UNDERSTANDING THE GAME OF WATER POLO

Water Polo can be a confusing game for spectators. The whistle is constantly blowing and the play never stops, even when someone is ejected for a penalty. In addition, there are many misconceptions about the game, including how the players keep their horses swimming. Well hang in there, because the following information should help to make the picture much clearer.

General Information

1. Each team has six field players and a goalie.
2. Field players can only use one hand to touch the ball, goalies two.
3. Games consist of 7-minute quarters for club divisions, 8-minute quarters for varsity divisions.
4. The object of the game is to score by placing the ball completely in the goal. Players may move the ball by swimming or passing.
5. Teams may substitute after a goal is scored, during a time-out or during the play from the ejection area.
6. Each team receives three time-outs and one 20-second time-out per game.
7. Shots blocked out of bounds by defensive players result in the defensive team receiving possession. If a defender uses two hands to block a shot, the offensive team receives a penalty shot.

Fouls

When an infraction of the rules occurs, the referee will point in the direction of the team taking possession, while blowing his whistle. The ball is put back into play with an action called a free throw. This means the player gets three seconds of free time to throw the ball to another teammate or swim it up the pool. A player cannot shoot a free throw unless outside the five-meter line. If the ball is not put into play within three seconds, the other team takes possession.

Fouls can be ordinary or major. Ordinary fouls are best understood as minor fouls. For example, a defender may reach over an opponent's back to get at the ball while facing away from the goal. The penalty for an ordinary foul is a free throw for the opposing team.

Major fouls are more severe and are penalized accordingly. For example, when a defender fouls an opponent too aggressively, or from behind when the opponent is facing the goal, the defender is ejected for 20 seconds (players may reenter the game if their team recovers the ball before the ejection time is up, or if the opposing team scores). When the foul occurs within five meters of the goal and the referee believes the player had a high chance of scoring, the opposition shoots a penalty shot. Major fouls can also occur through disrespect to the referee or when a player interferes with an opponent's free throw. Players may only receive three major fouls before elimination.

If all of this has you totally confused, just sit back and enjoy the game. The easiest way to follow the play is by watching the scoreboard. If your team is ahead at the end, great! If not, well consider that you have expanded your horizons. When the game is over, you can at least explain to your friends that the horses never get wet.

HISTORY OF THE COLLEGIATE WATER POLO ASSOCIATION

Administration

The Collegiate Water Polo Association (CWPA) is a member of the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) and is comprised of collegiate institutions. The purpose of the Association is to serve its membership through a variety of ways, including the coordination of a competitive schedule. CWPA Sportsmanship Statement

The CWPA and the NCAA promote good sportsmanship by student-athletes, coaches and spectators. We request your cooperation by supporting the participants and officials in a positive manner. Profanity, racial or sexist comments, or other intimidating actions directed at the officials, student-athletes, coaches, event personnel or team representatives will not be tolerated and are grounds for removal from the site of competition. Also, consumption or possession of alcoholic beverages and tobacco products is prohibited.

Affiliate Organizations

There are many organizations affiliated with the sport of water polo and the landscape can be somewhat confusing when trying to sort out which entity offers what services. To make matters a little easier to understand, the organizations can be divided into two basic groups: scholastic and non scholastic. The scholastic organizations are those that have some affiliation with the educational system. These include college, high school, junior college and middle school teams, as well as their respective administrative bodies that offer competitive leagues and support. In this category one would find state sanctioning organizations, the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA), the National Association for Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA) and all the collegiate conferences recognized by the NCAA or NAIA. Each individual organization operates independently with its own governing structure.

The NCAA and the NAIA are two organizations that serve a unique position. They each provide a supervisory role for their member schools. The colleges and universities that are members of each respective organization choose to establish and follow a set of guidelines that govern competition. Specifically, these guidelines include eligibility, academic progress for their student-athletes, competitive rules, championship guidelines, recruiting and financial aid.

Schools that become members of one of these organizations agree to abide by the rules and principles established within the organization. The NCAA and NAIA provide oversight for the varsity teams on campus, not the collegiate clubs.

In addition to the NCAA and NAIA there are conferences that operate for the purpose of arranging competition for their member institutions. Some conferences, like the Big East, Mountain West or Atlantic Coast Conferences, handle several sports, while others like the CWPA handle a single sport. With respect to water polo, all collegiate clubs that are eligible for the National Collegiate Club Championship are members of the CWPA. To understand the difference between the league and the NCAA or NAIA, think of the conference on a smaller scale performing similar functions for its member institutions. The conference works with the national governing bodies (NCAA and NAIA) to help provide competitive opportunities and services, yet remains an independent organization with its own governing system and budget.

Non-scholastic organizations include all other entities that provide the opportunity for people to be involved in the sport outside of an educational institution. These include YMCAs, Boys & Girls Clubs, parks & recreation programs, privately organized clubs, township/city programs and independent organizations like American Water Polo. United States Water Polo fits under this category as well, serving as the National Governing Body for the sport. They are also responsible for supporting and training Olympic teams for men and women.

For more information about a specific organization, contact the CWPA office at 610-277-6787.

History of the CWPA

The Collegiate Water Polo Association originally began as the Mid Atlantic Conference, founded by Dick Russell in the 1970's. Its founding membership included teams from Maryland, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, and New York.

The conference relied on volunteer coaches until 1990, when it hired a commissioner to perform basic scheduling for the 15 member teams. Officiating assignments at the time were performed by an independent organization called the Eastern Water Polo Referees Association (EWPPA).

The next major milestone occurred in 1993, when the Southern and New England Conferences merged into the Mid Atlantic. The new structure combined all of the varsity teams in the East, along with the few sport clubs in existence at that time.

During the 1995 season, the conference received its first major challenge, as the organization experienced a strike by its officiating core. This strike ultimately resulted in the organization establishing its own officiating bureau, assuming responsibility for all of its officiating assignments. The conference hired Tere Ma as its inaugural Director of Officials and Loren Bertocci as its first Technical Director. These two individuals laid the groundwork for the Officiating Bureau that exists today.

The conference has grown over the years as well, with several key milestones marking the progress. In 2001, the women split into collegiate club and varsity competition for the first time as the CWPA expanded to over 200 teams. This rapid growth forced a move to larger office quarters in 2003, with the CWPA heading across the river to Bridgeport, Pennsylvania where it currently resides. In 2005 six women's teams were launched to help establish water polo as a conference sport in the Metro Atlantic Athletic Conference, giving these institutions an automatic bid to the NCAA Championship and helping the sport grow in new areas. In 2006 the Officiating Bureau took a leap forward with the establishment of a Technical Committee to oversee education, evaluation, and assignment of referees. On-line education for referees was initiated at this same time allowing for greater access to all of our officials.

From a media standpoint, 2009 witnessed the launch of a new website and in 2010 we streamed games live for the first time with a one-camera set-up. In 2012 the conference made a large commitment to multimedia in both equipment and staff to better serve the membership. One outgrowth of this decision changed the live streaming of our championships to full-blown productions using three cameras and a live announcer for play-by-play, similar in style to a television broadcast. It also provided the means to offer more competition streamed throughout the country, much more interactive content on the website, as well as increased online education.

Today the conference fields over 280 teams nationwide, with four full-time staff members, as well as interns in sports photography, multimedia, sports information, marketing and event management.

Over the past years, the Collegiate Water Polo Association has undergone dramatic changes:

1970's	The Mid-Atlantic Conference is founded by Dick Russell.		Women's varsity teams realign to form Northeastern, Northern, Southern and Western Divisions.
1990	The conference hires a commissioner to manage the league administration.		Men's Florida Division teams merge into Southeast Division. Men's Great Plains Division splits forming Great Plains and Missouri Valley Divisions. Membership grows to 126 men's teams and 98 women's teams totaling 224.
1993	The New England and Southern Conferences merge into the Mid-Atlantic. The conference changes its name to the Eastern Water Polo Association. Thirty-nine club and varsity teams participate.	2005	Six women's varsity teams amicably leave to join the Metro Atlantic Athletic Conference (MAAC) and receive an automatic bid to the NCAA Championship. Remaining teams realign to form Northern, Western and Southern Divisions. CWPA agrees to act as the Officiating Bureau and assigning agent for the MAAC. Women's Northeastern Division merges into the Northern Division. Women's Atlantic and North Atlantic Divisions added. Women's National Collegiate Club Championship expands to 16 teams. Membership grows to 131 men's and 99 women's teams totaling 230.
1994	The Association adds women's teams to its membership for 55 teams.
1995	The conference ends its relationship with the Eastern Water Polo Referees Association and establishes its own officiating bureau. Tere Ma hired as the inaugural Director of Officials and Loren Bertocci hired as the first Technical Director. Men's Midwest Division is added. Club championships are separated by division. Membership increases to 82 teams.	2006	Women's Atlantic Division merges with Mid-Atlantic Division. Men's Ohio Valley Division members join Great Lakes and Missouri Valley Divisions. CWPA varsity teams create a Technical Committee to lead the education, evaluation, and assignment of referees. Officiating Bureau uses online video for the first time in the education process for referees. Membership grows to 138 men's and 96 women's teams totaling 234.
1996	Women's Midwest and Men's Southwest Divisions are added. The Eastern Water Polo Association changes its name to the Collegiate Water Polo Association to reflect the geographic representation of its membership. Membership rises to 95 teams.
1997	Women's Southwest Division is added. Women's Northern Division splits into New York and New England Divisions. Great Lakes Division is added. Men's New England Division splits to North Atlantic and New England Divisions. Membership reaches 110 teams.	2007	Pacific Coast Women's Division splits forming Sierra Pacific Division. Women's Great Lakes Division splits forming Ohio Valley Division. Men's Southwest Division splits forming Rocky Mountain Division. Men's Southeast Division splits to re-establish the Florida Division. CWPA initiates online education program for referees. Membership grows to 141 men's and 101 women's teams totaling 242.
1998	Men's and Women's Northwest Divisions added. Men's Pacific Coast Division added. Membership includes 40 women's teams and 97 men's teams totaling 137.
1999	Women's Pacific Coast Division and Men's Great Plains Division added. Women's Midwest Division reinstated. Men's Great Lakes Division changes name to Heartland Division. Membership increases to 52 women's teams and 107 men's teams totaling 159.	2008	Women's Ohio Valley Division merges into Midwest Division. Membership grows to 143 men's and 100 women's teams totaling 243.
2000	Men's Southeast and Atlantic Divisions added. Membership increases to 54 women's teams and 121 men's teams totaling 175.	2009	Big Ten Division club teams join the CWPA. CWPA Women's Division III Varsity Championship created. New Team Leader orientation program established. CWPA begins streaming championship games on-line. Membership grows to 161 men's and 98 women's teams totaling 259.
2001	Women's varsity and club programs separate competitively. Women's varsity teams form Northern and Southern Divisions. Women's Southeast Division added. Men's and Women's Texas Divisions added. Membership increases to 122 men's teams and 80 women's teams totaling 202.	2010	Membership grows to 160 men's and 117 women's teams totaling 277.
2002	Men's Florida and Great Lakes Divisions added. Men's Midwest Division renamed the Ohio Valley Division. Membership increases to 124 men's teams and 91 women's teams totaling 215.	2011	Women's Southwest Division splits forming Rocky Mountain Division. Men's Southwest Division merges into Rocky Mountain Division. Men's Sierra Pacific Division formed with teams from the Pacific Coast Division. Membership grows to 156 men's and 126 women's teams totaling 282.
2003	Men's Division II Eastern Championship established. League office moves to Bridgeport, Pennsylvania after 13 years in Norristown, Pennsylvania. Membership steadies at 120 men's and 95 women's teams totaling 215 teams.	2012	Multimedia position established. Membership steadies at 159 men's and 121 women's teams totaling 280.
		2013	Membership changes to 158 men's and 115 women's teams totaling 273.

COMPETITIVE FORMAT

The Collegiate Water Polo Association is divided into two classes, varsity and sport club. Each class of membership is then divided into divisions based on geography.

Division I & II Varsity Class

Western Division teams play a double round robin schedule with final standings dependent upon won/loss records. Southern Division teams play a single round robin schedule followed by a Division Championship in which all teams attend. Teams are seeded according to their won/loss records from the regular season.

The top three teams move on to the CWPA Championship, with one additional at-large berth available. The first place team at the CWPA Championship qualifies for the NCAA National Championship.

Division III Varsity Class

Teams are divided into two regions. Each team plays a double round robin format over the course of two weekends. All teams attend the championship with seeding based on the won/loss records during the regular season. The top Division III team moves on the CWPA Championship.

Sport Club Class

Teams are divided into divisions based on geography. The top team from each division championship qualifies for the National Collegiate Club Championship.

Big Ten Division

Teams play a single round robin schedule over two weekends with additional seeding games drawn at random. All teams attend the championship tournament, with seeding based on the regular season won/loss records.

Great Plains Division

Teams play a double round robin schedule over two weekends. All teams attend the championship tournament, with seeding based on the regular season won/loss records.

Heartland Division

Teams play a single round robin schedule over two weekends with additional seeding games drawn at random. All teams attend the championship tournament, with seeding based on the regular season won/loss records.

Mid-Atlantic Division

Each team plays games within their region, in addition to a crossover tournament where they will play four opponents from the opposite region. All teams attend the championship tournament, with seeding at the championship determined by won/loss records from the regular season.

Midwest Division

Teams play a single round robin schedule on one weekend. All teams attend the championship tournament, with seeding based on the regular season won/loss records.

New England Division

Teams play a single round robin schedule over two weekends with additional seeding games drawn at random. All teams attend the championship tournament, with seeding based on the regular season won/loss records.

New York Division

Teams play a double round robin schedule over two weekends. All teams attend the championship tournament, with seeding based on the regular season won/loss records.

North Atlantic Division

Teams play a single round robin schedule over two weekends with additional seeding games drawn at random. All teams attend the championship tournament, with seeding based on the regular season won/loss records.

Northwest Division

Teams play a single round robin schedule over two weekends, with opponents drawn at random. All teams attend the championship, with seeding based on won/loss records.

Pacific Coast Division

Teams play a single round robin schedule over two weekends with additional seeding games drawn at random. All teams attend the championship tournament, with seeding based on the regular season won/loss records.

Sierra Pacific Division

Teams play a single round robin schedule over two weekends with additional seeding games drawn at random. All teams attend the championship tournament, with seeding based on the regular season won/loss records.

Southeast Division

Teams play a single round robin schedule over two weekends with additional seeding games drawn at random. All teams attend the championship tournament, with seeding based on the regular season won/loss records.

Southwest Division

Teams play a single round robin schedule over two weekends with additional seeding games drawn at random. All teams attend the championship tournament, with seeding based on the regular season won/loss records.

Texas Division

Teams play a single round robin schedule over two weekends with additional seeding games drawn at random. All teams attend the championship tournament, with seeding based on the regular season won/loss records.

Tie Breaker System - All Situations

If at any time two teams are tied in regular season record or goal differential in the tie breaker system below, the result of their head-to-head competition breaks the tie.

Tie Breaker System - Two Teams

If the teams each beat one another, the goal differential in their games is used to break the tie. If the goal differential in their contests against one another is the same, the total of goals scored against each other is used. If the total of goals scored between the teams is equal, the differential for all common opponents seeded higher is used. If no common opponents are seeded higher, the goal differential against the highest seeded common opponent is used.

Tie Breaker System - Three or More Teams (for seeding championships)

If more than two teams are tied in won/loss records, goal differentials among the teams tied serves as the tiebreaker. If two teams are tied in goal differentials, head-to-head competition breaks the tie. If the goal differential in their contests against one another for all teams is the same, the total of goals scored against each other is used. If the total of goals scored between the teams is equal, the goal differential between common opponents seeded higher will be used to determine ranking. This may require averaging the goal differential per game if the number of games between common opponents is unequal. Should teams be tied in won/loss record and they have not played each other, goal differentials against common opponents that are seeded above them are used. If no common opponents are seeded higher, the goal differential against the highest seeded common opponent is used.

(for advancement w/in championships)

If more than two teams are tied in won/loss records, goal differentials among the teams tied serves as the tiebreaker. If the goal differential in their contests against one another is the same, the total of goals scored against each other is used. If the total of goals scored between the teams is equal, their original seeding will serve as the tiebreaker. If the totals are tied at any time between two of the three teams, the tie is broken by their head-to-head result.

Goal Differential

Goal differential is a term used to describe the difference between goals scored against an opponent and the number of goals scored by an opponent against a particular team.

VARSITY TEAM PROFILES

SOUTHERN DIVISION

Brown University

Brown University will rely on its deep senior class to build upon last year's fifth place finish at the 2013 Collegiate Water Polo Association (CWPA) Championship and a second place mark in the Southern Division. Leading the way on offense is attacker Kate Woods, as the three-time CWPA Southern Division All-Conference First Team selection ranked second on the squad in scoring for the 2013 season with 59 goals and was the team leader in assists by dishing out 71 helpers. Defensively she had 93 steals, also a team high. Additionally, her 39 ejections drawn put her third on the team to help garner All-America Honorable Mention accolades. Senior Sarah Present is another impact player to watch following a junior season in which she tallied 48 steals, 25 ejections drawn, 38 goals and 23 assists with five field blocks. Watch for center defenders Rebecca Zak and Chloe Kempf, attacker Emily Klein and utility player Olivia Santiago to add firepower and defensive presence to the Bears' line-up. The addition of freshmen Shannon Crowley, Marisa Kolokotronis and Hannah Koper strengthen the field player contingent, but in the ultra-competitive Southern Division, the Bears' title hopes may ride on the play of goalie Sarah Shin as the senior is coming off a season in which she registered 163 saves with a 10.31 goals against average.

Bucknell University

Bucknell University, which is slated to host the Collegiate Water Polo Association (CWPA) Championship this April, is a veteran team with five seniors and three juniors who have all played significant minutes. On offense, the team returns its two leading scorers from a year ago in senior Julianne Valdes and sophomore Hannah Sunday, as well as junior Taylor Barnett, who netted a team-high 67 goals two years ago. Valdes, who ranks 10th in program history with 241 career points, and fellow senior Mackenzie Ferry are coming off a season in which they were named to the All-Southern Division Second Team for guiding Bucknell to fifth place in the division and a seventh place finish at the league's championship tournament. Overall, the Bison return five starters from last year's squad, including two-year starting goalkeeper Rena Heim. Heim posted 251 saves last Spring and stands fourth in program history with 661 career stops.

George Washington University

Under the direction of 15th-year head coach Scott Reed, George Washington University returns nearly 75 percent of an offense which scored a program-record 318 goals in 2013, including three 50-goal scorers. An All-Southern Division First Team selection a year ago after eclipsing the single-season school records for assists (61) and points (111), Rachael Bentley enters her senior season as GW's all-time leader in assists (141) and points (272), and with 131 career goals she is within striking distance of that all-time mark (170) as well. Senior Megan Brolley earned All-South Second Team honors last season after scoring 50 goals and leading GW in steals (41) and ejections drawn (43). Despite missing the final five games of the season to injury, sophomore Hannah Cox led the Colonials with 56 goals. In addition, senior Katherine Berry is GW's single-season and career leader in field blocks. Finally, junior goalkeeper Chandler Vilander is poised to build on her sophomore campaign in which she posted a career-high 201 saves.

Harvard University

The 2013 Harvard University Crimson became the first team since the 2000-02 run to post three consecutive winning seasons with an 18-16 overall record and 3-3 mark in regular season Collegiate Water Polo Association (CWPA) Southern Division games. Harvard recorded the longest winning streak (eight games) in program history and capped off the season with a sixth-place finish at the CWPA Championship hosted by the University of Michigan. The Crimson returns nine members of the 2013 squad, including second team All-Southern Division performers Yoshi Andersen and Ariel Dukes. Andersen (61 goals, 42 assists, 54 steals) along with senior co-captain Shayna Price (76 goals, 33 assists, 39 steals) and rising sophomore Charlotte Hendrix (71 goals, 42 assists, 57 steals) will help pace the offense. On the defensive side, Dukes is coming off a sophomore campaign where she made 246 saves in goal, while adding 12 assists and 45 steals. Head coach Ted Minnis added six freshmen to the roster for the upcoming season.

Mercyhurst University

The Mercyhurst University women's water polo team is hoping to improve on last year by replacing one of the top players in program history with quality depth throughout the roster. How the young group develops will go a long way towards determining the success of the 2014 Lakers. Last season, Mercyhurst won 14 games, including a pair of wins versus cross-town rival Gannon University. Lisett Calderon capped a stellar career with 64 goals and 35 assists, earning Association of Collegiate Water Polo Coaches (ACWPC) All-America Division II First Team honors. She graduated as the program's third-leading point scorer (306) and fourth-leading goal scorer (190). The Lakers also lost Bella Hersh, Trish Armstrong and Kylie McCormick to graduation. In 2014, Cailin Jope and Allie Grimes are the lone seniors on the roster. Jope scored 47 goals in her first season with the Lakers, while Grimes posted 24 goals and 15 assists. The duo will serve as captains this year. Sophomores Meagan Marques, Stephanie Fernandez, Annie Blackman, and Jesse Sworden will look to continue their success they had as freshmen. Marques put up 42 points, while Fernandez and Blackman registered 37 each. Sworden started 28 games in goal, making 249 saves and 68 steals.

Princeton University

Coming off consecutive National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) Championship appearances, the Princeton University women's water polo team will look to reach new milestones in 2014. The Tigers are the two-time reigning Collegiate Water Polo Association (CWPA) and Southern Division champions and will look to defend their crown for a third straight season. In the history of the league, only two teams have claimed three-consecutive league crowns as Slippery Rock University (1988-to-1996) and the University of Michigan (2008-to-2010) previously achieved the feat. Princeton went 28-6, including an 8-0 mark in the Southern Division last year, sweeping divisional play for the second consecutive season. Ranked in the Top-12 all-year, the Tigers earned a fifth-place finish in a thrilling overtime victory over the University of California-San Diego at the NCAA tournament to cap the year off and reach another milestone feat. The Tigers return 12 letterwinners, including All-America selections Ashleigh Johnson and Katie Rigler. Over the summer Johnson guided Team USA to the FINA Junior World Championship gold medal and was named Goalkeeper of the Tournament to complete an incredible year where she was tabbed Southern Rookie of the Year and CWPA Championship Rookie of the Tournament. Rigler, the two-time Southern Division Player of the Year and CWPA Championship Most Valuable Player, and fellow senior Molly McBee will serve as co-captains of a veteran laden and experienced team, featuring four All-Southern selections. Princeton's lineup is bolstered by three freshmen as the team enters the year rated at No. 8 in the Preseason National Top-20 Poll to match a program-best ranking.

WESTERN DIVISION

Gannon University

Gannon University returns 15 letter-winners from last year's squad that finished 13-16 overall and won the Collegiate Water Polo Association (CWPA) Division II Championship. Ninety-four percent of the team's scoring from a year ago returns in 2014, including the top five scorers. Katelyn Jacobs is back after producing a team-best 60 goals last season. Janelle McDaniels (47 goals), Bailey Gadd (45), Shanan Lazenby (36) and Kelsey Rzymek (19) also return in 2014.

Hartwick College

A three-time Collegiate Water Polo Association (CWPA) Champion with titles in 2004, 2006 and 2007, Hartwick College went 29-13 last season and came in fourth at the CWPA Championship. In 10 seasons at the helm, head coach Alan Huckins has posted a 285-106 record and led the team to 25 or more victories in each of those seasons. He brings back 11 players from last season's squad, including three out of the four top scorers led by last year's leading scorer and CWPA Western Division Player of the Year Sami Capparelli. Overall, Hartwick will face eight teams ranked in the Preseason Top-20 this season as the team will take on the University of Southern California, San Diego State University, Long Beach State University, the University of Michigan, California State University-Northridge, Indiana University, Loyola Marymount University and the University of the Pacific. A six time (2002, 2004, 2006, 2007, 2008, 2009) CWPA Championship title game participant, Hartwick will aim to reclaim the league title and berth the league's automatic berth to the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) Championship.

Indiana University

Indiana University reached new milestones in 2013 as the Hoosier claimed the Collegiate Water Polo Association (CWPA) Western Division title for the first time in school history. A two-time league champion with titles in 2003 and 2011, Indiana will look to take its success even further this season as the team returns six of starters from last year's squad. 2012 All-America Third Team recipient and three-time All-Western Division selection/senior Shae Fournier will aim to continue her climb in the IU record books in a number of offensive categories (goals scored, assists, and steals). A 2012 and 2013 All-Conference First Team pick after garnering Second Team notice as a freshman, She is currently fourth all-time at Indiana with 220 career goals, fifth all-time in career assists (127), fourth in career steals (132), and well within reach of the all-time leader in each category. Other returning starters include 2013 All-Western Division First Team goalie Jessica Gaudrealt, who has spent much of the offseason competing for the Canadian National Team, team assist-leader/2012 and 2013 All-Conference Second Team selection Colleen McNaught, Shelby Taylor and Meghan Lappan. In addition, the Hoosiers' will have additional firepower thanks to former University of Maryland standout Allison Campbell. A 2011 and 2012 All-America Honorable Mention selection, Campbell joins the Hoosiers with 155 goals, 95 assists and 277 steals in three seasons with the Terrapins. A 2012 Western Division and 2011 Southern Division First Team All-Conference pick, she claimed the 2011 Southern Division Player of the Year award on the heels of an 2010 All-South Second Team nod as a freshman.

Notre Dame College

Notre Dame College will aim to build on the program's second season in the Collegiate Water Polo Association (CWPA) Western Division and first in the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA). Following the departure of head coach Matt Kittle, the Falcons will be in flux for the 2014 campaign as the team will aim to qualify for the now eight-team Collegiate Water Polo Association (CWPA) Championship after placing 12th and 11th in the 12-team 2012 and 2013 tournaments.

University of Michigan

With just five seniors and juniors on its roster, the University of Michigan will have an exceedingly young squad in 2014 and will rely on its talented group of underclassmen to step up and immediately contribute. A five-time league champion (2002, 2005, 2008, 2009, 2010), the Wolverines will aim for the program's sixth National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) Championship appearance -- and first since 2010 -- after placing second at the 2013 Collegiate Water Polo Association (CWPA) Championship at home in Canham Natatorium. In addition, the team will seek to recapture the CWPA Western Division crown after seeing their stretch of 11 straight league titles snapped a year ago. U-M graduated five athletes from last season's team, most notably leading scorer Kiki Golden and four-year starting goalkeeper Alex Adamson, but return two of its top-five goal scorers in sophomore Presley Pender (38) and senior Kelsey Nolan (28). Pender also led the Wolverines in 2013 with 35 assists. Unfortunately, sophomore Bryce Beckwith, who tallied 38 goals and who was named the 2013 CWPA Western Division Rookie of the Year, will likely miss this season with an injury. Nolan stands as the Wolverines' most decorated returning player, earning Association of Collegiate Water Polo Coaches (ACWPC) All-America Honorable Mention in 2012 and two CWPA All-Western Division selections. The Wolverines welcome eight freshmen to the 2014 squad -- seven field players and one goalkeeper. The rookie class combined for 10 All-America citations and 12 All-State accolades during their prep careers. While all are likely to earn playing time this season, U-M will be most reliant on two-meter specialist Allison Skaggs and goalkeeper Emily Browning to fill the voids left by the graduation of Golden and Adamson.

DIVISION III

Carthage College

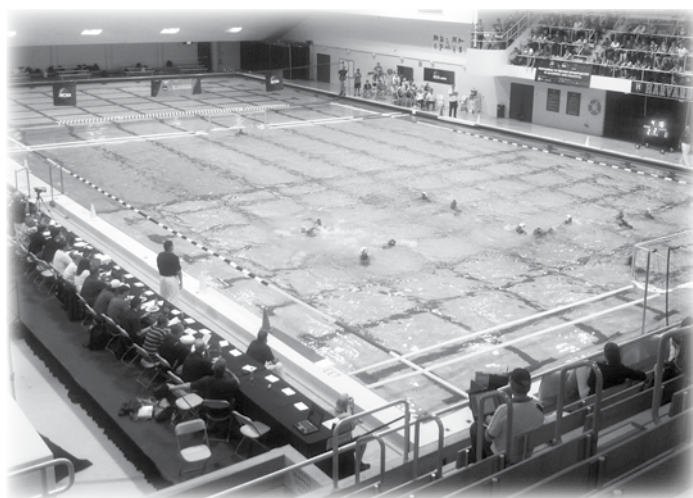

Third-year head coach Andy Bax returns a veteran team for the 2014 season after placing fourth at the 2013 Collegiate Water Polo Association (CWPA) Division III Championship. It marked a two place improvement over the team's finish at the 2012 Division III Championship as the Lady Reds finished sixth (2012), fifth (2011) and second (2010) in the three prior championship tournaments. Key to Carthage's title hopes will be the play of 2013 All-Conference Second Team selection Tya Crosse (22 goals, 14 assists, 11 steals). Ember McCoy, Kelly Baumgartner, Samantha Craig and Amanda Boothe bolster the line-up. In cage, Ashley McGhee stopped 154 shots and posted a 5.47 goals-against average with 10 steals to raise her career total to 370 saves following her sophomore campaign as Carthage's goalkeeper.

Connecticut College

Connecticut College returns six-of-seven starters from the 2013 Collegiate Water Polo Association (CWPA) Division III Championship team in a quest for a repeat and another trip to the CWPA Championship. The Camels are led by returning All-American selections Nicky Jasbon and Kelsey Millward, while the left-handed trio of junior Kate Jacobson, sophomore Isabelle Baneux and freshman Brianna Harrity will provide a balanced attack. Freshman goalies Susan Doetsch and Sarah Sovia will provide depth and competition in the cage with returning starter Ashley Amey. Other key players for the Camels will be sophomores Sam Pierce, Abbey Wroblewski and Ciara Beaulieu. Esther Mehesz and Karen Cardona round out a junior class that will be asked to take on a leadership role for a team absent of seniors.

Grove City College

With five returning veterans back for the 2014 season, the Grove City College women's water polo team will look to reclaim its spot at the top of the CWPA's Division III conference this spring. Grove City went 12-9 overall last year and won the league's regular season title before falling in the conference tournament championship match at Connecticut College. Grove City had won the tournament crown in each of the three previous seasons. Second-year head coach Rachel Griepsma will have just one senior on the 2014 roster, Lauren Burrows. Despite the relative youth of the team, the Wolverines still feature plenty of experience. Burrows, junior Jocelyn Hinkle and sophomores Ashley Henderson and Ashley Parks all return as starters for Grove City. Burrows posted 14 goals and 12 assists last year, her first season at Grove City. Hinkle, meanwhile, ranked second on the team with 49 goals and 27 assists. Her 76 total points led Grove City in 2013. She will be entering her third season as a starter. Henderson and Parks both made an immediate impact as rookies in 2013. Henderson chalked up 13 goals and 19 assists in her freshman year while Parks pumped in 33 goals and assisted on 23 scores. Both are expected to be key contributors again this year. Sophomore Kira Okray emerged as one of the Wolverines' top reserves in 2013 and will look to earn a full-time starting post this year. She appeared in 18 of Grove City's 21 matches last season. A quartet of newcomers will also bolster Grove City this season. Freshman Mary Frank is expected to take over in goal for four-year starter Amanda Johnston while first-year performers Molly Gallant, Abby Jank and Megan Rowley are all expected to contribute in the field.

Macalester College

A program on the rise in the Collegiate Water Polo Association (CWPA) and the host institution for the 2014 Division III Championship, the Macalester College Scots are looking to build upon the past two seasons' fifth place finishes to move up the league standings. Head coach Jennie Charlesworth will depend upon a trio of All-Conference selections to stay in the hunt for the league title as Second Team picks Adrienne Burgin (2012), Sarah Shoemaker (2013) and goalie Anya Phillips (2013) form the core of what is an ascending Scots' squad. In addition, Zexin Nai should bolster the roster after having spent time playing with the Singapore National Team. Look for the Scots to contend for the CWPA Division III Championship and a victorious season.

Monmouth College

The Fighting Scots of Monmouth College will enter the varsity ranks for the first time in 2013 after many years of participation as a club team. Head coach Josh Dunn's roster features six players who saw significant action last season in the club ranks. Sophomore Morgan Bruess will be in goal after experiencing her first water polo action last spring. A converted softball player, Bruess is an athletic keeper with a wide wingspan. Senior Claire McGuire, a former basketball player, was the club team's top defender in leading the squad in steals. Among the new faces to the team are junior Kristin Cozzi, sophomore Cassidy O'Connell and freshmen Heather Barba and Brooke Boldt. Dunn expects the newcomers to compliment returning juniors Clarissa Henby and Erin Willhite and sophomores Taylor Sutschek and Kylee Winiecki.

Penn State Erie, The Behrend College

Penn State Behrend will look to improve upon last season as the Lions are coming off a seventh place finish at the Collegiate Water Polo Association (CWPA) Division III Championship. The loss of four-time All-America pick MaryEllen Spooner, who led Penn State Behrend in goals (40), drawn kick-outs (30) and field blocks (12) last season, will provide an opportunity for the younger players to step-up and lead the Lions to the next level. Look for captain Paula Rusca to take over on the offensive end of the tank. She is joined by returning players Lauren Rosato, Hannah Kelly, Alex Issacson and Mary Therese Causgrove. New to the Lions are Marissa Duvall, Brittany Pinter, Meagan Daily and Kara Stegmann.

Utica College

Utica College comes into the 2014 season looking to continue the team's success from last season. Led by three-time All-America and All-Conference selection Evelyn Kurzac, Utica will work to overpower foes and improve on last season's sixth place finish in the league's Division III ranks. Sophomore Alice Thai will aid in the team's counter attack, while Gwyn Joyce, Madison Christoff, Jessica Schumann, Rebecca Morgan, Katie Snyder, Marina Kazakidis, Tara Williams continue to gain experience and help the Pioneers become a perennial conference championship contender. Junior goalie Ali Templin will continue her dominant level of play in the cage as Utica aims to join past champions Grove City College and Connecticut College in the Division III record book.

Washington & Jefferson College

Washington & Jefferson College head coach Jay O'Neil is hoping an influx of nine new players to the program in 2014 will help the Presidents improve upon last year's third-place finish at the Collegiate Water Polo Association (CWPA) Division III Championship. The Presidents return All-America recipients Sara Boldt and Rachel Clauss and will enter the season with a 22-woman roster, including six players from the state of California. Boldt has been one of Division III's top scorers in each of her first two seasons. Last year, she recorded 34 goals and 11 assists. Clauss led the Presidents with 36 goals. Junior Charlotte Lima brings the most experience in goal, having played 17 matches last year and owning a 9.14 goals-against average. Seniors Margot Wummer (29 goals in 2013) and Catherine Villa (22 goals) bring veteran leadership to the roster and will be asked to increase their scoring production. In the history of the Division III Championship, Washington & Jefferson has never finished lower than fourth as the Presidents notched a fourth place mark in the inaugural championship (2010) before placing second to Grove City College in the 2011 and 2012 title tilts.

CWPA CLUB TEAM PROFILES

BIG TEN DIVISION

Indiana University

Indiana University enters the season with eyes on capturing the program's first Big Ten Division title. Following a sixth place finish a year ago, the Hoosiers look forward to battling the rest of the division to earn a spot in the 2014 National Collegiate Club Championship field. An influx of 10 freshmen bolster a team primed to prove. IU has many players with the ability to score and should be a threat offensively.

Michigan State University

The three-time National Collegiate Club Champion (2001, 2002, 2006) Lady Spartans of Michigan State University, who are the only team in the nation guaranteed a berth to the 2014 Women's National Collegiate Club Championship as the host institution, return a solid field of Big Ten Conference selections in seniors Diana Steele (Second Team, 2013) and Christina Weston (Second Team, 2012) and junior Arielle Viviano (Second Team, 2013). In addition, the defense will be lead by goalie Hailey Sheats (All-America Honorable Mention and All-Conference First Team, 2013) and bolstered by seniors, Sarah Allaben, Jen Oesterling, Michaela Betts, Jamie Steinberger and Lisa Randomski; and juniors, Paige Kostishak, Taylor Downs, and Lauren Baywol. Newcomers Meredith McKeown and Callie Swan have shown early promise in being key contributors to the squad. Adding to this talent are 19 scholar-athletes all primed to make their mark and help the Lady Spartans claim the division's first National Championship and second title game appearance since 2006.

Purdue University

After losing several key players last season, Purdue University is looking to rebuild and improve upon last year's fifth place mark. The Boilermakers are encouraged by the addition of seven new players, as well as the return of goalie Aubree Anton, team captain Lara Wlezien and starter Carina Whaley. Melissa Landers, Claire Lang, Meghan Loeser and Sarah Stark will also be relied on to ensure a competitive season.

The Ohio State University

The Ohio State University is excited and ready to start its fourth season as a member of the Collegiate Water Polo Association. After a third place finish in the Big Ten Division Championship last year, the Buckeyes are looking forward to another great year. With head coach Maura Dickinson, assistant coach Stephanie Gac and some great new players, this team is ready to play.

University of Illinois

After three consecutive years of finishing in second place at the Big Ten Championship, the University of Illinois strives to build off of that momentum to become the most competitive team in the division this year. Illinois will have to overcome the loss of starters Corissa Lee and Therese O'Toole. To compensate for this loss, Illinois will rely on junior and 2013 First Team All-Conference selection Karen Lowry to continue leading the team offensively. Additionally, the Illini hope to see strong performances from Kim Bello, Kelly Ann Meckert, Kat Dobrowski and their other promising freshmen players.

Scoring should also come from captain Madeline Urban, sophomore Leah Malsom, junior Nora Sweeney and junior Liz Burke. On defense, Illinois will continue to depend on the strength of senior two-meter set Amy Slana, and the consistently solid defense of Catherine Vivado. Senior captain and Second Team All-Conference goalie Kaitlyn Webb will be heavily depended upon in cage. With the guidance of new coach, Justin Oreizi, and assistant coaches Michelle Kelley and Christy Nichols, Illinois aims to compete at the National Collegiate Club Championship for the first time this Spring.

University of Iowa

The Lady Hawkeyes of the University of Iowa have high hopes for the 2014 season. Under the leadership of distinguished coach, Kristina Gordon, and new senior captains, Stephanie Ter Bush and Rachel Cortez, Iowa looks forward to showing off the biggest team they have had in years. Ter Bush and Cortez, along with senior Christine Roenitz and junior Michelle Durkin expect to lead the team to many victories. The sophomore class, including Maria Palladino, Dominique Porto and Rebecca Robinson, is as strong as ever with standout performances anticipated from each one of them. Thanks to a rigorous Fall season and a talented freshman class, the Hawkeyes are quicker than ever. Freshmen Kim Durkin, Hannah Snyder, Samantha Robbins, Ari Marbán, Carley Stewart and Dominique Murtagh have exceptional skill and poise, and will bring all of their energy to the pool. The depth of the Hawkeyes does not end there as senior Bridget McGing and juniors Lauren Majewski, Hannah Johnson and Hayley Botts join the team this year to as the trio may prove to be the wildcards needed for the Hawkeyes to reach the National Collegiate Club Championship.

University of Michigan

After finishing seventh (2009), second (2010), third (2011), fourth (2012) and fourth (2013) in the nation the past five seasons with an active streak of five consecutive Big Ten titles dating back to prior to the formation of the division in 2010, the University of Michigan is hoping to return to the National Collegiate Club Championship for another shot at claiming the program's elusive and first National crown. The team lost its dynamic duo of Paula and Clio Finnegan, as well as senior Maeve Daly, but the strength of the Wolverines is a talented and deep roster. Michigan will have two goalies this season with Nikki Baron and Hannah Caywood splitting time between the posts. In the water, captains Jessica Ford and Katarina Fabre will lead the Maize & Blue in a quest to become the first Big Ten Division team to take home the National Collegiate Club Championship plaque since 2014 host Michigan State University last claimed the prize in 2006. Returning co-head coach Andrew Weichmann and new co-head coach Justin Thoresen will be aided by assistant coach Brian Gregorka. Thanks to a deep bench with a bevy of versatile players, the Wolverines are poised to deep-six their division foes and make another run at the club championship.

University of Wisconsin

After a seventh (2012) and eighth (2013) place finishes at the Big Ten Division tournament over the past two seasons, the University of Wisconsin hopes to improve its record and finish in the top five teams in 2014. One of the Badgers' strengths is a strong defense led by four returning starters, including senior Nicole Delaney. Returning goalie April Simpson will provide the team a lot of support and hopes to galvanize the team's efforts in the cage. Jessie Lustman and Carrie Nacht lead the offense at two-meters. Speed will be another strength for the Badgers. With six new players this year, captains Jen Kitscha and Bekka Grady hope for a strong season.

GREAT PLAINS DIVISION

Illinois State University

Following a second place finish in the Heartland Division in 2013, Illinois State University returns for its sixth season in the Collegiate Water Polo Association (CWPA) ready to compete in the new Great Plains Division. The Redbirds return All-Conference goalie Grace Williamson and field players Emily Bornooff and Michelle Allen along with all the members from the 2013 squad. Adding depth to the team will be rookies Catherine Byron, Brittany Gartenberg, Julie Pater, Meg Golon, Brenna Davila and Jenna Oliver. Illinois State looks forward to a competitive season in its new division and the program's first trip to the National Collegiate Club Championship since taking the 2010 Heartland Division title.

Iowa State University

Iowa State University is excited to start fresh in the Great Plains Division on the heels of a sixth place finish in the Heartland last season. After losing several key players to graduation, the Cyclones anticipate continuing to develop into an experienced team while adding new players into the mix. Goalie Nicole Lane, a sophomore, is ready to continue anchoring the team with a solid performance from the goal, while senior Julia Trausch, juniors Abby Elston and Addie Reis and sophomore Danielle Chitty take command in the field with renewed energy and skill. Great promise is shown by the team's newcomers, especially Elizabeth Wells and Jonna Berry, along with the rest of the Iowa State team.

Lindenwood University

The 2011, 2012 and 2013 Heartland Division champion, Lindenwood University will seek to repeat the feat, claim the program's sixth crown (2007, 2008, 2011, 2012, 2013) in the past eight years. After three undefeated seasons in the Heartland Division to become the first program in the division's history to claim back-to-back-to-back titles, Lindenwood enters the Great Plains Division with ambitions of continuing its run of success to take home the inaugural Great Plains crown and improve on last year's fifth place finish at the National Collegiate Club Championship. Via most of last year's team returning for another run at the title, and helped by five freshmen, the Lions are poised to make history and join Fresno State University as the only teams from a first-year division to capture the National Championship. Deana Mendoza, Emily Caise and Meghann Kopecky will lead the attacking force, while goalies/field players Marlee Lyons and Candice Cherry are expected to have an impact on both ends of the tank. In addition, captain Paige Reeb will be a main leader in the pool as she strives to bring the first Women's National Collegiate Club Championship to the state of Missouri.

Saint Louis University

Beginning its fourth season as a member of the Collegiate Water Polo Association (CWPA) and first in the newly-formed Great Plains Division, Saint Louis University looks to come back strong this year with Annie Collins returning from a semester abroad. The presence of fellow returning players Kate Sulkowski, Paige Nelson, Lizzie Puzniak, Katelyn Derrig, Margaret Stefanowski, Rachel Krebsbach and Claire Fleming strengthen a Billikens' squad prepared to claim the program's first division championship. Having all played together for two years, the returning players look to incorporate newcomers Maggie Foley, Lara Derrig, Evelina Wozniak, Luchia Elgin, Maureen Rice and Clarissa LeVasseur into the game plan. Saint Louis was able to challenge many teams within the Heartland Division last season and looks forward to its first season competing in the Great Plains.

University of Minnesota

The University of Minnesota is looking to make an impact in the Great Plains Division as the Golden Gophers finished fourth among the teams in the Heartland Division. Following serving as the host and competing against some of the nation's best teams last year at the Women's National Collegiate Club Championship, Minnesota knows the level of performance it will take to earn another spot in the club championship field. The Gophers graduated a number of athletes, but will be led by a few returning starters. Although Minnesota has plenty of young players, the team's talent and determination speaks to its level of commitment to make a name in the collegiate club ranks. New coaching will help Minnesota see success in every area of the pool as the season continues. The Gophers look to develop a strong and versatile team that will be able to adapt to even the strongest competition.

HEARTLAND DIVISION

Augustana College

Coming off a successful second season in the Heartland Division with a 10th place mark, the ladies of Augustana College will be comprised of strong returning players and a handful of newcomers. Led by seniors Katie Pittman and Kailey Lewis, the Vikings expect another successful season as they continue to build a strong team. With a number of returning members such as Yvonne Skrzypczak and Kirsten King, the girls welcome some newcomers like Jamie Graf and Meghan McLean, both of whom bring years of experience to the team. Returning coach Erik Niemeier has high hopes for the Vikings and is excited to see what they are capable of in the pool this year. Augustana is determined to set a solid foundation for future success and looks forward to an enjoyable, competitive and successful season.

Carleton College

The Carleton College Knights are coming out strong for the 2014 season, with Samantha Sharpe, Catherine Christenson, Schuyler Rowe, Kelly Kapsar and Nikki Rhodes returning for another shot at the Heartland Division title. The strong-armed Kelly returns in her senior season as set to kick start the offense. Wooten will start in goal, and is ready to block down the best efforts of Carleton's foes. Ilana Crankshaw and Shanti Penprase will lock down opposing sets with take-no-prisoners attitudes, while freshmen Zosie Sandell, Katin Liphart and Willa Langworthy show continuing improvement for a team that placed seventh in the Heartland Division last year.

Grinnell College

Grinnell College looks towards a fun and strong upcoming season. Having graduated only one senior, and with an immense amount of interest among underclassmen, a larger and faster team will take to the pool in 2014. Given the limited numbers in the past years, the additional players will be extremely beneficial for the squad's title hopes. Maddie Gray and Maddy Pesch return with eyes on continuing their success and leading the team to the first Heartland Division title in school history. Seniors and captains Sara Hannemann and Kristina De La Torre hope to finish off their collegiate polo careers with a bang in taking Grinnell to its first division title tilt since 2006. Newcomer, Holly Walter brings depth to the experienced and tight-knit Black Sheep.

Knox College

On the heels of 10th place regular season and ninth place final standings in the Heartland Division a year ago, the Burning Squirrels of Knox College will work to come out of their foes' blind spots and claim the program's first-ever appearance in the division title game.

Saint Mary's University (Minn.)

Saint Mary's University recently acquired a coach and will hope to strengthen its team to build up the program's knowledge and experience as polo players.

Washington University in Saint Louis (Mo.)

Washington University in Saint Louis is excited for the new season and is ready to make its first trip to the National Collegiate Club Championship. A strong team led by four-year seniors Roni Rebish, Rasa Guarnaccia, Kristen Faddis, Audrey Magnowski and Audrey Buatois returns in 2014. Meg Summa, who was one of the Bears' top-scores in 2013, remains at the two-meter position. On defense, first-year goalie Callan Coghlan will compete in her first season on a college team. The speedy quartet of Allison Rhodes, Alex Rhodes, Helen You and Sarah Legault will be on the lookout for a fast break or to dominate the sprints. A key to the Washington's hopes could be juniors Emiko Nagashima and Stephanie Shahan as the duo will make their first tournament appearances and could rate among the division's best players by the conclusion of the season. Finally, newcomers Lauren Rogge and Rebecca Bavlsik, who will play on their first water polo team, provide the basis for a bright future in Saint Louis.

MID-ATLANTIC DIVISION

Carnegie Mellon University

Carnegie Mellon University enters its fourth season in the Collegiate Water Polo Association (CWPA) with a combination of experienced returning players and new talent. The Tartans hope that their hard work this season will reflect in their performance and placement in the division. Senior players Melanie Jasper, Erica Moore and Alice Tripp will continue to dominate the field, while senior Gloriana Redondo plays a strong goalie position. The Tartans will also rely on the support of returning players Sharon Romero, Rachel Leksana, Qi Ser and Janay Parrish, along with new players Sage Yort, Maya Holay, Rachel Yanovsky, Karen Segal, JT Nelson and Samantha Wang to make CMU's first Mid-Atlantic Division title game.

Duke University

Duke University is excited for the upcoming season. Last year, the Blue Devils finished as the Mid-Atlantic Division Champions for the second year in a row and placed sixth at the National Collegiate Club Championship, a four spot improvement over the team's 2012 finish in the hunt for the national championship. 2013 Mid-Atlantic Division Coach of the Year Travis Rhea returns along with former player Justin Sinnaeve to coach Duke in 2014. The Blue Devils will be without key offensive players Justine Sinnaeve, Bobby Lee and Anna Turner who departed the team after last season. In 2013, Turner made the First Team All-Tournament Team at the National Club Championship and was Duke's leading scorer, while Lee and Sinnaeve starred in division play. Nevertheless, the Blue Devils have gained several promising freshman and new stars such as team captain Kaitlyn Schlueter. Returning player Arielle Brackett will be another leading offensive threat. The team is also excited about the two-meter position with senior Jessie Smit, junior Rachael Clark and sophomore Emily Laub all expected to contribute in the quest for a division three-peat. Duke's greatest strength may be its aggressive defense, with returning All-Conference Second Team goalie Susan Rhea, and seasoned two-meter defenders/seniors Kelsey Tarzia and Shannon Kaslow grabbing steals and causing headaches for opponents. Maryann Verghese, a junior and team president for the Blue Devils, and seniors Than-Ha Nguyen and Eva Bahnuk will also see substantial playing time and can be counted on to factor in 2014.

James Madison University

The Dukes of James Madison University will be small in number, but large in impact this season. Losing several starters from last Spring, the Dukes are building from the ground up and have a bright future ahead under new coach Tom Fitzpatrick. The Dukes hope to see junior Shelby Bryant become the team's new top scorer following the loss of last year's top-scorers, Lauren Davis and Hannah Holloway. Dynamic duo Abby Butcher and Allie McShea are also expected to be threats in the pool. The team has a lot of potential for 2014 as potential standouts Mackenzie McNamee, Paige Collins, Sierra Highinbottam and Kasey Askew are geared to lead the Dukes to their first-ever Mid-Atlantic Division title game.

The Pennsylvania State University

Following third (2012) and second (2013) place finishes in the Mid-Atlantic Division over the past two seasons, the Nittany Lions of The Pennsylvania State University are looking forward to another successful year. After losing a pair of starting seniors in Christin DeMoss and Ally Murty, the remaining PSU players will have to step up on the offensive front. The offensive set position will be played by sophomore Paisley Muller, while the defensive hole position belongs to junior Shannon Harrop. Fifth-year senior/goalie Lara Kaiserian will dominate between the pipes for her final year on the team. The team's roster is deep with plenty of substitutes and a lot of talented girls. Adding to the strong team dynamic will be returning players and seniors Rebekah Hoffner, Allison Lederer and Kate Kinderwater. Sophomore Lindsay Musoleno is expected to be an offensive powerhouse once again in 2014, with freshmen Sarah McGregor and Alexandra Mikes adding more firepower to the three-time (2001, 2005, 2011) Mid-Atlantic Division champion and three-time (2002, 2010, 2013) runner-up Nittany Lions.

The University of North Carolina

The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill is expecting to have a strong season with 14 new members and 10 returning players poised to take the Mid-Atlantic Division by storm thanks to a mix of fresh talent and a deep bench. Last year, the Tar Heels finished second in the Southern Region of the division with first-time wins against the University of Pittsburgh and the University of Virginia. UNC, which placed 10th place at the division championship tournament, are looking to finish stronger in 2014 and earn the program's first berth at the National Collegiate Club Championship. Veteran seniors Aubrey Germ and Ashley Gremel, both leading scorers (18 goals each last season) and defensive threats, will carry the burden of getting the team to the next level. Juniors Laura Seidel, Sydney Narayan and Hannah Davis will also provide defensive and offensive aggressiveness. North Carolina welcomes experienced freshmen Abbey Kinnaman and Deanna Milunas as well as multi-talented exchange student Eleonora Cambone. The return of goalie Rachel Gentry should solidify the Tarheels' defense as UNC looks forward to a season of victories.

University of Pennsylvania

Last year's competition was a unique event in the history of the University of Pennsylvania women's water polo team as the six-time (2004, 2006-2010) division champion Quakers did not qualify for the Mid-Atlantic Division title game for the first time since 2005. Penn, which fell to eventual division runner-up The Pennsylvania State University in the semifinals on the way to a third place finish, will aim to erase the memory of last season's performance to once again be a competitive threat. Second-year head coach Bobby Erzen, who guided California Polytechnic State University to the National Championship, and the addition of three talented freshmen and two experienced graduate students will need to counter-balance the loss of most of Penn's 2013 starting line-up.

University of Pittsburgh

After finishing fifth (2012) and fourth (2013) in the Mid-Atlantic Division the past two seasons, the University of Pittsburgh Panthers return their full roster in anticipation of a fantastic year. Pitt will be strong on both sides of the ball with outstanding scorers and defenders driven to make the division title game for the first time since back-to-back appearances in 2006 and 2007. Thanks to the presence of upperclassmen leadership and several new additions ready to make an immediate impact on the squad's depth and success, the Panthers are primed to bring the division championship back to the Keystone State. Additionally, the Panthers are looking forward to hosting their first home tournament in recent history.

University of Virginia

The University of Virginia brings back most of its starting line-up from a year ago as the team looks to continue strengthen the skills of the returning players while building depth with several promising new players. Noteworthy returning players include President Christine Pajewski and Vice Presidents Leah Alley and Meghan Overend. Second-years Samantha Kritzer and Claire Curran are both expected to continue to contribute to the team both defensively and offensively as Virginia seeks its first division championship since 2003. Starter Katrina Boyd and goalie Sydney Collins, both second-years, are expected to become an important part of the UVA team. In addition, Virginia welcomes many new players this season, whose speed and dedication will be key assets to the Wahoos' prospects.

Virginia Polytechnic Institute & State University

Virginia Tech is facing a rebuilding year after the graduation of the team's entire roster of field starters. Last year, the Hokies finished ninth in the Mid-Atlantic Division. The team is hopeful that the addition of set Allison Sing will fill the void caused by the loss of several former seniors to graduation. Goalie Kristin Gunther, who helped pull together the team in 2013, is the lone starter to return for the Hokies.

West Chester University

West Chester University comes into the season with a very young team. The Golden Rams lost several key players and hope to rebuild their defense in the wake of losing goalie Sarah Gurgal. Nine players return for another season as the returning athletes will be essential to WCU's success. Alexis Detweiler, Jillian Whitmire, Shelby Shaffer, Olivia Dekmar and Kaycee Sullivan will star on offense and defense. New and experienced players Nicole Tunnard, Hannah Le Fleur and Kim Brownrigg will be important assets to the Rams' title chances.

Widener University

The newest team in the division, the Pride of Widener University join the Collegiate Water Polo Association (CWPA) for the 2014 season seeking to become the inaugural first-year program to make the Mid-Atlantic Division title game. Facing entrenched powerhouse programs and a slew of teams on the rise, Widener will have its work cut out for it to make history.

MIDWEST DIVISION

Grand Valley State University

With only eight returning players, the Grand Valley State University Lakers and head coach Josh Ahrendt are working on rebuilding their team after the loss of four starters and other key players. Luckily for the team, many new girls have joined the roster and will help to fill in the gaps left behind by the departing athletes. Senior Aurora Hennigar has taken charge and with the help of her underclassmen hopes to restructure one of the most successful programs in the history of the division. Due to six runner-up finishes in the Midwest Division (2007-2010, 2012, 2013) over the past six seasons, the Lakers are accustomed to contending for the title. To continue the historic level of excellence expected by GVSU fans, the Lakers will rely on several incoming players to bring the best from the team. To achieve the team's goal of reaching the National Collegiate Club Championship, Grand Valley will need to claim the program's first-ever Midwest Division Championship.

Miami University (Ohio)

While the Miami University Redhawks only graduated two seniors, their lineup has also been affected by injuries in the past year. However, they are not letting that slow them down. Juniors Kristin Moorman and Katie Hunt, both All-Conference team members in 2012, are healthy and ready to contribute for a solid offense and defense. Almost the entire starting line-up returns, including sophomore Sam Del Prado and seniors Lauren Checchin and Nikki Riemen. The Redhawks are looking forward to the new season with the team's chemistry already well established. Many of squad's losses last season came via close games. This season, the Redhawks will look to capitalize on their strengths of overall team experience and offensive chemistry to gain the advantage in the final seconds of games to turn narrow losses into nail-biting victories. Miami will be led by offensive threat, senior captain, All-America Honorable Mention and All-Midwest First Team member Megan Foster who is excited for the depth and variability a deep bench full of experienced incoming freshmen will bring as the program perpetuates its championship tradition (1996, 1997, 2000, 2003, 2004, 2005, 2006).

NEW ENGLAND DIVISION

Ohio University

Ohio University enters the new season in a rebuilding mode in the wake of losing several players to graduation. The Bobcats have been working with their newcomers to grow as a team and develop an appreciation for the sport. OU's "rookies" come from diverse academic backgrounds and are excited to begin playing in the Midwest Division. The veteran Bobcats return with ferocious hunger for success and have been training hard to improve on last year's fifth place finish in the division.

University of Dayton

The University of Dayton Flyers land in the Collegiate Water Polo Association (CWPA) for the program's first season in league play after playing in non-conference tournaments last Spring. Many of the same players return in 2014 with the goal of improving and mastering their skills. The Flyers are a mixed team in regards to skill level, but most players are familiar with the sport and were competitive swimmers in high school. Returning players Aileen Reilly, Olivia Vatch, Lauren Kring, Mary Holtzhauser, Michelle LaMasuga, Christina Haskell, Morgan Pair, Anneke Price, Emily Levison join freshmen Kelly Johnson and Annemarie Pavlis in building a strong foundation for Dayton's future success.

University of Notre Dame

The University of Notre Dame Fighting Irish are coming back strong this season with most of their starters returning for another run at the National Championship. Last year, Notre Dame placed ninth at the National Collegiate Club Championship and won its seventh consecutive Midwest Championship title in the program's 16th appearance at the conference championship since 1997. Even though there are many starters that will be playing again this year for legendary head coach Brian Coughlin, there will still be strong support from new assets to the line-up. Seniors Sarah Fleming and Megan Olsen will lead the Irish with their skills in goal and superb knowledge of the game. Junior Kathleen Schiavenza is expected to take control of the defensive end as the two-meter guard, along with skilled senior defenders Shannon Sullivan and Jennifer Markowski. Juniors Mimi Romano and Megan Kosman will also serve as vital cogs through their skills in the water, with seniors Liz Concepcion and Anastasia Hansen also aiding the Irish to victory with their experience and excellent water polo talent. Senior Rachael Glenister anchors the Irish offense at the two-meter position, while juniors Alex Whelan and Ellen Dowling and sophomores Colleen Fricke and Madeline Renezedder will also aid on the offensive end with their speed and sharp-shooting skills. Juniors Megan MacAveaney and Megan McCormick will additionally further the team as Notre Dame prepares itself for the goal of returning to the National Collegiate Club Championship game for the first time since 2009.

Boston College

With five talented incoming players and a returning group of dedicated upperclassmen, Boston College is working to fill the void left by the graduation of seven seniors. Poised to claim a spot at the top of the division for the first time since 2010 following a close fourth place finish in last year's New England Division Championship, the Eagles will rely on the senior quartet of Maddie Miller, Liz Miller, Chrissy Suchy and Marisa Immormino to lead the incoming players. In addition, returning standout juniors Laura Simko and Madi Dizinno, All-Conference team selection/sophomore Liz Titterton and goalie Gillian Walsh are expected to step-up as defensive and offensive powers. Boston College welcomes the stiff competition of the changing landscape of the New England Division with the growth and inclusion of new teams and looks forward to seeing what the season has in store.

Dartmouth College

A seven-time New England Division champion (2002-2005, 2007, 2009, 2011-2012), the Big Green of Dartmouth College are looking forward to an exciting 2014 season. After graduating only one senior and returning all seven starters, including All-America Honorable Mention and New England Division First Team senior goalie Shelley Wenzel, to a line-up that went down to the wire against 2013 division champion Middlebury College in the title game, Dartmouth is ready to impress with a seasoned team of players as well as a handful of new talent. Returning field generals and seniors Lisa Rennels (First Team All-New England) and Grace McDevitt (First Team New England, All-America Honorable Mention) look to team-up with Wenzel for a solid defense, and returning offensive threats Amelia Noble (graduate student, First Team All-New England) and Cat Donahoe (junior, Second Team All-New England) aim to create a high-scoring attack with help from new faces Carolyn Meyer, PJ Bigley and Meghan Christie. Other names to watch out for include returning veterans Kellie MacPhee, Katie Lachance, Margaret Rollins, Kristen Flint and Charlotte Kamai. Under the coaching of Fanis Tigkas, this promising squad hopes to excel in the division and claim another trip to the National Collegiate Club Championship.

Middlebury College

The reigning New England Division champions, the Middlebury College Panthers notched a program high eighth place finish at the National Collegiate Club Championship in 2013. In 2014, the team will look to replicate this success and remain a strong presence in the division. Led by junior captains Samantha Simas and Emily Caffry, Middlebury returns a strong group of players. Sophomores Hannah Grotzinger and Samantha Horn will provide excellence on both offense and defense. Sophomores Christina Denbow, Amanda Geller and Alexandra Spencer-Wong will also contribute speed on Middlebury's attack. A solid mix of returners and newcomers will round out the roster and help the four-time division champion (2010, 2011 - North Atlantic; 2008, 2013 - New England) Panthers' success.

Northeastern University

The Northeastern University Huskies are excited to play in their second official season in the Collegiate Water Polo Association (CWPA) with both new and returning talent. Focusing on game fundamentals and skill building, the girls seek to improve on their third place New England Division finish from 2013. The well-balanced and passionate team is exhilarated at the prospect of a berth to the National Collegiate Club Championship.

NEW YORK DIVISION

Colgate University

Among the most prolific teams in the New York Division with a record five division championship title game appearances (2001, 2003, 2005, 2006, 2010) since the group's formation, the Raiders of Colgate University come into the season with more players than ever before. The addition of multiple talented freshmen to a stellar returning squad establishes Colgate as a contender for the division championship title. Coach Conor Eliot spent last semester abroad, honing his skills in international waters. He returns to Hamilton, N.Y., with new insight and hopeful prospects for the season. Under the leadership of Rebecca Geller, Amanda Molinari and Michelle Bradley, the team is excited to get the new season underway.

Columbia University

The defending division champion Lions of Columbia University go from the hunter to the hunted in 2014. A four-time titlist (2001, 2003, 2007, 2013) in the New York Division, Columbia will need to fend off challenges from 2011 and 2012 champion Cornell University, 2008-2010 victor New York University and back-to-back runner-up Syracuse University (2011, 2012) to repeat and claim another berth to the National Collegiate Club Championship.

Cornell University

The Cornell University Big Red has 10 players coming back from last season, including four starters. The returning players include: senior Orbi Ish-Shalom, junior Michelle Parke, junior Erica Taylor, junior Katrina Curtiss, junior Paige Berger, sophomore Marissa Lopez, sophomore Sara Morales, sophomore Rebecca Schneider, sophomore Meghan Furton and sophomore Chantal Van Putten. Parke returns this year as a skilled player on both offense and defense for the Big Red following First (2013) and Second (2012) Team All-Conference seasons. She will lead the team as co-captain along with Taylor as Cornell strives to pick-up its fifth New York Division crown (2005, 2006, 2011, 2012). The duo will be joined by 2013 All-Conference Second Team pick/set Morales as the Big Red will field a highly-decorated and championship hungry line-up. In addition to the returning players, Cornell adds to its roster with several promising players from across the country. Newcomers include graduate student Maria Gannett, junior Kat Chinn, sophomores Savannah Dowling and goalie Frances Atkins and first-years Sarah Fetterolf, Michaela Elliot, Caitlin Harder, Kara Beckman and Tianyi Zhang. On the bench, Cornell will have one of the most honored coaching staffs in the division as three-time (2011-2013) New York Division Most Valuable Player Brie Reid returns to help guide the Big Red to another championship title. In addition to Reid, 2012 Women's and two-time Men's (2012, 2013) New York Division Coach of the Year Mario Martone, assistant coach Moria Chambers and four-year set (1997-2000) Cheryl Stanley will stalk the deck with a trip to the 2014 Women's National Collegiate Club Championship at Michigan State University the primary goal.

New York University

New York University comes into the 2014 season after a fourth (2012) and fifth (2013) place finishes in the New York Division. Despite the loss of some players, NYU should once again be a contender to win the division, claim the school's fifth division title (2004, 2008, 2009, 2010) and attend the National Collegiate Club Championship. Possessing a mix of returning members and important new additions, the team should be a formidable opponent within the division.

United States Coast Guard Academy

The Bears of the United States Coast Guard Academy enter the 2013 season participating as a member of the Collegiate Water Polo Association for their fifth time. In the wake of a sixth place finish in the New England Division a season ago, the Bears are primed to break through and make the program's first appearance in a division title tilt.

University of Massachusetts

The University of Massachusetts returns to the league structure and will focus on building the strength of its relatively young team. Among a group of the most decorated programs in the annals of the Collegiate Water Polo Association (CWPA) on the varsity level, the new-look Minutewomen will rely on time spent in the co-ed league as a foundation for success in the New England Division. Sophomores Leah Carroll, Kathryn Thomas and Julia Torabi will provide leadership, while younger members Tehani Pendigrastr and Sam de Groot tack on strong defense and outside shooting.

Williams College

Williams College plunges into the 2014 season with a lot of verve and panache. After graduating the super-majority of its starting line-up, the Ephs are excited to introduce some fresh faces onto the polo scene to accompany the veteran players that have been building their skills over the past years. Up from Texas and California, respectively, to experience their first "real" winters, Angela Chang and Susan Wu are excited about making their collegiate water polo debuts. New to the sport, but full of enthusiasm and rife with potential, are freshmen Laura Elmendorf, Olivia Lima and Emory Strawn. Katy Newcomer and Emily Dugdale return from time abroad to strengthen an already potent line-up. Caroline Kaufman, Sallie Lau, Sam Petti and Alice Murphy are also expected to make significant contributions. Last, but certainly not least, Emma Benjamin will be a force to be reckoned with as she assumes the role of Williams' primary goalie. After launching the program's first mini-preseason, the Ephs are excited to see what surprises the season will bring in 2014.

Syracuse University

As the 2014 season approaches on the horizon, Syracuse University gears up for a challenging season. After a disappointing loss to the Columbia University Lions in the 2013 title game for the second consecutive runner-up finish in the New York Division, the Orange has trained long and hard to get over the hump and claim the first division championship in school history. The loss of juniors Cynthia Shwe and Neychla Abreu will be difficult to overcome, but the team is still blessed with Alex Mantzoros, who was named a member of the 2013 All-New York Division First Team, and Second Team All-Conference goalie Rika Inouye. Between the long and grueling swim sets and hours spent on strength training, the team has risen above the loss of two starters and united together in preparation for an appealing title hunt.

NORTH ATLANTIC DIVISION

Bates College

Bates College is looking forward to this upcoming season. Following a fifth place mark in the North Atlantic Division last year, the Bobcats believe they can turn their luck around and come out as champions. Possessing the goal of being the most fun team, as well as the most endearing, in the national ranks of the Collegiate Water Polo Association (CWPA), Bates plans to sneak up on its foes. In the end, the Bobcats' season will be a success due to enjoying their time in the pool.

Boston University

Boston University comes into the season looking to build off last season's second place finish in the North Atlantic Division. Due to five players going abroad this spring season and the graduation of one of their key players from last year, this young Terriers' team will face some challenges. However, with the positive leadership of coach Liz Lacy, the team hopes to win the North Atlantic Division and earn a bid to the National Collegiate Club Championship. Key returners Olivia Wade, Allie DeLillo, Elizabeth Rubel, Katy Cooke, Catherine Xenakis and Christie Tang will aim to have solid seasons and claim All-Conference honors. The addition of freshmen Allison Durkan, Tessa Chapman, Ashley Reischman, Leslie Fung and Steph Borgstein will solidify the Terriers on both offense and defense. In the cage, senior Bridget Eastes will be the last line of defense for Boston University.

Bowdoin College

A past North Atlantic Division champion (2012), Bowdoin College has a promising outlook in 2014. Despite graduating a few seniors, the core of the team remains intact to another run at a berth for the National Collegiate Club Championship. Tri-captains and juniors Patty Boyer, Teri Faller and Gabi Serrato Marks lead the team, while a solid group of returners give the Polar Bears an experienced starting line-up that hopes to make a run at the league title. Outside guns Katie Carter and Olivia Pfeifer will help to lead Bowdoin's offense, while Kiran Pande, Westerly Goreyab and Erin Leddy are slated to provide a ferocious defensive presence. Potential returner Christine Walder is abroad this Spring and will be missed. In addition, newcomers Sophia Walker and Karla Olivares are anticipated to have a large impact on the team. The Polar Bears are coached by the former Bowdoin College All-America selection Spencer Vespole.

Massachusetts Institute of Technology

A three-time division champion with titles in 2005, 2006 and 2007 and runner-up marks in 2008, 2009 and 2010, the Massachusetts Institute of Technology will seek to make its seventh North Atlantic Division title game appearance in the past 11 seasons. Last year, the Engineers finished fourth with only a few graduating members. MIT looks to have a strong season with returning captains Teri Oehmke and Cecilia Viggiano in the field alongside Helen Feng. Between the pipes, Andrea Dubin will once again mind the net. Coach Ivan Ivovic is sure to bring exciting new ideas to the Tech team in its quest for another North Atlantic Division title.

Wellesley College

A 2012 participant at the National Collegiate Club Championship hosted by Florida State University when champion Bowdoin College elected not to attend, Wellesley College looks to continue a rise to the top of the North Atlantic Division. Following third (2011, 2013) and second (2012) place finishes in the North Atlantic Division the past three seasons, the Blue will need to overcome arch-rivals Yale University and Boston University to earn the program's first division title and a slot at this year's championship hosted by Michigan State University.

Yale University

The defending North Atlantic Division champion Yale University women's water polo team starts the season with a bevy of potential and returning All-Stars. Power-shooters Gianna Fote, Cindy Li and Taylor Nicolas set up Yale's offensive line. Defensive players Mariah Gill, Jessica Butt and Megan Phelan come back for another shot at the National Collegiate Club Championship with skilled goalie Sophie Engelstein. In addition to strong returning players, the team has gained multiple new players with incredible upside to help the Bulldogs claim their second division title since 2006.

NORTHWEST DIVISION

Oregon State University

Oregon State University is hoping to have another successful season after placing among the Top Three teams in the Northwest Division for the past four seasons. A young team this year which is building for the future with a considerable number of promising freshmen and sophomores, the Beavers finished third in the division last year following three consecutive (2009, 2010, 2011) runner-up placements. Oregon State has a strong group of returning members, including Alex Davis, Shelby Schmidt, Casey O'Neill, Juliana Collins and Rachel Brawn. A contender once again in 2014, the Beavers will work to hone the skills of their younger players.

Portland State University

After joining the Collegiate Water Polo Association (CWPA) in 2012, the Vikings of Portland State University return for their third season as the defending champion following an undefeated record in the Northwest Division action. The squad, which snapped an eight-year reign by the University of Oregon as the dominant team in the Pacific Northwest dating back to 2005, is excited to play another season in the wake of a 10th place finish at last year's National Collegiate Club Championship. Four new athletes join the Vikings to aid in Portland State's drive to defend its Northwest Division crown and improve on its national ranking. Thanks to a strong mix of new and returning players the team has been practicing to improve on both sides of the field.

University of Oregon "A"

The University of Oregon "A" team is back and ready to fight to regain the Northwest Division title after finishing second via a 12-11 loss to Portland State University in the 2013 championship game. Sophomore Cheyenne Savoie will lead the Ducks' offense as the team's returning leading scorer, while Oregon also added juniors Crysta Deus and Samantha Pruesner to a strong offense. Senior Erin McConaghy and junior Keely Hassett will work to shut down opponents on defense. The Ducks also add a new goalie in freshman Megan Suscio, and multi-talented utility players Annie Arcuri, Kristen Kelly, Brett Higgins, Bridget Shepherd and Carli Lazzarini. The team also welcomes back head coach Aaron Bishow, the leading scorer for the men's team and the Most Valuable Player of the Northwest Division in 2013, and assistant coach Taylor Cole. No one single player will do it all for this team as Ducks fly together.

University of Oregon "B"

The University of Oregon will field a "B" squad in order to train new players and provide additional opportunities for more athletes to compete.

University of Washington (Wash.)

The University of Washington anticipates improving upon its fourth place finish at the Northwest Division Championship last year and claiming its first division title since 2003. A five-time (1998-2001, 2003) division champion, the Huskies have advanced to the title game 11 times with seven runner-up finishes (2002, 2004-09). Returning 2013 All-Conference Second Team pick Ashley Feria and 2012 Second Team selection Melanie Coyne will be relied on to power Washington's offense and provide lock down defense.

Washington State University

Washington State University is excited to enter the league for the first time in Cougars' history. Building a solid team over the past few years, Washington State is ready to enter the competitive Collegiate Water Polo Association (CWPA). Led by graduate student Megan Reese on offense and freshman Sarah Campbell on defense, the Cougars are looking to be a threat in the pool. With only two senior players, the young WSU team will continue to build the program over the next several years. Juniors Abby Wojtanowicz and Amy Burrola, along with sophomore Kate Wallen, bring several years of experience to the squad and are expected to be leaders in the pool. Washington

State is excited to see how it matches up in the Northwest Division and looks forward to building a long-lasting program.

Western Washington University

After a sixth place finish in the Northwest Division and the loss of four seniors to graduation last season, the Western Washington University Vikings are excited to start the upcoming 2014 season. The team holds high expectations for this season in hopes of building a strong foundation for the future. Returning players include Sarah Naglich, Sadie Naglich, Allison Maynes, Megan Maynes and Teslin McLaren. New players to the team this year are Cj Schiller, Briana Johnson and Alexandra Ellis. The team will be headed this season by captains Amy Martin, Stephanie Babb, Hannah Kinniburgh and Sofia Velling.

PACIFIC COAST DIVISION

California Polytechnic State University

The most successful collegiate club water polo program in the long history of the Collegiate Water Polo Association (CWPA), California Polytechnic State University returns this season in hopes of claiming its 14th Pacific Coast Division Championship and another berth to the National Collegiate Club Championship. A seven-time National Champion with victories in 2003, 2004, 2005, 2008, 2009, 2010 and 2011, Cal Poly is hopeful to add to the tally in the 2014 season. After placing third at the National Collegiate Club Championship last May at the University of Minnesota to snap a string of six consecutive title game appearances, the Mustangs are planning on another competitive year. Led by a trio of 2013 All-Pacific Coast Division First Team and All-America selections in seniors Leah Ashley, Sophie Calhoun and goalie Morgan Rollo, the Mustangs possess a cohesive lineup that is experienced and adaptable for what the team needs in order to return the National Championship plaque to San Luis Obispo. Cal Poly is a team that prides itself on hard work and dedication with hopes to achieve its goals for a fun and competitive season.

San Diego State University "A"

San Diego State University finished sixth in the Pacific Coast Division a year ago, a mark the team will work to better this season. The 2012 runner-up in the division which placed fifth at the National Collegiate Club Championship hosted by Florida State University, the Aztecs will continue to do their best both in and out of the pool. Do not discount San Diego's ability to climb to the top of the rankings as an influx of new players will provide additional depth and allow the institution to field two teams in 2014.

San Diego State University "B"

San Diego State University will field two teams this season as the "B" squad will provide additional playing chances for the Aztecs' roster of talent to mature and gain experience for the future.

University of California-Irvine

The University of California-Irvine rejoins the league after taking last season off to regroup, rebuild and reinvigorate. Only three players return from the 2012 as junior Laura Huynh, senior Tam Nyguen and junior Ashley Purdy will join a lot of new faces to comprise the latest edition of the Anteaters. The league tournaments will be one of the first times this new team will compete together and will provide a challenge for the various new players, such as freshmen Leslie Fernando, Arada Cherasuriya and Vanessa Hinojosa, to prove UC-Irvine is a team to be reckoned with in the Pacific Coast Division.

University of California-Los Angeles

The Bruins of the University of California-Los Angeles team will work to end a nine-year championship reign by California Polytechnic State University in the Pacific Coast Division. Unlike previous seasons, only the champion from the division will advance to the National Collegiate Club Championship, putting added pressure on UCLA to claim an automatic berth to the club championship. A seven-time division runner-up (2002, 2004, 2007-2011) and 2001 champion, UCLA will need to rely on the play of a deep roster that will provide the Bruins with the speed, finesse and power to stifle its Southern California rivals.

University of California-San Diego

The Tritons of the University of California-San Diego have remained among the top of the competition in the Pacific Coast Division in recent history, placing third (2009, 2010, 2012), fourth (2013) and fifth (2011) over the past five seasons. One of two active teams in the division with two or more seasons of past experience to never qualify for the title tilt, joining the University of California-Irvine, UC-San Diego will aim to become the first San Diego based institution to win the crown and snap a string of 15 championships claimed by their Northern rivals (California Polytechnic State University, University of Southern California, University of California-Los Angeles) dating back to the Pacific Coast Division's formation in 1999. UC-San Diego is approaching this season with the enthusiasm befitting a young and energetic team. UC-San Diego is focusing on knocking off the rest of the division and claiming a trip to the National Collegiate Club Championship. The challenge for UCSD this year will be communication, especially when facing more experienced teams. The players will rely heavily on the guidance of utility players Joelle Maag (junior, captain) and Megan Lane (graduate student) and goalie Brittany Fitzgerald (senior, captain). The team's offense is looking to heat-up with the addition of freshmen Natalie Popescu and Macey Rafter, and the return of seniors Anya Polovina and Zaida Muñoz.

University of California-Santa Barbara

This is the fourth season for the women's club water polo team at the University of California-Santa Barbara. Senior captains Shelby Cleland and Alyson Huber have high hopes for their team after returning from the Gauchos first appearance and a 13th place finish at the National Collegiate Club Championship last season for finishing second in the Pacific Coast Division. However, the Pacific Coast Division will have only one bid to the championship in 2014, as UC-Santa Barbara will need to win the group's title to make the postseason. Dan Loman returns for his second year coaching the Gauchos, along with sophomore players Faith Aguirre, Katie Owens, Amy Wolf and Heather Borek-Klempfner. Returning juniors Tahniah Mark, Frankie Puerzer and Molly Connolly join a handful of new players as the Gauchos will work to make this year a season to remember.

University of Southern California

The University of Southern California is excited for the upcoming season after placing third (2013), fifth (2009), seventh (2012) and eighth (2010, 2011) over the past five seasons. Welcoming several new players to the team this year the Ladies of Troy will need to rely on youth against the rest of the division's experience. Five starters graduated, and three other seniors, graduated after last season, but USC has faith the freshmen have the potential to fill their shoes. Sophomore Katie Murphy will see substantial playing time at goalie again this year, while senior Jen Marshall will be a key part of the offense.

SIERRA PACIFIC DIVISION

California State University-Chico

California State University-Chico is geared for another competitive campaign with head coach Greg Ahtye and assistant coach Amy Crawford. The young squad has both new and returning talent that is promising. Despite the loss of key scorer Kaitlyn Tolin, returning starter Katie Dresenga and lefty Jamie Elliott will lead the team on offense. Two-meter players Adrienne Beaudreau and Kelly Whitey will continue to keep the Wildcats' offense strong. Returning starters and defensive two-meter guards Tori Loomis and Rachel Brearley will be utilized around the tank, while goalie Tayma Ueltzen is relied upon in net. Incoming talents include transfer Nicole Morelos and speedy freshman Kelly Carson. The team hopes to return to the National Collegiate Club Championship for the third time in six years in the 2014 season after finishing as the Sierra Pacific Division runner-up in both 2008 and 2009.

California State University-Fresno

The Bulldogs of California State University-Fresno are looking forward to a new season. Continuing players Marissa Muro, Courtney Dewitt, Taylor McGrath, Kayla Gilmore, Elizabeth Brown, Nicole Greene and Cassie Niino are ready to come back with a stronger season after finishing sixth in the Sierra Pacific Division in 2013. The 2007 Sierra Pacific and National Collegiate Club Champions, the Bulldogs will also rely on newcomers Caitlyn Cardoza, Mikayla Mangrum, Maddy Chavez, Jazmin Alcazar, Syndy Banker, Lauren Rodrigues and freshman goalie Marissa Leal.

Saint Mary's College (Calif.)

After acquiring a coach during the offseason, Saint Mary's College will continue its climb to the top of the Sierra Pacific Division standings after placing seventh last year. The Gaels' will hope to strengthen the team and build upon the squad's knowledge and experience as polo players.

University of California-Berkeley

After making their first appearance at the National Collegiate Club Championship hosted by the University of Minnesota last season by finishing as the runner-up in the Sierra Pacific Division, the Lady Bears are anticipating another banner year. Cal enters the 2014 season after losing no starters from last year and will be led once again by All-Conference First Team selection/co-captain Marisa Purcell and All-Conference second team picks/co-captain Corinne Schafle and Stephanie Curran. This year Cal picked up some new weapons to bolster an already staunch defense and strong counterattack with the additions of Lamorinda product/freshman Laurie Simon and former Harvard-Westlake standout/sophomore Bella Gonzalez. Panna Felsen and Remy Wallace will once again be the cornerstones of the California defense as they both return to split time in the cage. The Lady Bears are driven towards winning the Sierra Pacific Division and claiming a return trip to the National Collegiate Club Championship. But as coaches Rudy Ramirez and Robert McIntyre emphasize, they will focus on one game at a time as California is part of one of the toughest divisions in the Collegiate Water Polo Association (CWPA).

University of California-Davis "A"

History could be made in 2014 as the two-time defending National Champion Aggies of the University of California-Davis will work to join seven-time champion California Polytechnic State University and three-time victor Michigan State University as the only teams to win three or more Women's National Collegiate Club titles. Last year, the Aggies battled it out against the University of Central Florida at the University of Minnesota to pick up a 6-5 win and claim the program's second national title in as many years. Courtesy the win, UC-Davis joined Cal Poly (2003-2005, 2008-2011) and Michigan State (2001-2002) as the only teams to notch back-to-back National Championships. In 2012, the Aggies made history by capturing the program's first National Collegiate Club Championship title at Florida State University in an exciting rematch of the 2011 championship game against Cal Poly. Just the second team in league history to win a National Championship without entering the tournament as a division champion, the 2012 Sierra Pacific Division runner-up Aggies downed the Mustangs by a 2-1 final score in the lowest scoring title game in the record books for all levels of collegiate water polo (varsity/club). This year, UC-Davis will once again look to dominate on the division and national stages due to the depth and experience brought about by the past two title runs. Captains Sarah Skinker and Chelsie Bryan will establish key offensive leadership, while fellow seniors Juliana Bremer and Danica Fascella contribute unfailing speed and a sturdy defensive foundation. The dominating junior class, represented by the exceptional defensive consistency of Liz Mock and the overall offensive skills of Kaylin Claypool and Tyler Brown, also boasts two commanding left-handers in Denise Hager and Rebecca Cullinan. Sophomores Aleya Spielman and Michaela Tillinghast will contribute unique abilities to lead a talented, versatile group of underclassmen. Impressive newcomers Amanda Lilliedoll, Casey Adams and George Washington University transfer/former varsity player Erin Donoghue are projected to provide solid offensive threats. Junior/goalie Veronika Mach will guide the Aggies on the defensive end. Led by seasoned coach Jonny Gullone, UC-Davis is determined to continue its legacy of success that is driven by the goal of capturing their next Collegiate Club Championship in 2014.

University of California-Davis "B"

The University of California-Davis "B" team hopes to surprise the league with their talent. The squad will provide additional playing chances for the Aggies' younger players to gain experience for future National Collegiate Club Championship runs.

University of California-Santa Cruz

The Banana Slugs of the University of California-Santa Cruz enter their fifth season with the Collegiate Water Polo Association (CWPA) in hopes of claiming another division championship after grabbing the 2010 and 2012 Sierra Pacific Division plaques. Returning senior captains Maya Zelcer and Kelsey Anderson will help UC-Santa Cruz make another run at the title and a return trip to the National Collegiate Club Championship. Leading scorer Anderson has continued to make the Slugs a strong opponent on the offensive end of the pool, while goalie Zoe Agapinan has proven to be a significant defensive asset. Many new players, including freshmen

Emma Formato, Ana Blanco and Olivia Mesches, have the potential to improve the program in the years to come.

SOUTHEAST DIVISION

Emory University "A"

The 2014 season has plenty in store for the Emory University Eagles "A" team. With another year comes more growth, and the team fielded this year is one of the strongest in recent memory. Captains Audry Klossner (2013 All-Southeast Division Second Team) and Kristen Carroll lead fellow seniors Clara Wynn, Kimberly Tartavull, Kristen King and Yuliya Oumarbaeva in the quest to conclude their careers with the team's first Southeast Division title game appearance since back-to-back-to-back berths in 2001, 2002 and 2003. Teammates Caitlin Casey, Adi Rosenthal, Milly Huizinga (2013 All-Southeast Division Second Team), Emily Hunter and Jessie Preslar (2012 All-Southeast Division Second Team) add to a lethally talented Emory roster. Freshman Julia Caldwell and junior Sally Yan join the Eagles in 2014 as the team will work improve upon last year's fourth place mark in the Southeast Division.

Emory University "B"

In its second year in the Southeast Division, Emory University "B" looks to continue last year's growth, development and success. The 2014 team welcomes back the talents of Shannon Lin, Amanda Durbin, Danielle Iskandar, Abby Chambers, Kat Thayer, Marija Milisavljevic, Carrie Wiegert, Hayley Huffman, Sarah Husain, Alana Darcher, Juliana De La Rosa and Olivia Meisner. New teammates Kelly Wahl, Zoe La Soya, Alexandra Lara, Jillian Heckman, Kelsey Pinkerton, and Gracie Rogers continue the proud Emory tradition, and will start their development under the wise guidance of their teammates. While proud of their sixth place finish last year, this squad has the talent and desire to improve during the 2014 season.

Florida Atlantic University

A first-year program, Florida Atlantic University enters its inaugural season in the Southeast Division with the intent of gaining practical game experience to begin the climb to become a contender for the division and National Collegiate Club Championship.

Florida State University

A strong and young team, Florida State University comes into this season feeling prepared and confident to improve on last year's third place finish at the Southeast Division Championship. The team will be led by captains Katie Gonot (junior) and Alyson Watson (senior). On offense, the Seminoles will rely on Danielle Canavan (sophomore) at set. After losing two starters from last season, FSU has gained some new recruits to solidify some holes. Rachel Weisend (sophomore), Mallory Rusinowski (sophomore) and Sarah Ojalvo (freshman) will be new players to watch out for as Florida State aims to make the division title game for the first time since 2008.

University of Central Florida "A"

After finishing as the runner-up to the University of California-Davis by a 6-5 final scorer in the 2013 Women's National Collegiate Club Championship title game, the University of Central Florida Knights are excited and dedicated to working and training hard this season in order to head back to the National Championship game in May. The Knights return nearly its full team from a season ago with senior players Lauren Scheetz, Hana Korb and Laura Zuluaga. They are joined by Kara Reeves and Kristin Plitnick, along with freshmen recruits Lyndsey Holland, Meredith Canty, Heather MacNeil and freshman goalie Marissa Goodrum. 2013 First Team All-America goalie Taylor Reeves will be the keystone for UCF on the road back to the National Club title game. Led by coach Ryan Donnell, with assistant coaches Trevor Creighton and Annaliese Bullock, the three-time Southeast Division champion Knights (2009, 2010, 2013) are ready for another year of exciting and successful championship-level competition.

University of Central Florida "B"

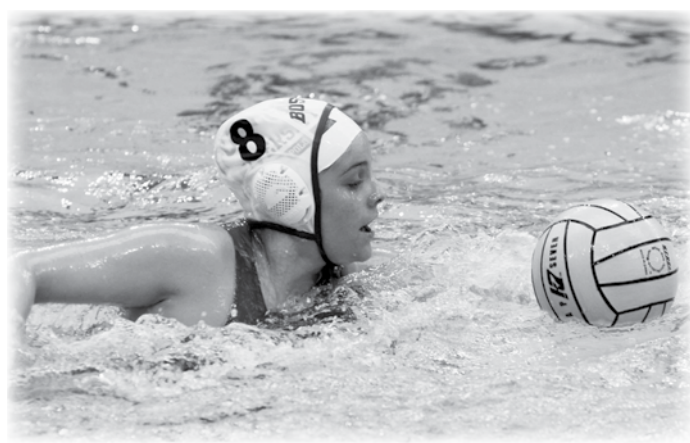

This is the first year that the University of Central Florida is putting in a second team for the Collegiate Water Polo Association (CWPA) season. Excited and ready to play new teams and to gain experience with the sport, the Knights start the season with some returning faces, including Sarah Sowinski, Katelyn Apple and Elif Ardit. Newcomers include Dakota and Cheyenne Porter along with goalie Sean Birkholz. Central Florida is happy to have so many new players and are looking forward to growing the sport in the Sunshine State.

University of Florida "A"

A 10-time (2001-2008, 2011, 2012) Southeast Division champion, the University of Florida "A" team strives to continue building its foundation this season. After not qualifying for the 2013 National Collegiate Club Championship, the Gators are focused on refining their skills and becoming a successful team once again. 2013 All-Conference Second Team goalie Brooke Bohlken is back in the cage to finish a strong career with fellow seniors Beth Moser and Annie Peterson. Florida welcomes freshman Maria Marquez, who joins sophomore Tina Papadopoulos as threats at two-meters. The creative and quick sophomore duo of Shannon Macneil and Kathleen Arnold will team up with junior Caitlin Arrigo and newcomer/sophomore Cristina Arribas around the perimeter as the team's primary playmakers. The Gators also welcome sophomores Rebecca Jenetopulos and Michelle Danielson to the game.

University of Florida "B"

Following another solid year in the Southeast Division, the University of Florida "B" team welcomes new talent this season as incoming freshmen, who make up a majority of the team, bring new energy and a fresh outlook to the game. Freshmen Katie VanDeventer and Cassidy Sizemore, among others, have shown great progress towards becoming dominating playmakers in the field. The underclassmen will be guided and supported by the experience of seniors Anita Braham and Katie Rudy. Junior Sarah Hall will step up as the leading two-meter defender, while freshmen Pauline Thiemann and Kirsten Chuba offer offensive power that surpasses their size. Florida welcomes back talented sophomore goalie Kaylee Petik, who was injured last season, and freshman netminder Sierra Leete with confidence in their skills. The athletic skills on the team run much deeper than it has in the past as the team will aim to unleash its potential in order to achieve unprecedented success in the division.

SOUTHWEST DIVISION

Arizona State University

The 2011 and 2012 Southwest Division champion Arizona State University Sun Devils are looking to rebound after failing to reach the National Collegiate Club Championship stage in 2013. ASU is led by a strong senior front as captain Alley Rodgers looks to lead the Devils offensively in a utility role. On defense, the Sun Devils will rely on tenured senior Stefanna Spoletini in the cage. Other key returning players are Rachel Proctor and Diane Bowersox as the pair will aim to make memorable marks in their senior seasons. Unlike past years in which the institution fielded both "A" and "B" teams, the 2014 edition of the Devils will field, one deep team with plenty of talent coming off the bench with strong representation from every class to help Arizona State become the first team outside either Washington, California or Michigan to claim the women's National Championship.

Colorado College

Colorado College looks forward to a season focused on skill-building. Over the last two years, the Tigers have lost some experienced players, but the program's beginners are enthusiastic to gain experience at the club level. Coach Mitra Ghaffari, who has five years of coaching experience and has played at the Junior Olympic level, hopes to improve the skill sets of the players. Swimmers Megan Gillespie and Carey Colbert will use their speed, strength and water polo experience to help Colorado be competitive in the Southwest Division while rebuilding for future success.

Northern Arizona University

The Northern Arizona University Lumberjacks have a young roster this year, which is looking forward to growing as individuals and as a team. Most of the athletes went to high school in the Southern California area and have played against each other in league games and nearby tournaments. Following an eighth place finish in the Southwest Division last year, NAU looks forward to traveling and playing together as a second-year team with the expectation of improving on the program's league standing.

United States Air Force Academy

The United States Air Force Academy is excited to usher back seven returning seniors. The Falcons will rely on returning senior Georgia Marshall to lead the team on offense, while senior Jennifer Kimura will guard the cage along with junior Fiona Akoth on defense. Air Force expects seniors Krystal Jimenez, Kimber Bergo, Marie Brown, Missy Kempin and Maddie Moore to lead the team in their final seasons. Other players to watch include junior Amanda Beranek and sophomores Kelly Dualan and Ana Goddard as the Falcons will gun to return to the division title game for the first time since 2009 and claim the program's first Southwest Division Championship since 2005.

University of Arizona

A seven-time Southwest Division champion with titles in 1998, 2000, 2001, 2007, 2008, 2009 and 2013, the Wildcats of the University of Arizona look forward to winning the plaque again this year. Coming off a successful seventh place finish at the National Collegiate Club Championship in 2013, Arizona is eager to get back in the pool and compete this year. The Wildcats will look to their seniors to lead the team as a promising group of upper and lower classmen should help lead the team another successful season.

University of Colorado

A team dedicated to improvement and fun, the Buffaloes of the University of Colorado placed fourth in the Southwest Division a year ago to improve on their 2012 finish (fifth) by one place. Colorado will once again hope to climb at least one place as the team is establishing a solid foundation for the future.

University of Denver

This is the University of Denver's fourth season with an all women's team as the Pioneers are looking to improve on last year's sixth place finish in the Southwest Division. The team returns five starters, including experienced set Megan Walker and senior Delaney Roney. Returning starters also include Sarah Moritz, Melanie Kesner and goalie Suzie McClay. New addition Kailin Custy will be the Pioneers' two-meter defensive anchor. Amber Wiley, Stephanie Thompson and new players Mackenzie Finch and Helen Ellis will be critical substitutes off the bench. Fellow newcomers Andrea Gurdes, Katie Pierson and Danielle Benton provide a bright future for Denver. Coaches Michael Webb and Tommy Anderson return for another try at claiming the division title and recording the best season in school history.

University of Utah

The University of Utah returns to the ranks of the Collegiate Water Polo Association (CWPA) for the first time since claiming the 2011 Rocky Mountain Division title. A five-time Southwest (2002, 2004, 2006, 2010) and Rocky Mountain (2011) Division champion with a trio of runner-up finishes (2003, 2005, 2007) in their new home, the Utes are an immediate contender to claim a spot in the 2014 National Collegiate Club Championship field.

TEXAS DIVISION

Baylor University

The Baylor University Bears are working their way from the ground up this season with no returning players and little previous collegiate experience. Fielding a team of mostly freshmen, the Baylor women's team is coming back with a fresh start. The Todd twins, Megan and Olivia, come from the Clear Lake area and serve as a dynamic duo in the goal and in the field. Californians Maggie Leinen and Caitlin Brandenburger will serve as assets to the Bears' offense, while sophomores Hanna Healy and Renee Jordan dominate on defense. Healy and Jordan have both come with an extensive background in water polo and have played the past two seasons on the Baylor men's water polo team. The team's primary weakness will be in numbers, but Baylor is ready for any challenge.

Rice University

The Owls of Rice University, which notched a fourth place finish in the Texas Division last season, will work to bring a championship home for the first time since the 2003 through 2006 seasons.

Texas A&M University

Texas A&M University looks forward to a promising season with a return trip to the National Collegiate Club Championship. Led by juniors Kylie Suddendorf and Kimbre Watkins, along with the sophomore duo of Myriam Fillion and Danielle Linde, the Aggies will seek to claim the program's fifth division title since 2001. Key returning players, including Jenna Stewart, Sarah Powers, Jennifer Bryson, Shelby Kamman, Shannon Coyle and Melanie Goodman, and talented new players Veronica Hadley, Kamryn Pursell, Jade Boothe and Christina Fries, provide Texas A&M the talent needed to improve upon last season's 12th place finish at the National Club Championship tournament.

Texas State University

The Bobcats of Texas State University will look like a new team with Paige Vidal, Traci Williams and Nichole Libby the only returning players. Being such a small team, the 2012 Texas Division runner-up is excited to have veteran player Emily Pozzi, who took a year off, return in 2014. Additions to the team include three players as the Bobcats are excited to see how the season goes.

Texas Tech University

Beginning its sixth season in the Collegiate Water Polo Association (CWPA), the Texas Tech University Lady Raiders enter the season with higher hopes than ever. Some aggressive freshmen and returning experienced players will help Texas Tech set the bar higher. The Lady Raiders feel this year they will be the start of a new era in Texas Tech women's water polo.

University of Texas

The University of Texas anticipates once again being a contender for the Texas Division title as the Longhorns placed second to Texas A&M University a year ago. In 2012, the Longhorns placed first in the Texas Division and went on to finish 11th at the National Collegiate Club Championship for a mark Texas would like to match or exceed in 2014. Look for great things from Texas as the Burnt Orange and White battle for the program's eighth consecutive division title game appearance and sixth championship (2002, 2007, 2009, 2011, 2012).
