend on returning top scorer Jennifer Mackenzie, along with Carissa Haber, Danika Barringer and Thomasson. Razey highlights the effort on the defensive end, with Nicole Noel, Jennifer Thompson, Tia Thomasson, and new goalie Sara Jane Kay each posing significant obstacles for opposing teams.

Oregon State University

Oregon State University is hoping to have another successful season after placing second in the Northwest Division a year ago. Returning six-of-seven starters, including All-Conference recipients Karin Rottman, Hannah Smith and Margaret Nagle, OSU is poised to make its third consecutive division title game appearance.

Portland State University

Portland State University joins the Northwest Division this year with hopes of finishing among the upper echelon of teams and building for the future. A promising program, PSU will need to overcome some of the established squads in the division to have a chance at earning a bid to the 2012 National Collegiate Club Championship at Florida State University.

Seattle University

Seattle University is looking to improve on last year's fourth place finish in the division. Following the loss of only one player to graduation, and the addition of several newcomers, Seattle should be improved on both sides of the ball. Goalie Erin Sheehan and Captain Margot Wolfersberger return to serve as the linchpins of the defense, while new team member Lilia Shtikel and 2011 All-Conference selection Megan Morris will lead a reinvigorated offensive attack.

University of Oregon "A"

The "Quest for Eight" begins in earnest as the University of Oregon "A" squad will attempt to join the 2001-2008 University of Florida Gators as the only women's club teams to capture eight consecutive division crowns. The Ducks, who hold the longest active division winning streak in the collegiate club ranks (men or women), have dominated the Northwest Division since 2005 by claiming the 2005, 2006, 2007, 2008, 2009, 2010 and 2011 championships. A large freshman class will strengthen a deep roster of players from which the Ducks can draw this year's starting group.

University of Oregon "B"

One of two squads, the University of Oregon will field the Ducks "B" team, serving as a training ground for the future "A" team players and providing an opportunity for more athletes to compete.

University of Washington (Wash.)

The University of Washington is looking to better its third place finish at the Northwest Division Championship last year and claim its first division title since 2003. While most of the team consists of juniors and seniors, the Huskies gained some key freshmen who should help turn the tide against perennial powers University of Oregon and Oregon State University. Following the departure of coach Mira Ho to spend time with her newborn daughter Daisy, Maria Zavala, a student in the UW graduate education PHD program, takes over coaching duties with the assistance of former UW player Meredith Miller.

Western Washington University

The fifth place finisher in the Northwest Division last year, Western Washington University will use the new season as a rebuilding year. While several top players will not return, WWU is thrilled by the addition of a solid crop of talented newcomers. The team will rely heavily on Captains Brittany Koenker and Taylor Mozzone, as well as veterans Amanda Mika, Laura Ledesma, Mia Ratto, Francine St. Laurent, Sofia Velling and Shadi Garman to building a strong team foundation in front of new goalie, Karley Thurston. Coaches Brandon Neville and Justin Clements should help the squad gain experience in the water and improve as a team.

PACIFIC COAST DIVISION

California Polytechnic State University

The most successful women's collegiate club water polo program in the history of the Collegiate Water Polo Association, California Polytechnic State University returns this season in hopes of claiming its fifth consecutive National Collegiate Club Championship. A seven-time National Champion with victories in 2003, 2004, 2005, 2008, 2009, 2010 and 2011, the loss of four key players, including four-time All-America First Team selection and National Player of the Year Sarah Ur, will prove if the Mustangs have what it takes to become champions again. Led by coaches Josh Combs and Braden Fisk, Cal Poly's returning student-athletes are ready to take on the best of the Pacific Coast Division and the rest of the nation's best teams to continue its legacy of success. Seniors Kate Warner, Ciani Sparks and Joanna Wilk hope to finish off their collegiate water polo experience the way it started - with a National Championship. Junior Casey Clark, a returning starter and All-America selection, is one of the team's strongest offensive players. Juniors Kristy Avis and Helen Compton will dominate at set, while sophomore Sophie Calhoun is an asset to the team due to her speed and consistent game play. Not to be outdone, the Mustangs will again boast a strong class of freshmen as Cal Poly will continue a tradition of not rebuilding, but reloading for another year.

Loyola Marymount University

A fourth-year club in the Collegiate Water Polo Association, Loyola Marymount University will seek to continue its rise to the upper ranks of the ultra-competitive Pacific Coast Division after placing ninth last year.

Pepperdine University

Among the youngest teams in the club ranks, Pepperdine University will be comprised of mostly freshmen. Senior Vanessa Wiles will enjoy her final season at two-meter set, with junior Lauren Sleezer penciled in as a two-meter defender. The Waves hope to finish the season with heart and sportsmanship, and build a team that will increase in strength over the next several seasons.

San Diego State University

San Diego State University comes into the spring of 2012 with a strong team poised to shake-up the Pacific Coast Division. After finishing third in the division last year, SDSU is looking forward to improving their final standing with a shot at ending California Polytechnic State University's run of championships. Due to the loss of a few key players, the team will need to rely on solid defense and thoughtful actions on offense to claim victory. The two-meter position is maintained by senior Veronica Coffey and sophomore Emily Meerdink, both of whom have extensive experience at the position. Goalkeeping for the Aztecs will be handled by senior Alex Odom. This relatively new team is excited to start another year with the Collegiate Water Polo Association and looks forward to many more seasons to come.

University of California-Irvine

Seniors Lili Sowlati, Candace Yau, Jennifer Wen, Michelle Djubasak, Sharon Dyer and Allie Bognacki will lead the University of California-Irvine into another quest for the Pacific Coast Division crown. The Anteaters, who finished sixth in the division a year ago, hope to have an amazing season since many of their student-athletes have played together all four years at UCI. Freshmen Heidi Nurinda, Annie Phung, Jackie Monroe, Laura Huynh, and Ashley Purdy add new skills and talents to an already strong team. In cage, sophomore Ghita Bouzarif takes over as the last line of defense.

University of California-Los Angeles "A"

Building on the success of a runner-up mark in the Pacific Coast Division and a sixth place finish at the National Collegiate Club Championship, the University of California-Los Angeles "A" team will work to end a five second place finishes to California Polytechnic State University (2007-11) in the division. To down the Mustangs and earn the No. 1 seed for the 2012 National Collegiate Club Championship or earn the division runner-up berth to the tournament, UCLA will need to rely on the play of a deep roster that will provide the Bruins with the speed, finesse and power to stifle the rest of the Pacific Coast Division.

University of California-Los Angeles "B"

The University of California-Los Angeles will field two teams this season as the "B" squad will provide additional playing chances for the Bruins considerable roster of talent to gain experience for the future.

University of California-San Diego

The Tritons of the University of California-San Diego have remained among the top of the competition in the Pacific Coast Division in recent history placing third (2009, 2010) and fifth (2011) over the past three seasons.

University of California-Santa Barbara

A strong finish of fourth place at the 2011 Pacific Coast Division tournament and a final National Top 20 Poll ranking of 17th in their first year as a club team filled the University of California-Santa Barbara women with hope for the future. Carrying 10 returning players on their roster, the Lady Gauchos are still in a state of "building for the future." With only 10 new players, there is much this team must experience before April to be prepared for the league championship tournament and fulfill the squad's dream of reaching the National Collegiate Club Championship at Florida State University. However, the addition of two talented juniors: an ex-varsity player from UCSB and a transfer from the dominant Golden West College should add valuable depth to the roster. Senior Stephanie Hogle and junior Kaitie Avila will take turns in the goal, but make no mistake, their training and game play is a joint effort. Sophomore Alyson Huber will continue to frustrate goalies and lead the team in goals and kickouts drawn as she aims high for All-Conference honors.

University of Southern California

The University of Southern California is excited for the upcoming season after placing fifth (2009) and eighth (2010, 2011) over the past three seasons. After losing one senior and acquiring a handful of talented underclassmen, USC is ready to go and equal the feat accomplished by the men as they won the 2011 National Collegiate Club Championship. Returning seniors, including Taylor Stern and Mia Koci, are excited to lead this team in and out of the pool to success.

SIERRA PACIFIC DIVISION

California State University-Chico

California State University-Chico is approaching this year ready to rebuild its foundation and utilize new talent. The 2012 season will be one of new challenges, as the team attempts to manage the loss of six seniors including Allison Fedor, Jen Thomas, Amy Crawford, Krista Winkler, Courtney Lee and Brenda Ramirez. Despite the deficit, returning starters and two-meter players Jessica Wellman and Adrienne Beaudreau will continue to keep Chico's offense strong. Seniors Kaitlyn Tolin and Rachel Westerhoff will help contribute points through outside shots and offensive drives, while returning starter and defensive two-meter guard Rachel Brearley will be utilized around the tank. Returning goalie Stacy McTaggart is ready to step into starting role after showing promising skill and competency.

California State University-Maritime Academy

California State University-Maritime Academy begins the season with a young and inexperienced group. With every new season comes new faces as Cal Maritime was able to bring in seven athletes. Goalie

Sue Swader and center Lauren Grasdahi will again be the go-to players for CMA from among the veteran athletes.

Saint Mary's College (Calif.)

Saint Mary's College welcomes several transfers and freshmen to the team after finishing seventh in the Sierra Pacific Division last year. The Gaels' returning players include senior captains Isabella Filice and Margo Chacon along with junior captain Brianne Reilly, Fiammy Dizon, Cara Conely, Courtney Sant, Blaire Wyatt, DeLeys Hamm, Becca Salas and Anna Marin. Entering his second year coaching, Matt Strumpf is excited to work on the team's defensive tactics with eyes on helping Saint Mary's move in the division standings.

University of California-Berkeley

The University of California has unfinished business as the Golden Bears placed second in the Sierra Pacific Division last season. With the loss of only one player, Tiffany Chan, and a promising group of new players and a strong core of returning athletes, the Golden Bears hope to either capture the division title or finish second as the Sierra Pacific earns two bids to the National Collegiate Club Championship this year.

University of California-Davis "A"

The University of California-Davis enjoyed their most successful year to date in 2010-2011, guided by National Coach of the Year Jonny Gullone. After an undefeated regular season and the program's third Sierra Pacific Division title in four years (2008, 2009, 2011), the Aggies placed second place at National Collegiate Club Championship hosted by the University of Notre Dame. This year's team promises to be just as strong, although seven seniors were lost to graduation. Led by junior set, reigning Sierra Pacific Division Most Valuable Player and All-America Second Team selection Megan Reese, UC-Davis will again contend for the National Championship. Fellow juniors Katie DeSantis and Tiffany Cheung are strong offensive players with versatile ball-handling skills. Sarah Skinner will help the team capitalize on offensive opportunities caused by the speed and defense of sophomores Danica Fascella and Juliana Bremer. Seniors Kelley Shaw and Lisa Dewar offer experience and offensive smarts, while a strong freshman class and goalies Christa Arthur and Samantha Miglian round out the Aggies' roster.

University of California-Davis "B"

The University of California-Davis "B" will field two teams this season as the "B" squad will provide additional playing chances for the Aggies' younger players to gain experience for the future.

University of California-Santa Cruz

The Banana Slugs of the University of California-Santa Cruz enter their third season with the Collegiate Water Polo Association in hopes of claiming their second division championship after taking the 2010 Sierra Pacific Division crown. Following a third place mark last year, UC-Santa Cruz expects several newcomers will contribute to furthering the team's success. Seniors Laura Rudolph and Jennifer Gunnell will be unstoppable on both ends of the pool. Fellow returning players, such as junior Natalie Medved, Alyssa Amaya and Stephanie Baastians, provide experience and leadership to the team. Sophomores Kelsey Anderson, Maya Zelcer and junior Amanda Ratto provide offensive strength. The Banana Slugs last line of defense is senior and goalie Rachel McCracken.

SOUTHEAST DIVISION

Emory University

A lot is new for the Emory University Eagles this year with fresh faces on the team all the way from a bumper crop of freshmen to the club and coaching leadership. Despite the loss of several key seniors, captains Jessie Preslar and Jocelyn Bilkey and president Lindsey Coyle have taken on the mantle of leadership with vigor. While young, a strong sophomore presence in the forms of Kirsten King, Yuliya Oumarbaeva, Audry Klossner, Kimberly Tartavull and goalie Kristen Carroll should prove a formidable threat both offensively and defensively. New recruits Haley Kaplan and Emily Huizinga may prove game-changers in the tournaments to come as well. The Eagles are working hard this year to field a new and different team that has a chance to earn a bid to the National Collegiate Club Championship.

Florida State University

The host of the 2012 Women's National Collegiate Club Championship, and the only team guaranteed a spot in the championship field, the Lady Seminoles of Florida State University will strive to improve upon a fourth place mark in the Southeast Division from last year.

University of Central Florida

The University of Central Florida is excited for the upcoming 2012 water polo season after placing second in the Southeast Division a year ago. New recruits Lauren Scheetz, Kristin Plitnick, Charlotte Thomas, Beth Wieland and Jessica Montgomery will reenergize the Lady Knights to come back from their 8-7 loss to the University of Florida in the 2011 division title game. UCF was able to defeat the Gators in 2009 and 2010 to earn the opportunity to compete at the National Collegiate Club Championship, a spot coveted this year with Florida State University hosting the tournament. New coach

Seth Tasman and returning players Blaire Martin, Hana Korb, Laura Zuluaga, Catalina Davalos, Kara Reeves and Reina Sfeir will lead this team to another fun and successful season. The Knights have a deep bench and are ready for a year of tough competition.

University of Florida "A"

After a come-back season in which the University of Florida recaptured the Southeast Division Championship and steamrolled its way to a fifth place finish at the National Collegiate Club Championship, the Gators are poised to be one of the most exciting teams in the pool this year. This senior-heavy team, led by All-America selection Sarah Wright, All-Conference pick Carly Arnold, and All-Conference goalie Mary Atkinson, has the experience, determination, and dedication to go all the way again. Not a single one of the rest of the senior class, which includes sharp-shooter Chrisi Sanchez, offensive powerhouse Emily Warrner, speedster Jenni Keeler, defensive powerhouse Katie Ambrose, and attacker Stephanie Brandt, can be discounted as anything less than a force to be reckoned with in the division. The Gators' talent does not stop with the senior class as junior Maddie Gonzalez will also see time in the starting lineup, while sophomores Ali Hoffman and Beth Moser will prove that UF will be a contender even after the seniors are gone. Under four-year coaches Katie and Tim Larson, this team hopes to defend their Southeast Division Championship and aim higher at the National Championship at Florida State University.

University of Florida "B"

Thanks to the addition of another talent-laden freshman class, the University of Florida's "B" team looks to continue its success in the wake of finishing third in the Southeast Division last year. With a roster approaching 20 athletes, coaches Katie and Tim Larson will work to build these players into the champions of the future..

University of Georgia

The University of Georgia has a hopeful outlook thanks to the addition of many new recruits to its returning talent. For the Bulldogs, seniors Lenora Bryant, Brittany Tweedy, Stephanie Simpson and Andrea Orton hope to lead the team to some victories. Furthermore, Jackie Murtha, Erin Gunter, Paige Barlow and Stephanie Lord will help bolster team spirit and add some outside shooting to the offense. Recruits Kari Loomis, Kelly Robinson and Olivia King bring athletic talent and a fresh outlook. With the combination of other dynamic new recruits and returning talent, the Georgia Bulldogs hope to try some new tactics and come out fighting for the program's first Southeast Division title.

SOUTHWEST DIVISION

Arizona State University "A"

The defending Southwest Division champion, Arizona State begins its third season as a member of the league with a goal of improving on last year's ninth place finish at the 2011 Women's National Collegiate Club Championship. Look for returning Honorable Mention All-America and All-Southwest Division First Team selection Alexis D'Asaro to again have a significant impact on the Sun Devils' post-season hopes. All-Conference First Team pick Stephanie Funston and Second Team selection Madison Pinto will also be players to watch for ASU.

Arizona State University "B"

This marks the second year in a row that Arizona State University will field a "B" team as the Sun Devils accommodate a heavy demand for playing chances brought about by ASU's significant roster.

Colorado State University

One of the surprises of the 2011 Southwest Division season for rallying to a fourth place mark at the division championship after finishing seventh during the regular season, Colorado State University aims to finish high in the standings for a second year in a row. Working hard and having fun as a team will be a high priority for a Rams' squad that holds a goal of reaching the National Collegiate Club Championship for the first-time in program history.

Northern Arizona University

The Northern Arizona University Lumberjacks continues to gain new members. Built around goalie Samantha Blau and powerhouse shooters Brenna Cooke, Jacquie Davis and Amanda Bennett in the field, the Lumberjacks strive to improve their standing with each game. Captains Jenna Sorrell and Samantha Steuby are pleased with the talent returning including Jessie Garbessi, Nicole Stratton, Maggie McCorkle, Meg Gutierrez and lefty Lisa-Ray Cashion.

United States Air Force Academy

The United States Air Force comes into the season short one graduated senior and plus a bevy of new talent from last year's squad that placed sixth in the division race. A young team with over three quarters composed of freshmen and sophomores, experience on the collegiate level will be in short supply. Due to the composition of the roster, the Falcons will rely on returning senior Jes Bickford and sophomore Georgia Marshall to lead the team on offense. On defense, sophomore Jen Kimura will guard the cage for another season. Juniors Meg Edson, Britta Bigej and Jes Grier, as well as sophomores Lindsay Meidell and Krystal Jimenez, will see substantial playing time as USAF aims to return to the title game for the first time since 2009 and claim the program's first Southwest Division crown since 2005.

University of Arizona

A six-time Southwest Division champion with titles in 1998, 2000, 2001, 2007, 2008 and 2009, the University of Arizona looks for revenge after falling to Arizona State University in the 2011 division title game. The Wildcats, who saw a string of four consecutive appearances at the National Collegiate Club Championship come to an end last season, have a large number of recruits and returning players prepared to do what is necessary to bring the championship plaque back to Tucson. To do so they will need to overcome fellow past champions Arizona State, the University of Colorado, Northern Arizona University and the United States Air Force Academy to begin a new string of postseason appearances. Leading the charge will be goalie Lindsay Morrison and field players Maya Horsman, Stefanie Dudar, Ashley Cordobes, Erin Begley, Brett Begley, Dani Phelps, Colleen Mayes, Lissi Welton, Krissa Gosnell, Heather Bogott, Sara Mohkami, Katie Parissenti, Megan Fracoli, Carolyn Vasquez, Chloe Broenen, Erin Bernier and a crop of new recruits.

University of Colorado

The University of Colorado is looking forward to rebuilding its game around a younger team. A majority of the team graduated last year, leaving the underclassmen to step up their game and restore the Buffaloes to the level of its 1997 and 2003 Southwest Division Championship squads. To achieve this mission, the team is hoping to acquire new players with fresh ideas following second (2010) and fifth (2011) place finishes in the Southwest Division the past two seasons.

University of Denver

Last season was the University of Denver's first year with an all-women's team as the Pioneers placed seventh in their inaugural Southwest Division appearance. With a year of experience in the league, the team hopes to improve their final rank in the upcoming season. Denver has a strong foundation this year, with ten of eleven players from the 2010 edition of the Pioneers returning. Seniors Tricia Whitaker and Sam Case will keep the offense flowing, while Katie Warner and Janna Taylor will provide strong defensive acumen. Delaney Roney and Paige Mullen, two perimeter attackers, will have expanded roles this year. Three freshmen add depth and a new enthusiasm to the team as Sarah Moritz, an aggressive attacker, Melanie Kesner, a defensive anchor at two-meters, and Amber Wiley, who will be a spark off the bench, join the growing program. Denver will depend on its good communication skills, depth of player experience and leadership by coaches Michael Webb and Tommy Anderson to contend for the title.

University of New Mexico

Growth will be the challenge for the University of New Mexico as the Lobos work to increase their number of athletes. The addition of a coach who will travel with the team should help in terms of game-strategy. Coming off a 10th place finish in the Southwest Division following a series of mid-pack placements in the preceding years, New Mexico will depend on its new players to fill in the gaps. Although several of the newcomers have never played water polo prior to this season, they are very willing to learn and are athletic. The strength of the team will be on defense as Margaret Davis controls the home water from two-meter set. Athletes expected to see significant playing time and include Margaret Davis, Logan McGee, Britt Westvang, Amanda Huffman, Elizabeth Richardson, Florencia Monge and Ariel Esquibel.

TEXAS DIVISION

Baylor University

Coming off a sixth place finish in the Texas Division, the Baylor University Bears are primed to improve their position in the division and claw their way to the program's first championship.

Rice University

The Rice University Owls look to rebound from last season when a problem with low numbers ultimately led to a fifth place finish in the Texas Division. Led by senior Minn Thant, the Owls picked up several recruits, in addition to retaining some veterans. Returning players Erika Kwee and Megg Ryan will be key starters, while newcomers Carly Biedul and Marie Valovska look to make an impact in their first season for Rice. Veteran players Vicki Chuang and Renee Gonzalez will also play essential roles both in the field and helping to train new players in practice. With a strong group of seniors, and a handful of freshmen the Owls are hoping to bring a championship home for the first time since the 2003 through 2006 seasons.

Texas A&M University

Texas A&M University looks forward to a promising season with the addition of 13 new players to fill in the vacant spots left by graduating seniors. Led by seniors Jana Havey, Michele Horner, Lauren McMaster and graduate student Rachel Edwards, the Aggies will seek to make their seventh consecutive appearance in the Texas Division title game. Due to a number of key returning players, including Jen Bryson, Maggie O'Brien, Sarah Powers and Jenna Stewart, joining notable new players Kylie Suddendorf and Shannon Coyle, Texas A&M is prepared to claim the program's fourth division title since 2001.

Texas State University

Texas State University is on the rise as the team placed third in the Texas Division a year ago for the highest finish in program history. Hard-charging All-Conference trio Jackie Flynn, Olivia Grice and Emily Pozzi will be integral to the Bobcats' efforts for another Top Three mark or championship performance.

Texas Tech University

Beginning its fifth season in the Collegiate Water Polo Association, Texas Tech University will work to improve on last year's fourth place finish in the Texas Division. As only three of Tech's players from last year return, Texas Tech will rely on freshmen Nichole Libby, Alana Kiker, and Katie Krumpler to fill an offensive void. Sophomore Mariana Medina and senior Elizabeth Martinez will both see substantial playing time as well.

University of Texas

The University of Texas Longhorns enter the 2012 season with the anticipation of great outcomes after a successful year. In 2011, the Longhorns placed first in the Texas Division and went on to finish 11th at the National Collegiate Club Championship at the University of Notre Dame. With the loss of only one starter, the team returns with nearly all of its skilled players. Bridgette McMahan will return in goal with Abby Edwards leading the defense, while Stephanie Liederbach and Kara Parker look to take charge of the offense. Jessie Koverman, Caity Martin, Andrea Jajcanin and Sydney Bottoms will serve in the key utility positions they have in the past as the Longhorns battle for the program's sixth consecutive Texas Division title game appearance and fifth championship (2002, 2007, 2009, 2011).

PoloBase

Water Polo Event Manager

PoloBase is the only fully-integrated scoring system for water polo for use by high school, collegiate, open, and club teams. With PoloBase, one person can run the entire scoring table with ease. PoloBase includes:

- One-button game and shot clock management
 - Game score sheet and box score reports
 - On-demand reports, including team and athlete stats
 - Scoreboard display manager

Designed by a USWP “A”-rated referee with more than 30 years experience in software development, PoloBase is available in a Base edition, an entry-level Club edition, and a FINA-compliant International edition.

PoloBase is an Official Supplier of the CWPA.

PoloBase meets all requirements of USWP, NFHS, NCAA, and CWPA.

PoloBase was used at the:

- 2001 National Junior Olympics in Ann Arbor, MI
- 2004 Men’s National Collegiate Club Championships at Notre Dame University
- 2005 NCAA Women’s National Championships at the University of Michigan

“PoloBase software is incredibly simple to use, and it permits teams to manage the desk with fewer people. This will make it much easier for teams to organize and run events, knowing they need less staff.”

— Dan Sharadin
Commissioner, CWPA

“PoloBase software significantly reduces the chance of table errors. This allows our officials to focus more on the flow of the game and creates a better playing environment for the athletes, the coaches, and even the fans.”

— Tom Tracey
Director of Officials, CWPA

“I ran PoloBase at the Junior Olympics and the Michigan Boys and Girls High School State Championship tournaments. Workers actually have fun using PoloBase!”

— David Stover
Ann Arbor Pioneer High School
